PRIVATELY STORED GOODS
NOW AVAILABLE

Evacuee-owned household goods and personal effects now in private storage may be shipped to the relocation centers on the provision that the owners make arrangements to transfer such goods from private storage to the WRA Central Receiving Warehouses, the Project Attorney's Office pointed out today.

For former Bay Region residents, the Receiving Warehouses are located at 1595 Van Ness Avenue, San Francisco, and 230 Madison Street, Oakland, it was added.

Residents may take this action by filling out 4 copies of WRA Form 83 at the Project Attorney's Office, Rec 4. According to latest information, Bulletin No. 21 of the San Francisco WRA Regional Office has stated that this service is expected to be discontinued after Jan. 31.

Goods in private storage may be shipped directly to relocation centers in cases where 20 or more families have effects stored in any one place, such as a church. On this plan the Oakland M.E. Church has been accepted by the WRA, it was learned. Other churches and large private storage centers will be accepted, and residents concerned should contact the Project Attorney immediately.

ABANDON EARLY
OPENING OF SKATING RINK

All hopes for an early opening of the Topaz Ice Skating Rink were abandoned, Hank Ogawa, chairman of the CAS project, stated last week. "On the night of Dec. 30, some unidentified party broke down the embankment of the pond and not only caused the surrounding area to be flooded but ruined the ice floor of the rink," Ogawa declared. "We must go through the difficulty of refilling the pond with water which has to be obtained from Abraham, about 5 miles away."

The Community Activities Section appealed to the residents to keep away from the site, which is situated south of Block 38, until the project is completed.
