Beat It Out, Boys!

Future Titians At Work

Student Teacher Day

Student teachers "took over" on this memorable day and conducted classes in a scholarly way as shown in this picture of a Low Seventh grader explaining to his class about the Solar System and other deep wonders of the Universe.

Junior Class

Juniors were known as the "Solid Class" by the students of Tri-State High. At the first junior meeting on March 22, the class was organized by electing officers under the guidance of Miss Clara Jensen and Mr. Grover Lytle. Officers elected were: Harry Fujikawa, president; Mary Kawano, girls' vice-president; Tsutomu Ota, boys' vice-president; Aiko Outa, secretary; June Manji, treasurer; Suzanne Aredas, social chairman; Hayao Motoyama, publicity chairman; and Joe Sakumura, yell leader.

Activities started off with a "bang" on the night of April 22, at the successful "Get Acquainted Social," where new friends were made. One of the highlights of the first semester was the Junior-Senior Ball held June 3 in honor of the June graduates. In keeping with the theme "Springtime," the shop building was transformed into a garden of flowers in pastel shades, which was surrounded by a white picket fence.

At the "Campus Carnival" the juniors sponsored a bingo stand which helped to swell the annual fund.

This activity-filled year was closed by the Junior Prom, held on November 4, in honor of the November graduates.

Sophomore Class

The "Sophomore Frolic" will forever shine forth in the annals of the Tri-State Society History as having been one of the truly enjoyable affairs. From the disks came the torrent of music as the diligent dancers thoroughly enjoyed a few measures of the square dance led by Mrs. Tift, and rounds and rounds of social dancing. But all this was topped by the most ambrosial and delectable dishes which truly delighted these connoisseurs of food.

Another event worth noting was the Sophomore Rally, planned and presented solely by the Sophomores. The highlight of this festive hour came with the presentation of the much discussed pantomime, "Lochinvar," wherein the audience saw the debonair Lochinvar portrayed by George Sakoi. Other characters: the memorable Mother Lochinvar of Noboru Murakami, the bewitching Fair Ellen of Shig Enomoto, and the temperamental Father Lochinvar, or Harry Kajihara. But even more jovial was the one-man show, "A Girl's Morning Ritual," given by Bob Watanabe, who acted as a woman of forty, going through the "painting" routine. This hilarious script was penned by Richard Tanaka. Vocal solos by Kinko Fujii and Joe Sakumura were also in the program.

One can rightly gather from this note that the "young" Sophomores' role in the school community during the year was not a minor one.
