INERT SAVINGS
To pave the way for rearmament into productivity in the present inert savings of the evacuees is an important task confronting the remaining WRA project residents and the Authority's officials.

For oldsters who have been out of touch with business for four years who haven't a home to go back to on the West Coast, whose sons are in the army but who have some money saved, the resettlement problem one that rests on outside community encouragement and self-initiative.
