Nisei in South Pacific Sends Souvenir to Sister in Chicago

CHICAGO.—The popular column "Chicago Briefs" in the Chicago Sun recently published a picture of Mrs. Jean Kawamoto, former wife of Major Tom Goto, and Gila River, looking at a model P-38 fighter plane which her brother had made from enemy mortar shells in the South Pacific as a souvenir for his sister, Jean Goto. She said her brother, Casey Kawamoto, was inducted in the Army in California before Pearl Harbor and is now on Okinawa.

All members of Casey's family have resettled in Chicago, and they hope it will not be too long before they can join him.

Employed as a stenographer in the Chicago WRA office, Jean treasures the letters Casey has written to the family during the two-and-a-half years he has served in the Pacific theater. When he left for the Navy, Casey wrote that he had participated in two major naval engagements and he "never knew before that life was so dear to him." Occasionally, he talks with prisoners of war, and his comments are interesting.

The Nisei soldiers, fanatical at first, seem mortally ashamed and disgraced over being captured," Casey wrote, "but after we talk with them awhile and reason with them, they become more cooperative as prisoners of war."

Casey with the Nisei and Kibei boys in his unit spent a few months in the Philippines some time ago. "We seldom went anywhere without 'Caucasian soldiers,' he wrote. "Occasionally the Filipinos would come and recognize our uniform and mistake us for the enemy. A well-to-do Filipino family invited us all to their home for dinner, and we had a swell time eating Filipino food. It was the best food I ever ate."

The Nisei soldiers were caught in the Battle of Okinawa, and when they came back to America they began to feel quite at home after the battle, not to know

"We saw General MacArthur, and Joe E. Brown came over and personally shook hands with us. He told us that he had visited the 442nd in Italy and the boys were doing a swell job."

Casey's letters during the last two and a half years have come from many places, including Australia, New Guinea, Port Moresby, Bougainville, Netherlands-East Indies, Mindanao, Iwo Jima, Okinawa.

Jean spends all her spare time outside of office hours working with the Chicago Girls' Service Club, affiliated with the YWCA. The Nisei girls visit wounded soldiers in the hospitals around Chicago, take them Oriental foods and arrange parties and dances every time a large number of Nisei soldiers have a stopover in Chicago. The girls are invited to the USO whenever Nisei soldiers drop in, and in addition, serve as hostesses at the USO every Saturday night.

2 Japanese Quit U.S., Look At 'Em Now

SAN FRANCISCO.—Shinichi Nozaki, and his attractive wife, Fumi, today are sadder but wiser Japanese. Found hiding in a cave in Southern Okinawa, the former operator of an American barbershop, he and his wife Corporal Herbert I. Ross, 31, of San Francisco, that he and his wife had made "a very foolish mistake" when they left America.

They had had a large house in Shizuoka, Japan, before moving to Okinawa last year. He said they had lived in the United States for about 10 years and had been employed as a domestic in New York before he purchased the Ashbury boardwalk concession selling crockery.

Both Nozaki and his wife had been captured by the Japanese on Okinawa because they thought Japan would win the war.

"His Leg Gone and Partly Blind, Nisei Veteran Studies, Hopes"

(The following story comes from the June 10 Des Moines Sunday Register.)

AMES, Ia.—It is hard to see how Kenneth Otagaki, 27, retains his amiable disposition.

Studying animal husbandry at Iowa State college, he is easy to talk to, but his right leg, which he lost in a mine explosion, is still a problem.

—"I'm not about the only way to take life, I guess," he said. He did become pensive while recalling the days when he was amateur athletic union heavyweight wrestling champion and captain of the University of Hawaii wrestling team.

"These days are gone," he signed. "I wish I could reflect them."

Now his mind is on such things as what to look for in judging livestock and hogs.

"I want to know something about cattle so that when they ask me back home, I'll be able to tell them what to do," he said. He had hoped before his injuries to study veterinary medicine "but that's out now."

Professor A. B. Case, his instructor in cattle judging, said he is doing "very satisfactory work."

"He has a wonderful attitude," Case said. "I think when I have observed, the students signed a lot of him."

Otagaki's father and mother were of Japanese birth. His father was a sugar laborer on Oahu, the home island of Honolulu. Kenneth volunteered for the army nine months before Pearl Harbor. And was at Pearl Harbor when the Japanese attacked. Anti-aircraft shell plowed through the roof of his barracks and exploded, three beds away from where he was sleeping.

"It demolished the bed, locker, and everything around there," he said, "but I didn't get a scratch."

He was sent to Africa in 1943 and later landed at Salerno, Italy, where he was captured.

"I was held in a prison camp for 18 months and we fought everyday of that time," he said.

Before his discharge from the hospital and the army, he married a Nisei junior high school teacher of home economics from Hilo, Hawaii. Mrs. Otagaki is keeping house in an apartment here.

"It's still pretty early in the game—after all I've only been here a little over a month—but I'm sure I can get by."

Otagaki, who is 5 feet 4 inches tall and weighs 130 pounds now, follows a policy of acting as though he hadn't been shattered in body by his injuries.

"I want to take the privilege as an American trade-unionist, and a soldier to excoriate the type of worker that refuses to work with a Nisei."

"I'm a short-tempered and a half-witted man, but I'm just as effective that offensive that was the cause of defeat of Nazism at its end. We had fought in the mountains and finally broke through to the Valley."

"All this was made possible because a segment of Japanese Americans has, for the past previous started a diversionary attack on the Ligurian coast."

"These men did not stop to consider what you would do or say. They picked up their weapons and savagely advanced a-

HONOLULU.—American soldiers of Japanese ancestry suffered 2,111 casualties in the European war, an Army compilation showed recently. The total overseas fatalities in Asia and Europe and includes 49 dead in action, 49 died of wounds, 1,651 wounded, 34 missing and six captured.

To the untried committee I say "Blats off!" Make our homes worth coming back down with blight and ignorance."

Former Official At Gila Held

LOS ANGELES.—Indicted by a Federal grand jury in Phoenix on embezzlement charges involving a Southern California Japanese American, Albert F. Chamberlin, 52, formerly evading justice, was arrested at the Gila River Relocation Center and taken into custody last Saturday at Sunset Beach by agents of U. S. Marshal George Rossini.

"Those of us who have had the privilege of fighting alongside the Nisei look upon him as a brother, a comrade who has fought and suffered with us as Americans. We do not ask you to let them work with you. WE DEMAND IT!"

"We have left our homes, our wives and children, our future to allow men like you to start another holocaust in 19 years. Yours is the mentality that breeds Fascism. Too many Americans of Japanese, Irish, Polish, Jewish, Negro and other descent have died to give you the privilege to live in our midsts."
