

Issue Call for 1200 More Beet Workers

A call for 1,200 workers needed immediately to help save Wyoming sugar beet crop was issued today by B. R. Paulley, U. S. Employment Service chief at Casper now in Heart Mountain.

"Wyoming's 1942 crop will provide 26-pound annual sugar rations for 7,000,000 Americans if it can be harvested," Paulley declared. "Unless the work is started immediately the nation will stand to lose a large portion of this crop," he pointed out.

Paulley asserted plans are ready to close schools, stores and government offices temporarily to make manpower available for the harvest if necessary.

The harvest has started already in some sections of the state while in others the topping work will begin by mid-week. Workers are now being recruited for labor in the Worland, Sheridan and Lovell areas. Later workers are wanted in the Wheatland and Torrington districts.

The season will last from five to six weeks and workers will be dispatched within a day or two after signing up. Transportation difficulties encountered in sending out workers to Montana will not be experienced in most Wyoming areas.

Prices being paid are $1.05 per ton for the first 12 tons from each acre. Ninety-five cents will be paid for each ton in excess of 12 topped in each acre. Paulley emphasized that this is dump weight, or the weight for which the farmer is paid. Inexperienced men willing to work can make $6 for a day's work, Paulley said.

Applications are being taken at 12-25 where full details are available. Several Japanese farmers in Wyoming have applied to the U. S. Employment Service for workers.

Joe Carroll, housing and employment officer, announced yesterday that 370 workers have left Heart Mountain for the beet harvest. Of these 185 went to the Billings area, 77 to Hardin and 118 to Sidney, all in Montana.

What to Do in Case of Rattlesnake Bite

In case of a rattlesnake bite, the first thing to do, according to Dr. Wilfred Hanaoka, medical officer, is to apply a tourniquet above the wound to stop the blood from circulating in that area. Next two cross-incisions, deep enough to cause bleeding, are made over each of the fang marks with a clean knife or razor. As much blood as possible is then sucked out through the cuts, either by mouth or by a rubber suction cup available for this purpose. A doctor should be summoned immediately. Care should be taken to move the patient as little as possible. The main thing is to draw out as much of the poisonous venom as possible before it has time to enter into the circulation of the body.
