Seattle Area X-Ray Units Will Invade Schools, Colleges Starting Sept. 30

X-ray units will move into Seattle high schools and colleges beginning Thursday, Sept. 30, to offer students an opportunity to participate in the Seattle Area Chest X-ray Program, Mrs. Morris D. Kennedy school committee chairman, announced today.

Seattle University will be the first school to be serviced by an X-ray unit, Sept. 30, Oct. 1, 4-6. Following are Lakeside School and St. Euphrasia, Oct. 1; Franklin High School, Oct. 4; 5; Roosevelt High School, Oct. 4-6; O'Dea School, Oct. 4; Seattle Prep and Forest Ridge, Oct. 5.

Others include Holy Names and Immaculate, Oct. 6; St. Nicholas, Helen Bush and Holy Angels, Oct. 7; Holy Rosary, Oct. 8; West Seattle High School, Oct. 6-8; Lincoln High School, Oct. 7, 8; Cleveland, Oct. 11; and Queen Anne High School, Oct. 14, 15.

Three X-ray units have been assigned to the University of Washington to X-ray students between Oct. 18-30. Seattle Pacific College and business colleges will be X-rayed in November.

"This fast-tempo X-ray program is an all-out attack on tuberculosis. If every student would have his chest X-rayed, we would have a complete picture of the tuberculosis problem in that group," she explained.

Tuberculosis is one of the great robbers of lives among high school and college students. It is the first cause of death among those 15 to 45 years of age, Mrs. Kennedy said. It is a needless loss of life because tuberculosis is preventable and curable.

"X-ray finds tuberculosis in the early stages when there are no symptoms. It is when tuberculosis is discovered early that the chances for recovery are the greatest," she added.

The X-rays are free, paid for by Christmas Seals and tax funds.

Members of the school committee are Mrs. Meritt E. Benson, Ernest Campbell, Dr. Arthur Wade, the Rev. Phillip Duffy, the Rev. William J. Codd, Herbert Phillips and Dr. Charles Lester.

A map does not exhibit a more distinct view of the situation and boundaries of every country than its news does a picture of the genius and morals of its inhabitants.

Brines Depicts 'MacArthur's Japan' In Book Due to be Out Sept. 29

Russell Brines, chief of Tokyo Bureau, Associated Press, provides the first comprehensive on-the-scene survey of our occupation of Japan in new book, "MacArthur's Japan," to be published by Lippincott next Wednesday, Sept. 29.

A qualified, trained observer who served as correspondent during the late thirties in Honolulu, Manila, and Tokyo and knew General MacArthur personally before the war, Brines pulls no punches in his discussion of the occupation and its techniques, of war trials, inflation and black markets, of reparations, political parties, and government, of atomized cities and the people who continue to live in them. Brines was with MacArthur in the famous surrender ceremonies aboard the Missouri, and now draws a sharp profile of the general and his administration of the conquered country.

He has remained in Japan since the first day of occupation, with the exception of a trip to Korea, China, Philippines, and Guam.

Brines, during the course of directing coverage of events in post-war Japan, has become acquainted with most of the leading Japanese officials, including all prime ministers to date, and broke the first story of Tojo's suicide attempt.

At the outbreak of war, Brines, his wife, and daughter were captured in Manila and interned for 22 months in Santo Tomas camp before being repatriated to U.S. During time at home, Brines wrote "Until They Eat Stones" (Lippincott) a survey of Japan's temporary wartime empire. He then returned to war correspondent duties with Associated Press, during the course of which he covered battles of Luzon, Manila, Mindanao, and Balikpapan. He was in the field with almost every division in the Southwest Pacific theatre, and took part in operations with navy and air corps. He covered the rescue of prisoners from Sabantuan, San to Tomas, Bilbid prison, and Los Banos and wrote one of the last eye-witness battle stories of the war at Baguio ridge after the atomic bomb had fallen in Hiroshima. Brines accompanied an advance echelon of MacArthur's headquarters to Japan on Aug. 30, 1945, and was one of the first Americans to arrive in Tokyo.

You will find it less easy to uproot faults, than to choke them off gaining virtues.—Ruskin

Outbreak of World War II halted completion of the auditorium which was occupied by the U.S. Maritime Commission during the war period. The basement of the auditorium served as a storeroom for the evacuees' belongings until the occupation.

This Week in History

September 19-25
By the Editors of the World Book Encyclopedia

On the morning of September 25, 1513...435 years ago this week...a little company of Spanish adventurers and explorers led by Vasco Nunez de Balboa came out of the jungles of Darien on the Isthmus of Panama and saw before them the summit of a low mountain. With a few of his men Balboa plodded slowly forward until they had ascended the peak. Below they saw a great body of water which they took possession of in the name of Spain and called the South Sea. It remained for Ferdinand Magellan to give the South Sea the name by which we now know it—the Pacific Ocean.

Let him that would move the world, first move himself.—Socrates.

Wyoming School Marm to Teach Youths Of Japan Occupational Force Personnel

Alice Rodd wanted to be sure she made it to school on time for her new teaching job.

So attractive Miss Rodd briskly packed her trunks and bags and within a short time after she had received her assignment to teach in the Tokyo-American Occupational Forces Schools she was on a Northwest Airlines plane bound from Seattle for Japan—5,000 air miles away.

She was due to arrive in Tokyo in plenty of time for the first bell last Monday, September 21, the first day of school for American youngsters there.

Speaking of her assignment, which applies for one year, she said, "I'm fascinated by it all. I know it will be interesting simply because it's so new and different. It will really involve history in the making."

"But things aren't going to be too convenient," she conceded. She mentioned Japan's poor roads and explained that she was taking along an ample shoe supply—extra pairs of walking shoes, as well as rubber boots and a pair of wooden shower clogs.

"There are many conditions which the Occupational Force teachers must adjust to in Japan," she stated that supplies, for one thing, were not adequate because of the newness of the project.

Army men in Japan pioneered the schools as a means of keeping their families intact. The first step involved organizing a Parent-Teacher Association and the troops employed in many money-raising schemes, including rummage sales, to help pay the teachers' salaries. When the enrollment increased sufficiently, the War Department took charge. American teachers have since been hired through Civil Service application.

Miss Rodd will teach lower grades in her new assignment. She formerly taught elementary grades in the Laramie, Wyoming, public schools. She has recently been living in Santa Monica, Calif.

One principal point of good-breeding is to suit our behavior to the three several degrees of men—our superiors, our equals, and those below us.—Swift.

BACK AGAIN

Well, folks, having had a full three weeks' absence from the pages of your favorite newspaper, it's high time we got back into public print with the news and comments which we hope will prove of interest to all ex-GI's and friends. Incidentally, we had a swell vacation, from which we needed only a few days of rest in order to get back to normal. It was swell while it lasted, anyhow!

THIS 'N' THAT

On the matrimonial front, we find that we have a bit of catching up to do. DON KAZAMA, HEAT HEYAMOTO, and BILL YANAGIMACHI are recent newlyweds, having given up bachelorhood for double-harness. Ditto for TED KARIKOMI, former Seattleite now in Chicago. FLOYD YAMAMOTO of Spokane, a graduate of the U. W. with a degree in aeronautical engineering, is now employed at Boeing's. A note to the girls: he's still single and in circulation. Former Minneapolis resident HARVEY WATANABE is another yet now working at the Boeing plant. Harvey plans to buy a home in Seattle and settle down with his wife and baby daughter. We understand that KELLY SUGURO is very much in favor of Madison, Wisconsin, and everything that's in the town—and not just because of the recent Life magazine article either. HARRY KUMAKURA is now learning watching making at Elgin, Illinois. He expects the course will take about a year to complete. Ran into former Seattleite KAUN ONODERA in Spokane, looking fine and always hard at work. If you want to see him, drop in at the Mandarin Cafe, a Chinese eatery in the Inland Empire city. It looks very much as though the Kashiwagi bowling team of the Merchants League stole a top-notch kegler from the higher-class Commercial League in the person of BEN SUGUWARA. In the first two weeks of play, Ben has smacked the pins for series of 528 and 601, and now paces the Merchants' loop with an average of 187. His big series was the first 600 of the season for the Merchants League. Is it luck or is it skill? 1947: DUFFY KIOHARA wins hot-water heater in Teamsters' Fishing Derby, 1948: Duffy snags a 5-horse klicker in the same contest, with a salmon weighing 20 pounds plus.

PROGNOSTICATION

We just love to crawl out on a limb, and with the opening of the football season in Seattle, the temptation is too much to resist. While other conference schools opened their seasons with the likes of Utah, San Jose State, and Santa Clara, the University of Washington Huskies will start out with the hairy-chested men of Minnesota.

Much as we'd like to see the Huskies take their first game in six starts against the Gophers, logic compels us to pick the Minnesotans, who rate one-two this year in the tough Big Nine. If the Washington sophomores make a creditable showing in their initial varsity game, the coaches, who are building for next year, ought to be content.

Our predicted score: Minnesota 20, Washington 7. But don't hock the family jewels, as there's a remote possibility of a big upset here.

Striking Facts about Main Bowl Classic

... Bill Leftwich, the grand ol' man with the visor who walked off with top $150 prize, taught the house's Morrie Yamaguchi how to bowl... the smooth-tossing young comer on the second shift was Eddie Johnson who hails from University Bowl... the manner in which the colorful men of Cook's U Drive pulled for teammate Doc Maczen as he threatened to shove Leftwich off the number one moola list surely was pleasant to watch... sudden loss of his footwork in one game, cost Josie Razzore a fine opportunity of being among the first five cash winners... Tacoma's Ted Tadich had the delivery but Bill Vosper of Empire Bowl had the zip in the dark nugget... you can't keep a good money bowler out, and that was obvious when George Kosmos rang up 267 in the final game, smilingly asking "how many more games do we bowl" after each thundering strike... it was quite a disappointment, indeed, to note that not a single Nisei bowler was in the tournament, although Frank Russo of Over the Top Beverage had assured Tak Shibuya and Pruney Tsui he would sponsor them—it was too late!... Carl Deetkin, popular major leaguer, had a "salty" 520-plus before he roared back with a thumping 900-plus in the final four...

50 JAPANESE QUALIFY FOR SALMON FINALS

More than fifty Japanese anglers will be among the 1,200 qualifiers who will be eyeing the 50 prizes in the City Salmon Derby this Sunday, Sept. 26.

The derby, sponsored by the Seattle Times, will have 1948 Dodge automobiles as the top five prizes. Last year, Kaz Kimura was crowned city champion with his king salmon weighing 37 lbs. 10 ounces.

With the third and final qualifying period set to close tomorrow at sunset, M. Yamamoto, 681 S. W. 113th, landed on the derby ladder last weekend with his 14 pounds 1 ounce fish. His catch is displayed at Hal Neimeyer's.

Yorozu May Open Casaba Clinic

Probable formation of five cage circuits—AA, A, B, C and girls—was hinted today by Henry Yorozu of the Nisei Veterans Committee.

Yorozu, who was named by NVC to be basketball chief for the '48-'49 season, told THE NORTHWEST TIMES that he is very much interested in "getting the younger kids to play ball".

"We're trying to secure Gene Boyd of Collins fieldhouse to operate a basketball clinic to teach the youngsters the fundamentals of basketball," Yorozu said.

By limiting the players' list, Yorozu hopes to encourage more teams for the coming year.

HATTORI FIVE, WEST COAST IN FEATURE TILT

Frank Hattori's Realty versus West Coast Printing will be the number one dish in the City Merchants league bowling menu this Thursday, Sept. 23, in Main Bowl. The two squads are deadlocked at the top of the CML standings with seven triumphs and one loss.

Much-feared Kashiwagi Cubs take on Tad's Gardening, Seventh Ave. Service tackles Richard's Jewelry, and Jackson Grocery bumps into O.K. Cafe.

Durst was commissioned a Ranger in 1918, serving on the Texas border patrol. He joined the refinery guard force immediately after Pearl Harbor. A protection system, only slightly relaxed from that used in wartime, is still maintained at this refinery, country's largest in point of production, to safeguard petroleum resources so critical to both the national defense and economy.

Sweet Young Thing Married for Money But Old Man Lived a Bit Too Long

Tokyo, Japan. In the little town of Nishi Kiga, by the waters of Hamanako Lake, we heard the sad tale of a greedy little geisha who finally got what she wanted but too, too late.

The girl, a sweet young thing of 20 summers, married for money. She became the bride of a wealthy and apparently doddering old man over 60 years old.

The old guy would cash in in a short while. She would then gain title to all his wealth and marry a younger sweetheart. This is what the geisha thought.

Fate, however, is unpredictable. While the scheming woman waited patiently for the old man's death, the days passed into years. Five, 10, 15 and many more years passed, but her old husband, a doctor by profession, lived on.

When he finally died, he had passed the century mark and by then she was over 60.

Still living today near Hamanako, she is now over 80 years old. Hundreds of similar such cases of marrying for money occur throughout the world.

Now and then, when schemers get tired of waiting and resort to ground glass or cyanide, they make the headlines.

Japanese signs in English have always been noted for their glaring mistakes.

But there's one in Nagoya that is probably more correct than signs of the same type in America.

It reads:

"American Chop Suey."

Chop Suey, it is said, was first created by Chinese in San Francisco. If this is true, "American Chop Suey" should be more accurate than Chinese Chop Suey.

In Tokyo, near Toranomon, there is an establishment which calls itself "American style Chinese Restaurant."

Things that we can never understand: Why the Japanese radio station NHK carries on a campaign of commentaries on "smashing the blackmarket" yet another program broadcasts to Japanese housewives recipes which must utilize black-market commodities.

Nor for that matter why the government gives two days off a week to their employees, so they can go out into the country, presumably to buy blackmarket food.

Reading between the lines of the new tax program reveals that taxi-dancers, cafe hostesses, restaurant waitresses and even geishas come under the 200 yen waitress bill.

We also ponder over the statement that every cup of coffee or a package of lunch priced at 50 yen or more will be taxed 20 per cent. We thought that food selling was illegal and that the ceiling on coffee was 10 yen.

How come?

—From Nippon Times.

CONG. YOUTH SET SEPT. 24 AS FUN NIGHT

A Fun Night, with square and folk dancing listed on the program, will be held by the Young People of the Japanese Congregational Church from 7:30 p.m. this Friday, Sept. 24.

The evening will open with a short fellowship program led by the Rev. Donald Mills, minister of the Kirkland Congregational Church. Fifteen Young People of the Kirkland church will demonstrate square and folk dancing and instruct the group in leading and calling the turns.

Refreshments will be served. For further information contact Bill Soyeyima, PR. 0455, or the Rev. Tsai, MI. 4566. The public is cordially invited to come and enjoy the Fun Night.
