

ROHWER MOVEMENT ANNOUNCED GRANDSTAND TO CLOSE EFFECTIVE MONDAY

In compliance with Army requests for kitchen equipment to be sent to various relocation projects, the Red Cross in the Grandstand will be closed effective Monday, it was announced today by the administration.

The rest of the Grandstand will also be closed to all except persons on business after Monday as the Army survey team will check the equipment beginning Tuesday.

Tomorrow's supper will be the last meal in the Red Cross, said Edward M. Paulsen, Mess and Lodging director. Prior to the closing of the mess hall, however, Red Cross diners will be given new tickets for other mess halls.

"There will naturally be an over crowding everywhere for a few days," said Paulsen in requesting the residents to cooperate by going to the assigned mess halls.

Red Cross workers will be moved to other mess halls with the same classification at which they are now working, according to Paulsen.

School activities which formerly were held in the Grandstand will be discontinued, the Service division said.

Center To Send 4500 There

Approximately 4000 residents of Santa Anita will be relocated to Rohwer, Ark., beginning Sept. 16, announced the administration.

At the rate of about 500 leaving every other day, the fourth movement will continue until Oct. 6, it was stated.

The fourth movement includes family numbers from 1965 to 2188, 1200 to 1208 and 12,601 to 11,001. They were evacuated from stations in Lawndale, Inglewood and southeastern Los Angeles. The first two entered the Center on April 13 and 14 while the last group was inducted May 8 and 9.

The schedule of departures for the fourth movement will be identical with the second and third movements. Breakfast will be at 7 a.m. with the train leaving around 8:30 a.m.

Between Sept. 16 and Oct. 28, the Granada and Rohwer movements will have alternating departures for 10 consecutive days.

There will be a total of nine departures in the fourth movement to Rohwer, Ark.

GRANADA EVACUEES NOTIFIED

All Santa Anita residents who are scheduled to go to the Granada, Colo., relocation project have been notified, announced R. E. Scofield, evacuation coordinator, today.

Persons whose family project will leave Thursday, numbers are among those going to Granada and who have not received notices as yet are asked to go to their Information offices.

The first contingent to the Colorado relocation project will leave Thursday.

WRA FIELD OFFICE AIDS RESIDENTS

To assist evacuees in solving problems left pending at the time of original evacuation, W. War Relocation Authority field office has been opened in Room 205, 1031 South Broadway, Los Angeles.

The territory covered is south of San Luis Obispo county and includes all of Southern California and the state of Arizona. The field office is in charge of L. F. Sloan, Commercial Property Supervisor, and Harry E. Oakley, in charge of the Farming and Agriculture Department.

Sloan was formerly associated with the Evacuation Property department of the Federal Reserve bank in San Francisco while Oakley was connected with the US Department of Agriculture.

The field office has been set up to:

- Aid in problems of management, operation and disposition of real and personal property.
- Aid in settling claims held by or against evacuees.
- Assist prospective purchasers of homes in contacting evacuees.

- Act in advisory or investigating capacity or as intermediary in negotiations between evacuees and other interested persons in all business matters.
- Help in the litigation of various types of business affairs.
- Investigate deals where evacuees have not been paid off on crop mortgages or agreements.

Story of the Week: Description of Granada

Granada, Colo., is to be the goal of 3000 Santa Anita residents when the third relocation movement begins Sept. 17.

Today's Story of the Week is taken from the Meridian, Second Assembly center newspaper which is now defunct.

The Colorado Center is located in high ground about one mile south and west of the fertile Aransas Valley, which at that point is about four miles wide. The district is agricultural and already there are about 2000 acres of land under irrigation, with about 2000 acres more which can be placed under irrigation. The main crops are alfalfa, corn, fruit, and various kinds, cantaloupe and watermelons, carrots, vegetables and sugar beets. Five sugar factories are located at Holly, 11 miles east, and at Laramie, 17 miles west.

The buildings and facilities now being constructed at Granada are considerably more substantial than those here. The government buildings are large and sides. The floors are brick. The typical building is 120 feet in length instead of 100 feet as in the cases here, and each building contains six apartments of various sizes.

There are 12 residence apartment buildings, a recreation hall, a mess hall, and kitchen, and laundry and lavatory facilities in each rectangular block.

Four blocks form a square and compose a ward. Roads are separated by wide areas which serve as recreation areas and firebreaks. There will also be hospitals, schools, churches, warehouses and industrial buildings.

The principal work projects at Granada will, of course, be agricultural. In addition there will be a normal need for employees to do all sorts of community services.

Unique Autograph Books Appear

Almost overnight, hundreds upon hundreds of autograph books have made their appearance in the Center. They are of all sizes and shapes and are usually made of screen paper bound together with a cardboard cover. Most of them are extremely neat and show considerable craftsmanship. Much of the preparation for relocation movements consist of the trading of autographs. "They help to bring back happy memories," say the most rabid of collectors.

Among the most ambitious autograph books is that of the Rev. Jasper Saito who is including all sorts of knicknacks of Center life within the covers of his huge book.

John Ty Saito, popular director of community activities, probably has one of the most extensive collections. He has a special page for each department.

Shigeo Nakata, librarian, bought a book with Bill Bebe on the cover. It was drawn by Chris Ishii who is working overtime these days filling up autograph books with pictures of Bebe and Playwood in various poses.

Community Sing Successful

An enthusiastic group of 1000 Center residents attended Thursday night's songfest in the Recreation hall.

Song leaders were "Tiger" Matsimoto, Jinny Nakamura and Henry Sunakida while Grace Imanoto and June Suzuki were accompanists.

MUNEKATA LEAVES FOR UNIVERSITY

Ryo Munekata will leave the Center tonight to attend the University of Denver, revealed Donald D. McCready, executive assistant.

Munekata lived at 26-6 1/2 1/2 Avenue.

Dance Honors Westsiders

Tonight's dance in front of the Grandstand will honor the western lot Angeles people who will be leaving for Granada, Colo., beginning next week. It was announced by John Ty Saito, Community Activities director.

Benn Takeda will be master of ceremonies for the dance which will last from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m.

Records to be played are from the collection of Jimmy Hirschik.

'Child' of Sylvia Sidney Now a Center Resident

"TINY JAPANESE BABY IS SELECTION OF HOLLYWOOD CHILD EXHIBITS"

"Astounding Talent"

This was a headline in the Los Angeles Examiner 10 years ago.

The story by Edman Hartman said:

"Hollywood's prayer has been answered. It has a prodigy."

"There are prodigies in all other arts and sciences, you know--the 12-year-old violinist who plays Bach; the eight-year-old chess player who handles a dozen opponents at once; the 14-year-old student who graduates from Harvard."

"But the films, until now, never had an infant wonder. It is a source of burning shame."

"The answer to the movies' prayer is a tiny Japanese baby two-years-old who acts, reads his lines of dialogue, knows what a camera is for, and what the whole business is about. His name is Phillip Marimoto."

Today the "prodigy" is a young man of 12 and lives with his parents and two sisters at 80-4 Your Home Avenue.

A typical American boy he is a member of Boy Scout Troop 40. "My favorite hobbies are dancing at halftime," he says, "and I also like checkers."

When asked if he remembers the time Sylvia Sidney carried him in "Madam Butterfly," he replied, "I don't. All I know is what my mother tells me."

Feminine FORUM

Asami Kawachi

In answer to Mean Teacher's advice to the men, we have today a rejoinder from the Girls' Club leaders. --A. K.
(The following article has been used verbatim. --ed.)

By Girls' Club Leaders

Girls, here's how to get the attention of the "man of your dreams" at a social, in four easy lessons, (according to B. T.'s timely tips.)

1. Give the field of "yellow corn" the once-overs. Pick "the man," watch his technique and plan your strategy accordingly.

2. If you don't know the "person", get to know a person who knows the person who knows that "person" and through a gradual process of elimination, get the proper k.d. (knockdown) to him. How to do it? Here's how:

a. If partner No. 1 is a bore, domineering and big-headed, give him some of his own medicine by refusing to be led. You'll surely have another partner for the next dance.

b. (Ah, one person closer.) If partner No. 2 is a willy-nilly person who doesn't know what he is doing, frighten him with a strangle-hold. He'll gladly introduce you to someone else for the next dance.

c. (nearer the goal now) If partner No. 3 is talkative person, keep quiet until an answer is expected and come back with a "huh, what was that?" or "yes, er, I mean, no" response and then rattle off on a different subject. Answer him near the "dreamed" and do your stuff.

d. At last, your "dream man", turn deuce, sweet and quiet as per B. T. Of course, he dances divinely and following him is a "cinch." If you don't get results...

P.S. to B. T. If your "sure fire" method doesn't bring

STUDENTS GRATEFUL

With the opening of the Santa Anita sessions on Aug. 26 in the Grandstand, etc., the high school students of the Santa Anita friendly center, were afforded an opportunity to continue our disrupted education, probably more efficiently conducted classes held the noise and clutter of the Grandstand. In addition to this situation, there were many other students which were overcome only through the individual efforts of our teachers took to us.

It has been through their tireless endeavor that we can credit much of our rapid progress.

In recognition of this progress we wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to a very fine faculty.

Very sincerely yours,
The senior students

SANTA ANITA LIFE DESCRIBED IN ARTICLE

Life at Santa Anita is described in a lively article, "This Isn't Japan," in the Autumn Number of Common Ground, a periodical published by the Common Council for American Unity in New York city.

The author is Mary Ooms, a former resident of the Center, who left for the Heart Mountain relocation project on Sept. 1. She was accompanied by her husband, Frederick Mittwer, and two sons, Edward and Richard.

She writes of bimbo boys and girls walking arm in arm in the customary American way; of the women's ironic humor which they turn to scribble "restricted" messages on dusty windows of occupied barracks. And she says: "They worry down under the surface as to their future status in this country and is also theirs."

WRA Offers Assistance

the WRA is offering every possible assistance to evacuees in settling problems incidental to outside storage of baggage, household goods and personal belongings.

There belongings were stored in government warehouses or in community halls and churches in areas where government warehouses are located, the WRA will pay all shipping charges to the relocation projects.

In cases where belongings were left in residences or garages, the evacuee will have to make arrangements to assemble baggage in central warehouses and bear the expenses of the transfer. It is contemplated that the WRA field office will effect arrangements to assist evacuees in this regard whenever possible.

According to Oakley, the field office is anxious to be advised of the location of privately stored farm equipment such as cultivators and tractors.

Center residents are urged to refer all problems to the Los Angeles WRA field office, by mail, as quickly as possible.

Will and Determination To Do

In an article in the current issue of Common Ground, Robert L. Brown, public relations director at Manzanar, says that "through all the standard pattern of life at Manzanar, however, runs the river of doubt -- the fear of the future."

To us at Santa Anita who are only now entering the second phase of the evacuation, relocation and rehabilitation program, the immediate questions concerning relocation are of paramount importance.

It may be wise, however, to be constantly reminded that relocation, as we face it today, is but a temporary interlude. And because it is temporary, the necessary corollary of the future arises.

One of the dangers of the relocation program, says Mr. Brown, is the "danger of paternalism."

"Call it what you will (he concludes), it cannot be denied that the very protection afforded the 120,000 evacuees in a time of war, in the manner in which it is accomplished today, will isolate those people from the realities of everyday existence...."

"A sick man who has been in bed for a year has to learn to walk all over again.... Perhaps the answer lies in keeping the patient on his feet -- to let him walk enough each day never to forget how. This is an important part of the federal government's program in working toward self-sufficing and self-governing communities for evacuees, where there is useful work to do -- work in the development of natural resources which will keep skills in good trim and provide opportunity for the young to develop useful arts and crafts."

It must be pointed out here that whereas the government's program may be doctor, nurse, family and friend to the patient in his attempt to learn to walk all over again, the patient's will and determination to do so is the first and absolute necessity.

WHAT'S NEW,
EXHIBITS
AND SHOWS

With FUDIE SHIMANO

With vague thoughts beginning to prepare packing in view of our imminent evacuation to parts still unknown, we made a tentative inventory over our belongings. We were not surprised to find that we have at least four times as much stuff as we came in with.

But we still don't remember when we acquired the two hard-boiled eggs, last summer's Sears, Roebuck catalog and a transfer for a San Francisco streetcar which we find on our desk. Fun for all?

The other night while we were busy in our office getting out this issue of the PACEMAKER, we were visited by hordes of Red Cross workers in search of odd things like horseshoes, whiskey flasks and coke bottles. We have plenty of the first two items but we haven't seen a coke bottle since we quit drinking Cuba Libre (remember?).

All this leading up to our wondering whether the Rec workers, in their scavenger hunt, might not have done a worthier thing by amusing others.

Bliss

The many empty barracks facing us from across the way makes the Center look more and more like its early days when only the stable area was in use...and not all the stables.

But unlike in our early days here, we look at everything with jaded eyes.

That man again

Readers of Coronet and Life magazines and the PACEMAKER might be interested in the following bit of information:

Chris Ishii was working on the Disney educational short, 'Stop That Tank,' (featured in the September Coronet and in a recent issue of Life) at the time of his evacuation here.

The short was for the Canadian government and describes in detail the working of their new anti-tank gun.
