BERRY PICKERS TO GO TO PROVO

The first group of more than 15 strawberry pickers will leave Monday afternoon to work in various farms in the Provo area.

Housing for the pickers will be provided at the recently constructed FSA tent camp near Provo.

It was pointed out that the piece work rates for strawberries has been increased from 30¢ to 35¢ per crate.

Additional workers, especially women, will be needed for other types of farm work and fruit and berry harvesting. Transportation to and from Topaz will be provided by the employers.

Other groups will leave as soon as enough residents register to make up a busload.

"CAPTAIN FURY" MOVIE OF WEEK

"Captain Fury", a rousing story of hot-blooded adventurers in the turbulent country of young Australia, starring Brian Aherne and Victor McLaglen, is next week's movie attraction.

ANOTHER SHOOTING STIRS TOPAZ; NO ONE INJURED

Rumors about another sence of Project Director "Wakasa incident" had Topaz buzzing with excitement shortly after dark Thursday evening when a warning shot was fired into the ground by the sentry in the southeast watch tower to keep two residents from strolling too near the fence.

About 9 PM just off Block 42, the sentry shouted at a couple to keep them away from the barbed-wire fence, but since they evidently did not hear or heed the warnings, he shot once into the ground, according to a report received by James F. Hughes, assistant project director who is acting in the ab-

61 TAKE CIVIL SERVICE EXAM

61 applicants took the first Civil Service examination given in Topaz Wednesday evening. The examinations for jr. clerk stenographers and jr. clerk typists were conducted by Robert D. Simpson, Salt Lake City Civil Service Commission representative.

Simpson stated that he was agreeably surprised at the number of well-trained applicants taking the tests.

MCENTIRE PROBES LABOR SHORTAGE

To investigate the results of the resettlement program and its effects on internal project employment, Davis McEntire, WRA chief of employment is in the Project for his third visit since November.

After studying the local labor shortage difficulties, McEntire recommended several solutions for efficient employment management.

Immediately after the shot was fired, the sentry reported to headquarters. Lt. Carson heading a group of soldiers went to investigate. Assistant Director Hughes also went to the scene to survey the situation. All the details were carefully investigated that night and were related to a group of block managers and residents in the Dining Hall of Block 42 by Hughes.

It was recommended that residents should not invite danger by strolling near the fences after 7 PM and particularly after dark.

The second contingent of volunteers from Topaz left the Center yesterday afternoon to be inducted into the newly formed all-Japanese combat unit of the US Army.

Aki Moriwaki, group leader; John Izumi, and Leo Kishii comprised the group which left for the induction center at Fort Douglas. They will be joined in Salt Lake City by another Topaz volunteer, Taro Katayama, former managing editor of the Topaz Times.

It was also disclosed that induction papers are now in order for Allan Nishi, who will leave the Center with the next contingent.

ERNST LEAVES FOR DIRECTORS' CONFAB

After the conclusion of the conference, Ernst is planning to visit several relocation offices including Chicago and Cleveland before returning to Topaz sometime around the second week of June, it was disclosed today.

MAKE SURE BEFORE YOU GO

The emphasis is definitely on relocation now.

Whatever we do, wherever we go, we constantly hear and think and speak of relocation.

Some have already decided to leave, many are undecided, and many more are determined to stick it out in the Center for the duration. But all of us have at one time or other given serious thought to this matter.

For those of us who have decided to leave or are as yet undecided, we cannot urge too strongly the wisdom of making all arrangements for jobs, housing, and travel through the regular channels of the WRA.

We cannot stress too highly, too, the necessity of investigating clearly and completely all the conditions of our prospective jobs so that we will not leave the Center with any illusions that may eventually be shattered when we reach our destination.

We feel further that it is emphatically inadvisable for us to take any job, domestic or otherwise, just to leave the Center with the intention of getting other and better jobs. Letters we have received from those who have already relocated indicate quite clearly that in the larger cities at least, it is difficult for the Japanese to get good jobs in open competition with other residents.

Remember that the WRA has offices both here and in the key cities, ready to help us find positions outside, ready to help us make all investigations necessary. So let's take full advantage of all these services.

Let's keep in mind that relocation entails the making of serious and important decisions.

So let's not let any high pressure salesmen stampede us into making hasty and ill-thought-out moves.

Let's think clearly and realistically about what we will face, investigate our job offers carefully--and then make our decisions. WW

Most of the good jobs outside, such as defense work or even office work, require a certain amount of technical ability and knowledge. Hence it would seem imperative that nisei, either while they are in the center or outside, train for some vocation. With training in some profession, business or trade, the evacuee will have added to his confidence and lost much of his feeling of insecurity.

An Editorial

Because our bodies are confined in relocation centers is a poor reason to confine our minds. The world goes on and unless we go on with it, we will have a harder time adjusting to it when we get out.

Kiyoshi Hamanaka

Most of what is exciting about New York is the people and their activities. To be one of them is to be again in the mainstream of American life. Relocation centers are like stagnant pools, becoming fetid and slimy, left by the backwash of the flood following Dec. 7, 1941.

Perhaps because I was not on the defensive, I have yet to experience a single incident of any unpleasantness over my racial background. On the train from Jerome to St. Louis, 3 soldiers asked me to join them in nibbling out of a common quart bottle.

Certainly, to be out again in the world after almost a year of the restricted subnormal and morbid life in centers makes me, to use a good old American phrase, feel like a white man again.

LIBRARY

THE KILLER AND THE SLAIN is a powerful and skillfully told story of the dual nature of man, a curious tale of two men who were in fact one man. John Talbot and James Tunstall seemed on the surface as different as two men could be. Tunstall was a corrupt but successful portrait painter who had a jeering contempt for Talbot, who was reserved, almost effeminate, and an intellectual who wrote unusual novels. Talbot hated Tunstall. Yet there was something in these two men which bound them together which made them one, so that when Talbot killed Tunstall, he killed himself as well.

INDIA WITHOUT FABLE by Kate L. Mitchell is an up-to-date analysis of the political, social, and economic forces which create the ferment of today. It outlines India's history from the beginning of British rule to the failure of the Cripps mission, paints a clear picture of her vast potential wealth and abject poverty; its communal and religious conflict, the aims and influences of powerful groups, and the effects of British rule.

BETWEEN THE THUNDER AND THE SUN gives Vincent Sheean's personal experiences and reactions of swiftly moving current history. The book begins in 1935 just before the Fascist thunder began to black out the sun, and traces events to Pearl Harbor. Sheean has the uncanny ability of being on the spot at the right moment, thus enabling him to chronicle these episodes more tellingly than they have yet been done.

WOMEN'S MIRROR

By Tomoye Takahashi

Since America's Constitution, like Christianity, is based on the concept that every man is born with the inalienable right of equality of opportunity, the nisei must strive to make it a reality.

To make it a reality, relocation must be stressed. Confined people do not breed healthy thoughts nor are they productive for themselves or for their country. However, relocated evacuees should bear in mind the injustices and indignities imposed upon the issei. The nisei, too, may experience the same abuses.

Carey McWilliams said in his latest book, Brothers Under the Skin, "It (racial discrimination) lies at the heart of the series of tasks that go by the name of the unfinished business of democracy."

That the problem of racial discrimination must be tackled and solved now may not be clearly understood by all nisei, but it is something most of us feel. The surest way out is through relocation.

In seeking work, compromise should not be tolerated. Our fundamental and racial occupational patterns must be changed permanently. If we continue to accept domestic jobs, we will again reach a vocational stalemate in the dead-end jobs into which nisei were so often shunted.

We nisei are of economic significance. We are trained in the professional and technical fields. We are competent in offices and stores, have dexterity and adaptability to work with machines in shops and factories. We are quick to learn and assume responsibilities.

If the majority or even a large number of nisei go into domestic work and allied fields where personal service is a factor, we will fail to gain a foothold in the socially and economically stable section of American society.

Our occupations govern our mode and standard of living, the tastes and the ideas we can financially afford. Better occupations and income, hence, social status, will help greatly in removing the hostile barrier of color distinction.

Furthermore, a justifiably ambitious program would do much to further, not hinder, the war effort. Working as a domestic and accepting menial tasks will not help in bringing about the end of the war any sooner. If we wait until after the war to improve our lot, our drive and impetus will be dissipated, and we will have lost our greatest opportunity to better ourselves.

Our very insignificance in servile positions will breed contempt at worst, and tolerance at best. And tolerance is a far cry from social acceptance.

While the enthusiasm lasts and while community acceptance is still good, we must gain our individual emancipation.

MUSICAL Musings

WHEN we muse over the song treasures of yesterday, strains of melody clear the mist of years, bringing with it a rush of memories. Do tunes tempt you to dwell on your past, and sigh about how beautiful the old songs were, and that they don't write them as nice anymore? Remember these.....Marquita -- You Gotta See Mama Every Night --China Girl--Brown Eyes, Why Are You Blue--China-Town--Jealous--Three O'clock In The Morning--Oh, How I Miss You Tonight--Avalon Town -- Prisoner's Song--Let Me Call You Sweetheart--Moonlight And Roses--Springtime In The Rockies--Try A Little Tenderness--By A Waterfall--Hold My Hand--Sweet Jenny Lee -- Dinah -- St. Louis Blues--Darktown Strutter's Ball--I'll Always Be In Love With You--Sweetheart Of Sigma Chi--My Blue Heaven--At Your Command--Margie--I Surrender Dear--My Silent Love--Walking My Baby Back Home--My Million Dollar Baby--Get Out And Get Under The Moon--Just An Echo-- Together--Yearning--Among My Souvenirs--

The Melody Lingers On--Ramon--Whistling In The Dark--I'll Be Blue Just Thinking Of You--Don't Sing Aloha When I Go--I'm Following You--Charmaine--Diane--Mary Lou--Marianne --Kiss Waltz--Down The River Of Golden Dreams--Vagabond Lover--Dancing With Tears In My Eyes--Cuban Love Song--Pagan Love Song--Writing Love Letters In The Sand--Three Little Words--Shantytown--Is It Dixie--Paradise--My Ideal --Star Dust--Goodnight, Sweetheart--I'll See You In My Dreams--and so on, remember? We wonder where the time has fled. Aren't there some who'd like to sing these old songs together sometime?

CHICAGO AREA SURVEYED FOR RELOCATORS COMMITTEE IN WINDY CITY GIVES HINTS TO SETTLERS

According to the Advisory Committee for Evacuees which has its headquarters in Chicago, the following is a cross-section glimpse of what evacuees from WRA camps have experienced in resettling in the Chicago area.

JOB: Over $\frac{2}{4}$ of evacuees coming to Chicago in March arrived without jobs in advance. On the average, it took 10 to 15 days to secure employment. For those with specialized skills who chose to explore opportunities more thoroughly, an interval of 30 days for job-hunting was not uncommon.

The majority have found satisfactory jobs. There is a small percentage of exceptions.

Finding a job is not a real problem, but finding the job to fit you can be. In every case to date, patience as well as determination to find a job, has resulted in satisfactory placement.

HOUSE-HUNTING: It takes almost twice as long to find adequate housing as it does to get a job. The war-time housing shortage has resulted in Chicago being rated 99.7% "full". (By comparison, Los Angeles is 125% "full").

Evacuees are not congregating in any one section.

They are finding furnished apartments, generally, in every part of the city.

Rents are higher in war-time Chicago, and housing on the whole is not as good as evacuees who come to Chicago expect it to be.

The early arrivals are paying:

- 1-room furnished apartment...$3.50 to $12 weekly
- 2, 2 $\frac{1}{2}$, 3-rm furnished kitchenette....\$30 to \$65 monthly
- 2, 3, 4-rm unfurnished apartments.....$25 to $55 monthly

FOOD COSTS: Most evacuees, adjusting themselves to new jobs and homes, are also still "eating out". A smaller number, mostly married couples, have started housekeeping. On the average, it costs from $1 to $1.45 a day to "eat out" 3 times a day. By careful budgeting, a family of 3 (man, wife, child) can eat adequately on $12 weekly on a housekeeping basis (exclusive of the man's lunch expense if he eats the noonday meal "out"). Food shortages in Chicago are consistent with wartime rationing through the country.

CHURCHES: Pastors of community churches have gone out of their way to extend a welcome to newcomers in different neighborhoods. Community receptivity of evacuees on the whole has been favorable.

Chicago has no Japanese Mission Church for Americans of Japanese ancestry; generally evacuees are being received in community churches of their own denomination. There is one all-Japanese congregation which meets in a chapel of the Fourth Presbyterian Church near the Loop.

DISCRIMINATION?: Evacuees say there is less race discrimination generally, despite the war, than they found on the Far West coast. Some does exist, to be realistic, but few evacuees have encountered unpleasant incidents. One evacuee said: "In Chicago, you can become a normal human being again; people don't stare at you on the streets; you just become one of them."

PERSONAL INQUIRIES regarding relocation in the Midwest area may be addressed to the Advisory Committee for Evacuees, 189 West Madison Street, Chicago, Illinois.

Chicago job offers:
ASSISTANT BARTENDER--
 Hotel, $100 per month plus 2 meals. (599)
FOOD CONTROL DEPARTMENT--
 Hotel, $90 per month plus 2 meals.

EMPLOYMENT: A Resume of 419 Job Offers

With many defense industries and civil service positions now available to evacuees, more job offers for professional, secretarial, and industrial help are beginning to pour into the Topaz placement office.

Though highly skilled or professional workers are not so much in demand yet, there are a few offers for resident physicians, nurses, chemical laboratory assistants and beauty parlor operators.

A survey of the first 419 employment offers received at the placement office revealed that over half (256) or 61% of the jobs were for domestics, signifying the national need for such workers. 173 were for housegirls, 64 for couples, and 19 for houseboys and janitors.

It is interesting to note that there are only 502 persons in this city who have had previous experience as domestics, including janitors, day workers, housekeepers, domestic cooks, maids, and yardmen. Most of them have earned more per month than offered today by the various employers desiring help.

So far there have been 79 job offers for machinists, laborers, car washers, dry cleaners, orderlies, and power machine operators. There were 16 calls for clerical workers, including stenographers and bookkeepers.

Although there have only been 33 employers who desired people to work in various forms of agriculture, there are enough farm jobs available for every able-bodied man in the Center.

90% of the offers, however, do not pay well and are unappealing, and are destined to collect dust in the placement office.

AMERICANS WHOM AMERICANS REVERE

From time to time the editors of the Adult Education Americanization page will present incidents from the lives of outstanding Americans. Because he was born in May and because millions of Americans consider his utterances as appropriate today as they were one hundred and sixty-eight years ago, we take pleasure in presenting Patrick Henry who was born in Virginia on May 29, 1736.

In 1765, there was an important meeting of the House of Burgesses of Virginia, as the law-making body of that Colony was called. They had come together to debate upon a great question, that of the Stamp Act passed by the British Parliament for the taxation of the Colonies.

They were almost ready to adjourn, with nothing done, when a tall and slender young man, a new and insignificant member whom few knew, rose in his seat, and began to speak upon the subject.

Some of the rich and aristocratic members looked upon him with indignation. What did this nobody mean in meddling with so weighty a subject as that before them, and which they had already fully debated? But their indignation did not trouble the young man.

He began to speak, and soon there was flowing from his lips a stream of eloquence that took every one by surprise. Finally wrought up to the highest pitch of indignant patriotism, he thundered out the memorable words:

"Caesar had his Brutus, Charles the First his Cromwell, and George the Third--"

"Treason!! Treason!!" cried some of the excited members.

But the orator went on:

"--may profit by their example. If this be treason, make the most of it!"

His boldness carried the way. His words were irresistible. The resolutions were adopted. Virginia took a decided stand.

It was the last day of August, 1774. The Potomac was flowing lazily past Mount Vernon. The door of the large mansion on the high river-bank stood open. Before it were three horses saddled and bridled. Three men came out of the house.

One was George Washington, large, handsome, resolute, dressed for a long journey. With him, was a tall, angular, raw-boned man, slightly stooping, carelessly dressed, whose dark, deep-set eyes flashed with peculiar brilliance. The third man was equally striking in appearance, well-proportioned and graceful, his face serene and thoughtful.

The tall raw-boned man with deep glowing eyes, was Patrick Henry; the elegant stranger, Edmund Pendleton. They were two of Virginia's most devoted Patriots.

As the three vaulted into their saddles, Washington's wife stood in the open doorway, trying to conceal her anxiety for him under a cheerful manner. Her heart was very heavy. But as the three gave spurs to their horses, she called out:

"God be with you, gentlemen!"

And so they rode away. It was dangerous business on which they were sent, as Martha Washington well knew. They were going to attend the First Continental Congress at Philadelphia. They were about to defy England. But the three rode away from Mount Vernon fearlessly, with her words ringing in their ears:

"God be with you!"

It was in 1775 that Patrick Henry, in a convention, presented resolutions in favour of an open appeal to arms. In a burst of flaming eloquence, he laid bare the tyranny of Parliament and King. He declared that there was nothing left but to fight, and ended with an outburst thrilling in its force and intensity:

"There is no retreat but in submission and slavery! Gentlemen may cry peace, peace, but there is no peace. The war is actually begun. Our brethren are already in the field! Why stand we here idle? What is it that gentlemen wish? What would they hate? Is life so dear or peace so sweet as to be purchased at the price of chains and slavery?"

"Forbid it, Almighty God! I know not what course others may take; but as for me, give me Liberty or give me Death!"

THE ANT

The ants practice horticulture and agriculture. They are skillful in the cultivation of mushrooms. They have domesticated nearly 600 different kinds of animals. They know how to provide against atmospheric changes which might endanger the health of their children. And for insects, their longevity is exceptional --- members of the more highly evolved species living for a considerable number of years.

But it is not about that which I wish to speak. What I want to talk about is the awful propriety, the terrible morality, of the ant. Our most appalling ideals of conduct fall short of the ethics of the ant --- as progress is reckoned in time --- by nothing less than a million years!..... When I say "the ant," I mean the highest type of ant --not of course, the entire ant-family. About two thousand species of ants are already known; and these exhibit, in their social organizations, widely varying degrees of evolution. Certain social phenomena of the greatest biological importance, and of no less importance in their strange relation to the subject of ethics, can be studied to advantage only in the existence of the most highly evolved societies of ants.
