SCHOOL PROGRAM REVEALED BY ED. DIRECTOR

Dr. Miles Cary, Director of Education for Poston, told the staff members of the Agr. Dept., in a meeting held last Mon. at Mess 32, that the course in Agriculture at Poston will "not be forced or requested" upon the students, but the decision would rather be left up entirely to the pupils themselves.

"The probable system to be used, which is yet to be formulated in details, is the part time labor on the voluntary basis, while those interested in a thorough knowledge of farming basic training will be given along with the actual agriculture work, Dr. Cary asserted.

As to the high school program itself, Dr. Cary commented, "We are willing to accept criticisms, in regards to educational project; but we must assure the residents that actual results of the system cannot be achieved after until some eight months. About three weeks after the students enroll we are going to give them standardized tests. Within a year another examination of the same nature will be held for the pupils. By this method we would be able to determine how successful our educational program has been conducted.

The secondary students are now prepared to attend the Poston High Schools, come Oct. 5.

PRESS OF THE PEOPLE

A spontaneous and rapidly growing interest has been gathered behind the recently launched queen contest for the Poston County Fair, it can be observed in all three units already. And by fair opening on Oct. 10, the court of beauties chosen for the event will undoubtedly receive the spotlight of attention. The addition of something with real popular appeal will go a long way in securing the success of the whole affair.

GOOD LUCK, BOYS!

"Hey, Joe, don't forget to leave my girl alone."

"Yeah, well, you'd better not 'wolf around' with the girls in Colorado."

Jokes and wise cracks flew fast and furious as friends and well wishers crowded around the truck for their last words with the forty volunteers, majority of whom were young boys as they climbed aboard the truck on the 'first leg' of their journey to various parts of Colorado and Nebraska.

Friends and departers attempted to create a feeling of gayety but each one sensed sadness in the air. We watched brothers, sisters, parents and friends say their last few words of parting. All seemed optimistic that all would see each other again in a few weeks or months. Many will in all probability return to camp but others won't.

Then all too soon, the truck slowly started to move. Quick handclaps, a last word or two, then a loud shout and the truck rolled off into

Together with the gaiety and color of the beauty pageant, it should be understood clearly by everyone, is a sound and serious attempt to turn the present mimeograph sheet into a regular printed newspaper, supported and subscribed to by the people. The subscription offer being made is with the hope that it will enable the Press Bulletin to issue a paper belonging to and worthy of a center of over 17,000 residents.

We should realize, moreover, that the press is one of the few means by which the people can voice their wishes. We should realize that the freedom and integrity of any newspaper can be kept intact by leaving it financially dependent not upon one source but at least partly upon the public at large.

The significant fact to note is that only under a paid subscription basis can a paper function as truly of and for the people.

Seen in this true perspective, the subscription privilege, unknown in assembly centers, is a democratic gain to be valued above any small monetary consideration. It deserves the whole-hearted backing of very thoughtful residents of Poston.

From a purely financial view point, the operation of a newspaper on a subscription and advertising basis is a business venture which eventually may prove a not altogether unprofitable business venture--with all profits going back to the people either through the present community enterprise or the proposed cooperative system.
