NEW SERVICE BEGUN

Dry Cleaning, Laundry Starts

A laundry and dry cleaning service for Center residents was inaugurated this morning at the call office, the Laundry and Dry Cleaning committee reported.

The dry cleaning and laundry will be done by the Harbor Laundry, Inc., of San Pedro.

The company will supply tags and check lists; will deliver laundry within seven days after they pick it up, and will be responsible for the loss of items.

Residents who wish to patronize the company are to take their laundry, in bundles, to the call office at 21 Man o' War avenue then make a list and carefully check each item to be washed or cleaned.

If, after checking, the company discovers a shortage, the bundle will be returned. If there are more items than are listed, the extra items will be cleaned and an extra charge will be made for them.

Members of the local Laundry and Dry Cleaning committee are Masao Satow, Kiyoshi P. Okura, Masaaki Hironaka, Manzo Maruno, Kozo Yasaki and Masakazu Yoshihara. The call office is at 21 Man o' War avenue.

The Grandstand and stage will be used for the performances.

On Monday the program will include popular Japanese songs, harmonica, biwa, koto and flute numbers, dances; manzai, and naniwa-bushi.

Census Takers Perform Extra Services With Work

Varied jobs taken over by census takers besides their regular duties were today enumerated by R. I. McGinnis, Center registrar.

McGinnis pointed out their recent survey for boys and girls of college age during which they distributed questionnaires to each unit.

"They have also made a survey on insurance policyholders," continued McGinnis, "and discovered that Center residents hold a considerable amount of policies."

"They are our goodwill ambassadors," commented McGinnis.

The woodpeckers' latest aid to residents was the arrangement of a coupon book schedule so that long periods of waiting in line were eliminated.

In addition, they assisted aged and sick people, unable to go after their free coupon books, in choosing a responsible person to go for them, then accompanied the nominated person to the cashier's window," McGinnis stated.

All in all, "the woodpeckers put in a good 12-hour day," he concluded.

Among women who should be applauded for their "swing shift" working hours (from 4 to midnight) are the girls in the police station, milk stations, nurses and shower attendants. We hear that the latter group of women often miss their chance to go into the showers they watch over so zealously.

A new type of good luck charm we see dangling from the necks of children are the meal tickets encased in a cloth bag of the same size. This amulet insures the children of three meals a day.

Seeing mess workers at their thrice-daily task of scrubbing the tables reminds us that the work may be made easier if the cloth is not too damp, as too much water dissolves the cleaning powder.

"How is the best way to remove tar from clothes?" asks a reader this week. We suggest that for non-washables, such as silk or woolen materials, sponge the spot with turpentine. If the material is washable rub lard into the tar spot, then wash with hot soapy water.

Copper and rubber, two valuable war products, make up ironing cords. Winding the cord around a hot iron will damage the rubber. Wait until the iron cools, and wind it loosely as bending the cord may break the wires.

No pattern is needed for patchwork dirndls; just piece the scraps together and then shir at the waist. Dirndls may be made in one continuous piece or may be made to button down its length.

Ingenuity in the choice of buttons will do much to liven up the dirndl. Hand carved wooden ones, prune pits or pop tops flattened down add button interest.

SANTA ANITA CENTER GETS PLUG FROM BUSINESS WEEK

Santa Anita, from a business aspect, is described in the July 18 issue of the magazine, Business Week. The article, "Business in Evacuation Center," also mentions Manzanar relocation center which has 400 porkers in a hog-raising project and guayule experiment with 100,000 seedlings.

Residents of the local Center ordered 150 pounds of butterballs soon after the appearance of the Arcadia News, four pages of advertisements and order space.

An Arcadia shoe store, which advertised in the first issue, handled $600 of business, mainly because of the graduation exercises held for Southern California pupils in the Center, the story revealed.

In general the goods selected were about what any American man or woman would want, the article said.

Explaining that the removed 100,000 consumers from the general West Coast market need practically the same goods and services as an average medium-sized western city, the magazine reports that the Arcadia News special issue brought $2000 in orders to the Arcadia merchants.

Stage Program Dates Cited

Tentative dates for a vaudeville program were today announced by Sam Seno, director of special talent.

Seno invited any group of persons or individuals which are willing to participate to sign up at the Recreation office.

He said that the program will probably be given on Sept. 4 and 5.

The Recreation department, sponsors, also wish to include numbers which appeal to both issei and nisei tastes.

In the absence of George Ohashi who was ill, Sam Fujita, co-worker, spoke on beauty culture at a joint meeting of the Delta Cardinals and Delta Kales recently.

Fujita gave the girls pointers on the care of the hair. Some 30 girls, including adviser Mary Shima and Midori Kasai, were present.

Tests will be given Aug. 11, 6-8 p.m., at the campsite.

Eligible to take tests are second class scouts and scouts who will become second class before Aug. 1, Inamura announced.

Center Sculptor Molds Bust of General MacArthur

The triumph of mind over matter is exemplified by Gentaro Shimo, one of the Center's sculptors.

When he came to Santa Anita, Shimo had no material with which to work. After pondering over his problem, he concluded that the logical place to look was near the large incinerator west of the main track, for fireplaces are usually lined with clay.

Lady Luck was with him for he found two sacks discarded near the burner.

One of his products is a bust of Gen. Douglas MacArthur. Shimo used three photographs, a front view and two profiles, and it took him three weeks to complete the model.

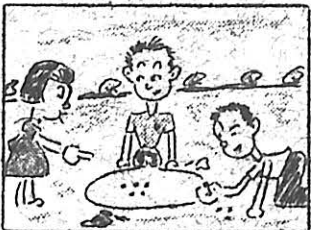

His soap silhouettes are unique. Using a pocket knife, he hollows out a bar of soap so that a clean-out silhouette profile of a person appears when the soap bar is placed against a strong light.—by Yuk Kimura.

Marble Entry Date Extended

The deadline for entries in the Cub Scout marble tournament has been extended to tomorrow, 11 a.m., it was said by the Cub headquarters today.

The three classes are for boys 11 years old and under, boys 12 years old and over and all girls.

Yas Hara, Cub recreation director, announced that the tourney will be run off in front of the Boy Scout campsite.

Cubs To Sponsor Kite Contest

A kite contest will be sponsored by the Cub Scouts Aug. 8 at the Anita Chiquita field, 1:30 p.m.

The judging will be based upon construction, originality, appearance, time to get kites 250 feet into the air and stunts.

No kits will be allowed, the Cub officials said. The sizes of the kites are unlimited but they must be constructed by the entrant.

The deadline for entries has been set for 11 a.m. Aug. 8.

PACEMAKER BUILDING -- Phone: 63

We are always puzzled when the audience laughs at Grofe's 'On the Trail' movement from his 'Grand Canyon Suite' as it did at the last music appreciation hour.

We are never sure whether the audience's risibilities are aroused by the sheer artistry of Grofe in depicting burros plodding along the trail or whether it is the ubiquitousness of modern radio advertising. We almost said 'radio vulgarity' but we smoke that brand ourselves.

Just like Esquire

Even modesty does not keep us from mentioning the article on assembly centers in the July 18th number of Business Week. In the accompanying picture, the artist bending over the mimeoscope is not our Art editor before he got a haircut but Eunice Yokota who doubled in the absence of the Art editor.

Cheesecake is cheesecake, even in Business Week.

Dunce cap

The following item from Herb Caen's column in the San Francisco Chronicle does not remind us of our school days, but we print it as an excuse to get on to what we want to say:

'A teacher reports, rather gleefully, that after the last Japanese school kid in her class was evacuated, one of her white students sighed; "Now maybe we can get some good grades."'

Anyway, what we wanted to say was that we were invited to the Education social which we declined for fear of being asked to sit in the corner. We remember our teachers always insisted that we do that.

Accolade

The Camp Harmony Newsletter, published by the Puyallup, Washington assembly center, is to be congratulated for showing the greatest improvement in recent weeks. Evacuation has uncovered a refreshing new crop of competent nisei journalists.

Editorial

Allegiance to a Single Belief

In proof of the contention that art is not dictated by the artist's race but by his beliefs, a young nisei evacuee at Puyallup, Washington, has depicted Tojo, Hitler and Mussolini as rats on a war bond poster.

To this artist, Keith Oka, all three are rats and so he portrays them as such about to be crushed by a huge foot on the sole of which is a war stamp.

"We want to get rid of this war and the men who started it," he says. "That's why we do these posters and will do anything to help the United States--our country."

This artist is not a Japanese-American artist--he is an American artist, for his allegiance to America is no more hyphenated than is portrayed in his art.

Rice Is Largest Item of Food

Rice is the largest single item of food consumed by Center residents, according to figures given out by the chief steward at the White mess.

Approximately 6000 pounds or three tons of rice are eaten each week at the White mess alone, it was revealed.

Great amounts of milk are also served. Patrons of the White mess drink 12,600 quarts and 21,000 pints per week.

Six hundred loaves of bread and 100 pounds of butter are served at breakfast every morning. When eggs are on the menu, 940 dozens are distributed.

Meat is also a large item. A single serving takes 750 pounds of hamburger, 550 pounds of pot roast, 1200 pounds of short ribs for beef stew or 500 pounds of bacon.--by Yuk Kimura.
