GUIDANCE Council To Aid In Adjustment

Because of a growing need for a positive, constructive approach to the problems of young men and women who are becoming involved in gang behavior, a guidance council was croated by the CAS recently, said Hugo Wolter, supervisor.

The purpose of the guidance council contin ued Wolter as to consider the problems of every juvenile or young adult and assist him in finding some thing to do for: the betterment of the community. The council is interested more in prevention than in apprehension of the delinquent.

The council will meet whenever any matter involving dolinquency is reported to it. All residents are requested to report a n y harmful or destructive behavior to (continued on page 3)

FUTURE LIES BEYOND WIRES

Thirty-three men will leave Gila Monday. Fifty or more will follow them soon. They are volunteers for the AJ combat unit.

They are men who believe that the good things are worth fighting for. They are men who have looked back into the past, the days before evacuation, when they found life good. They are men who live in the present, alive to the currents of world thoughts, objective people who refuse to be led by emotionalism to a defeatist attitude. But above all, they are men who look to the future.

A future beyond the barbed wire fences into a world that promises much for the sacrifice they and others make today; a tomorrow devoid of T ojos and Hitlers.

These men are trail-blazers into that future. No worthier tribute can be paid them. The rest can do no less than follow that trail to re-establishment in the American society and to the creation of a more liberal America.

ZOOT SUIT GANG HERE

A prototype of the Los Angeles zoot suit gang is gaining a toe-hold in the community.

Already the gang has beaten up several persons in the center. The names of the individuals are known.

This article is written to remind residents that the community has a youth problem here that must be dealt with understandingly. Admittedly it is difficult to teach youths to constructive living under the circumstances in which they live. But by permitting the problem to slide along without heed would aggravate it, and eventually make of the center a place unfit for decent people.

The matter is of immediate concern. Direct action must be taken by: (1) notifying the parents and urging greater parental guidance; and (2) having the guidance council with all its understanding and wisdom investigate the problem thoroughly and true appropriate corrective steps. Less directly the community must acquaint itself with the situation and make clear that it actively censures unsocial behavior. Further a program of activities designed to keep juvenile delinquency at a minimum must be planned.

PROBLEMS Chicago Tribune Sympathetic

Sympathetically cognizant of the problems confronting the evacuees, Guy Gentry, feature writer, after visiting Manzanar and Gila early this month wrote extensively of the WRM and the resottlement program in a series of articles for the Chicago "Tri bune."

A heedline for one of the articles states that the Gilans "thrive on baseball, U. S. slang and movies." All in all, life in Rivers goes on in a surprisingly American way, wrote Gentry.

One of the first requests made by the evacuees when they arrived in Gila was to grow vegetables for the army, one article stated. However, because of a desire of the WRA to remain out of the competitive market, this is not being done.

Gontry dwelt at length on that farm. He stated that after the evacuees came, Arizona, for the first time began raising celery, string beans, cucumbers, and other vegetables in convercial quantities. Arizona farmers up to that time had openly scoffed at the experiments. Gentry, quoted Project Director Leroy Bennett, who said, "we have vegetables running out of our ears."

In addition to its vegetables, Rivers has produced crops such as flax, castor beans, and cotton as part of its effort to aid the war, he stated.

Of Manzanar, Gentry wrote that four months after the widely publicized incident when two were killed end eight wounded, morale has improved steadily, and now it has less major crimos and fewer miademeanor than any other centers. It has the only orphanage in the ten centors, picturesquely called "Children's Village."

Centry said that the main problem facing the WRA officials is that of integrating the loyal evacuous in the nation's economic structure.
