CARE Textile Packages Delivered To Assist Needy Japanese

NEW YORK, N. Y., Dec. 1—Because of the increasing shortage of textile materials in Japan, and spiraling of prices, CARE textile packages are now being delivered in Japan, it was announced today by Paul Comly French, executive director of CARE.

Orders will be accepted today, he said, for the CARE woolen suiting package, containing enough pure wool fabric by the yard to make a man's suit, or a woman's coat, or several garments for children; the CARE blanket package, containing two all-wool blankets, and the CARE knitting wool package, containing 2 1/2 pounds of wool. Each of these, and also the CARE Oriental food package cost ten dollars, with a guarantee of delivery.

CARE, having delivered six and a half million food and textile packages in 15 European countries during the past two and a half years, extended its service to the Orient in July. Individual orders, designated to relatives, friends or to "needy families" are delivered in Japan by the CARE Mission in Tokyo. Bulk orders, for 25 or more CARE parcels are accepted for Korea and Okinawa, while negotiations are now in progress to serve the Philippines.

"The need for the CARE textiles in Japan," French said, "is shown by the fact that a Japanese fisherman must turn in 1,654 pounds of fish through regular ration channels, in order to buy a pair of GI trousers for himself at the official price. For 992 pounds more, he can get a shirt."

"The situation is complicated by the fact that Japanese families spend most of their income on food, just to keep themselves alive, and are therefore unable to divert any income to pay the exorbitant prices of clothing."

"The CARE textile packages, 15,000 of which are now stockpiled in our warehouses in Japan, awaiting orders, will do a great deal to relieve this situation for those families who receive them."

The complete contents of the four CARE parcels now available for

ONTARIO BAR ADMITS NISEI LAW GRADUATE

TORONTO, Ont., Canada, Dec. 1 (New Canadian Dispatch)—Lucien C. Kurata, 26, became the first person of Japanese ancestry to be admitted to the Ontario Bar. With seven other graduates of Osgoode Hall, he was admitted at a ceremony conducted by Justice McFarland last Nov. 18.

Kurata, who attended Pickering College, was graduated by the University of Toronto in metallurgical engineering before he went into law study. He was born in Toronto where his parents have been living for the last 30 years.

The Nisei was married in May, 1947, to the former Mary Frances Whitehurst of Ottawa. Recently—Nov. 9, 1948—they became parents of a daughter whom they named Mary Elizabeth Ellen.

The young Nisei lawyer is the son of Taka Kurata who is a zoologist in the Royal Ontario Museum and has been associated with the University of Toronto for 35 years. The elder Takata is a graduate of the University of Iowa.

Lucien's mother is an American, formerly Elizabeth Stoddard of Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

B. C. Nisei Earns Top Honors

TORONTO, Ont., Canada, Dec. 1—Arnold Arai, 20, who took his first three years of high school at night classes in Tashima, B.C., won the highest honors of any student at the Nov. 19 graduation ceremony at the University of Toronto.

He won the E.J. Tamblin Memorial award for the boy who, in the opinion of the staff and students, has been the most outstanding in leadership, service to the school, sportsmanship and academic record. He also earned a Dominion-Provincial scholarship.

The Nisei is now a student at Toronto University.

Cemetery Decides To Accept GI Hero

Shimpo Dispatch—Winner of the Distinguished Service Cross, Sgt. Kazuo Masuda who was posthumously awarded for his heroism in World War II by the late General Joseph Stilwell in December, 1945, will find his final resting place in a "desirable spot" in the Westminster Memorial Park, Midway City, after cemetery officials "had learned" he had been with the 442nd Combat Team.

Orange County JAACL leaders a few weeks ago raised a vigorous protest when they were informed by C.C. McWhitney, president of the board of the memorial park, that the board would only permit Sgt. Masuda's burial in a plot where there are no trees or lawn because Masuda was of Japanese ancestry.

Claims Queries and Answers

(Editor's note: This is the eighth of a series of questions and answers on the evacuation claims law prepared by Edward J. Ennis, JAACL Anti-Discrimination Committee special counsel, and released by the Washington Office of the JAACL ADC as a public service. This series is based on actual questions asked of this office.)

(Any reader who has general questions relating to the law itself or to procedural matters is invited to address a letter with a stamped, self-addressed return envelope to the Washington Office, JAACL Anti-Discrimination Committee, Evacuation Claims Section, 300 Fifth Street Northwest, Washington 2, D. C. Questions of general interest may be produced in this series without personal identification.)

(No questions involving the legality or value of specific claims can be answered.)

1. Q. Where should completed claim forms be sent?

A. Claims must be filed directly with the United States Department of Justice. Neither the Washington, Regional or Chapter offices are in a position to file claims. The Department of Justice expects claims to be filed directly, either by the claimant or his representative. To do otherwise would not only delay filing, but would not be helpful to the claimant. Send your claims to: Attorney General, United States Department of Justice, Washington 25, D.C.

2. Q. I have a large family and before evacuation each of my three boys, after finishing college, worked for five or six years at a salary of fifty dollars a week. If there had been no evacuation, order, each of my boys would have been able to save $3,600 for the three years during confinement in camp. Can they claim for this loss of savings?

A. The law prohibits the allowance of any claims for anticipated profits or earnings on the theory that such losses are too speculative. You state each of your boys would have been able to save $3,600 in the course of three years. But even if there had not been an evacuation many things might have occurred which might have prevented them from saving this amount or which would have induced them to spend their earnings instead of saving them. For these reasons Congress decided not to allow claims for anticipated earnings. In a special case, of course, such as a person employed under a contract given him at a fixed wage or having Civil Service status or a seniority position on his job, it might be claimed that the earnings were fixed and not anticipated in the sense of being speculative. Even in such a case, however, it would be difficult to determine what part of the earnings might have been saved and therefore constitute a loss of property due to the evacuation. Of course, as in all cases, a definite decision can be obtained only by having an actual claim ruled on by the Department of Justice.

3. Q. In 1943 I made a settlement of $100 for $1,000 worth of furniture which had been destroyed. I signed the waiver of further claims against my tenant because I felt it would be impossible to return to the west coast for a long period and there was no possibility of pressing for more. Can I recover the balance under the evacuation claims law?

A. If your family leased your furniture at the time of evacuation and made the settlement in 1943 because you thought that was the best settlement that you could make while you were an evacuee it appears that you have a claim for the difference between the amount you received and the value of the furniture.

4. Q. When claiming for household article, do you go by the present price or the price at the time we bought it?

A. You do not state the nature of the household article involved or whether you have actually replaced it at its present price. The general answer may be made, however, that the Act provides for loss of property due to the evacuation. At least in the case of articles not replaced it would seem that the loss was limited to the value of the article at the time of evacuation and that the present increased value could not be claimed. In cases where a particular article has been replaced at a higher cost it could be claimed and argued that the replacement cost should be considered in determining the amount of the loss.

5. Q. What claim may be made for the value of leases lost? My hotel lease ran to 1944, but at the time of evacuation I had no time to plan or bargain and I sold it at an actual loss. Ordinarily these leases might easily have been renewed. The present value of such holdings would be almost double the market value of the hotels. In filing, should I claim the full value of what I lease was worth at time of evacuation, or what it would cost me to buy up a lease now?

A. It appears that the loss you actually suffered upon the forced sale of your hotel lease was the difference between the value of the lease at the time of the sale and what you received for it. In determining the value of the lease at the time of sale you can take into account the time it had to run and the value of the renewal clause if the lease contained one. The profit you were making on the lease at the time of the forced sale is of course a major factor in determining the value of the lease. It is more difficult to claim the present increased value of the lease as your loss particularly if you have not actually expended the increased price to buy back the lease or to buy a similar lease. If you have not gone back into this hotel business it is difficult to say that you have actually lost more than the value of the lease at the time of the forced sale.

6. Q. I bought a farm house for $4,000 just before the war started. It only had $1,000 worth of fire insurance. I wanted to in-

125 years ago this week, on December 2, 1823, President James Monroe set his hand to the celebrated document whose policy bears his name... The Monroe Doctrine. The Monroe Doctrine grew out of the rebellion against Spain of some of her possessions in the New World. It is not, as is often believed, a principle of international law. The doctrine was not new with Monroe but it was the first formal statement of determination to oppose all European interference with matters wholly American.

FROM OUT OF THE WEST . . . THE 1949 MUSTANG

RENTON, Wash., Dec. 1—Assembly line production of the Mustang, the Northwest's own low priced car, will begin here in January, Roy McCarty, president of the Mustang Motor Car Co., said today.

He announced the Mustang, assembled from standard automotive parts, will sell for $1,235 plus state and federal manufacturer's taxes in Renton and the Seattle area.

McCarty reports all preliminary engineering work has been done and Mustangs will be rolling off the line for delivery to the first customers early in 1949.

A new technique for pressing full size auto bodies of aluminum was developed here, making possible a great reduction in the cost of car building equipment. In the past the huge investment required for body stamps and dies prohibited local auto manufacture.

McCarty said the building of Mustangs here offers three important advantages to residents of the Pacific Northwest:

1. Mustang is a safe, efficient and inexpensive vehicle for the average Northwest family. The car runs 25 to 35 miles to the gallon, and service or replacements for the standard working parts are available at low cost anywhere in the United States.

2. Growth of the Mustang Motor Car Co. will mean more jobs and an important new payroll in this region.

3. Profits from operations of the Mustang Motor Car Co. will be shared with local stockholders, most of whom are in middle income groups. These investors will spend their earnings here in the Northwest.

McCarty has been in the automotive industry for 25 years. He was associated with the Lincoln Motor Company's field service division in Detroit before coming to Seattle. He was active in several Northwest auto and bus body building enterprises before organizing the Mustang Motor Car Co.

TOURNAMENT TALK

Tempo of activity on the part of the central committee in charge of the 1948 Oriental-American National Basketball Tournament has been stepped into high gear, with less than a month remaining before the opening game of the big tournament. Considering the multitude of details which must be worked out in advance before any of the teams steps out on the floor, there's none too much time for any of the individuals involved—hence the harassed looks worn these days by officials of the Nisei Veterans Committee and the Cathy Post, co-sponsors of the basketball jamboree.

Take the souvenir program, for example, which will be larger and more elaborate than last year's edition. It must be ready for the press two week before tournament time. Before it's ready for the printers, however, copy must be written, pictures obtained, and advertisers signed up to help pay the freight. Contrary to the usual experience of tournament sponsors, lining up advertising support will probably be the least of the program committee's worries—after last year's highly successful tournament, it is expected that the necessary support on the part of advertisers will be obtained on schedule. However, the matter of copy and pictures for the program is contingent upon a definite listing of teams for the tournament. And there, as Hamlet might say, is the rub.

On the Nisei side of the tournament (which is what concerns our readers the most), three teams are definitely set. Of these three, however, only two are identifiable at present, these two being the Hawaii All-Stars and the NVC All-Stars, representing Seattle. One team, representing California, will emerge from the Drake Tournament being held this weekend in San Francisco. Until that tournament is completed, of course, the identity of the California entry will be "X, the Unknown Quantity". The participation of the Drake winner, however, is assured.

The fourth Nisei team will be, it is hoped, the Chicago Huskies. At this writing, their participation in the 1948 Oriental-American Tournament is uncertain, due to financial and other considerations. Should the Chicago team be unable to make the trip, it will not be through the fault of either the tournament committee or the Huskies. The Huskies want to come out, and the tournament committee wants to see them here. But if practical considerations make their appearance impossible, another team must be obtained in place of the Huskies. It is expected that the final decision of the Chicago players will be known within a few days.

The NVC All-Stars, who will represent Seattle in the tournament, will be built around Coach Stan Karikomi's Tokuda Drugs outfit as a nucleus. To add the necessary reserve strength for the tough tournament grind, additional squad members will be picked up to make a full roster. Already in practice and getting game experience, the Karikomi Terrors hope to better their fourth-place finish in last year's tournament.

HERE AND THERE

Except for a few post-Thanksgiving games and, of course, the year-end bowl contests, the football season is just about over. Our U. W. Huskies are probably glad of it, after the riding they received when they played Notre Dame, 46-0. Meanwhile the Army and the Navy put on what was the best contest of the year, a 21-21 thriller comparable to the 1928 game between the same schools, which also ended 21-21. Navy fight and determination really made up the difference between a team which hadn't won a game all year, and an Army team which hadn't lost all season.

The 42nd Annual Seal Sale will continue until Christmas, according to Ruth Walker, seal sale chairman.

TOKUDA DRUG AND SAVOYS TRIM SPOKANE TEAMS IN EXHIBITION; ADACHI OF AA SQUAD SCORES 17

(Special to Northwest Times)
 SPOKANE, Wash., Dec. 1—Several hundred sports fans got a preview of Tokuda Drug's Class AA and A basketball editions last Saturday night in the Gonzaga University gym here and they went home fairly well satisfied with the cage show put on by the Seattle outfits against the Spokane favorites.

Stan Karikomi's Class AA aggregation, spurred by California-schooled Sei Adachi, romped to a 48 to 34 victory over the local Beacon Cleaners. Deceptive and dead-eye, Adachi scored 17 points, ten of them in the first half.

Mentor Bob Kurimura's Beacon Cleaners, operating on a fast-breaking offense, gave the visiting squad quite an annoying first period by jumping to a 13-7 lead. Paul Kurose, high point-getter for the losers, found the hoop for three quick two-pointers.

Tokuda Drug shifted from a zone to a man-to-man defense to cool off the steaming Cleaners in the second period, scoring 15 points and holding the hosts to an embarrassing zero. The half ended: Tokuda Drug 22, Beacon Cleaners 13.

The Cleaners closed the gap in the third quarter, trailing 27 to 30, but split wide open in the final quarter when Heat Heyamoto of the winners flipped in three near-basket hook shots.

Adachi, Heyamoto and Mote Yasuda's backcourt play was outstanding for Tokuda Drug. "Bullfrog" Suzuki's off-the-board work highlighted the Cleaners' effort to defeat the favored invaders.

Coach Jimmy Hata's Class A Tokuda Drug Savoys had no trouble dumping Hank Ito's youthful Spokane Yanacs, 28 to 15, in the preliminary tilt. Frank Yee, Chinese American ace, and Eugene Okamura were the Savoys stars with 11 and 10 points respectively. J. Nakagawa of the Yanacs tallied 6. The Savoys led all the way: 7-2, 14-3, 22-7, 28-15.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT
 Tokuda Drug's Class AA and A teams wish to acknowledge the dinner and the dance which were graciously extended to them by the Spokane basketball boosters last Saturday night in Spokane.

Claims Queries and Replies

7. Q. I had a fishing net worth $4,000. At the time of evacuation I decided to store it, expecting that after our loyalty had been cleared we would be permitted to return and I could resume fishing. I decided to keep the net since they were irreplaceable. The net rotted away. It would cost me three times that amount to replace it today. What should I claim for it?
A. It probably can be shown that the house was burned because the owner was evacuated and in his absence could not protect the house. Therefore, apart from any insurance question you can recover $3,000 which is the difference between the value of the house at the time of evacuation and the amount of insurance. But it is not so clear that an additional loss can be claimed on the ground that if the house were in existence today it would be worth $8,000. The additional amount might be claimed if the claimant actually purchased another home to replace the burned farm house and thus had incurred the additional expense due to the rise in real estate values.

I decided to keep the net since they were irreplaceable. The net rotted away. It would cost me three times that amount to replace it today. What should I claim for it?
A. It appears that the loss of this net was due to the evacuation and you have a claim at least for $4,000. If you have not actually replaced the net it is not so clear that you have a claim for the increased value of nets of that type. If you have actually replaced the net at higher cost you may be able to show that the higher cost is the actual loss that you suffered.
