POST CARD

Most century plants are mountaineers. They prefer arid, rocky locations. They climb from barren foothills to high, rugged ranges, giving an accent of individuality to any area they frequent. For ten to twenty years the century plant does nothing but grow and wax fast, biding its time until the urge of destiny drives it with amazing rapidity into a magnificent flowering.

Dearest Pal,
See, we're in N.M.
now and boy do
the people look dirty.
Will write again. I sure miss you.
