

PRESENTING YOUR BLOCK MANAGER

Presenting your block managers' is the first in the series of familiarizing the residents with the block managers of Unit I.

In Poston, the leader and the person, on whom all the responsibilities, the cares and the troubles of the block is shouldered, are the gallant block managers. In the majority of the blocks, the manager is the person who is the most willing to sacrifice himself in order that the block may continue harmoniously.

First on the list and one of the oldest from the standpoint of service is popular, hard-working George Nagano. Block 35 accepted him as their leader upon their arrival a year ago. A test of his ability and popularity can be seen from the fact, that in the most difficult position in the community, he has continued to serve his block for one complete year.

He is the father of Reverend Paul Nagano of Unit III, and also a rabid sport fan, sparkplugging the championship Block 35 old men softball team of a year ago.

TO DETROIT-BOUND KAZ OKA:

SEE you later, Kaz. It's not goodbye, at least not just now. It was swell having you to work with and laugh with and fill up space with...we'll surely miss chinning with you.

DESPITE ALL your seriousness (at times) all your fiery editorials and stuff, we did get to know how our editor-editorial liaison - Mr. James' shoe-filler ticked....

WE FOUND in you a wonderful sort of person, willing to lend a hand anywhere, and everywhere, for that matter. And we did profit by all those pep-talks (even if you didn't think they were such) and advice.

YOUR OUTLOOK on this present crisis--we admired it. And perhaps it was just that that kept us from being so easily swayed and discouraged at times.

WE'LL MISS you, Kaz. And so will many others. And may we meet later in a better situation.

BEST OF luck to Mr. and Mrs. Kaz Oka!

OPEN LETTER TO ONE B.F.

Dear B. F.:
Thank you so much for your very constructive counsels. We truly appreciate your troubles and efforts toward improvements. It is people like you that we are terribly in need of, and our sincerest thanks are herein expressed. Won't you drop in at our workroom so that we may laugh it over together, and won't you favor us with a guest column soon?
Thank you.

Little man Dan Cupid takes it on the chin again with the announcement from the electrical maintenance department that the wiring on the swimming pool will be finished tomorrow.

With the merciless glare of the artificial lights illuminating the dark recesses of the island shelter, young swains (polite form of "wolf") who found the shelter the place to "melt" er will now have to look "afield" again.

Not only throwing a crimp into the young romantics, this also throws a cramp into the swimmers, who found their greatest relaxations in splashing through the pool waters as is, that is.... well...as is....
