ARE ORIENTAL FOODS HIGH PRICED? By complaints from Hawaii that some of the foods processed in this state are being retailed in Hawaii at prices that appeared to be pretty high, a district food price specialist, Mr. Elmer Clark, was delegated by Frank H. Zurich, price executive of OPA. He will study the problem of finding out whether rakkyo, ika shikokara, nori, takuan, etc., are being sold here at prices that are higher than those in his investigation. It is reported that additional conferences will be held here and an investigation will be conducted in San Francisco.

the cost of personal strain and hardship due to longer working hours, difficult living conditions and anxiety about their friends and relatives overseas. While victory is in sight, we know that we must not relax our efforts and that many more months of hard work lie ahead before we achieve final victory over our enemies. "American workers have been asked to work longer hours and longer days but not such long hours as will sap their strength and lessen their productivity."
