NO. 22

 FESTIVAL PRESENTED TO PUBLIC SATURDAY NIGHT **

The pageant highlighting the "Water Festival," to fete the coming of the water to Poston, was staged in outdoor splendor on the high bank beside the circular swimming pool-to-be with a row of tall grey willows silhouetting against the approaching dusky blue of the sky, after a crimson sunset, July 4, Saturday at 8:30 P.M.

Following Lawrence Sasani, Festival Director's speech of welcome, a chorus of fifty voices led by Bob Okazaki opened the first scene, "Old Indian Scene". Gilbert Ogata, in colorful "Towel" and feathers, played the part of the Indian Chief; and Akiko Hoshizaki, in creme muslim gown with red fringes, portrayed the Indian Princess sang a solo, "Pale Moon". Typical songs and drama was presented as five other progressive scenes toward the "Arrival of Water", followed.

Of special interest was the dramatic dances coached by Cecelia Nakamura. The audience was touched by the scene portraying the "Coming of the Japanese", with action and reactions, which appeared so comical and reactions, which appeared so comical and ridiculous, were yet, so true. The final, "God Bless America" was joined by the voices of the entire cast and the audience.

The performance will be repeated soon at Camp 2 for the benefit of the new arrivals.

FURNITURE DISPLAY

After one glance at the empty racks, it was only human characteristic for people to take a retrospective view and sigh for the cozily furnished home you've left. But you need not sigh any longer for like all animals we can adapt ourselves to our environments.

The furniture was classified into two types; one, using the natural beauty of the wood and the other copying the more modern trend. There were a number of "de-luxe-ly" comfortable sofas, smoothly-sanded lounge chairs, with form-fitting seat for that extra comfort, beautiful fire-side chairs, chest, cute rocking chairs; useful coffee table, magazine racks, original ash tray stands, complete with ash tray made of tin can, a neat closet and waste basket.

The furnitures were practical and skillfully made.

ALL-STARS DEADLOCK 7-7

The favored National League players were held to a 7-7 deadlock by the "underrated", but determined American All-Stars, July 5, on Fld. 30.

Although nearly swamped by the American All-Stars, an estimated crowd of 2,000 witnessed the cool hurling by George Sugita of the Nationals for the eight innings.

Ikonaga, pitcher for the Americans, had the situation well under control up to the sixth inning, when Hashimoto hit a two bagger over the left field, scoring Sugita, who previously walked. E. Mizuno doubled with bases loaded, scoring Ishibashi and Hashimoto. The slugging National registered another two bagger by T. Okida to score E. Mizuno and Sugi. The American's batteries were replaced by M. Nitta and Jack Matsuda in the seventh.

Hochizuki replaced Nakano as catcher, for the Nationals in the seventh.

The Nationals tally also came in the seventh by Hashimoto and in the eighth by Mizuno.

Score by innings:

Innings:	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	Total
National	0	0	0	0	0	5	1	1	7
American	0	0	2	0	1	1	2	1	7

BOXING

Plenty of action was provided for the fistic fans by pugilists, from the Boxing School, Sunday morning, at Rec. 39.

Frank Morikawa hammered out a four round decision over Marshall Nakaji in a catch weight bout. Nakaji looked good in the opening rounds but Morikawa's consistent left jabs and right hooks in the face were too much for Nakaji. Morikawa had a decided height and weight advantage.

In the 140 lb. division, Mat Kobayashi and Hirose Ukoyama battered each other to a four round

Sasuke Hamai, formerly of Watsonville, 55, passed away Sunday afternoon, due to chronic myocarditis and heat exhaustion. Surviving are his wife and several children who are residing at 216-11-D. Funeral services were held yesterday at 10 A.M.
