NISEI FIGHT IS TWO-FOLD

(New York Times editorial)

"No soldiers we have sent abroad have a more distinguished record than these Nisei. On the record none surpasses them in loyalty, devotion or courage. More than 17,600 have been inducted into the Army. The men of the famous 100th Battalion are typical. They were originally Hawaiian volunteers but heavy losses brought roplacements from many sections. Distinguished Service Medals are a common place. Private Jesse Hirato won his by seizing a shovel when his rifle jammed, charging an enemy nest and capturing its occupant s armod with a machine-pistol, fifles, and grenades.

"Most of the Nisei want to fight in the Pacific. They believe that, raised in the institutions of de-mocracy, they are better soldiers than Japanese of their own generation, trained to savagery and hate. But they do not differ in appearance from our Pacific enemy and would invite attempts at enemy infiltration. Some are used there as interpreters and specialists but they have seen combat service chiefly in Italy and France. Thus far they have won every fight they have been in. But their hardest fight is still ahead and may outlast the war. It is the fight against prejudice roused by color of skin and slant of eye. It is easy to admire them while they are still in uniform. It would be kinder to remember and reward them when the battle is over."

MOST DECORATED UNIT

The . Judge warned him against further illegal acts and placed on him against further probation for six months.

Typical of their ex-ploits is cited the case of the late S/Sgt. Kazuo Masuda, whose parents resido in Gila.

Masuda was leading a six-man mortar against well en squad entrenched Germans near Castellina when they were halted by terrific enemy fire. Carrying a mortar tube un-Multanen, 33, a der his right arm and an oxtra steel helmet in his left hand, alternately running and sidestepping like a halfback, he dashed 25 yards up the slope. He filled his extra helmet with dirt and anchored the mortar in it. Squatting beside his improvised emplacement, he wrapped his legs around the tube and without sight or bipod calculated the deflection and opened fire. Though Nazi bullets peppered the ground around him, Masuda kept on firing until his ammunition ran out. Than he .went back for two more cases of ammunition and poured shells into the enemy until they withdrew in confusion.
