He advised persons with ration books no. 1 still in their possession to turn them in immediately to their respective block managers. He warned that a severe penalty ($10,000 or 10 year maximum imprisonment) would be imposed on persons who apply for a second one.

This sudden change of weather (a topic we always find timely and absorbing) is something we find difficult to adjust ourselves to. Yet, when we manage to survive through the most inclement weather--well, guess that means we're becoming accustomed to it.

WE DO SOME ANTICIPATING

Yesterday the rigid military restrictions applied to Gilians as residents of Military Zone No. 1 became a thing of the past.

As WRA Director Myer states it, "The new development fits in with the past developments of leave policy and army enlistment...it is still another step toward re-establishing normal life to persons of Japanese ancestry evacuated from the west coast."

In more specific terms, if we can take the other free zone centers as a criterion, our contacts with nearby communities, through visits, work and joint organizational activities will be increased many-fold.

We can also shop in a "real" store again, walk on pavements, feel a little less like being "in Japan" as a youngster in Tanforan once expressed it. Our issei and nisei friends on the outside will be able to visit us without passes from the WCCA in San Francisco. We will be able to visit Poston, should we need to, without much red tape. And many other things we anticipate.

How do I look in my new uniform? Don't you think this size 44 waist skirt is a little wide for my size 12? Where is my arm? I feel as though I were about to take off like one of those B-19's!

These could verily be some of the comments which might be heard, if and when the Japanese American women of eligible age are accepted in the WAACs.

WOMEN OUTDO MEN

We wondered why the registration of women 17-36 have shown that women are more positive on their loyalty stand. We asked a registrar for his opinion. His reply was a blow to the so-called masculine superiority.

"They are more intelligent. They see the future with less befogged eyes."

This compliment was paid to women, whom we were taught to believe were more subjective than men. A male, we remain unconvinced, but still we wonder why the two cannot correlate their actions more closely.

That Zenimura ball diamond certainly is some hundering! Makes us remember the good ole days back home--when Steve's faithful 'peanut wagon' was right on hand with refreshments, and the five cents per ball income for finding those 'over the fence' balls. (Not being one of those sharp-eyed fleet-footed neophytes, I never could find a ball)

Within a month this division has received 26 heads of dairy cows, 720 heads of beef cattle in addition to the porkers. With just a temporary shelter built for the dairy and the hog pen, the immediate problem is to construct the WFB approved hog, dairy and poultry building. And from reports the hog family is expected to receive a tremendous boost in the near future. Let's hope that they believe in a big family.

The final disposition of ration cards will be left to the discretion of block managers. Then the order in which the repairs will be made will be determined by lot.

Livestock Farm Gets Underway 50 Bred Hogs Port Industry Nucleus

WRA plans to make this community largely independent of outside source of food supply is slowly materializing as the livestock section of the farm division under Walt Emerick and Joe Saito is finally getting underway.

Following on the tails of the dairy cows and beef cattle, a herd of 50 bred gilt hogs arrived from California last week-end to form the nucleus of the local pork industry.

The present hog pen, located west of field 64, is under the supervision of T. Hashigami who will try to increase the herd so as to have a supply of pork available for local consumption.
