GALA PROGRAM TO GREET NEWCOMERS

Traveling on a special Union Pacific train, 230 former residents of the Hawaiian Islands will arrive at Delta between 7 and 8 AM Sunday morning preparatory to taking up their residence in Topaz. The group, consisting of 165 men with the rest women and children, will be met in Delta by a committee headed by Assistant Project Director James F. Hughes. They will come by carriers to Topaz where they will enter through the west gate at about 9 AM, going direct to Block 1, which will become their residence block.

The newcomers, who left Honolulu on March 2, will be received in Dining Hall 1 where they will be conducted through the necessary procedure of induction into the Center. Under the direction of Mrs. Laura Lamb, the new inductees will be ushered into a waiting room in the dining hall where they will be given a short period of rest, after which they will be registered and assigned rooms in Block 1. At this time they will also be given their identification cards which is important that each individual preserve.

Each person will be given a physical examination.

There will be 2 members of the Welfare Department present to discuss any personal problems which the new residents may have.

With the completion of registration, the individuals will be directed by Boy Scouts to the baggage department where

NURSES' AIDES NEEDED

As a medium for community service, the City hospital plays a primary role in Topaz. We can well be proud of our hospital, which compares favorably in most phases of activity with those in other centers.

It is of major importance, however, that we realize that our hospital cannot operate at its fullest capacity because of the shortage of working personnel. There is a shortage of doctors, which cannot be alleviated due to the lack of such professionally trained persons; but there is also a lack of nurses' aides, and this shortage must be overcome by us.

Two more wards can be opened up and residents can thereby be accommodated if enough nurses' aides are available, but as the situation exists at present, due to the lack of medical helpers, the hospital is unable to give the best possible attention to many who apply for treatment. The situation is a serious one and needs to be given immediate consideration by all of us if the general health of the City is to be our concern.

The position of nurses' aides is open to both men and women. Aside from those out of school, girls and boys of high school age can do part-time work.

Apart from the public service these nurses' aides will be rendering, their training will be of immeasurable value. We can never tell when a human life may depend on our knowledge of medical matters, and preliminary training in a hospital can well mean the difference between the efficient or inefficient treatment of an emergency case.

The welfare of the hospital concerns us all. A hospital operating at maximum efficiency insures a high degree of health for the City. This is a responsibility which faces us and one in which we cannot be lax.

Any help we can give the hospital is plain good sense in that we will also be helping to keep ourselves fit. --IK

HISTORY OF UTAH—

By W. RICHARD NELSON

Part VIII--The Great Salt Lake.

When Brigham Young and his party drove into the floor of the Salt Lake Valley, they were entering a territory not entirely unknown to white men, but one about which very little was known to any except the fur trappers who had visited the place during the previous 20 years.

The famous character in American history, Jim Bridger, was presumably the first white man to see Great Salt Lake. The occasion of the discovery was due to curiosity. Bridger and a group of fellow trappers were camped on the banks of the Weber River, and upon discussing the possibility of the location of the mouth of the river, 2 men, including Bridger, volunteered to go down the river in a canoe to see into what body of water the river emptied. As they approached the lake, they were startled to find it as large as it proved to be, and upon tasting the water they were again amazed to find it salty.

In some early reports it was thought that the lake being salty was an arm of the Pacific reaching inland, but further exploration by other trappers and explorers established the fact that the lake was an inland sea and not connected in any way with any of the great oceans.

The discovery of the lake by Bridger took place in 1825. Between that time and the arrival of the Mormon pioneers into Utah in 1847, the territory was frequented by many other trappers, scouts and explorers whose names are well known in accounts of frontier life.

A more thorough investigation of this territory was made by Captain John C. Fremont of the U.S. Army and his party who covered not only Salt Lake Valley but all parts of what is now the state of Utah in 1843.

Brigham Young was not entirely ignorant of the existence of the Great Salt Lake, although he had made no previous commitments connecting this spot with the permanent settlement of the Mormon people previous to the time of his utterance, "This is the place," at the head of Parley's Canyon.

The Great Salt Lake Valley is the lowest point of what was known at one time as the Great Basin which in ancient times was filled by a great inland sea which had an outlet into the Pacific through what is now known as the Snake River. The man who established this fact

WOMEN'S MIRROR

BY TOMOYE TAKAHASHI

LIFE BEGINS BY TWENTY- EIGHT

Too much career with super-efficiency carried into social life or too firm attachment to home ties besides being unaware of the marriage problem until too late are common reasons for the existence of single girls.

Impossible to meet men? Possible husbands are all around you! Proof: it's the girls with all the beaux who get the extra quota, too.

You have a man who has no money? Or he's enlisted? Well, the Army pays him, and gives you fifty dollars, too. You're working now, or could be, and everyone will be soon since this is wartime, and what's the matter with that? Your soldier husband is contributing immeasurably more to protect and keep you--his life, if necessary. He's a real man, fighting for your and his children's future. Why should he fight sans love to back him up? It's not lack of money. It's lack of spirit and confidence. Look instead at what he has to offer of things that grow in strength and importance with the years--character, ability, and the will to succeed. Where would three-fourths of the world's wives be today if they had waited until their men had enough money to marry? Just where you are--still waiting. You lack looks? Poor excuse. Have you ever seen anything so amazing as some of the women who wear wedding bands? And don't say that you are frustrated in love; that because you can't have some one man, you won't consider a reasonable facsimile. Broken hearts heal shamelessly fast when a new interest is allowed the limelight. Often you feel pretty glad it turned out that way.

FOUR WEEKS FROM TONITE

After you have started working on your figure and posture, the third week is the time for you to start the study of your dress habits and the choice of clothes. Keep up the exercises given you last week to mold the figure, slim your hips and waist.

Neatness and cleanliness are the things men tell us they notice first when approaching a girl. Then style, color, fit and material in her dress. If a wide-hipped girl appears in a generously cut dirndl skirt, obviously this is bad. For most girls, princess lines and their newer 1943 slim-silhouette adaptations are ideal. You will notice, too, that jackets in suits are shorter, which is something else that is helpful toward that leggy look we are always harping on in this column. As for color, do try something bright and gay. Young people and those who feel young ought to leave the mousy colors to the grandmothers.

If you are your own dressmaker, fitting is a real problem, for it is the fit and finish that stamp an outfit with that homemade-ish look. Particularly the shoulder line. In order to make fitting a real pleasure, this department will loan to you a dummy, adjustable to your own figure and posture, down to the last dip, curve, slope, and identical height. Think what it means. No more stretching, craning, or twisting in front of that too-small mirror, or standing on a stool waiting for that person to come begrudgingly to your aid to hem that skirt. This 'double' is just wonderful. Furthermore, it takes just fifteen minutes to shape you. We'll help you adjust it. Just tell us your name and address on a penny postal or in person at the office, and you can get it for your use, delivered.

TO THE WOMEN

BY EVELYN KIRIMURA

Just a few personal comments on life in Topaz:

RADIO-SYNCRASIES

Listening to the radio here is a gamble involving nature's elements and the neighbors' electrical equipment. A phenomenon peculiar to Topaz is the action of the radio during a particularly good mystery.

Whenever the heroine is in the throes of terror, any one of three things will occur: another program will blithely replace the one desired, or a drone (neighbor's shaving) will drown all sound, or echoes will reverberate throughout the ether waves.

TREE OBSTACLES

These numerous shrubs being planted throughout the center are not only in danger from motorists but from pedestrians. During the dust storms, we invariably walk into one, with damage varying according to the size of the shrub in comparison to us. Whether our landscape decorations are adequate this summer or not will depend on the survival of the fittest.

MUD IN YOUR EYES

If the mud situation becomes a regular occurrence, as indications would seem, the residents of Topaz will become a goose-stepping people.

We mention mud above, but may we amend the term to "gum"? No wonder the sales clerk in Delta declared that rumors were circulating to the effect that Topaz was monopolizing the gum.

Mud behavior in Topaz is unique. Mud to which we have been accustomed heretofore was unpleasant but certainly not parasitic. Topaz mud adheres to the boots and shoes, layer by layer, until walking becomes ungainly and shoes resemble over-sized pancakes.

Getting in and out of mess hall benches while wearing muddy shoes is a problem involving more thought. Between trying to do this gracefully and avoiding the scowls of mess workers, we give up!

CO-OP ASKS FINANCIAL AID

The board of directors of the City's Consumer Enterprises, Inc., issued the following statement this week:

"As you know, conditions outside are such that it is very difficult to obtain supplies of consumer goods because of shortages and increasing government restrictions on civilian purchases. Canned foods have already gone on ration. Shoes are now in the same category, and it is probable that rationing of clothing and piece goods will follow. All manufacturers and wholesalers now decline to open new accounts, and they are trying to limit their supplies of goods to firms with which they have been doing business for more than one year with satisfactory relations. Even though cash is paid for the goods, wholesalers are unwilling to do business with new accounts. Such are the conditions now prevailing outside.

"At the present time, we have 5,416 members with a paid capital membership share of $5,416 and have been doing a business of over $30,000 monthly. We paid over $5,000 in cash rebates to patrons from the net earnings of the last period. Of course this impaired our cash position for the time being; yet we had the satisfaction of paying off the cash rebates which we had promised to the people. For January and February of this year, we have done over $80,000 of business and we show net savings of approximately $11,000 for the period. This is a remarkable record of achievement, of which we can well be proud, and which has been of great assistance in financing.

"From the point of view of service to the residents of Topaz, we feel that we should carry on, not only with the best of our abilities, but with an attitude of conservation; and yet try to meet the requirements of the residents with a hand-to-mouth policy. Still, in order to accomplish that end, we are in need of additional funds; for not only must we make additional cash purchases of goods, but we must also give better service to the residents in the matter of cashing their pay checks. This latter item alone will require about $9,000 to make possible an efficient rotation of cash from Salt Lake City, where all banks keep their funds. In order to meet acute shortages of cash at our banking department, the new board of directors raised $2500 among themselves to be used for cashing checks. But this is insufficient. We would like to have 3 times that amount in order that we may be able to give the people better service.

"In view of the above situations, we are faced with the cold fact that we need more funds to continue business at the present rate, and give better service at the banking department. We already owe the WRA personal expenses, and it is willing to assist us in every way possible to carry on. Yet when it is a matter of capital funds, it is up to us to raise this among ourselves.

"For these reasons, we sincerely wish that all residents will give the above matters serious consideration. We ask the cooperation of everyone in solving the present financial problems. Our financial position is sound, but we need more capital funds to meet changed conditions."

was Captain Bonneville who brought an expedition into the valley in 1832 and for whom this ancient body of water has been named.

The shore lines of the ancient Lake Bonneville are today clearly distinguished on the mountain sides of the State of Utah. The change which gradually took place in the rainfall of the section drained by the tributaries of this great lake were such as to cause the level of the lake to drop below the point through which it drained into the Snake River.

This large body of water at that time covered approximately one-third of the State of Utah, part of Eastern Nevada and Southern Idaho. Since then the level of the lake has lowered and the shore line has receded until the present Great Salt Lake is approximately 75 miles long and 50 miles wide at its widest point.

The extensive salt content of that great Lake Bonneville has been concentrated now into the small lake, so that with the exception of the Dead Sea in Palestine, Great Salt Lake is the saltiest body of water in the world.

Why Brigham Young and his party decided to pick on such a desolate spot in which to build their homes is a mystery to some.

At the time they came into this valley it was as unimposing as the deserts of Pahvant Valley looked to residents of Topaz. Nothing but sage brush grew on the floor of the valley. This, however, was due primarily to the shortage of water, for

PLANS DRAWN FOR TOPAZ GOLF CLUB, 9-HOLE COURSE

Plans for organizing a golf club were formulated at a meeting held at Rec 3 last week. Those attending the meeting were Mr. Matsuno, Mr. Kamiya, Mr. Yoda, Mr. Takakuwa, Dr. Henry Takahashi and Kimbo Yoshitomi.

The name of the organization will be "Topaz Golf Club." Among the former California golf clubs represented by the Topaz residents are: the Kasumi Club, the Golden Gate Club, the Shinko Club, the Salinas Golf Club, the Alameda Golf Club, the Yojoki Club, and the Jada Club. Former members of these clubs are especially urged to sign up.

Initial fee of $2.50 will be charged for membership, but 12 hours of labor on the course with not more than 3 hours per day will be considered equivalent to the initial fee.

All interested members are asked to register at Rec 3 as there will be distinct advantages of being a member of the club in the sense that they will not have to pay a green fee, and they will have preference in playing time, entrance in tournaments, getting instructions, buying balls and clubs at the best prices possible.

Membership cards are being made and the grand opening of the Topaz golf course, situated at the western end of the city opposite blocks 22, 29, and 36, is planned for sometime in the early part of April.

With the aim of making a professional-looking 9-hole course instead of a poor 18-hole one, the course will be laid out as follows:

1st hole, 316 yards, par 4; 2nd hole, 500 yards, par 5; 3rd hole, 200 yards, par 3; 4th hole, 375 yards, par 4; 5th hole, 300 yards, par 4; 6th hole, 350 yards, par 4; 7th hole, 125 yards, par 3; 8th hole, 425 yards, par 4; 9th hole, 350 yards, par 4.

'ARCHIES' STAY
IN RUNNING
FOR 'AA' TITLE

By virtue of their impressive 47-16 triumph over the weak Timekeepers last weekend, the Architects retained their hold on second place and a mathematical chance of winning the Class AA throne. Ky Nomura with 14 and Sab Hori with 10 paced the tall team to an easy victory.

If the league-leading CAS cagers lose their last game to the Co-op, and the Architects win their last game over the Commissary team, the Class AA league will be thrown into a tie for first place.

CAS VIRTUALLY
WINS CROWN

With only one more game to go, the star-studded CAS virtually cinched the Class AA crown by walloping the Motor Pool five, 39-20, last Sunday afternoon at Court 30. Leading the attack for the CAS were John Oshida and George Yonekura with 11 each, Keichi Kawamoto with 9 and Effie Kawahara with 6.

The only effective scorer for the Motor Pool was Ben Takahashi with 9 points.

HOSPITAL KEEPS
UP WITH M & O

By defeating the Housing five, 34-19, the Hospital kept apace with the M & O team for first place honor in the Class A league. Bill Ogo, Dai Matsuda and Ted Iida starred for the winner by scoring 9, 10 and 7 points, respectively. Also playing a good game was Jack Mizono with his sterling performance at guard positions.

Jim Nakayama played a good game for the Housing quintet.

M & O TIES FOR CLASS 'A'
LEAD, DOWNS CARRIERS

The M & O quintet assured itself of a tie for first place in the Class A industrial league by eking out a 30-24 overtime victory over the Carrier five last Sunday at Court 10. At the end of the regulation game, the score stood 23-all.

Both teams entered the fray with only one defeat. Tosh Minemoto started the M & O rolling with 2 quick successive buckets in the opening minutes. Sato and Kiyoshi Asai retaliated. At the quarter mark, the Carriers trailed 6-5. The second quarter was a repetition of the first period with neither side holding on to more than 2 points margin at any time. Half time score read 12-11 in favor of M & O.

A revived Carrier team returned to the court in the third quarter. With Hiro Sato, Min Sano, Hiro Kuwasa and Al Kimoto peppering the hoop, the Carrier forged into a 23-17 lead just 5 minutes before the end of the game. At this point, Aki Asai and Jim Matsuno broke loose to close the margin to 23-21 with a minute and half to go. A foul on Al Kimoto gave Minemoto a chance to tie the score. He sank one but missed the other to make the M & O cause a very hopeless one in the closing seconds. But Minemoto was fouled in the last 13 seconds to give him a final opportunity of tying the score. He promptly tanked one in to the accompanying roar of the crowd.

COMMISSARY
NOSES OUT
CO-OP, 40-37

Although the game had no bearing on the championship outlook for both teams, the best encounter last Sunday afternoon was the clash between the Co-op and the Commissary five in the Class AA league. In order to win 40-37, the Commissary had to play 2 overtime periods.

WORLD CITIZENSHIP

Twentieth century tyrants believe in racial discrimination, political and economic slavery, wholesale regimentation, ruthless intolerance, the oppression and exploitation of the weak and the peace-loving.

Our answer to them is to establish a better world in which racial cooperation, political freedom, individual initiative, tolerance, international reciprocity, justice, peace, and economic security and prosperity shall prevail. Surely these qualities appeal to the hearts of unbiased men more than hate and cruelty. True, this is not the first time mankind has cherished such an ideal; but this time we shall go about accomplishing it in a different way, in a way which we believe will insure success.

We propose to promote world citizenship as a preliminary and necessary step to establishing a better world.

To become a good World Citizen does not mean that one ceases to be a good citizen of one's own country, -- not any more than one ceases to be a good member of one's own community when one is also a good national.

Today, more than ever before, the peoples of the world are afflicted by a type of perverted nationalism. This has become a new religion for millions of youths, who for the absence of a nobler appeal have blindly embraced it. Yet viewed from the standpoint of human progress, one should not be surprised, for nationalism is a necessary step in the process of growth. It is, however, our duty to see to it that nationalism does not become so distorted and exaggerated that it will consume the human race itself.

We have the clamors for Lebensraum by one nation, mare nostrum by another, and a "New Order for Greater East Asia" by a third. The youths of these nations consider it their sacred duty to surrender everything at the altar of nationalism, including life itself. By so doing they have become well-nigh irresistible. This is the result of blind and selfish nationalism.

World citizenship, on the other hand, is quite different. It is inevitably the next step in human advancement. It signifies the state of quality of being a citizen of the globe, on which in the pursuit of happiness, we, as individuals, support ourselves; as families, propagate; as community and state, cooperate for the common good. To be a good World Citizen is to understand and practice the rights, privileges, and obligations we have toward the world as we have toward our home, community, and the nation. It is our duty to harmonize them, so that security, peace, justice, and prosperity will prevail, not only for one person, one family, or one community, or one nation, but for all nations, all communities, all families, and all persons.

This does not mean that the nations or individuals will ipso facto have an equal amount of the good things of life any more than that Nevada can have as much as New York or the Jones family as much as the Smiths. But it does mean that New York and Nevada, as well as the two families, should realize that they have a real tie of common interest and welfare and should be willing to be mutually helpful, so that all may prosper. It is in this way that the United States has become a great nation. Similarly such a feeling should exist between Paraguay and Bolivia, between China and Japan, between Great Britain and Germany.

If aggressor nations realize that mutual attack and destruction is a net loss to the world, besides being a loss to themselves, they should be ashamed instead of being proud of their military prowess. No matter how much territory and resources Germany and Japan may take over, there is no gain to the world as a whole. The millions killed and the billions spent on war are a net loss to humanity which cannot be retrieved by hundreds of victories. Ultimately these countries cannot prosper in a massacred and impoverished world. If world brotherhood and interdependence of nations mean anything at all, now is the time for the leaders and youths of the democratic nations to rise and work for their realization and to hurl their challenge to the youths of those nations whose gospel is hatred and selfish gain.
