ON-PROJECT LEAVE PROCESS REVISED

A revised on-project Leave clearance procedure became effective yesterday, announced Henry Freeland, leave officer. instructions issued by Project Director L.H. Bennett creates two relocation committees which will pass on each application for clearance and also stipulates that persons should be cleared before applying for job offers.

Herotofore, application for a job offer generally came first. Under the new instructions, anyone who is eligible to file for leave can do so. Freeland said, "The idea is to have ed in the ten centers. persons cleared when they become interested in jobs."

Under the clearance procedure, persons fill WRA form 126-revised, which is checked by the leave office and then sent to the relocation committee to be checked. The two relocation committees named by Bennett are: (1) J. H. Terry (chairman), Ethel Fleming, Dr. G. P. Young; (2) Hugo Wolter (chairman) W.C. Sawyer, and C.A. Harper.

EVACUEES' DIETARY SUPPLY DEPENDS ON CENTER CROPS

Wage Cut Rumors Spiked By Bennett

Except in rare instances the creation of new jobs will not be authorized until a general policy is outlined from the Washington office affecting employment in all centers, according to a statement issued by Project Director L. H. Bennett.

Bennett' stated that a general revision in employment policies is expected shortly as a result of a survey of project employment recently complet-

A rumor that wages will be cut were spiked by Bonnett. He said that he knew of no charges that were contemplated. However, he said that the apprentico rating will probably be recreated in this center as a result of employment policies now being formulated in the Washington office. The apprentice rating, used in this center in the early days, has never been abandoned in some centers.

'Nation faces Critical food hortage - Utz

WRA project directors were told bluntly at a recent meeting in Washington that the diet of evacuees year will depend this largely on the success of the agricultural program at the relocation conters.

"We must face the facts in the situation," Ervin J. Utz, Chief of the Agricultural Division, told "I don't tho gathering. think I am boing an alarmist in saying that the nation is facing one of the most critical shortages in certain foods in its entire history. WRA . is going to experience increasing difficulty in buying cortain types of food. Moreover, public opinion just will not allow any group such as the contor residents, with access to plenty of land and other facilities for home production to further burden the alcritically commercial food markets. The civilian population is fully conscious of the crucial food condition, and public-spirited citizens and organizations everywhere are working day and night to produce as much of their own food as possible.

editorial RELOCATION SINS

There are cases on record, numerous enough to make the pross. The sub-comita warning necessary, which tell the not very pleasant tee retained its reputatory of evacuees who are guilty of an almost anarchic disregard for the responsibilities they bear when they for building mountains out decided to re-enter, the world or paved streets and of mold-hills by carefully bright city lights.

There have been groups of boys in their adventurous early twenties who left this center for work in midwest localities and welked off from their jobs after a week without giving proper notice to their employers. There have been girls who accepted employment as domestics, only to reverse their intentions at the last minute and decide that they didn't want to be separated from their center friends and parents, after all. There have been too many with a thin veneer of worldliness who talked themselves and their pals into a job—any king of a job—" just to get out." There have been cases even of perversely ingenious individuals signing out from the center for fictitious employment, for "ghost" jobs existing only in their unanchored, high-soaring flights of imagination.

The only point in mentioning these relocation abuses is that they, like most cases of misbehavior, will add up to no good. An accumulation of such cases will spell damage for a cerefully planned program which faces enough difficulties without these abuses. Over-sensitivity to public reaction can be a deterrent to resettlement, as it has been too often, but there is very little sense in forcing bad impression upon employers and people whose attitude toward us is delicately balanced between suspicion and acceptance.

It may help to limit recurrences of careless relocation if it is mentioned that jobs made available through the offices of the WRA are in many cases the result of patient, up-hill work in order to give Japanese Americans a chance. Those evacues who are yet to secure employment and resettle cannot afford to let those leaving first forget that, in a very real sense, the latter have it in their hands to facilitate or impair the future of the relocation program.

"DISCLOSURES" BY COMMITTEE

For the third successive day, the Dies Congressional sub-committee in California remained prominently in the hews there and in Arizone as a third article was released to the press. The sub-comittee retained its reputation, or the lack of it, for building mountains out of mold-hills by carefully selecting grains of truth and playing them up to distort the whole picture out of all perpertion.

From the testimony printed in the papers, it evident that the became Poston WRA officials now called before a hearing of the sub-committee were not given an opportunity to tell the complete story. In one case, however, a former WRA official of the Poston center, Harold H. Townsond, former chief supply and transportation officer, deliberately intended to throw a bad light on the evacuees. Townsend was fired from the Poston project, according to a present Poston official, A.W. Empie for "formenting unrest among the residents!

· Among the charges made in an apparent attempt to discredit both the evacuees and the WRA are that Poston evacuees: (1) joy riding, (2) hoarded food and other supplies for parachute troops and invasion forces, (3) were arrogant and defied WRA "cowered" officials, who in hourly terror for life, (4) stole lumber, and (5) that WRA officials were too lenient, etc.

The articles give a picture of waste, pro-axis sympathy; terroism, thievery, and general chaos. We know enough of Poston to know that this is not true, yet it is impossible to categorically deny the charges because in many of there is some grain of truth. Yet the picture is not the whole truth as are well aware. They fail to make mention that the formenters of trouble in the centers are but a few, and that such few can be found in any American community.

.WANTED

Carpenters For Livestock Farm

The "go ahead" signal has been given for expansion of the livestock project, but plans are being held up because of the lack of housing. Building atterials arrived this sock. The only thing holding up the expansion plans is the lack of workers.

Said Walter Emerick, livestock head, "We have or opportunity to buy from 200 to 300 feeder pigs, but can do nothing until facilities to house them are made."

If Rivers is to be incured of eggs, milk, and meat during the coming months, present expansion lans must be followed through. Workers, and especially carpenters, are wanted immediately.
