The clothes that are contributed should be mended

EDITORIAL

A few days ago, the nation grieved over the loss of one of the greatest men it has ever known. It was our president, the friendly, warm-hearted Franklin Delano Roosevelt. He was truly a individual who had played a great part in the lives of his country's people, serving it to the very end. And even though he has passed into the higher world, he will continue to live on in the hearts of the people in every land, a great man as well as a most unforgettable friend.

Why do 'black' 15 people call Sam Mibu "lucky Sam"? If you must know why just ask Helen Yoshimura. She knows.

Why does Jimmy Yasutako smile when Fumiko Endo passes by? Come on, Fumiko, give the guy a break and smile back.

Say. How come May Oga is always looking at Tad Okada? What are the girls going to do next? Stand upside down and look at the boys pass by.

9-4'S CHAMPIONS

On April 6, the Junior High was dismissed early to watch the championship game between the 8-2's and the 9-4's.

The first quarter, the score stood at a low tie of 2-up. As the second quarter came to a end, the 8-2's seemed like they were getting "hot" with a score of 21-15, but as the third quarter came, both sides seemed to be equal, but finally 9-4 got in the lead with a score of 26-23.

The last quarter, if you had watched the girls cheering section of 9-4 one minute they would be standing, and the next moment they would be sitting, as if nothing had happened. (They sure gave their lungs a lot of exercise.)

The last quarter, altho the 8-2's fought hard, the game ended with a score of 37-28 in 9-4's favor.

The high point man for 8-2 was Albert Miyama, with 12 points, while Arthur Yamaguchi was high pointor for 9-4 with a total of 13 points.

Homeroom 9-1 presented a three act play entitled "Thou Shalt Not Read" on April 11. This play was written by a senior student (graduate of '41) Mary Margaret Nursay and presented on Book Week of '41 by the Library Club of Coshocton High School.

This play was about a girl, Nancy Jo, who hated to read. In her dream, she dreams that the book characters came to life, and held a trial to ascertain whether or not Nancy Jo blasphemed books in reading. She is found guilty, and sentenced to life without reading. When she tries to read a book, the book does not open and when she tries to read a newspaper, the print is blurred.

When she comes out of the dream, she opens a book and when she sees that she can read, she is overjoyed.

The success of the play is largely due to the direction of Mrs. Ziegler and of the co-directors Eva Hisagumi and Junzo Fujita; the untiring effort of Eva Hisagumi as the program chairman; the acquiring of the material for the scene by Yukio Fujiwara, the property manager; and the acquiring of the costumes by Jane T. Hanada and Yoshiko Hachiya, the costume managers.
