No more students will be relocated from Hunt until the winter quarter begins, Carl Sandoz, counselor, announced this week. At the same time, Sandoz disclosed that 250 colleges and universities are now on the army's approved list.

Sandoz said students may apply for entrance into schools for the next quarter or semester, as the case may be, and pointed out that lists and catalogs are available in his office in 25-4-A & B.

Those persons having collogo bulletins and catalogs were asked by Sandoz to contribute them to the counselor's office so that a catalog library can be started for use of students.

Editorial: A NEW ARMISTICE

On November 11, 1918, the world stopped rocking with the detonations of instruments of death, and rocked instead with the delirious joy of mankind climbing out from the blood bath of World War I.

A world permanently happy under a permanent peace was the hope and promise of the Armistice. Democracy, victorious over "Prussian Hilitarism," was to light up the future, unchallenged and unmolested. But the hope was frustrated and the promise frogotten in the halls of Versailles, and Fascism, Hitler and World War II are the harvest we reap.

When the United Nations finish off Hitler and the Axis, World War II will also have its Armistice. And this time, they who fought for things that have nothing in common with loot, revenge and empire will see to it that the second Armistice inaugurates the "Contury of the Common Man."

This time, the Armistice will not be a prolude to a soll-out. For since the last time, a wind has been rising in every corner of the world where men seek to shape their own destiny, and no combination of statesmen in freek coats will dare or be able to say nay. -- DM

Children To Name Block 32 School

Tiring of referring to their institution as the Blk. 32 school, pupils there have staged a contest among themselves to name it.

Several names have been submitted, among them boing Sagebrush School, Canal School, Willow, Minsage (from Minidoka and sagebrush,) American Way, and Townsend, according to Miss. Mildred Bennett, school principal.

Still other suggestions are Seasort, (from Seattle and Portland,) Stafford, Willosago, Dustage, and Dusago.

Pupils have been asked to submit more names, including ideas for the Blk. 10 school, Miss Bennett added.

Boy Contemplates Turkeyless Thanksgiving, Gets Surprise
It would probably be an Incomines must have driven intensely cold, snappy day. The boy next door would button up his P-coat, pull on his size small mittens, and slitting the 10º below air with foggy breath, step it up to the dining hall. He would know it's Thanksgiving Day, and thinking of the celebration last year, he wonders what he's doing way over here in Idaho.

He nears the dining hall, and emanating from the door is the tentalizing aroma of roast turkey. The Thanksgiving dinner illustrations in the household him batty, he thinks.

He enters. Then if that isn't the smell of giblet dressing, he'll eat his P-coat, and by golly, that's saying a lot. He takes a good long look. When he turns around, there's a gleam in his eye -- a I've-got-the-enswer-to -the-$64-question gleam. It is turkey.

And ho finds out later that Leon Krumanacker, project steward, has ordered 7000 pounds of fleshy turkey for Hunt's Thanksgiving. And he sighs hoppily as he digs in.
