Dear Mr. Yoshimiya:

Thank you for your letter requesting me to urge President Reagan to sign the Civil Liberties Act of 1987. I appreciate your concern about this issue.

It is not always known that our main task at the Republican National Committee is to help elect Republicans to office at all levels. We are not involved in the formulation of Administration policies, although we do support them.

Since it is the Congress which must enact this redress/reparations legislation, and the President who must sign it, you should contact your elected representatives in the Congress as well as the President about this matter.

Thank you again for writing. I am always interested in your views.

Very truly yours,

Frank J. Fahrenkopf, Jr.
