SPECIAL DIET CASES TO HAVE NUTRITION AIDES SERVICES

Better food service for the infants and those in the blocks who require special diets is the goal of the new class of nutrition aides learning to cook and serve prescribed food appetizingly.

Because the doctors and the hospital staff felt the past methods have been inadequate, the system of feeding these people is being reorganized. A nutrition aide is being assigned to each block as fast as workers can be found plus an extra nutrition

ROHWER HONOR ROLL 420 SOLDIERS REPRESENTED

A recent survey revealed that there are 420 soldiers from 370 different families in this Center.

The Takahashis of Block 4 boast 5 sons in the service and one son-in-law. Block 28 with 29 and Blocks 17 and 4 with 22 each led in the number of representatives.

The survey as of July 31 was conducted by the block managers and CA.

Beginning with this issue of the OUTPOST, names and stations, and block addresses of these boys will appear serially.

ade for each 4 blocks. The extra aide allows the regular aide to have a day off without disrupting service or the kitchen crew being called upon to do her work.

Classes in English are taught by Virginia Turner, center dietitian, classes in Japanese by Yoshiko Konzo, assistant dietitian.

If there is no nutrition aide in your block, you or your neighbor will be rendering a valuable service to the community by applying for this position.

BON-ODORI SET FOR WEEKEND

More than 600 dancers, young and old, are expected to participate in the Bon-Odori Saturday evening at 8 on the high school ground.

addresses are required for Christmas parcels mailed only during this period. Each gift parcel should be endorsed "Christmas Parcel."

Those Christmas parcels shall not exceed the present limits of 5 pounds in weight or 15 inches in length or 36 inches in end girth combined. Since members of the armed forces are amply provided with food and clothing, the public is urged not to include such matter. Only one Christmas parcel or package shall be accepted for mailing in any one week when sent by or on behalf of the same person or concern, to or for the same addressee.

It is absolutely necessary that all articles be packed in boxes of metal, wood, solid fiberboard reinforced with strong gummed-paper tape or tied with strong twine, or be securely wrapped in heavy paper, as boxes without an outer wrapper often become crushed or spilt, allowing the contents to escape. Furthermore, as each parcel

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—When I was a youngster, I used to wonder how it was possible for a man to stand up, walk a straight line, and not fall flat on his face. I asked my father about it one day, and his answer was that a man is just made that way. Made that way, that's all. But I kept on wondering about it, just as I still wonder and marvel at the manner in which a sailor can walk the deck of a rolling ship.

LEARNING

Then I went to school, studied biology and physiology, and learned that a man can stand, walk, and run because of his fine sense of balance. And I learned that this sense of balance came from the ear's semicircular canals. Take those canals from the ear, and a man would fall flat on his physiognomy each time he tried to stand up. That seemed to satisfy me, and I ceased wondering about it.

NEW THEORY

But now along comes a Danish-born inventor and knocks that idea into the proverbial cocked-hat. This man, Christian Adolf Volf, claims that the physiologists were wet behind the ears in their "ear's semicircular canals" theory. Volf propounds the revolutionary theory that equilibrium is an acquired trait. It's merely a matter of adapting ourselves to the rotation of the earth.

FOR INSTANCE

Volf backs up his claim by pointing to the actions of toddling babies and swaying, zigzagging drunks. He says a child beginning to walk always takes his first steps toward the east. Since the earth's rotation is in that direction, the baby finds it easier to walk in the same direction. Try to make him walk west, and the baby will fall down.

Now a drunk can somehow

ONCE OVERS

manage to stagger eastward, but if he tries to head west, he falls flat on his features. If a cop tries to make a drunk enter a patrol wagon facing west, he has a struggle on his hands. If a drunk gets pugnacious and wants to pick a fight, Volf says all you have to do is turn him toward the West and the sop will become as docile as a lamb.

Now, if Volf is correct, that puts a new light on things. I've seen young mothers worry themselves sick because their tots couldn't walk after 14 or 16 months. Perhaps they had their little darlings struggling against the rotation. Maybe the reason I didn't learn to walk till late was that my mother had me pointed west all the time. I have been vindicated, after all these years. And now that I think about it, perhaps the reason it took me five years to learn to dance was that I was trying to two-step and turkey-trot toward the west, instead of the east.

Now then, you mothers take heed of Mr. Volf's theory and point your little offsprings east, and the little brats will begin walking in eight months, who knows? And you discouraged Romeos, you down-trodden Casanovas, if your little sugar stick demurs at going for a walk with you, why, simply face her east, give her a gentle shove, and let the earth's rotation take care of the rest.

Those are few of the uses to which you can put this new theory. You will agree that it has all sorts of possibilities.

Rohwer's second Buddhist O-bon Festival, honoring the memory of those deceased, will be held in the Center on Aug. 12 and 13 with appropriate rites and services.

A memorial service at 8 a.m., Saturday, at the cemetery will be the initial event. Sunday school children, YBAs and the Issel will offer their respect to the dead at this combined devotional. The sermon will be delivered by the Rev. T. Koichi and incense will be offered by the various Buddhist affiliations.

At 2 p.m. the Center Auditorium will be the scene of a special O-bon service, chairmanned by Jitsuo Hiramoto, The Rev. Tadao Koichi and the Rev. Daitatsu Hayashima will both deliver the sermon. The public is cordially invited to attend.

The Rev. Kouchi and the Rev. Hayashima will conduct a special memorial service for the kin of those who have passed away during the last six months in PS halls 23 and 24 at 4 p.m. Respect will be paid to the ashes in the Church Columbinas.

BUDDHIST NOTES

All Buddhist Sunday morning and afternoon services will take place in the Auditorium.

Sunday school children from Churches 23 and 28 will meet at 8 a.m. in the Auditorium for regular classes and a combined service.

At 9:15, immediately following the children's service, the Young Buddhists will gather for an impressive service featuring Mr. Kikuo H. Taira as the principle speaker. The Rev. D. Hayashima's sermon will be "Science and Religion."

is subject to censorship, delay in handling may be minimized by securing the covering of the parcel so as to permit ready inspection of the contents.

When combination packages are made up, including miscellaneous toilet articles, hard candies, soaps, etc., the contents should be tightly packed in order that the articles may not be loosened in transit, damaging the contents or the covering of the parcels. Christmas boxes should be enclosed in substantial containers. Hard candies, nuts, caramels (including those covered with chocolate), cookies, fruit cake, and chocolate bars individually wrapped in waxed paper, should be enclosed in inner boxes of wood, metal, or cardboard. Soft candies, whether homemade or commercial, do not carry well. Sealed packages of candy, cigars, tobacco, and toilet articles in simplest mercantile form may be placed in parcels without affecting the parcel-post classification of such packages.

Perishable matter will not be accepted, and the sending of fragile articles is discouraged.

Intoxicants, inflammable materials (including matches of all kinds and lighter fluids), and poisons, or compositions which may kill or injure another, or damage the mails, are unmailable.

In typewriting or ink, the complete address should also be shown on a sheet of paper inside the parcel in order to permit identification of the address in the event the outer wrapper is damaged in transit. Parcels addressed to overseas Army personnel should show, in addition to the name and address of the sender, the name, rank, Army serial number, branch of service, organization, A.P.O. number of the address, and the post office through which the parcels are to be routed. C. Brickner, post office head, said.

LANCERS DOWNED BY BOMBARDIERS

In the opening game of the National league Saturday, the Bombardiers crossed the home plate 7 times in the third inning to defeat the Lancers, 7 to 3.

With their score blank through the first and second innings, the Bombardier nine had their rally in the third when they scored their only 7 runs in the game, capitalizing on base hits, S. Shimasaki's three-base hit, and errors. Their pitcher, M. Kawano, started his league game with a near-to-perfect record, yielding only four hits and kayooing three times. Leftfielder T. Nakayama had three for four.

The Lancers started their game with a thriller, a homer by K. Oshita, left-fielder, who was the third man up. But from then on, except for 1 run each in the second and fourth innings, they were unable to take advantage of the Bombardiers. Pitcher Teddy Saiki allowed nine hits and struck out two men. Rightfielder H. Hitomi made two for three.
