ALL JAPANESE ALIENS COMING UNDER U.S. DRAFT-AGE LIMITS ADVISED TO REGISTER NOW

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 6—All Japanese aliens residing in the United States or Hawaii who come under Selective Service age limits today were advised to register "unless they have no intention or desire of remaining in the country."

Mike M. Masaoka, national legislative director, JACL Anti-Discrimination Committee, pointed out Selective Service exempts some aliens from any obligations under the act, such as students, those admitted for temporary employment or certain diplomatic representatives.

However, as Japanese aliens will be treated as all other aliens under the act, and virtually all now living in the United States or Hawaii intend to make this country their permanent residence and eventually become citizens, "they should not jeopardize their future by avoiding military service," he said.

The current Selective Service act permits aliens to file an "Application for Relief From Training and Service in the Armed Forces," Masaoka warned, though, that persons who file such applications will not only be exempt from service, "but will forever lose the right to become citizens of the United States."

Before applying for relief from military service, aliens should be aware of the serious consequences which will inevitably result from such an act, Masaoka said.

"If in doubt about your status under the Selective Service act," Masaoka advised Japanese aliens between the ages of 18 and 26, "and you intend to remain in the United States, register and accept military training unless deferred by your local board, or for physical or mental reasons."

Masaoka pointed out service in the armed forces through the present Selective Service act does not automatically make a person eligible for citizenship.

Told to Check Up On Visa Order

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 6—Alien Japanese from Hawaii living in the United States who may be affected by a recent executive order eliminating "limited passports" today were advised to take up their cases personally with the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

A number of Alien Japanese living in the United States are affected.

Such persons who wish to request a change of status under the new order should write, explaining their individual cases, to: Immigration and Naturalization Service, 19th and East Capitol, Washington 25, D. C., according to word received by Mike M. Masaoka, national legislative director, JACL Anti-Discrimination Committee from Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization, Watson B. Miller.

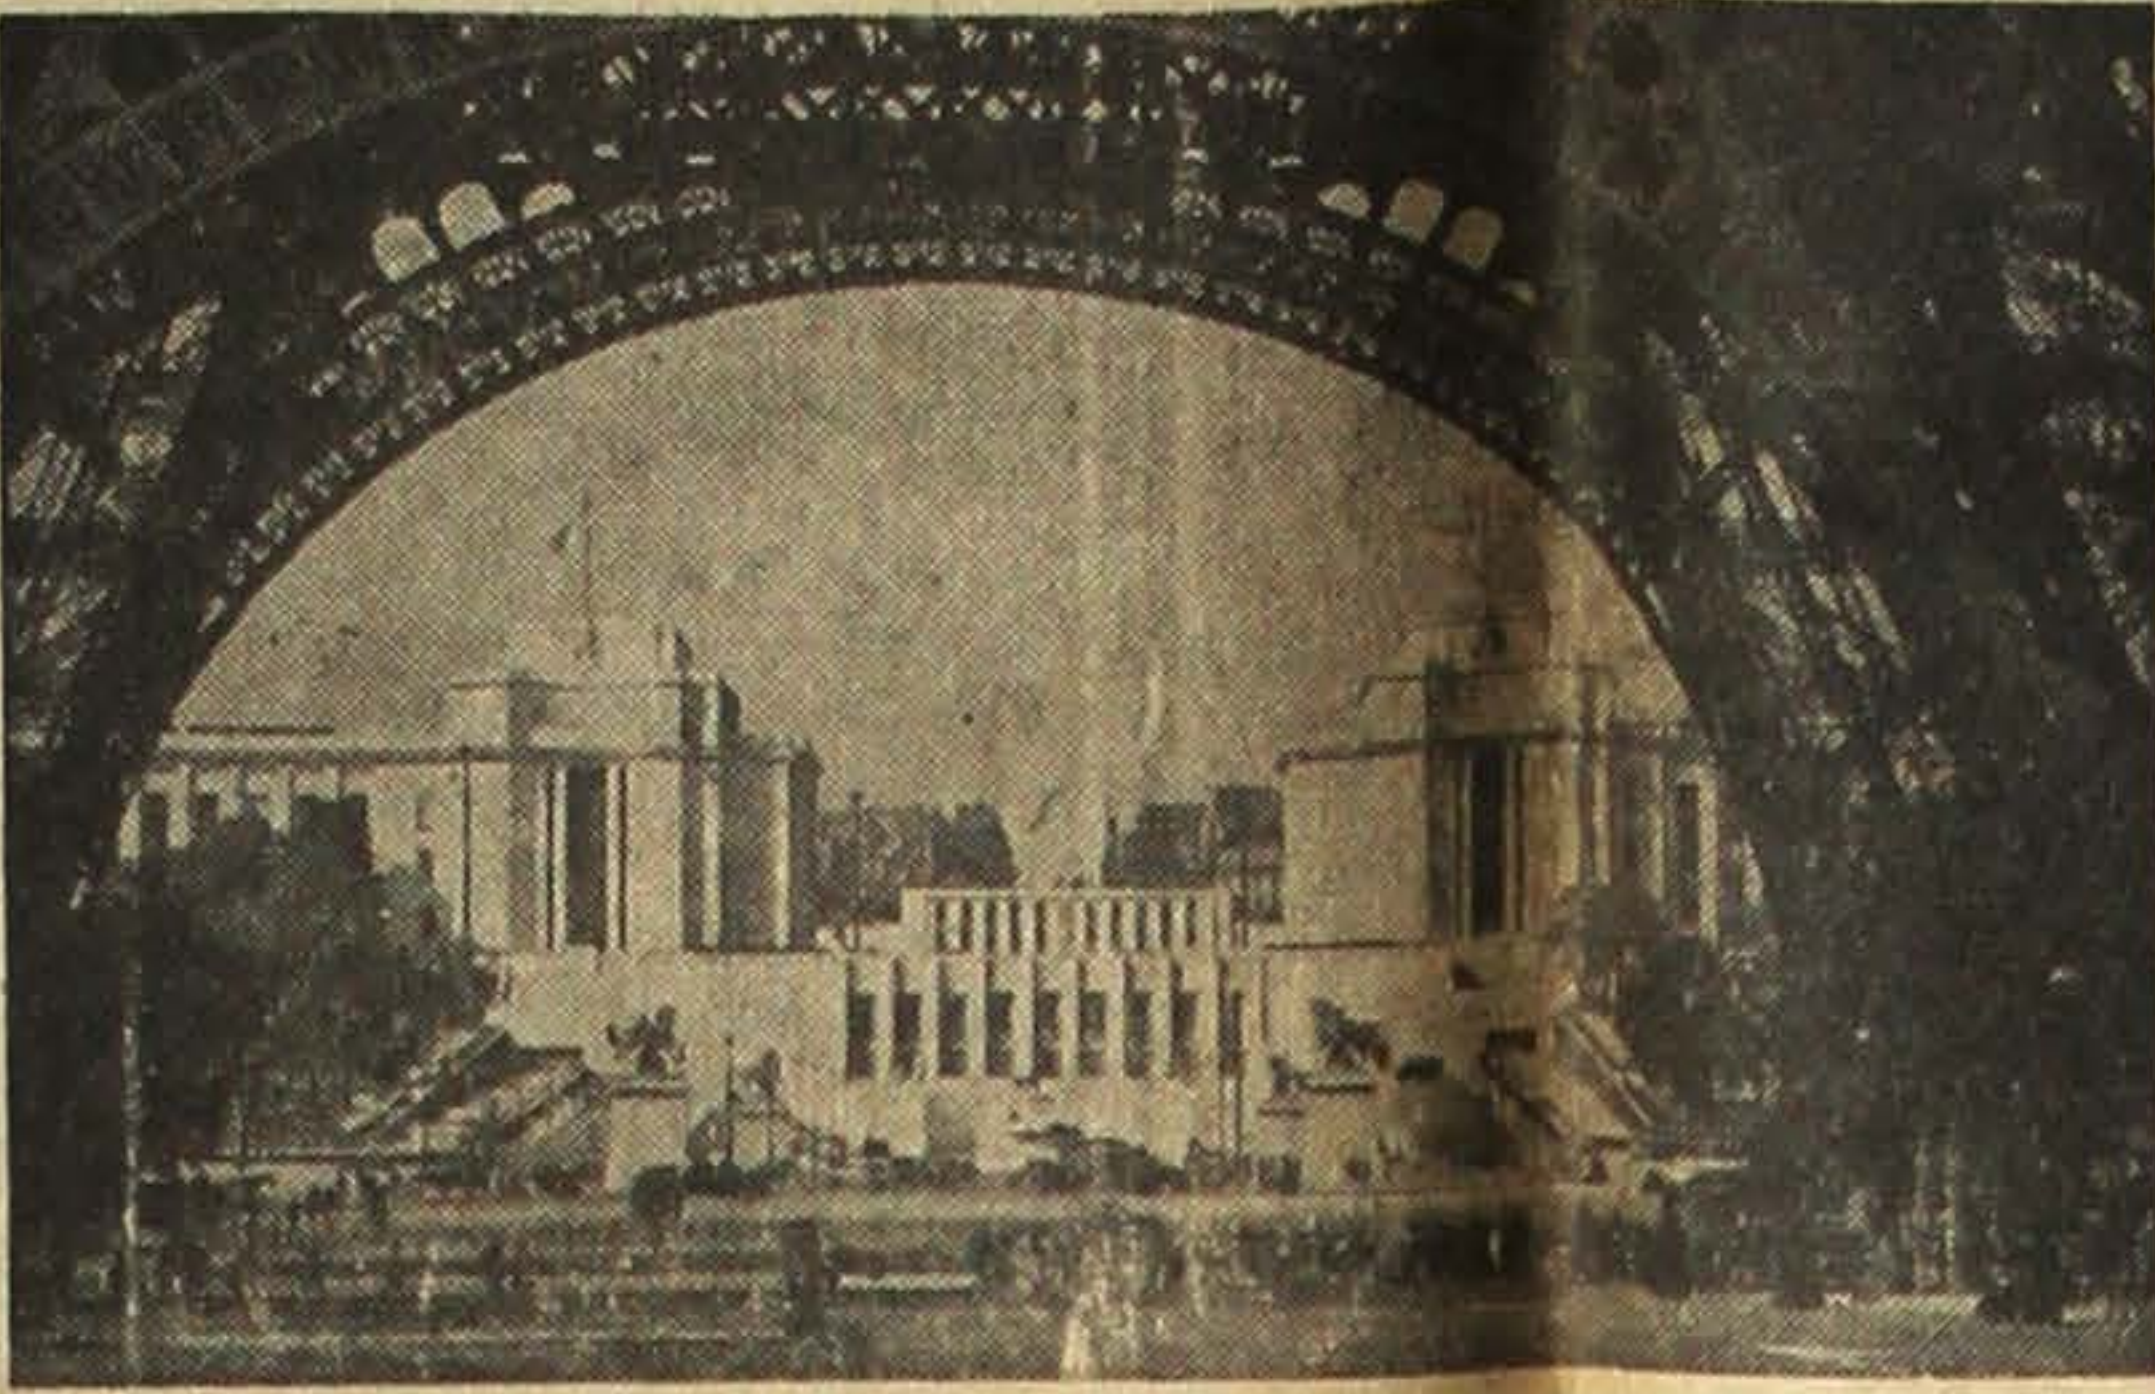

Gunmen Attacking Japanese Sought

TRACY, Calif., Nov. 6—Police are seeking the get-away auto of a mysterious assailant or assailants who made the dastardly sneak shooting attack last Oct. 24 on two Japanese sports fishermen, the Ratu Shimo reported today.

The license number of the get-away car was turned in to Stockton police by a Caucasian fishing nearby at the time of the shooting.

Umeji Yaotani who was fishing with S. Sugaoka in a boat in mid-stream was the victim of the rifle fire. He was hit on the wrist and the knee and was hospitalized at Lodi where hospital attendants declared the Japanese will be discharged in about three weeks.

Today's Editorial:

Mr. Truman's Victory Was Our Victory, Too

Re-election of President Harry S. Truman of the Democratic party last Tuesday disclosed one thing for sure, if anything: Despite his capable opponent's charges that the President's administration is divided and incompetent, the people are still willing to string along with Mr. Truman in this time of crisis when we need a tried and veteran politician to lead our nation to world peace.

Undeniably, Mr. Truman overcame great, awesome odds. The newspapers, the columnists, the polls and the gamblers—all so-called experts—saw no hope for the President. The "fact" that he faced a terrible defeat, made the President fight that much harder. And the people—whose power was unmistakably underestimated by Governor Thomas E. Dewey and his Republican party—stood steadfastly for the President.

The President, it is refreshing to remember, stumbled around the country and told the people frankly what he stood for. On the other hand, Mr. Dewey, oozing with confidence, took no definite stand on any issues brought before the people by Mr. Truman.

No doubt, Mr. Dewey's inability to drive home his points in plain, simple language proved to be his downfall as careful scrutiny of Mr. Dewey's entire campaign speeches revealed that the G.O.P. candidate's reams and reams of copy always trickled lazily into the off-waded stream of meaningless generalizations.

Americans of Japanese ancestry—and Americans of other minority groups, too—should rejoice in Mr. Truman's hour of triumph. For, as THE NORTHWEST TIMES pointed out in its page one editorial on Saturday, Oct. 30, Mr. Truman courageously championed the cause of civil rights at the risk of losing the election.

Indeed, the Truman victory was a minority victory.

Cullum Joins D. C. JACL-ADC Staff As Director of Claims Section

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 6—Robert M. Cullum, author of the noted War Relocation Authority study, "People in Motion," has joined the staff of the Japanese American Citizens League Anti-Discrimination Committee as director of evacuation claims section.

During the life of the WRA, Cullum served as an area supervisor in Cleveland, Ohio, and New York City.

His appointment to the JACL ADC post was announced by Mike M. Masaoka, national legislative director, JACL ADC.

Prior to joining the Washington staff, Mr. Cullum served for the preceding year as secretary and legislative representative in Washington for the Committee for Equality in Naturalization, an independent national civic organization dedicated to eliminating racial barriers in naturalization.

He is a native of Muskegon, Mich., and a graduate of Albion College, in Michigan.

For five years he served as a labor relations adviser in the Farm Security Administration of the Department of Agriculture, and for two years as a social science analyst for FSA.

While with the Department of Agriculture, Cullum was senior author of the document, "Men and Machines in North Dakota Har-

We Won't Say—We Told You So

Only newspaper in the city of Seattle to support President Harry S. Truman for re-election was THE NORTHWEST TIMES, according to the records of the local Post Office.

Both of Seattle's large dailies, the Seattle Post-Intelligencer and the Seattle Daily Times, backed Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York for the presidency of the United States.

Congrats Extended To President

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 6—The following congratulatory telegram was sent to Pres. Harry S. Truman today by the Washington office, JACL Anti-Discrimination Committee:

"Your magnificent fight to win reelection against seemingly insurmountable odds lends courage to all of us who seek with you the elimination of discrimination against any persons because of race, creed or national origin. We look to your leadership in our common cause to win equality for all men in and under the law."

Intermarriages OK'd by Ruling

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Nov. 6 (Rafu Shimo Dispatch)—County marriage license bureaus and all its branches today were ordered to issue licenses authorizing mixed marriages under a recent State Supreme Court ruling that withholding such permits is unconstitutional.

W. G. Sharp, acting county clerk, issued the directive on advice of County Counsel Harold W. Kennedy.

The edict meant that for the first time in 76 years, a white person can get a marriage license in Los Angeles to wed a member of the Negro, Mongolian, or Malayan race.

Kennedy ruled that an October 2 decision made by the State Supreme Court in a test case, involving a white woman and a Negro who were denied a license, made today's directive mandatory.

The bureau was ordered "to disregard that part of Section 69 of the State Civil Code which prohibited inter-racial union."

TRUMAN RE-ELECTION HELPS BUT JACL NOTES NEW DRIVE NEEDED TO WIN OBJECTIVES

WASHINGTON, D. C. Nov. 6 — Although the election of Harry S. Truman as president, with a democratic House and Senate, indicates a liberal trend in the nation, election returns also presage an almost completely new campaign by JACL Anti-Discrimination Committee to achieve success with the naturalization and immigration bill.

This observation was made late today by Mike M. Masaoka, national ADC legislative director, as he poured over returns noting major changes likely in Congress.

"The latest returns indicate ADC must undertake a tremendous 'educational campaign' to acquaint new Senators and Representatives with the bill for equality in naturalization and immigration (the Judd bill)," he said.

"There is no doubt many new Senators and Representatives simply are not acquainted with the bill.

"This certainly may slow the so-called 'time-table' we had considered for passage of the measure in event of only minor changes in Congress. Now, we must face the possibility that the educational spadework so necessary to successful passage of the bill may not be accomplished until the second session of the Eighty-first Congress, rather than during the first," Masaoka said.

Certain results of the election are expected to work in favor of the bill. These are: A unified Democratic administration and Congress, and a trend marked by the election of several active liberals who normally may be expected to work in support of the measure.

On the other hand, several factors may slow a final favorable consideration of the legislation. It is possible new hearings will be required to acquaint newly-elected Senators and Representatives with the bill. For another, several important committees may be headed by men traditionally conservative in dealing with nationality and immigration matters.

Emmanuel Celler (D. N.Y.), is expected to head the important House Judiciary committee if usual seniority practices are observed.

The vital House Sub-Committee on Immigration may be chaired by either Frank L. Chelf, (D. Ky.), or Ed Gossett (D. Texas), if the procedure of having members with previous service on a committee advance to the chairmanship. It is anticipated, however, that membership of this sub-committee will include several new personalities unacquainted with the ADC legislative program.

Pat McCarran (D. Nev.), who served with Senator Chapman Revercomb, (R. W. Va.), who was defeated, is expected to head up the Senate Judiciary committee. It is quite possible that the Senate Sub-Committee on Immigration may be comprised of all new members.

The composition of the Eighty-first Congress should lead no one to undue optimism with respect to passage of the so-called Judd bill, nor, on the other hand, should there be any undue pessimism, Masaoka said.

"In the past we have considered it reasonable to hope for passage of the bill during the first session of the Eighty-first Congress. We felt this could be achieved because so many Senators and Representatives were well acquainted with the measure, and felt favorable towards it.

"There is no doubt in my mind," he added, "that the Eighty-first Congress will eventually view the bill just as favorably. The trend towards electing known liberals might even justify some expression of optimism."

Masaoka promised that ADC would continue to "press as vigorously as ever for passage of a bill for equality in naturalization and immigration.

"I feel I can speak for everyone in JACL and ADC when I say we are going to continue to make every effort to achieve success in the shortest possible time, regardless of the amount of work involved.

"But," he warned, "the job we face cannot be accomplished by any single person or small group of persons. The task before us is a task for all of us. It is more vital now than ever that everyone join in the fight to achieve success in our legislative program."

World War II Vets Offered Chance To Settle Down in Minidoka

TWIN FALLS, Idaho, Nov. 6 — Homeseeking veterans of World War II will have first chance in the homestead entry of forty-six irrigated public land units on the Bureau of Reclamation's Minidoka Project near Twin Falls, Idaho. Secretary of the Interior J. A. Krug announced this week in Washington, D. C.

All applications from veterans for one of the homesteads should be received by Dec. 30. Veterans are allowed a ninety-day preference period in filing. Application blanks are being mailed to some 2,000 persons who have requested them. All applications received by Dec. 30, however, will be considered as simultaneously filed.

This Idaho opening on land which has proved productive in near-by irrigation areas comprises 3,618 acres in the Hunt Unit of the Minidoka Project, twenty miles northeast of Twin Falls. Staple crops in this locality include alfalfa, wheat, barley, oats, beans, peas, potatoes, and sugar beets. Cattle raising and dairying are important industries and hogs and poultry do well.

Applications for these homesteads will be considered for awarding the farms in the order in which the names of applicants are drawn from a bowl, veterans being considered first. Within six months after their homestead entry is approved, successful applicants must establish residence on the land and must cultivate at least one-half of the irrigated area for two years before receiving full title to the allotment.

Issei Influence, "Polls" Both Died

It will probably be a long, long time before anyone will have any faith in the Gallup, Crossley or Roper polls.

The polls—the "sleeping polls", to borrow President Harry S. Truman's pun—were very much wrong in their predictions that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York will be the next president of the United States.

"Look at the figures!" the polltakers exclaimed.

"What figures?" the voters asked. Messrs. Gallup, Crossley and Roper are just as red-faced—if not more so—as the Issei who approached us in the last primaries.

The Issei informed us that he had placed an article in a Japanese language paper for a certain candidate because he was his friend and because he believed the parents could influence their children on primary election day.

Politely, we opined that the Nisei, who are Americans in every sense of the word, do not relish the idea of being told how to vote. The Nisei who are old enough to vote, we added, are old enough to think for themselves.

The Issei influence on the Nisei died then. The re-election of President Truman killed the "polls" Tuesday.

Money for Adventure

By GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

WE AMERICANS are accustomed to growth and change. We have seen our nation go forward. We moved ahead not because we conquered other lands or won territory. That kind of progress has not interested us. Our fathers did find a new and raw continent here. But even while it was being explored and peopled, the inventive minds and venturesome spirits of Americans were laying the foundations for peaceful industry that never before existed.

Our progress may be measured in greater standards of living and in greater production for the people. Hard work has produced growth. Now, there is no earthly reason why we cannot continue to grow and grow—on into the future—except one. We cannot have progress if we are willing to quit growing. Like so many great civilizations of the past, it is possible for us to hit the skids. We can do just that if we become unconcerned and stop wanting to grow.

Certain seeds of decay are now planted in our economy. You see, industrial growth does not come by itself. Expansion of our great industries has depended upon venture capital. Yet, venture money is scarce today.

Savings That Work

BUT WHAT is venture capital? Venture capital is the money that has built these great factories. It is the savings that are risked to help people like Henry Ford and Alexander Graham Bell get started—and keep or going.

It goes into brick and mortar. It is turned into locomotives and drag lines. It pays for the research that discovers new drugs and new plastics. It strings power lines to homes and factories. It buys lathes and dump trucks. It is back of pay checks that men must have, even before sales bring in the expected income. You see, if we want an adventurous industry, we must have venture capital, to do all these things and more.

Now, the big trouble is this. We have throttled down our supply of venture money. There are some who maintain that this source for new industrial activity has dried up.

Business Is Thirsty

AT LEAST this is true: both young enterprises and established firms are thirsting for the capital which even today's normal growth requires of them. They are also hungry for the go-ahead signal, to build new plants and to improve old ones. This requires much venture capital.

Consider the oil industry. Traditionally, the oil and gas business has been financed by private risk money. Yet, men in the industry say that 12 to 15 billion dollars more will be needed in the next ten years. Dollars for plant equipment and labor go less than half as far as they did 20 years ago, while risk capital has shrunk 75 per cent in that period. This industry is typical of many others that are hungry for capital.

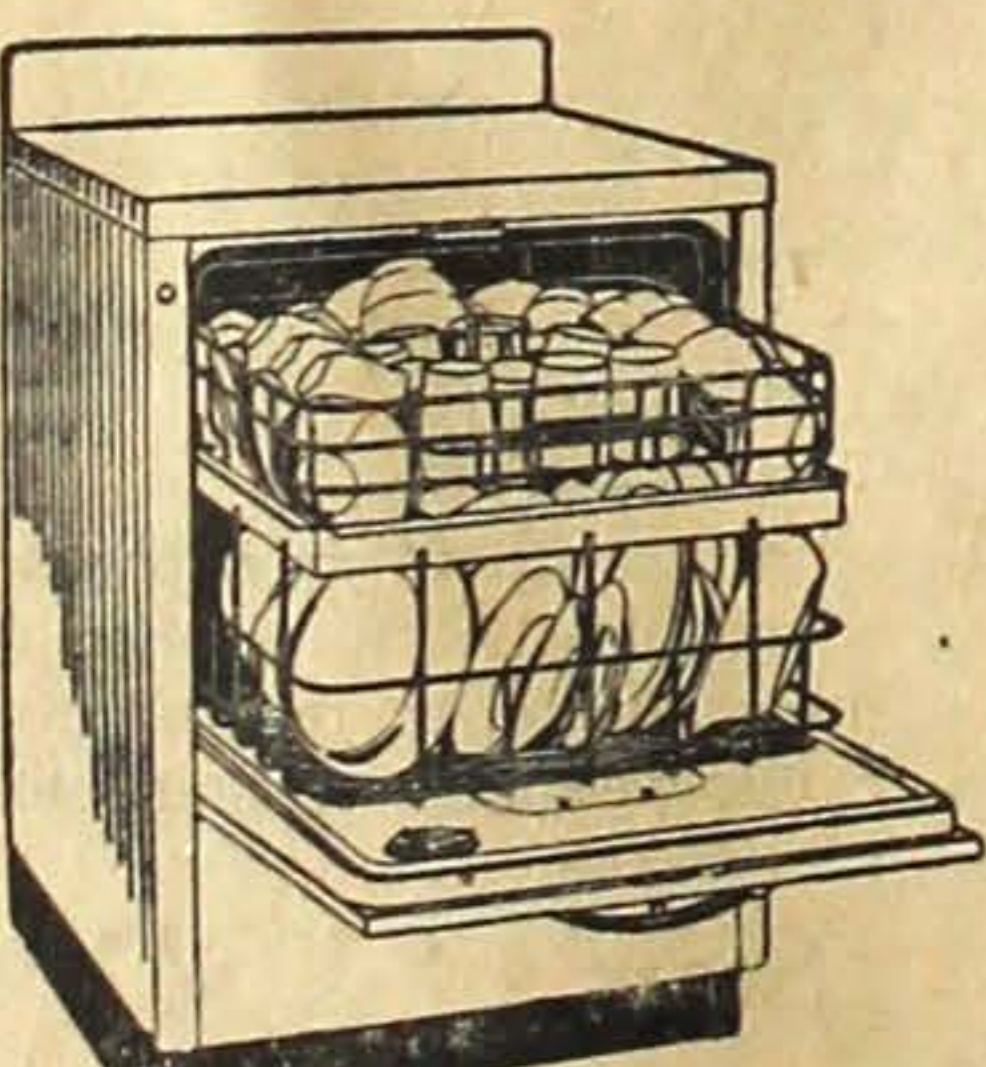

Shortage of this venture money hits us hard at every point! Without it new products that might go far in enriching mankind are sidetracked in favor of the sure money-makers. New businesses, that must live almost entirely on risk capital, are handicapped. Without sufficient capital, production everywhere is curtailed, and this affects our national well-being. No venture means a weak industrial machine that openly invites foreign aggression. Naturally, if no venture money is found for expansion, government always wants to step in and do it for us. We must remember that money for venture will be scarce and fearful until we cut down government expenses and revise taxes downward. It is your responsibility and mine to help keep our industry strong, adventurous, and free.

There are few defects in our nature so glaring as not to be veiled from observation by politeness and good-breeding.—Stanislaus.

ELECTION DAZE

As we write this, thoughts of the recent election being naturally uppermost in our thoughts, we still can't get over our feeling of amazement at the tremendous victory of President Truman at the polls. Think of it—here is a man whom many in his own party didn't want; who was asked to step aside in favor of General Eisenhower or somebody else because "his party couldn't win with him at the head"; who was sabotaged through the defections of left-wingers, under Mr. Wallace, and the Southern element, led by Mr. Thurmond; whose chances for victory, right up to the very moment of eventual triumph, were regarded as practically non-existent by the almost unanimous consensus of newspapers, magazines, political experts, and public opinion polls—who, in spite of all these discouraging facts, refused to concede that he had no chance, and, in the end, forced his opponent to concede the victory of Harry Truman. We cannot help but salute and congratulate the President, whose gallant and tremendous fight for victory was as close to an individual triumph as any Presidential race could be.

For the next four years, at least, President Truman is "on his own", elected by the people to the nation's highest office in his own right, and working with a Congress in which his party has a clear-cut majority. With the confidence which must naturally result from the support of the people expressed at the polls, Mr. Truman now has the chance to prove himself as one of the nation's great Presidents. It is to be hoped that Mr. Truman will avail himself of that opportunity by exercising his high powers of office with the same courage and vision which he displayed during his successful campaign against odds.

CONFUSED EXPERTS

Meanwhile, all the political experts and commentators, who so confidently predicted a Dewey landslide and who probably even more amazed and stupefied than we are (since we didn't crawl out on any limb), are, no doubt, busily engaged in concocting "explanations" of the surprising behavior of the American people, while hiding their crimsoned faces as best they may. We're going to have a lot of fun reading those "explanations," but the damaged reputations of the political wiseacres are, we fear, going to need a lot of patching up.

Ditto for the Gallup poll, which failed to give any indication of the rising tide in favor of Mr. Truman. Sixteen years ago, the Literary Digest magazine (only a name to our youngest voters, but a combination of Time and Newsweek for those days), predicted a Landon landslide as a result of its nation-wide "straw vote". The Digest never recovered from the terrible blow which resulted when Mr. Roosevelt won the votes of all but two states; and, we suspect, neither will the samplings of Dr. Gallup, who failed to come through in his greatest opportunity.

As a matter of fact, we know of only one newspaper editor, who, in this recent election, crawled out on a limb and found it to be safe and sound. The name of this courageous and sagacious individual may be found on the second page of this paper, under the masthead, "The Northwest Times". Whether it was luck or wishful thinking, we'll never know, but the fact remains that the honorable Times came out with an editorial flatly predicting the re-election of President Truman, one week before that fateful event took place. We suggest, in all seriousness, that Ye Editor (who also dabbles in sports from time to time) follow the lead of such ex-sportswriters as Runyon Gallico, and Pegler and forsake the realm of touchdowns, base-hits, baskets, and bowling alleys for the more dignified estate of political comment.

SHORTS

Even though they hardly got their feet wet, the vets who went out to help search for Mr. Yamaguchi last week were amply repaid by an "appreciation dinner" held at the Gyoikko-Ken on election night, with Mr. Yamaguchi footing the bills. It is understood that Mr. H. T. Kubota and Mr. Frank Kinomoto will be the next to become lost and buy a dinner for their rescuers... We came out 100% on our election bets; the only bet we made was that Wallace wouldn't poll two million votes. We could have been rich, had we cared to bet on you-know-who... After what happened on election night, we wouldn't be a bit surprised if the Huskies beat Oregon—it could happen!

We Had Better Find Our Stars Soon

The National All-Oriental Basketball Tournament is just around the corner—a month and a half away—and it will find the classiest Chinese and Japanese American squads in this world battling for the coveted championship which last year was won by St. Mary's Saints of California.

And thrown into this group of select cage quintets, will be the Seattle All-Stars playing under the banner of the Nisei Veterans Committee.

The Seattle All-Stars, at this writing, will be competing in the casaba classic, just to be participating and, of course, to put up some kind of a fight against the other outfits.

The Seattleites' chances, however, of winning much recognition in the meet are slim in view of the fact that the team hasn't been formed.

Unless they are selected pronto, put into uniform, given an A-1 coach who has the respect of the men, assigned plays in practice sessions, and groomed for team finesse, there isn't much hope that they will be anything but another band of individual cagers.

To retrace the all-Oriental tournament history of '48: the Hawaii All-Stars, who reached the finals; the Chicago Huskies, who captured the consolation prize; and St. Mary's Saints, who zoomed into the championship, will be three of the eight teams which will be vying for titular awards. Added to these three formidable squads, will be the California entry which is to come out of the Drake tournament in San Francisco and which, without a doubt, will give the favorites a strong battle throughout the tournament.

Wake up, Seattle NVC, and assemble your stars now.

CAGE SEASON HERE TO OPEN DECEMBER 1

Nisei Veterans Committee-sponsored basketball leagues will open the '48-'48 season with three games on Wednesday, Dec. 1, in the Seattle Buddhist auditorium, it was announced today by director Henry Yorozu.

The first game will begin at 7 p.m. Two girls' and one "B" games are scheduled tentatively for that day, according to Yorozu.

Class AA quintets, Yorozu said, will campaign for one round with the top three outfits bidding for the championship in a round robin playoff.

Class A, B and girls' teams will play two rounds, the winners of each round competing for titular honors.

Referees selected for the season are Shig Watanabe, Ted Nakaniishi, Mack Okazaki, Tosh Funai, Ted Kurimura and Yorozu himself. Shig Kaseguma will be an alternate.

Class A Teams Slate Meeting

Representatives of Class A entries in the local cage circuit are urged to attend a meeting at 7:30 p.m. next Wednesday, Nov. 10, in the Seattle Buddhist temple. The final player list must be turned in at this gathering, director Henry Yorozu warned.

The by-laws and the schedule will be drawn up, he added.

PORTLAND WEDDING
PORTLAND, Oreg., Nov. 6—Miss Afton Fujimoto and Mr. Johnny Nozaki exchanged vows on Sunday, Oct. 31, in the Nichiren church here.

The bride wore a white satin gown with sweetheart neckline and carried a bouquet of roses, carnation and orchids. She was attended by her sister, Miss Sally Fujimoto, who wore a light blue gown.

Mr. Nobu Okazaki served as best man and Messrs. Yosh Tahara and Denny Ando were the ushers.

A reception was held in the Oriental restaurant after the wedding.

After a week's honeymoon in California, the couple will reside in University Homes.

BELLEVUE SHOWER... BELL-
EVUE, Nov. 6—A surprise linen shower was held for Miss Mitsuo Hirokawa in the home of Mrs. Chiye Yabuki of Bellevue recently. Hostesses were Miss Marian Tamura, Mrs. Toshi Inatsu and Mrs. Chiye Yabuki. Miss Hirokawa will become the bride of Mr. Tom Shigio of Sumner next Friday, Nov. 12.

Those present besides the honored guest and the hostesses were Mesdames Sumi Hirokawa, Rosie Sakaguchi, Masami Arima, Rosie Matsushita, Louise Mizokawa, Mitsuko Hashiguchi and the Misses Mary Shigio and Mitsuye Shiraiishi. Mrs. Amy Matsuoka was unable to attend but sent a gift.

National Flower Week

National Flower Week is being observed for the fourth time this year, the week of November 7-14, to pay tribute to flowers and what they mean in our everyday lives. Mums are at the height of their glory this week, along with football games. In the language of flowers, mums mean "You're a wonderful friend."

According to the Society of American Florists, almost every flower has a meaning of its own. Red roses say "I love you," gladioli plead "Please give me a break," and pink carnations promise "I'll never forget you." Orchids say "Lady, you're beautiful," and sweet peas, "Thank you for a lovely time."

'New Look' American Dinnerware Will Brighten Holiday Tables

Holiday tables will be more colorfully decorated this season than ever before. The lovely dinnerware patterns so popular these days with homemakers and gift shoppers have a new spirit of gaiety, a new individuality. Today's "accent on color" is made-to-order for the festive occasion. In his trend to bold tones, the potter is as enthusiastically American as the Stars and Stripes! From the arresting peacock blues and vivid fruits and flowers to the new subtleties of mist grey, bright rust, persimmon, gun-metal — you'll find them all in present-day American dinnerware. With so much to choose from, and as such reasonable prices, dinnerware shopping for the holiday seasons can be truly an enjoyable adventure!

St. Peter's Youths Note Nov. 13 Ball

Midst the pungent atmosphere of fall and the approaching festivities of Thanksgiving, the Young People's Fellowship of St. Peter's Mission is welcoming everyone to its Autumn Nocturne ball slated for Saturday, Nov. 13, in St. Peter's Mission.

An evening of "dancing in the clouds," according to Rose Yataga, is in store for the Nisei at the affair which starts at 9 p.m. and ends at 12 midnight.

Tickets are now being sold by YPF members, and they may also be purchased at the gate the night of the dance.

Jr. Red Cross Push In Full Swing

With a goal of 100% enrollment, the 1948 Junior Red Cross enrollment campaign which started last Monday in all of the Seattle and King County schools, is now in full swing, according to Mrs. C. Gerald Guinn, volunteer Junior Red Cross chairman for the Seattle-King County Red Cross chapter. The drive closes Nov. 15.

The funds secured through the campaign will finance a varied local community service program, including service in military and veterans' hospitals, children's homes and orphanages, county hospitals and the Junior Red Cross clinic, as well as international programs.

To be a gentleman is to be honest, to be gentle, to be generous, to be brave, to be wise, and possessing all those qualities to exercise them in the most graceful outward manner.—Thackeray.

Vanport Victim, Sensing Filled Trucks, Shunned Rescue to Go to Watery Grave

PORTLAND, Oreg., Nov. 6—Sadao Mizuno, second of the two Vanport flood victims whose bodies were recovered, had a good chance to save himself last May 30 when more than 18,700 persons were left homeless in one of Oregon's worst catastrophes, according to one official of the Red Cross rescue crew.

Mary Minamoto, staff member of the Portland American Red Cross, disclosed that the volunteer trucks sped to the scene where Mizuno "had been bobbing up and down in the water" and called to him to climb on board.

Sensing that the truck already filled to capacity with evacuees might be overturned if it waited too long, the aged bachelor waved frantically as if to signal them to leave him behind.

The vehicles, according to other witnesses, were in such precarious positions they could not advance near where Mizuno was perched.

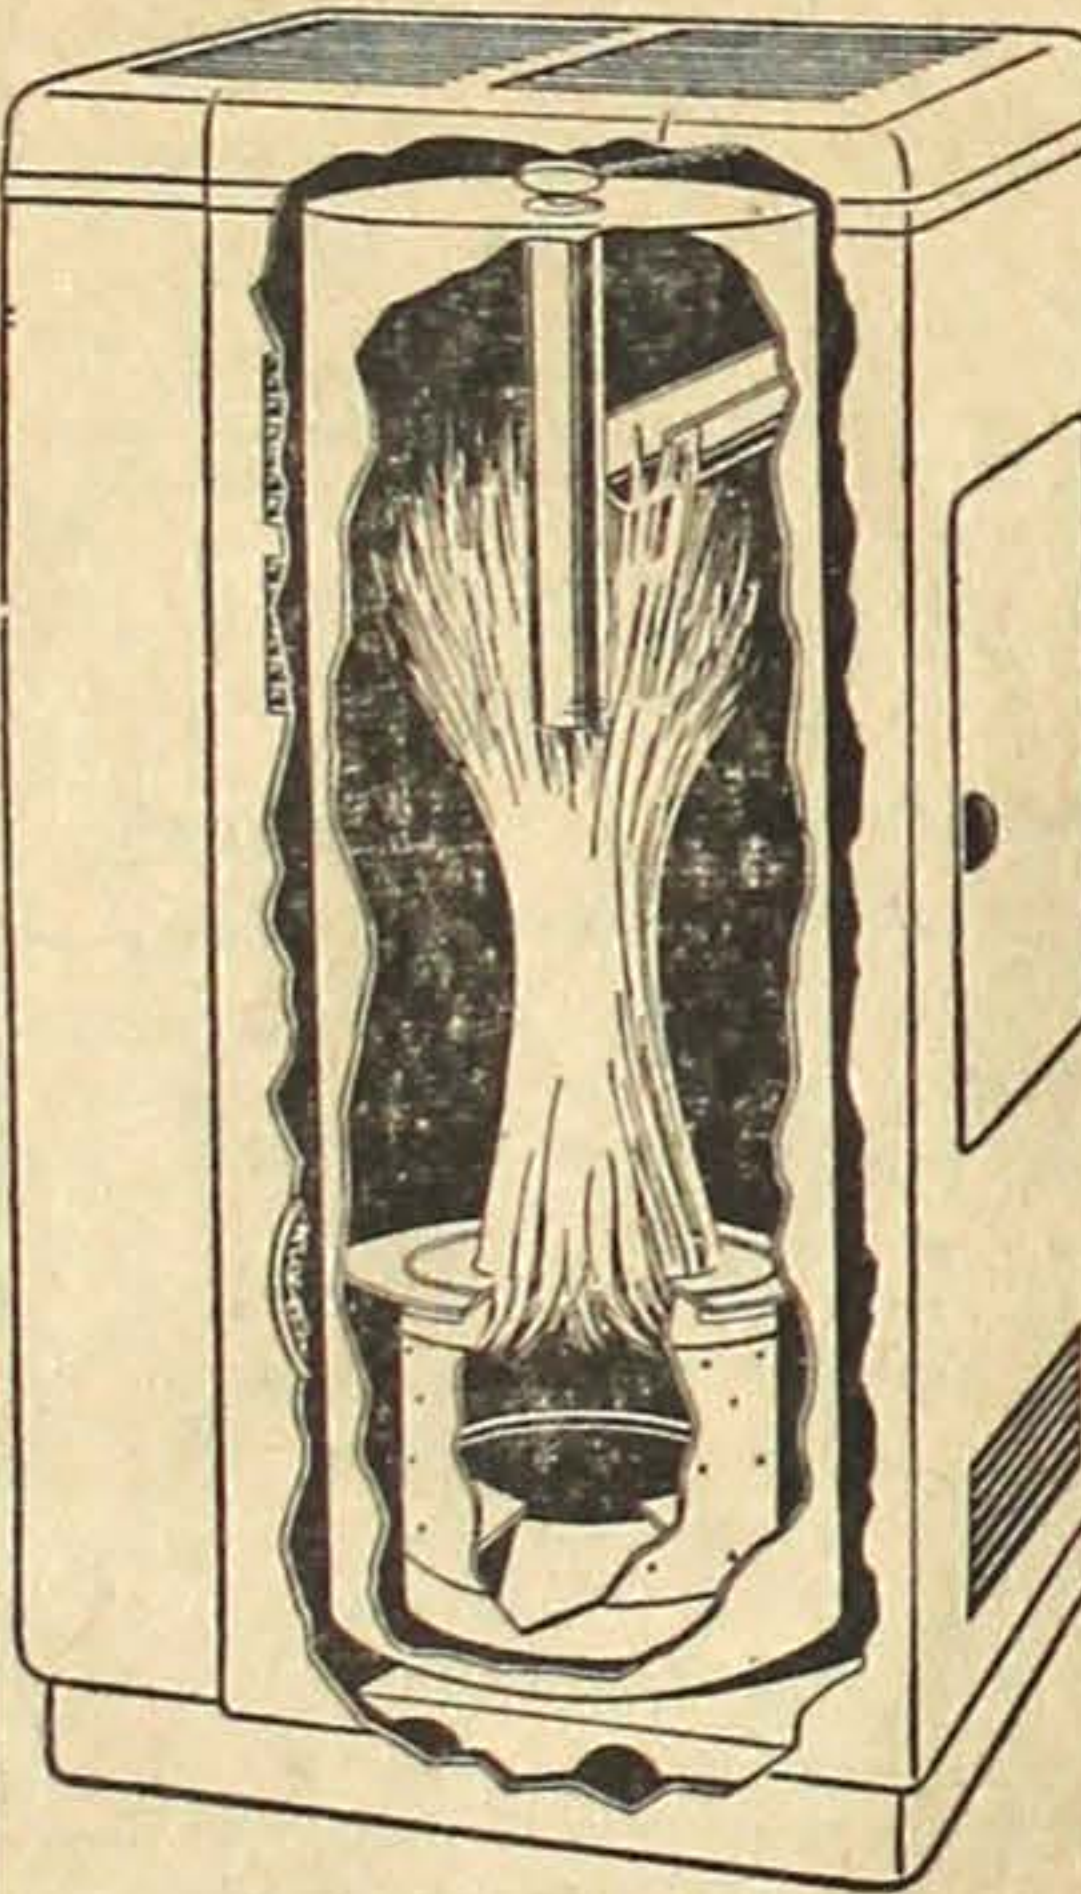

"He really gave his life so others could be on safe grounds," Miss Minamoto was quoted as saying after the tragic occurrence.

The deceased, whose body was discovered last Sunday, is from Kumamoto prefecture and once belonged to an art association in Portland before the war. A photographer of long standing, he was well known among his Caucasian and Japanese artists for his water color and oil paintings.

Mrs. Izumi Oyama, who also lost her life in the flood, was found several weeks after the disaster. She was the wife of the Oregon Nippo publisher.
