Sacramento, Cal.—Social Welfare Director C. M. Wollenberg said yesterday that the return of Japanese to the West Coast is presenting him with a department with "serious social and medical problems" as well as perplexing policy questions in administration of the civilian war assistance program.

On The Other Hand—

By Roy M. Takano

THE "SQUEEZE PLAY" "If some one plugs me, I'll just have to get plugged."

With this determination and grit and lead in his pants, Frank Ozaki of Fowler, Cal., announced his grim desire to remain put this time on his ranch despite threats.

One phase of the evacuees' return to the coast which plagues them as well as the WRA is the problem in some communities where, the New York Times reports, "an economic squeeze" is being exerted to force niseis to abandon their properties and not return to their former homes.

Right Of Evacuees To Stay In Camp Stressed

The Christian Century publication in its recent editorial that no Japanese American should be forced to leave WRA camps before the war's end or before he freely chooses to go. While approving the general principle of liquidation of wartime agencies as rapidly as possible, the editorial contended that the U. S. has incurred moral responsibilities in this instance which come before all other considerations.

Promise 'Rough Stough'

Santa Ana, Cal.—Nick Nitta told the sheriff's office last week that an unidentified man had visited him, saying that if he did not leave the county, a group of men would return and "pull some rough stuff." Officers arrested Nitta to notify them if the man returned.

MYER TALKS AT EVACUEE CONCLAVE

Salt Lake City—Dillon S. Myer, national director of the WRA, reportedly affirmed the determination of the War Relocation Authority to resettle before Jan. 1, 1946, in an appearance at the all-center evacuee conference at the Y. W. C. A. in Salt Lake City on Feb. 21.

CHARGE LAND LAW UNCONSTITUTIONAL

San Diego, Cal.—That the Supreme Court of the United States may be asked to pass upon the constitutionality of the California Alien Land Law was indicated last Wednesday, when Attorney A. L. Winn and Hugh E. MacBeth of Los Angeles argued in the Superior Court of San Diego County that the California law was unconstitutional, contending that the California law was invalid because it was based upon race prejudice and resulted in racial discrimination.

Deny Anti-Japanese Movement At College

Laramie, Wyo.—"There is no anti-Japanese movement" at the University of Wyoming despite the national publicity received by the Varsity Villagers, a small majority of which instituted an ill-advised attempt to oust two nisei officers holders, George Nagumo, Heart Mountain and student at the university, wrote The Sentinel this week.

"DISLIKE TEACHERS"

Jerome, Idaho—Eight Japanese Americans, 16 and 17 years old, have been charged with malicious destruction of property at the Minidoka Relocation Center at Hunt.
