BARRACK ROOM BALLADS

I'll sing you a song of the barracks
Enclosed by a barbed-wire fence,
I'll sing you a song about women
Who thought they'd help with defense.

---

Now this is the song of the barrack
Where ten women dwell in a hall,
Without so much as a partition
To divide the damned thing into stalls.

Yes, true is this song of the barracks
Though you'd never believe it, I know,
That women once treated, to houses
well-heated,
Now go to the privy thru snow.

Bold is the song of the barracks
For only bold women would go,
Out to a community bath-house
To bathe with a hundred or so!
