FAIR PRACTICE BILL INTRODUCED

Springsfield, Ill.—A fair employment practice act was introduced in the Senate at the insistence by George D. Miller (R) of Chicago to prohibit discrimination in employment because of race, color, religion, national origin or ancestry.

Labor unions would be prohibited from refusing membership to persons for the same reason.

In both houses five full-time members to be appointed by the governor would be created and empowered to hear complaints, with resort to Circuit courts for enforcements of its decisions.

PAY VISITORS' CHARGES

Members of the armed forces on furlough in the WRA center are considered authorized visitors, but they will have to pay visitors' charges for the period of their stay, according to a report from Washington, D.C.

On The Other Hand—

By Roy M. Takeno

ABOLISH IT? HOW?

A number of states, including Colorado, are fingered the ideal embodied in the bill. The bill has been introduced in Congress. Perhaps New York will offer a fair testing ground for this proposal embodied in the Ives-Quinn anti-discrimination bill.

The class of views on the merits and demerits of this bill among the States has not resolved to a fairly reasonably clear-cut denominator. Proponents of the bill, include labor groups, both Democratic and Republican party elements and Governor Dewey, who established commission to study the problem and to draft a curative measure.

The proponents feel that by establishing a quasi-judicial body to receive, pass on cases of labor discrimination, non-Caucasian workers will get something like a reasonable chance to get equal jobs on equal footing with Caucasians.

Opponents of the bill feel that it is impossible to destroy prejudice and discrimination by law; and that it is far wiser to rely on the force of slow but steadily growing public opinion guided under the leadership of fair-minded leaders to bring about a change in the public mind regardless of race, color, creed and national origin. To quote an opponent of the bill.

Emergency Relief Aid Ready For Soldiers

Washington, D. C.—Army Emergency Relief has made its second annual contribution to WRA, point up the operation of its special funds to assist nisei service men and their dependents in critical emergencies.

The AER is a private corporation, organized in 1933, which receives no money from the government. It gives emergency financial assistance to army personnel to supplement assistance to service men's dependents given by the Red Cross.

DECLARIES DIVIDEND

Salt Lake City—JACL Credit Union last week declared its first dividend since it began sixteen months ago. It will be announced here by Hiko Okada, treasurer.

The dividend, amounting to one percent, was declared by the board of directors meeting on Feb. 2 at the JACL.

The Credit Union had 143 members, as of January 31, with a total savings of $26,247. Okada reported. Loans to date have amounted to over $7,100, with loans outstanding at the present time amounting to $3,317.

The board of directors also moved to purchase $3,000 in U. S. war bonds.
