

NIGHT SCHOOL REGISTRATION

The Night School director announced today that classes in Japanese language will be offered for those people who have interest in vocations in which they will need knowledge of the language. Enrollment for the class will be taken Monday at 31-2-D, from 2 to 4 p.m. and 6:45 to 8:30 p.m.

"This new policy with reference to Japanese language classes is in accord with the general policy of W. R. A. in relating project activity to relocation. Opportunities are open to qualified people in interpreting and translating Japanese. Such persons may enter the language school of Army Intelligence, teach either in Army Intelligence School or in well-known universities, or enter some field of translation and publication," said Dr. N. Griswold, the Night School Director.

"With this policy governing the classes in Japanese language it is expected that faster progress will be made by the students. Especially, since all of them will have a definite purpose in studying the language," he added.

PASS REGULATION

Johnston Guarantees Enforcement

"It has been suggested that I call attention again to the regulations about leaving the center without a pass, and to state the penalty for the violation of this regulation," declared Project Director Ray D. Johnston yesterday.

The only area not subject to pass restriction is the wooded area just west of the center which is a part of the Rohwer Relocation center. Leaving the center for any other places will require passes. These passes cannot be issued for fishing or swimming and will only be considered when needed for work purposes or something of an emergency nature.

Johnston feels that it is the responsibility of his office to furnish adequate protection to the center residents, as well as to see that the WRA regulations are properly observed. Persons leaving the center without passes are entirely without protection from the WRA.

"Violations of this WRA pass regulation are subject to a minimum penalty of one week in jail, emphasized the project director, "and we shall strictly enforce this penalty in the future."

CONSTRUCTION NOTES

Construction of various additions and new buildings for the center is progressing according to plans, revealed Tom Makino of the Public Works division.

Mess 42 is being cleaned up for installation of equipment necessary to make possible the production of miso and tofu, using the soybeans grown on the farm.

The Home Economics building is nearly completed and work has started on a 30' by 100' addition to this structure which will serve as the school assembly room.

Meanwhile, the auditorium is rapidly rising on the high school field. At the present time, the workers are putting up side walls.
