

PARKER DAM NOT ENDANGERED DECLARES ICKES

Secretary of Interior Ickes declared that the "sensational report" that the Parker Dam in Arizona was in danger of sabotage by Japanese from Poston, which grew out of a hearing June 18 held by the House committee of un-American activities, were just "another Dies committee scarehead with nothing behind it", according to the AP dispatch datelined July 16.

Mr. Ickes added that the dam was in no danger of being blown up.

R. S. Stringfellow, an aqueduct guard, who had no personal knowledge of the alleged incident told the Dies committee, dynamites and 100 blasting caps, "of all kind ill-adapted for any major explosive jobs", had been stolen from the nearby headrock dam this year and the dam was in danger.

Mr. Ickes stated that there is circumstantial evidence that two unidentified Causasian men were responsible for this incident.

AG DEPT. TO BE STREAMLINED

With the reorganization of Unit I Ag. Dept. completed, the three unit division heads and the executive board convened at Rec. 37, last Saturday afternoon in an effort to streamline the project.

The long considered "bottleneck" supply requisition was the main topic of discussion. In order to promote fair and equal distribution of supply and equipment the previous plan of 2-1-1 ration system was discarded, with the adoption of the new system of distribution according to acreage and in ratio to the amount of goods received.

It was disclosed by the Unit I that the present plan has an estimated acreage of 800 acres to be under cultivation in the near future which is located on Section 34 and 27. However the actual cultivation depends upon the completion of the main canal from the Rock Head Gate in Parker. The Unit 2 will maintain 200 acres as its share in truck crops on Section 15 and Indian Day School areas with Unit 3 undecided in cultivating Section 10.

FROM BAD TO WORSE ....

(From Minneapolis Star Journal)

AT ITS BEST the Dies Committee to investigate un-American activities has been performing a job which ought to be the responsibility of, and could have been done much better by the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Courts. At its worst--which is to say, most of the time, the committee's fanning of ugly hatreds, its wholesale smearing of the innocent along with the guilty, and its typification of the American fascist mind, have made the committee itself a phenomenon as un-American as the Salem witchcraft trials. For these reasons the Star Journal has consistently opposed the Dies Committee.

But now it has found a field in which it has a good chance to work new and more serious mischief. It is investigating the Nisei--those 70,000 American citizens of Japanese descent most of whom are being held in relocation centers.

When Stalin dissolved the Comintern, Congressman Dies; apparently caught off guard, said the committee could now be disbanded. But a few days later he was declaring he had been misquoted, and now a sub-committee is sitting in Los Angeles, tossing fuel busily and happily into the ugly fire of American racial bigotry and hatred.

The problem constituted by Japanese citizens of the United States is a serious one and highly complicated. Probably it was militarily wise for the Army to move all persons of Japanese origin, whether American citizens or not, out of the West Coast area right after Pearl Harbor, in order to guard effectively against the espionage and sabotage of a few Japanese agents. Probably it was inevitable that serious mistakes would be made and grievous wrongs done in such hasty handling of a perplexing situation.

But the Dies Committee is not interested in examining the Nisei problem objectively, or trying to ameliorate injustice to loyal Americans and to relieve wrongs which can have the most dangerous repercussions in our dealings with the Asiatic peoples as a whole and with the race problem in the United States as a whole.

The Dies Committee is tearing at an open wound, trying to make political capital of racial suspicions and to perpetuate jobs for its pseudo-investigators and win new kudos for its committee members from the ignorant, the fearful and the bigoted.

Now there not only exists no further reason why the committee should be disbanded before it does us irreparable harm domestically and in our foreign relations. Congress as a whole cannot ignore responsibility for the committee without serious consequences to its own prestige.
