

OILING PROCESS HINDERED BY AUTO OPERATOR

Full cooperation on the part of all equipment operators is asked by Morris Burge, Acting Project Director, during the oiling process of the roads within the project.

Mr. Burge stated that considerable difficulty has been experienced with traffic running over the fresh oil at which time oil and gravel has been picked up by the vehicles leaving streaks in the road. Such streaks require a special hand application of oil and in addition can never fully be eliminated after they are once made.

FISH STORY

Little Henry astounded local anglers by strutting back to camp one day with that big one that DIDN'T get away. Given the thin degree on how he lured the wily one from the deep, Little Henry confessed. The secret procedure is as follows: bait a wiggly minnow deftly on the hook; catch a little bass; pass it out for taking your minnow and play it in the water; zingo! a big one hits the little one. By the way, Bud, you got a license?

With the game wardens now patrolling the slough, the fish are getting so thick this amateur angler even hooked one. After untangling the line from the last futile cast, I made another bungling attempt. Whipping the line back, I slung it forward. Lo and behold, there was a writhing fish caught on the back-cast!

THE STORY BEHIND THE STORIES

...a Heart Mountain resident occupies his time in rattlesnake hunting, skinning same and drying same. It is also done in Poston. But this Heart Mountain tainer does not stop right there.

He grinds the remains of said reptilia with a stone, and mixes with cooked rice.

This is the past form of his remarkable cure-all for certain illnesses.

In liquid form, he also conducts an equally effective solution of his courtship. The subject of the search was discovered, alarmed, but a bit dazed and bewildered. Frank Ibin, manager of block 211, and Miss Sasaki expressed their gratitude to all those who participated in the search.

SHAMROCK VS. MUTINEERS

In a return game the 221 Shamrock plastered an 8-4 defeat on the Camp III Mutineers. The game failed to go the full innings as the game ended in a near riot.

Behind 8-4 and their last time up the Mutineer's batsmen stepped way back from Nishikawa's on-coming pitch to swing his bat on the back swinging smack against Kobayashi, 221 catcher.

Taking this for a deliberate act on the part of the batter, the Shamrock fans stormed on the field. Hopelessly outnumbered the Mutineers decided that "discretion was the better part of valor" and scrambled home on the truck.

PENGUINS VS.

VISTA PANTHERS

A booming home run off the bat of the Vista pitcher with one man on, spelled defeat for the Penguins in one disastrous inning as the Panthers scored 4 runs to overtake a 2-0 lead.

The Penguins fought back with a run but Vista pushed across 3 more to cinch the game.

Kadani of the Penguins hit a round trip while K. Hirazawa hit 3 for 4 to lead the locals.

POSSIBLE ELECTRIC CURTAINMENT SEEN

"The load on the electric system is exceeding the capacity of the system in many blocks. Due to this overload, the transformer and the wiring in many blocks are in extreme danger of burning out. There are no spare transformers of the proper size and the loss of a transformer would be serious to the block involved," stated R. H. Rupkey, Chief Engineer, in a memo to the block managers.

In order to minimize the danger of overloading the wires, the following instructions were outlined by Rupkey:

1. Do not use electric hot plates, toasters, and coffee pots between the hours of 4 to 10 p.m., except in cases of illness.

2. Avoid as much as possible the use of electric irons during these hours.

3. Avoid unnecessary use of lights.

Because of the dangers involved, it will be necessary to collect unnecessary electrical appliances and put them in storage unless the present overloaded condition of the electric system is discontinued.
