To WRA Staff Members:

The first report in this series was a paper issued from the Reports Division in October 1942 entitled Dealing with Japanese-Americans.

In that report some background facts of Japanese race and culture were discussed with special reference to relocation center conditions on life.

This second report on the causes of social unrest at relocation centers was originally prepared as a memorandum to the Director of the War Relocation Authority in December 1942. It was revised to its present form in January 1943 and is now being sent out to all project personnel at the suggestion of several Project Directors at the recent meetings in San Francisco, Denver and Little Rock.
