JACL Will Honor Its Backers

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Aug. 28—Long overdue recognition to those who have rendered outstanding services to the JACL will be featured at the convention banquet of the Tenth National JACL Convention Wednesday evening, Sept. 8, according to Shigeki Ushio, convention chairman.

Instead of the usual farewell banquet, this year's event will be highlighted by the presentation of special jewel-studded JACL pins to those who have contributed most to the growth of the National Organization.

The Past National Presidents, Dr. Thomas T. Yatabe, James Y. Sakamoto, Lt. Col. Walter T. Tsukamoto, Saburo Kido, and Hito Okada, of Chicago, Seattle, Tokyo, Los Angeles, and Salt Lake City, respectively, will receive their pins from the National JACL Queen. Their citations will be read by Dr. Randolph M. Sakada, Chicago, Second National Vice-President.

For outstanding wartime services to the JACL, Mike Masaoka, Telko Ushida Kuroiwa, Larry Tajiri, Marion Tajiri, George Inagaki, Joe Grant Masaoka, Scotty Tsuchiya, Peter Aoki, Saburo Kido, Hito Okada, and Dr. Yatabe will receive pins from Miss Annie Cló Watson, director of the International Institute of San Francisco and a National JACL sponsor.

Masaoka is now in Washington, D. C., where he is the national legislative director of the JACL-ADC. Mrs. Kuroiwa is now in San Francisco. Tajiris are still in Salt Lake City editing the "Pacific Citizen."

Inagaki now operates a nursery in Venice, California, while Joe Masaoka is the West director of the JACL-ADC with offices in San Francisco. Tsuchiya is now in Japan on a buying trip for his art goods store in San Francisco. Aoki is attending the New York school of Social Work in New York City.

Kido is practicing law in Los Angeles; Okada is selling insurance in Salt Lake City; and Dr. Yatabe is practicing dentistry in Chicago.

Citations will be read by Bill Yamauchi, Third National Vice-President of Pocatello, Idaho.

A special committee is considering the various Issei who are to be honored at this Recognition Banquet. These select Issei will be presented their pins by Edward J. Ennis, New York City attorney and chairman of the national Committee for Equality in Naturalization. Their citations will be read by George Inagaki, First National Vice-President.

The Past National Presidents will receive diamond-studded JACL pins and the wartime JACL workers and representative Issei ruby-studded JACL pins.

Nine Girls Seek JACL Queen Title

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Aug. 28 (Special to Northwest Times)—Vying for the title of "Miss JACL of 1948" at the tenth biennial national JACL convention next week will be nine of the most pulchritudinous Nisei queens in the United States.

They are Rose Shiramizu of Denver, Colo., Elsie Yoshida of Ogden, Utah, Junko Yoshimoto of Los Angeles, Calif., Julia Yoshioka of Chicago, Ill., Miyoko Nishi of Venice, Calif., Betty Tominaga of Pocatello, Idaho, Rose Oda of Salt Lake, Utah, Shina Kozai of New York, N. Y., and Helen Kinoshita of Portland, Oreg.

The girl winning the title of "Miss JACL" will be crowned by Governor Herbert B. Maw of Utah at the convention coronation ball which will be held next Saturday, Sept. 4, in the spacious Union building on the University of Utah campus.

Gov. Maw of Utah Will Join In National JACL Conclave

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Aug. 28—Governor Herbert B. Maw of Utah will be the first chief executive of any state to actively participate in any National JACL Convention, Shigeki Ushio, convention chairman, disclosed this morning.

Although ten national conventions have been held since the first one was called in Seattle, Washington, in 1930 to establish a national organization, this forthcoming convention in Salt Lake City, beginning September 4, will be the first in which a governor will take an active part.

Governor Maw, a Democrat seeking a third consecutive term in the State House, is scheduled to address the delegates in person at the opening ceremonies Friday night, Sept. 4.

He will also crown the National JACL Queen at the Coronation Ball that same evening in the beautiful ballroom of the University of Utah Student Union.

FIVE CLOSE TO NISEI ISSUES WILL BE FEATURED ON SPECIAL PANEL AT CITIZENS' PARLEY

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Aug. 28—Five prominent Americans who have been closely identified with the problems of persons of Japanese ancestry in the United States will feature a special panel at the general meeting of the Tenth Biennial National JACL Convention in Salt Lake City, Utah, Tuesday evening, Sept. 7, according to Shigeki Ushio, convention chairman.

Theme of the panel will be "The Nisei Come-Back."

Speakers will be Miss Annie Cló Watson, San Francisco, California; Robert M. Cullum, Washington, D. C.; A. L. Wirin, Los Angeles, California; Edward J. Ennis, New York City; and Dr. Thomas T. Yatabe, Chicago, Illinois.

These speakers will discuss the progress made by the Nisei, under the leadership of the JACL, on the "road back" from the dark days of 1942. They will point out that when evacuation took place the Japanese had reached the lowest estate ever assigned to any minority in American history. They will then indicate just how far Japanese Americans have come since those days of suspicion and hatred.

Miss Watson is a long-time associate of persons of Japanese ancestry. As the director of the International Institute in San Francisco, she has worked with the Japanese community for many years. According to Saburo Kido, immediate past national president, Miss Watson has proved herself to be one of the great friends of the Japanese in the United States.

"Following the outbreak of war, no person helped us more," Kido remembers.

In 1943, Miss Watson obtained a leave of absence from the Institute and became a member of the National Board of the YWCA. A year of the Japanese to West Coast, she returned to her duties at the San Francisco institution. Her topic will be "The California Picture."

Perhaps best known for supervising and editing the Department of the Interior's final report on evacuation, "People in Motion" last year, Cullum served as secretary to the national committee for Equality in Naturalization during the session of Congress. Having worked in close cooperation with national legislative director Mike Masaoka in the nation's capital, he is probably better qualified than any other person to describe "The Washington Scene."

Before he became secretary of the CEN, he served as relocation officer for the War Relocation Authority in the East and the Midwest.

Wirin, national JACL legal counsel, is known as the champion of the rights of Japanese Americans before the United States Supreme Court.

Recognized as one of the outstanding constitutional lawyers in the country, he recently teamed with Dean Acheson, former Undersecretary of State, to successfully argue the Oyama alien land law and the Takahashi alien fishing cases in our highest court.

In summarizing "The Test Cases in the Courts," Wirin will go back to the Yasui, Hirabayashi, Korematsu, and Endo cases in which various phases of General DeWitt's evacuation orders were challenged in the courts.

Ennis was the wartime director of the Enemy Alien Control Unit of the Department of Justice. He was also general counsel for the Immigration and Naturalization Service. His background makes him an authority on the problems of the Japanese in this country.

Now a New York attorney, last year he served as national chairman of the Committee for Equality in Naturalization, a distinguished group of almost 100 Americans who are committed to secure legislation enabling Japanese resident aliens to become American citizens.

He is the only person, other than Masaoka, who has testified at public hearings on every JACL-ADC bill.

Recently, he was retained by the Washington Office of the JACL-ADC as special counsel on evacuation claims.

At present, he is representing the United States government at the International Red Cross meeting in Stockholm to discuss the status of civilian internees in wartime. He plans to fly back to participate in the National JACL Convention.

His subject will be "The Over-All Outlook."

Dr. Yatabe is the first National JACL president. During the war, he toured the East and Midwest under the sponsorship of the JACL and the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace and Freedom to explain the Japanese problems.

When George Inagaki volunteered for military service, he assumed direction of the Midwest Office and developed it into one of the most effective and efficient regional offices in the organization.

Dr. Yatabe will tell "The JACL Story."

N. Y. Times Sees No Vital Need To Bring Tokyo Rose to Trial

A ROSE NAMED IVA
(From the New York Times)

What has occasioned the decision of the Justice Department to bring home after three years the American-born Japanese girl who broadcast to American troops on Radio Tokyo during the war, we don't know.

It apparently took someone a long time to decide that Iva Ikuo Toguri D'Aquino was guilty of treason in her radio activities for the other side during the war.

One thing we do know: that the re-emergence of her name on the front pages will carry the mind of many a Pacific sailor and GI back to the war years when "Tokyo Rose" was as much a part of the day as reveille, general quarters, dirt, boredom and Spam.

Iva Toguri was one of the several English-speaking Japanese women who broadcast to American troops and ships at sea during the war, which one she herself has not fully explained, although she has been quoted as saying that she was the one who often introduced herself as "Little Orphan Annie." That name never took hold.

Several Girls Broadcast
All the women announcers were lumped by the sailors and GIs under the general title of "Tokyo Rose." They had varying programs. They played popular American records. They reported phantom Japanese victories and depressing American losses.

They included just enough "good dope"—that is, correct information —to lend credence to their wider claims. The night of the day the troops landed at Hollandia, "Tokyo Rose" correctly listed the units involved. The same thing happened in the Philippines and the Aleutians.

But if there ever was an exercise in futility, it was the "Tokyo Rose" broadcasts. She made a lot of radio fans, but it can be doubted if she ever convinced a single American he was fighting on the wrong side or in a lost cause. Mostly, the Radio Tokyo broadcasts were just a break in the boredom.

In the closing days of the war, the United States navy cited her for "contributing greatly to the morale" of our armed forces in the Pacific area. The idea of the award was satirical; the citation was close to the truth. Miss Toguri might well cite that citation as part of her defense.

There is little question that the broadcasts were treasonable, if they were not made under duress. The preponderance of evidence, however, is that they were harmless. Permanent exile from the land of her birth would seem to be punishment enough.

Solons Endorse Chest Drive

An unusual joint endorsement of the Seattle-King County Chest campaign—"because it truly represents the finest expression of the democratic ideal" is contained in a letter from Senators Warren G. Magnuson and Harry P. Cain released locally today by L. A. Williams, campaign chairman.

Emphasizing the fact that Seattle has become one of the nation's leading cities in recent years, the Senators declared that, because of the growth in size, there comes a corresponding increase in the social needs of the community which must be met.

Wed On Alcatraz

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF.—(Soundphoto)—Mr. and Mrs. Serris D. Panter cut their wedding cake after their marriage on Alcatraz Island. It is the first wedding on the island since it became a federal prison in 1934. The bride, the former Phyllis Davis, is the daughter of the lighthouse keeper on the island. The groom is a Utah Agriculture College football player. The nuptials were held in the guards' recreation hall with some 200 guests and officials present.

New Names Delay Renunciant Cases

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Aug. 28—Addition of 2000 more names to the list of Japanese American renunciant now seeking to regain full U. S. citizenship rights in a suit now in the federal courts here will delay the successful conclusion of the case for some 3500 persons for four months.

The original group of 2700, plus the 800 added before July 28 after favorable judgment in the case here was scheduled to have its full citizenship rights within two weeks.

However, following the addition of the new group another 120-day period was granted the U. S. government to review these 2,000 names.

Extension Granted

The ruling was made by Federal Judge Louis E. Goodman here this week after Asst. U. S. Attorney Robert B. McMillan objected to the inclusion of the new names in the suit.

Judge Goodman, however, ruled that they could be added to the original list of persons whom he had previously declared rights since the renunciation was made under "duress."

One local paper pointed out that the additional time granted will prevent the 3500 renunciant from a chance to vote in the November presidential election as it will be after Jan. 1 that Judge Goodman's restoration order becomes final.

Chef's Triumph

Open several cans of spaghetti and meatballs and you, too, will rate tops with the gang. Just pour the contents of the cans into a saucepan, heat and serve the crowd seconds and thirds. This popular dish saves work and money, too. It's spaghetti combined with a hot, sauced sauce and pure beef meatballs blended with the master touch of an Italian chef.

Nursing Courses Begin Sept. 18

"HOUSING"
SOUNDS GOOD
By GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

PUBLIC HOUSING proposals, like so many other measures that would take America 'way down the road to Socialism, come up in nearly every session of Congress. A government housing program, known as the Taft-Elliender-Wagner bill, found enough support in the recent Congress to get through the Senate. It failed in the House. Bills of this type have at least nine lives, and you can expect to see more of them later.

It sounds good to nearly everybody to say that "low-income" families are entitled to housing. When the real issues are all clouded up with emotion and sentimentalism, there are some who will vote "yes" without taking the trouble to get down to facts. I, too, favor "housing." Housing is essential for everybody. But I am also aware that the needy, the unemployable, the very lowest paid workers, do not get into public housing projects.

What Is FROM ALL reports, the situation in New York State is typical. The law states that a family earning more than $1,700 cannot qualify there for an apartment. Yet, half the families in the project have incomes above the minimum, some up to $8,000. Only a very few destitute families ever get into government housing. They cannot pay the high maintenance and operating costs. Even government rents are too high for them.

I say these things to shed light on the arguments of the planners, who dote on the goodness of the government. Their sentimental propaganda serves no purpose but to mislead. The T-E-W bill promised to build homes for "low-income" families. Perhaps there are 10 million, 20 million, or maybe 30 million. What's the measuring stick for a "low-income" family? Who would decide about this? And where would they be put up?

A JOINT committee of the 80th Congress found that the Federal Public Housing Authority, ever with a "dormant" program, employed 6,571 persons and used up a budget of more than $11,000,000 a year. A major part of FPHA's activities were devoted to creating a desire on the part of the public to depend completely upon a benevolent government. Nor has the FPHA overlooked its opportunities to set up systems of political patronage.

The T-E-W bill calls for 500,000 units of housing over the next five years. Despite the tremendous cost of $7 billion, this amount would not even begin to satisfy all the "low-income" families. But it would be enough to satisfy many a politician. Think of the possibilities for keeping the party vote in line. Why couldn't the government projects be put up where they would bring in the vote?

Despite all these dangers, the sorry part is that public housing can give us no expanded production of materials, no additional skilled construction workers. In short, it cannot relieve the housing shortage. Besides real discouragement to more private housing construction, the government would extend its powers over all the people through public housing. We must not be fooled this way into accepting Socialism.

In the B Flight fray, Masahisa "Mush" Kuroiwa, Beacon Cleaners' bossman, turned out to be ringer dinger as he added a 89 (8 under par with 25 handicap) to his morning 98 to finish 5-11 strokes ahead of "Doc" Nakamura.

NATATOR SMITH 'PAYS IN FULL' IN LONDON SWIM

Honolulu, Hawaii, Aug. 28—Islanders wrote the account "paid in full" when Malolo Bill Smith, the Hawaiian flying fish, flashed to a new 100 meter freestyle Olympic record in London's Empire pool.

Smith's backers chipped in nearly $5000 to send his old coach, Soichi Sakamoto, to the Olympic Games. They did it for one purpose, to give Sakamoto a chance to see his brightest star win an Olympic race.

Years ago, Sakamoto, then a grammar school teacher, took Bill into his home while he developed the young swimmer. They lived and ate and worked together.

Under Sakamoto's guidance and later at Ohio State, Smith shattered virtually every middle distance record. He was a great Olympic prospect. But there were no Games.

Instead, there was a war. Smith lost some of his blazing speed. In 1946 and 1947 an Akron, Ohio, youngster named McLane finished ahead of him in the national AAU meets. McLane won at Smith's specialty, the 400 meter race.

Bill dropped out of Ohio State in midyear last year, to come home and train under his old mentor.

Things didn't look so good when McLane beat Smith again, at the Detroit Olympic tryouts. But when the chips were down, Big Bill had it. He churned the 400 meters in 4:41, finishing ahead of McLane and breaking Jack Medina's mark of 4:45 set 12 years ago.

Sakamoto, assistant U. S. swimming coach at Olympic Games, returned this week to Hawaii.

Risshos to Hold Skating Party

Nichiren Buddhist Church's Rissho members will have their pre-Labor Day skatefest on 11 p. m. to 1 a. m. next Thursday, Sept. 2, at Rollerland Rink.

Those wishing transportation must contact the church by telephone, CA. 9917, before Wednesday, Sept. 1.

There are few defects in our nature so glaring as not to be veiled from observation by politeness and good-breeding.—Stanislaus.

Seven teams, with the possibility of an eighth, will be entered this fall in the City Merchants league in Main Bowl, according to Fred Takagi, manager.

They are Seventh Ave. Service, Tad's Gardening, Jackson Grocery, Kashiwagi Kubs, Richard's Jewelry, O. K. Cafe and Bill Yamasaki's (no sponsors yet).

The merchants this season will roll from 9 p. m. on Thursdays, starting Sept. 9 and ending April 21. Thanksgiving Day will be omitted from their schedule.

Their league will observe the following rules: handicap will be based on three-fourth of 180, the maximum handicap per man will be 30, the dummy score will be 130, the four-point win system (total pins) will prevail, all bowlers will play scratch the first two weeks, all substitutes must bowl three games scratch before their handicap is set, and all tardy players must be ready to bowl before the beginning of the fourth frame.

The cost of bowling per night in league play will be $1.50 per man. The sponsor will be asked to put up a ten dollar entry fee for prize fund. The first and second-place winners' sponsors will receive trophies.

To become eligible for season-end prizes, a bowler must have rolled two-thirds of his team's total games. No regular member of the Nisei Commercial league will be eligible for any prizes in the City Merchants circuit.

'For Me'

It Was Another Love

A STORY BY MARILOO
"Emiko has died. How shall I live without her. To know that I shall no longer see her caressing the blooms in my orchard; to know that I shall no longer hear her gentle voice. She loved that orchard as much as I did. I loved it so much; it was for me another love."

I wonder what he was thinking of when he wrote thus to me. Satosan will miss her very much. Life has seemed so cruel to him and yet to whom has it not?

Another love? I wonder if he meant Chitosan. When he talked of her he used to smile so warmly. His whole body seemed to be bubbling with all the world's gayest songs, but when he sang

Tate ba shaku yaku
suware ba botan,
Ayumu sugata wa
Yuri no hana

I knew that he was going to see her.

"Lil sis," he used to say, "a flower is much like a woman—beautiful to behold and yet forever a remembrance."

I did not know when he first courted Chitosan but I heard about her many times.

Satosan used to sit on our front porch and tell me about "his flower." He used to be checker for the lumber company where my father worked, and on Sundays he used to come over for tea.

I remember not understanding too well all he used to tell me but I looked forward to his bringing me the multicolored ribbons and sometimes a strawberry cone.

He always called me "lil sis" and I liked it. I was only a pigtailed junior then.

I remember one Friday well. He was very quiet. All the happiness in his eyes burned afresh and yet he sat on our porch just smoking for hours.

On Saturday, Satosan was almost killed. I was ill when I heard about it. Father and mother spent the whole day at the hospital, and the day was like a lifetime to me. I prayed very hard and somehow I knew that God would not take such a good man away.

When he got better, I visited him at the hospital every day. He stayed there for a long time and yet in all that time he never talked very much. I always felt he was only being polite when he tried to talk to me and I noticed his eyes were always looking very far away.

When he left the hospital he moved away to a small farming village and neither father nor I heard from him.

It was only through gossip at many afternoon teas that I was able to piece together the story of the accident.

They said he had intended to "pop the question" Saturday night. That morning he was so happy that people on the docks wondered if he would take time at noon to stop singing so he could eat.

Chitosan's father was timekeeper on the wharf, I never met him but understood that he was quite elderly, very conservative, and looked for some "Kanashin Nisei" to marry his daughter. He did not approve of the too "American" Satokun.

When he heard the men teasing Satosan that morning and gathered what was in the wind, they said he threw the books on the desk, rushed out of the office and with arms akimbo shouted at Satosan: "Satokun, Chitose wa kurenai kara ne" (you may not have my daughter, Sato).

They described the hush on the wharf as ghostly. Satosan said nothing. He continued to work aimlessly.

The lumber seemed to float by him and he did not seem to hear anybody call him. He didn't see the chain break on the last load. Some said he never made any effort to move away when he realized perhaps too late that he was in danger.

One year later I received my first letter from him. "Each bloom in my orchard reminds me of her. The sweetness of its perfume, the tenderness of each petal and its graceful flutter in the wind brings back memories. I sometimes even see her. Does God replace lost beauty with other beauty to heal a wound?"

I cried much then.

Five years later he wrote that he was marrying Emiko. "You would like her," he wrote. "She loves the orchard as I do. Beauty is not lasting but I have found there is another beauty that lasts forever and I love her very much."

Today I received his letter telling me of Emiko's death and as I read his letter again and again I believe he is not bitter.

"It would have been cruel to have asked God to leave her with me. She would have suffered so much from pain. Just as I shelter my blossoms from the sharp wrenching blasts of late frost, so God has sheltered my blossom."

He will live through his life somehow although it will be like a sad legend.

There's Some Hope For Short Persons

TOKYO, Aug. 28—Japanese scientists have with some early success made short people taller by grafting pituitary gland tissue from cows to the thighs of the patients in Kyushu hospital.

Following operations performed on forty-five patients averaging 20 years of age, growth of 4 to 8 of an inch in a month was reported by the researchers.

In one spectacular case, a man grew nearly three inches in four months and his mental activity increased, according to the scientists.

That substance from the pituitary can control growth especially in the young has been established by Dr. Herbert M. Evans and Dr. C. H. Li of the University of California. Phenomenal growth in rats has been caused by giving extracts from animal pituitary and growth stopped with another pituitary extract.

MARTIN PLANE WILL BE USED BY NORTHWEST

Effective with schedules beginning September 1, all Northwest Airlines routes formerly flown by the 21-passenger DC-3 will be operated with the 36-passenger Martin 2-0-2, Frank C. Judd, western region vice-president of the airline, announced today.

The 2-0-2, with 50% greater cruising speed, has made possible addition of numerous intermediate stops on many flights, Judd pointed out, while still decreasing total flight time between terminals.

Northwest began operations on certain flights with the new aircraft this spring. First results in actual operation were so good that the order was increased and the plane put on all domestic routes except the long flights served by the four-engine DC-4 ships.

Two DC-3's will be retained by the airline, one for the Chicago-Minneapolis all-cargo flight and one for pilot checking purposes. Both will be based at Minneapolis.
