BENCH-WARMER

Says . . . by KELL

The informative and illustrious career of "Focusing the Sportslight," came to its end last week with the impending departure of its originator, "Aldrich" Hirano, to join the armed forces of our country. He follows the trail already tread by many former IRRIGATOR scribes who have either joined the ranks of the relocated or who have answered the nation's call in its crisis. This week, then, we inaugurate new column, which makes its debut under the moniker of "the Benchwarmer Says..." It is hoped that the caliber already set by its predecessors will not, in any way, be lowered by this new column.

First off, then, a look at the local legion baseball situation. The title-bound Hunt junior legion baseball team is clearly outclassing the other league participants and this week stretched its lead to three full games over second place Filer. The team composed primarily of students of the local high school, is playing clever, heads-up baseball and gives good promise of having an excellent ball team for the high school next year. Especially outstanding on its roster are Ray Shikis and Hank Matsubu, both two-year lettermen at the high school, who are continuing to club the ball for the legion nine.

Putching, it is said, is at least 75 percent of baseball—although different individuals have rated it as high as 90 percent and as low as 50 percent. At any rate, the local legion team seems to have its full quota as it continues to limit its adversaries to either one run or no runs at all. Leading its pitching corps are the following: Young Sho Sakakibara, fastball righthander who twirled for the high school nine earier this year. Though rather erratic at the outset, the youngster has settled down and is pitching excellent ball at the present time. Tab this youth for future reference. Another youngster who is showing promise is Ray Mitsudo. The boy has good stuff and with the seasoning he is acquiring with the junior legion team, he should certainly be ready for regular mound duty next year. Of course, Ray Shiiki and Hank Matsubu are already well-known for their pitching and hitting feats.

SPORTID-BITS

Les Scarsella, former Seattle first-sacker, is now taking regular mound duty with the Oakland Acorns—incidentally, he is the only pitcher who bats clean-up for his team in the P.C.L... Morris Roth, local C. A. head was touched for 13 runs as he pitched a losing battle for the Twin Falls softball all-stars against the Sun Valley sailors... Jack Treece, classy third-sacker for the Broadway Tigers of Seattle, signed a Rainier contract... The Hunt old-men or old timers are continuing strong on their seemingly perpetual baseball season—keep at it, dads!... Charles Shimomura, now Staff Sergeant Shimomura, returned to camp on furlough and was seen umpiring a recent softball game—he's the former Portland football terror. Dick Wakefield, former outfielder for the Detroit Tigers and lately of the Navy, returned to the Tigers last week and showed that he hasn't lost any of his hitting power—indication that maybe other former major-larguers, now in service may expect to continue to play ball after all this is over ... The Portland pro football set-up is solidly formed with the signing of "Matty" Mathews as coach ... that's "thirty" for now ...
