

Investigation of Mess Situation Under Way

Investigation of the mess hall situation was started today, Phillip W. Barber, director of community services announced.

Men school teachers of the project have been formed into an investigation committee which, assisted by block administrators and chairmen, will go through the food situation from top to bottom so that a basis for reorganization may be established.

Barber asserted that no effort will be spared to eliminate present difficulties, but a clear and thorough picture of the situation is necessary in order to apply the remedies.

The officials recognize that an unhealthy situation exists and realize the need for immediate action, Barber said.

Mattress and Bed Supply Sufficient

Housing division crews this morning in house-to-house canvasses rounded up enough mattresses and beds to supply Sunday evening arrivals, Joe Carroll, housing head, stated today. Carroll revealed, however, that an acute shortage of blankets still exists.

Extra mattresses and beds were found in a check-up of three blocks, and trucks were collecting and delivering these during the day.

Carroll said pullman cases would be taken care of first, but others who are overlooked may report to B-21-26 at the rear of the post office sub-station.

Sufficient bedding for the next group from Santa Anita is expected.

Mothers with babies in the latest contingent to arrive from Santa Anita on Sunday night, spent their first night here as "guests" of the Center Hospital in the unused ward when it was found that they had arrived too late to obtain adequate bedding and sleeping accommodations.

Temporary Judges and Alternates Named

Seven prospective temporary judges and two alternates were named Sunday by block chairmen and their names submitted today to Phillip W. Barber, community services chief.

Each block will be called upon to approve this list. After two-thirds of the blocks express approval and the selection is confirmed by project director C. E. Rachford, the seven will be seated as a panel to hear cases of misdemeanors and minor infractions of the public peace.

The seven nominees and their addresses are: Kiyoji Doi, 21-1-A; Toyosuke Kimoto, Block 9; Tadashi Kinoshita, 14-7-E; Ryunosuke Kumai, 30-10-AB; Dr. Kiyohide Nakagi, 29-7-E; Goro Terui, 27-14-D; Minokichi Tsunokai, 20-19-F.

Alternates are Takema Kawakami, 1-24-E and Tokuji Tokimasa, 21-16-B.
