Q. IACI Anti-Discrimination Committee, Evacuation Claims Section, 300 Fifth Street North-east, Washington 2, D. C. Questions of general interest may be produced in this series without personal identification.

(No questions involving the legality or value of specific claims can be answered.)

1. Q. If a person has lost all of his written documents to prove his ownership of the lost property what can he do? Can he give the names of his landlord, neighbors or friends as witnesses?

A. If documents of ownership are lost and that is explained to the Government, the Government will accept secondary proofs in the form of testimony of a landlord or other persons who know the facts.

2. Q. I paid several premiums on a life insurance policy for my mother. Due to evacuation I allowed the policy to lapse. My mother died in camp. Can I claim for the face amount of the policy?

A. If you stopped paying the premiums because the evacuation caused the loss of all funds from which you could pay premiums so that the loss of the property was a reasonable consequence of the evacuation, you may claim the face amount of the policy, less the amount of the premiums which would have been paid up to the date of death. If, however, you had funds with which you might have paid the premiums but decided not to do so, you might not be able to prove that the loss was a reasonable consequence of the evacuation.

3. Q. I had a $5,000 life insurance policy on my own life and a $2,000 policy on my wife's life. After evacuation we did not have enough money to keep up both policies so we stopped paying premiums.

CONVENIENT CREDIT—NO INTEREST—A YEAR TO PAY

ums on my wife's policy and obtained the cash surrender value on this policy. My wife is still living. Have we a claim?

A. Yes. You have a claim, but the difficult question is to what extent you were damaged. If this was an ordinary life policy and your wife is still living, you have saved premiums for the past few years. The question of damage could be determined only by obtaining a similar policy and having an estimate made as to whether the new policy at your wife's present age, less the premiums you saved, costs more than the value of the old policy. If the policy is not an ordinary life insurance but involves endowment or annuity features, a different computation will be required. The query as to the value of such claim should be submitted to your insurance agent.

4. Q. My husband allowed his $10,000 insurance policy to lapse while we were in relocation center because we had no money to pay the premiums. After we left the center we did not reinstate his old policy or take out another one, because we had not recovered from our financial losses due to our evacuation. My husband died six months ago. Have I got a claim based on his former insurance?

A. If you can show that you stopped paying the premiums because of the loss of all funds you could use for this purpose as a result of the evacuation, and if you can show that you either had no funds to reinstate the policy or obtain a new policy since you left the relocation camp, you should make a claim for the face amount of the policy, less any cash surrender value you obtained.

5. Q. My husband and I were married in relocation camp and we did not take out any insurance on his life because we lost all our property in the evacuation and had no funds. My husband was killed on a trip to Chicago to arrange for relocation. Have I any claim for insurance that we would have purchased at the time of our marriage if we had not been evacuated?

A. No. It does not appear that a loss of insurance you might have purchased is a loss of property, because at the most, a prospective insurance policy is prospective or anticipated property, which it is believed is not covered by the statute.

6. Q. I had $5,000 in my savings account. When I was evacuated in June 1924, I lost the interest because I had to withdraw my savings account to take care of expenses for evacuation. I lost the interest which is compounded semi-annually and payable on July 1st. Can I claim for this interest?

A. It would appear that loss of the interest up to the time of evacuation, or even up to July 1st immediately following evacuation, is a sufficiently definite loss of property under the Act to be recoverable, and is not anticipated profits.

Interest after July 1, 1942, however, might come within the prohibition against the recovery of anticipated profits. In order to satisfy the Government that it was necessary to withdraw your savings and lose the interest, it would be useful to state the expenses for which your savings were withdrawn.

7. Q. Because of the uncertainties of prejudice and our own future, I withdrew my saving account of $3,000 and cashed securities, which I had converted to travelers checks. These checks I carried in a money belt around my waist. Can I claim for the interest which I had lost from my savings and the dividends of the stocks and bonds which I had cashed?

A. You probably can claim that interest accrued up to the first date after evacuation upon which interest was computed, and dividends up to the next declaration of dividends after evacuation, was property lost as a reasonable consequence of the evacuation. Subsequent interest and dividends, however, might be barred under the statute as anticipated profits. If full interest and dividends are claimed on the ground that they were fixed in certain future income and therefore were not speculative or anticipated in that sense, it would be helpful to be prepared to show the Government the regularity with which the interest and dividends had been paid. It would also be useful to be prepared to show that it seemed necessary to convert this property to travelers checks as a result of the evacuation.

For example, income from AT & T common stock which had been paying $9 dividend for many years might be thought to be definite future profits and not merely speculative or anticipated profits.

8. Q. Before branch banks were established in the camps, I had $500 in cash with me, which large amount of cash I would not ordinarily have with me if it were not for my fear and uncertainty about evacuation. I was robbed. Can I claim for the amount of my loss?

A. The law permits loss of personal property which is a reasonable consequence of the evacuation. Cash which you had with you only because of the evacuation might be claimed if you can establish that you were robbed and that the robbery might fairly be charged to the evacuation and not to intervening causes such as your own carelessness.

THE VETERANS' BONUS

While voters of the State of Washington have approved the measure providing a bonus for veterans of World War II, it will probably be well into 1949 before the first checks are issued, if at all. Apart from the time which will be required to set up the administrative machinery and to process applications, there are strong indications that a court decision will be requested in the near future to rule on the constitutionality of the bonus measure itself. Undoubtedly, state officials will await the results of legal action before committing themselves too deeply in the matter of bonus payments.

There is no question, of course, about the constitutionality of a veterans' bonus in and of itself. The legal question caused by Initiative 169, the bonus measure, arises from the specific financing provisions of the act, which provides that bonds will be issued to pay for the bonus, and that those bonds shall be retired through funds derived from a 10 per cent tax on retail tobacco sales. The tax business is the rub, so to speak. It is contended by opponents of the bonus measure that such a tax will not only fail to provide sufficient revenues to retire the bonds (not a fatal objection, since the Legislature could provide other funds), but also is unfair and discriminatory in placing the entire burden of the bonus upon a single class of retail articles, already the subject of other state and federal taxes. It is argued, therefore, that the bonus measure is unconstitutional; and a fair-minded consideration of the question leads neutral observers to conclude that there is some merit to this contention.

The legality of the bonus measure, of course, is solely a matter for the Supreme Court to decide. If and when the court rules Initiative 169 constitutional, veterans may expect reasonably speedy action in the matter of bonus payments, especially since the procedure involved in the processing of applications will be relatively simple and uncomplicated.

The magic figure "$675" represents the maximum amount payable to any individual veteran under the provisions of Initiative 169, which provides for bonus payments at the rate of $10 a month for stateside duty and $15 a month for overseas time. Only service between December 7, 1941, and September 2, 1945 will be counted, thereby placing an automatic ceiling of $675 on individual claims.

"Ex GI" calculates he will receive something like $555 under the bonus measure, which will certainly pay for a lot of cigarettes, that's for sure.

HERE AND THERE

Another good man joined the wedded ranks on Sunday evening, as Joe Hayashi and Kimi Watanabe were united in a candlelight ceremony. Bill Tatsuda, the scourge of King Street, was to have left for Ketchikan by air on Tuesday the 9th. U. W. alumni can now relax; the Huskies finally made a touchdown to end their long scoring famine, although bowing to the Van Brocklin-Oregon aerial circus, 13-7. Enough yardage was made during the contest for seven touchdowns, but only three went on the scoreboard. Incidentally, we must pat ourselves on the back for doing such a good job on picking the final score, being only one touchdown off on Oregon's, and hitting the Husky tally on the nose.

Tuning Up on Nisei Sports

UNTIL—The second annual Oregon Nisei Bowling Classic on Dec. 4 and 5 in Portland will be run off until there are no stars to shine.

SIDE BY SIDE—Oh, we ain't got a barrel of money, but we have a hatful of hunches the highly touted Over the Top Beverage outfit will not win the Nisei Commercial league title in Main Bowl.

BUTTONS AND BOWS—East is east and west is west. Tokuda Drug in town is best in the West (Northwest).

Nisei Jr. Vets will Tackle Chinese In Football Game This Sunday

Nisei Junior Veterans gridsters, coached by Shiro Kashino, former Garfield high school star, will take on a Chinese American eleven at 2 p.m. this Sunday, Nov. 14, at Broadway playfield.

The Nisei squad, boasting such local stars as Chuck Kinoshita, Ted Matsushita, Shozo Komorita and Ted Chihara, still needs a couple of pair of shoes for the game, according to Ebo Okiyama, a member of the team.

Mentor Kashino is assisted in the coaching by Keiji Sato, ex-Marmot lineman.

Hayakawa Sought For New Film

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Nov. 10 (Nichi Bei Times Dispatch)—Humphrey Bogart is looking for Sessue Hayakawa, famous one-time Hollywood actor, to take a "heavy" role in "Tokyo Joe," a picture of an occupation soldier in Japan, according to Louella Parsons, noted Hollywood writer for the Hearst newspapers.

She was asked by Bogart to help him find the Japanese actor when Robert Lord, his partner and producer, returned last week from Japan where he was unsuccessful in locating the old-timer.

The Nichi Bei Times sent word to the Hollywood columnist that Hayakawa was listed in the Paris telephone book in 1945.

Saburo Kitagawa, formerly of San Francisco and now of Washington, D. C., recognized Hayakawa's name in the Paris directory when visiting the French capital on a furlough while attached to the 442nd regiment.

Kitagawa called up the Japanese actor and was invited to the latter's apartment. Subsequently he made several calls at the film actor's home when he was transferred to a U.S. army post in Paris.

It was learned here that some of Hayakawa's films may be shown in the near future at the Bella Union theater on Kearny St. which features silent movies. One of his notable pictures, "The Tong Man," was taken in the San Francisco Chinatown.

His only American talking picture was "Daughter of the Dragons" in which he co-starred with Anna May Wong. While in France he starred in a French film, "The Battle," in which he portrayed a Japanese naval commander. An English version of the French picture was made later with Charles Boyer and Merle Oberon taking the leading roles.

JAPAN NATATOR GETS BID TO U. OF HAWAII

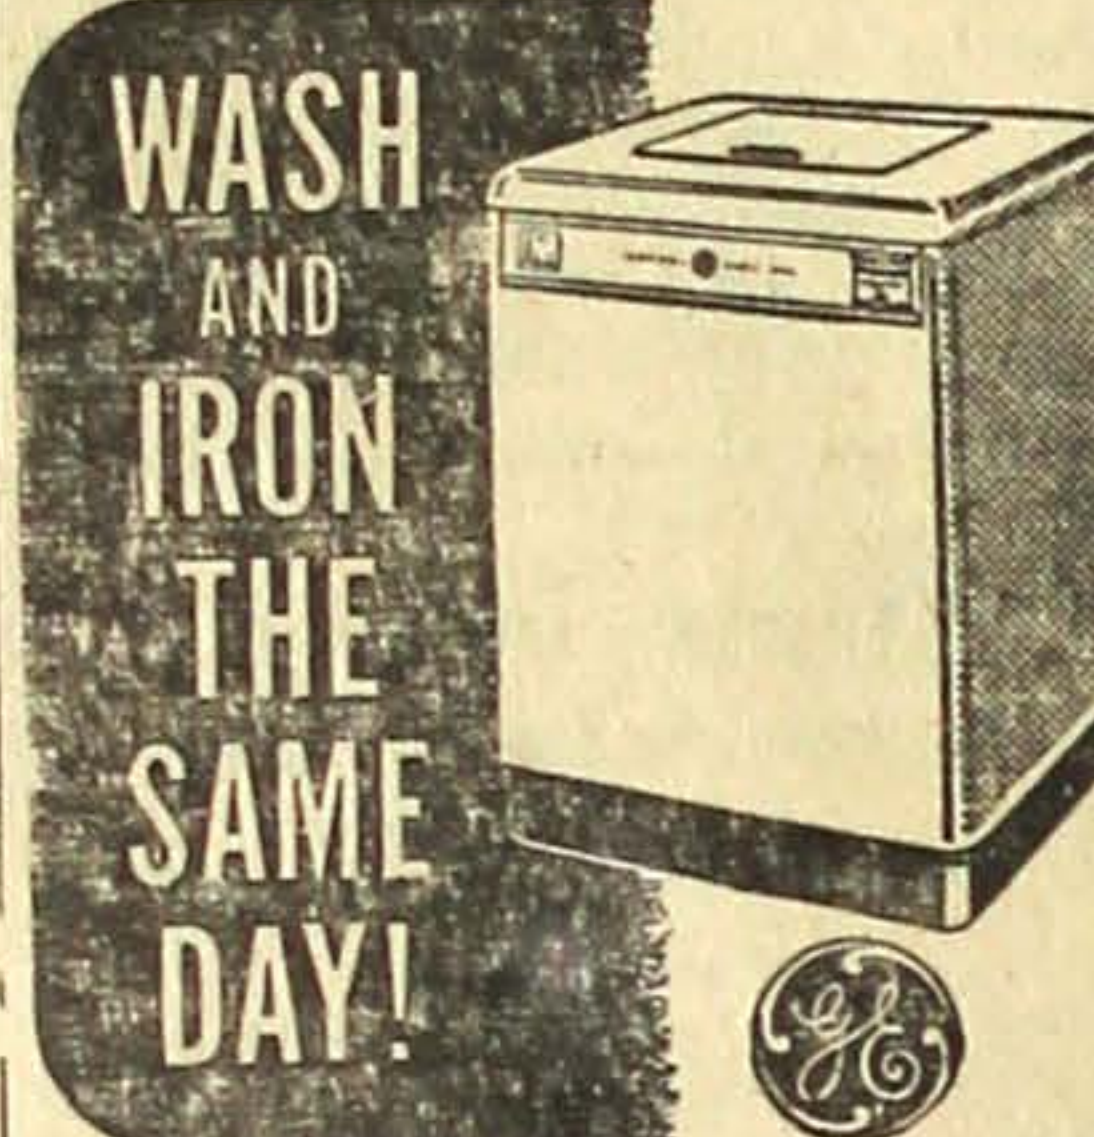

TOKYO, Nov. 10.—Konoshin Furuhashi, Japan's world record-breaking swimming star, may have an opportunity to show stateside Americans how really good he is, the United Press reported this week.

A group of Nisei in Honolulu will pay all expenses for Furuhashi's enrollment in the University of Hawaii, provided he is allowed to go abroad for Allied headquarters in Tokyo and he is accepted as a student by the Honolulu institution, according to word reaching Japan.

The Honolulu group, the newspaper Asahi said, delegated George D. Tottoroff, public relations representative of Pan American Airways in Hawaii, to extend the invitation to Furuhashi, a student at Nihon university.

Japanese swimming officials have credited Furuhashi with sensational performances this year—new world record times of 4 min. 33 sec. in the 400-meter free-style and 18 min. 37 sec. in the 1,500-meter freestyle, both in a 50-meter pool.

Kagawa in Letter to CARE Quarters Thanks America for 'Kindness'

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 10.—To-yohiko Kagawa, noted Japanese teacher and philosopher, thanks America for "loving kindness," in a letter just received at CARE headquarters.

Kagawa wrote acknowledging a gift of one hundred CARE Japanese food parcels, sent to him for distribution to members of his congregation.

Another recent delivery of CARE packages in Japan was made to Reverend M. Jin of the Harajuku Church, 70 1-Chome, Harajuku, Shibuya Ward Tokyo. Reverend Jin, now using a wooden barracks instead of the church destroyed during the war is caring for eight orphans and continuing missionary work.

Forwarding the letter from Kagawa, and the report on Reverend Jin, CARE's Chief of Mission in Tokyo, Adrian Gory, also noted recent delivery of CARE food packages to "someone injured at Hiroshima" and "someone injured at Nagasaki."

"The recipient at Nagasaki is a 23-year old girl, the most badly burned of her family. Her father and mother were both killed by the atom bomb. She and her 15 year old sister were severely burned. The older sister who received the package, has been trying to support other members of her family, and her health is seriously deteriorating from the strain."

"A doctor treating this family exclaimed: 'what good is it for me to prescribe medicines when what they need is food!'"

"The Hiroshima recipient is a 55-year old man who is blind and sick. His wife was killed by the bomb. He has two children to support, and an income of only 1,000 yen per month less than five dollars."
