DEMO LEADER OK'S RIGHTS LEGISLATION

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 18.—National Democratic Committee Chairman J. Howard McGrath, Senator from Rhode Island, has endorsed the bill for equality in naturalization and immigration, Edward J. Ennis, JACL Anti-Discrimination Committee legal counsel, and chairman for Equality in Naturalization, announced today.

The announcement of Senator McGrath's support came after Ennis, Mike Masaoka, national legislative director, JACL ADC, and Robert M. Cullum, CEN secretary, met with Sen. McGrath to discuss legislative procedures concerning the measure.

Senator McGrath said he favored the bill, and pointed out he introduced legislation in the Eightieth Congress urging that this nation's naturalization laws eliminate race as a prerequisite to citizenship.

Senator McGrath's measure was the first of its kind ever introduced in the Upper House.

He said he saw no reason to change his position now, and promised his personal support of the naturalization and immigration bill when it is introduced before the Eighty-first Congress.

The senator's backing is considered of outstanding significance because of the powerful position he occupies with the Democratic party.

His prestige was tremendously enhanced after President Truman's victory, largely because of the voluminous work the Senator did during the campaign.

Following the conference with Senator McGrath, Mr. Masaoka said he was "tremendously encouraged" by "what apparently is a growing sentiment for the bill for equality in naturalization and immigration."

Former U. S. District Attorney for Rhode Island, Senator McGrath was elected governor of that state in 1940, and reelected in 1942 and 1944. He resigned the governorship to accept the post of Solicitor General of the United States under Attorney General Tom Clark in 1945. In 1946, he was elected to his first term to the United States Senate.

Settlement Nears for Peru Japanese Stranded in U. S., Masaoka Reports

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 18.—For the first time since their arrival in the United States early in the war, there appears some hope that the future of several hundred Peruvian Japanese stranded in America may possibly be nearing a settlement.

The curious, but little known case, of those "people without a country" goes back to the early days of the war when the United States agreed to intern enemy aliens of Latin America if those countries deemed such persons dangerous to hemispheric security.

In all, approximately 2,000 Japanese were sent to the United States for internment. Approximately 80 percent came from Peru.

Within a matter of months after the U. S. began accepting these Peruvians of Japanese ancestry, formal investigations by our own Department of Justice revealed virtually no basis for terming them "dangerous aliens." After some argument with the State Department, the Justice Department refused to cooperate further in interning aliens unless they were screened and found suspect.

From that time on, internees from South America were investigated prior to internment, and no more persons of Japanese ancestry were sent from Peru to the United States.

Peruvian Japanese sent to the United States by their mother country were given permission to accept deportation to Japan, or remain in this nation under a loose sort of custody once they had been screened and found non-dangerous by the Department of Justice.

A number did go from America to Japan, and, since the end of the war, a few individuals have been permitted to return to Peru. But living within the United States still are several hundred Peruvian Japanese, whom their own government so far has refused to readmit.

As far as the United States is concerned, the Peruvian Japanese have been classified "illegal immigrants" and thus are subject for deportation to Japan.

However, Peruvian Japanese themselves either want to return to Peru or remain in the United States. None still in this country have indicated any desire to return to Japan.

In this curious state of "suspended citizenship," these Peruvian Japanese have lived in the U. S. for almost seven years, though many have families they have not seen since leaving Peru, and, of the married couples, a number have children born in this country, and thus now American citizens.

At the request of a number of Peruvian Japanese, the JACL Anti-Discrimination Committee recently began an investigation into their position in the United States.

And now, according to National Legislative Director Mike Masaoka, "something may be done for these persons."

A revolution in Peru has overthrown the war-time government.

During a recent visit to the Peruvian embassy, Masaoka said embassy officials informed him they would ask their government to reaccept the return of Peruvians of Japanese ancestry interned in the United States.

At the same time, Masaoka said he discussed their plight with the Immigration and Naturalization Service. In an informal opinion, the Central Office of the Immigration and Naturalization Service said it is "possible Peruvian Japanese may qualify to remain in the United States as legal immigrants under terms of the Stay of Deportation Act passed by the Eightieth Congress."

This approach, Masaoka added, "will be explored more fully in the near future."

Meanwhile, the State Department's Office of Inter-American Affairs, said it will make representations to the Peruvian government to accept Peruvian Japanese still in America.

Although still technically in custody, virtually all the Peruvian Japanese have found private employment, with the largest number working at Seabrook farms, in New Jersey.

All in all, said Masaoka, recent events "have given us some hope that at last we may be approaching some level where steps might possibly be taken to give these unfortunate persons a permanent home somewhere—a home of their choice—and once again reunite families broken up and scattered half-way across the world by war."

WASHINGTON — Auto salesman William Manuel tells a House Committee, that he expects customers to give him tips ranging up to $500. In later testimony he added that some of the customers more than get the tip back by pulling fat deals of their own.

B. C. to Continue Evacuee Aid

TORONTO, Ont., Canada, Dec. 18.—The Department of Labor's policy of providing transportation costs and relocation grants to British Columbia evacuees moving east of the Rockies will be continued until March 31, 1949, it was confirmed recently.

It is too early to state definitely, however, that all transportation advances will cease absolutely then since the Vancouver office of the Japanese division will remain open for a period after that date, and there may be cases where the relocation of certain families were not possible earlier due to special circumstances.

While it was never an announced policy to assist evacuees in finding employment, assistance was being extended until this spring. This assistance, however, has been terminated, with the exception of certain cases where a family is obviously unable to reestablish in Alberta but which may be in another region.

The Japanese division's regional office in Alberta was closed nine or ten months ago. The Winnipeg office was shut several months ago, leaving only the Vancouver head office and the Toronto office.

The Toronto office will not close immediately on March 31, next year, but will remain open until certain welfare matters concerning the Japanese are wholly taken over by the provisional government.

Though it be honest, it is never good to bring bad news—Give to a gracious message a host of tongues; but let ill tidings tell themselves when they be felt.

U. S. Born Woman Wins Citizenship Lost Through Marriage to Issei

Three years of conscientious study at Broadway night school paid off richly for Mrs. Nobue Chihara, American-born wife of an Issei jeweler.

Mrs. Chihara, 35, last Monday, Dec. 13, took her oath as American citizen before United States District Judge Lloyd L. Black in his court. Like all the new citizens—fifty-eight in all—Mrs. Chihara, who was born in Seattle but lost her citizenship when she married an Issei, was very happy.

"It is a wonderful feeling to know that you have the same rights as other Americans," she said.

Holiday Spirit Seen in Bows, Garlands Decorating Jackson St. Community

Red bows and cedar garlands are adding that holiday touch to Jackson St. from Fifth avenue to Fourteenth this year. The decorations, which have appeared this year for the first time, are the result of the coordinated community effort of more than a hundred persons in this area.

Local business men contributed the funds that bought old cloth and wire. The Jackson St. Community Council's civic committee planned the decorations and mobilized the 50 to 60 volunteers who gathered cedar boughs, made garlands and bows, and hung them on December 15th.

The Junior Council committee organized a work party of 22 young people who went to the country on December 12 and brought back a truck load of cedar and a 35 foot Christmas tree. The lighted tree, erected by the Seattle Housing Authority at Tenth and Jackson, rounds out the neighborhood decorations.

Garlands were made at Neighborhood House, another Red Feather agency in the district, by 15 women and girls who gave freely of their time. Members of the Why Grow Old club of Neighborhood House and girls belonging to a teenage group which meets at the Japanese Methodist Church were included in the group of garland makers. The red bows were made at the Junior Council meeting earlier in the month.

The office, however, will be closed from Dec. 24 to Jan. 3.

ONTARIO, Oreg., Dec. 18.—Second in a series of meetings on evacuation claims will be held this Sunday, Dec. 19, in the Airport community hall. The meeting will be divided: 1:30 p.m. for the Issei; 7:30 p.m. for the Nisei.

More than 200 from Snake River and Boise Valley and a number of attorneys from surrounding towns attended the first gathering which was called to order by Thomas T. Itami, president of the local JACL chapter. Kay Terashima and Mas Horuchi, both from the Salt Lake City JACL unit, were the speakers.

Legal Expense Fee Hiked

TORONTO, Ont., Canada, Dec. 15 (New Canadian Dispatch)—Property loss claimants will very soon be asked to pay a further one per cent of their total claims as advance against legal and valuation expenses involved in the presentation of claims, according to a statement released this week by the Co-Operative Committee on Japanese Canadians. The committee also released a statement of receipts and disbursements of the claims fund for the period up to Aug. 31, 1948.

The statement shows that the initial retainer fees totalled $31,025.87, and expenses up to Aug. 31 amounted to $19,675.13, leaving a balance as of that date of $11,350.74.

The expenses incurred after Aug. 31 has amounted close to $7,000 while further heavy expenses are involved in the final hearings which began in October.

The statement notes that the retaining fee of one per cent was set before the terms of reference had been widened, and that the original estimate of expenses was "much too low."

How Much Government

By GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

Looking Ahead

IT'S 2,272 miles from New York to Salt Lake City, Utah. Yet, if all the civilian employees in the executive branch of our federal government were six feet tall (they're not) and you placed them head to toe on U. S. Highway 30 they'd reach the distance easily with 14 miles to spare. This comparison is conservative. It was based on an estimate of 2 million government workers in the executive branch alone.

Perhaps nobody can ever know just how many there are. During the first four months of this year, they increased at a rate of more than 450 a day. Use another comparison. There is one executive worker in the federal government for every 21 income taxpayers. In other words, these 21 taxpayers are paying the salary of the 22nd man. And that's just in the executive arm of the federal government.

Paying the Piper

EACH AND every American citizen must not fail to be interested in this problem of mushrooming government. As long as we fool ourselves into the habit of asking for more government, we'll see more and more added to the payrolls and we'll pay higher and higher taxes. We need to decide how much government we want. Certainly the more of it we set up the more we have to pay for. At the rate we have been going in the last decade, most of us will be working for the government in a few years.

That would be one of the simplest ways to take the country into socialism. Let most of us be drawing paychecks from the government, in salaries and various benefits, and we would have socialism right here without voting for it. What we need constantly to remember is that the government has not a cent to spend except what it collects from you and me and from our neighbors.

We Must Say "No!"

OUR NEXT congress will have a real test, and a real opportunity. Last year, the 80th Congress provided this historic opportunity by establishing a commission to study the reorganization of the executive side of our government. Membership of the Commission includes some of our most public spirited citizens. These experts are giving the structure and functions of many a government agency a thorough going over. They are also studying expenditures, with the idea of proposing changes that will bring both economy and efficiency.

The 81st Congress will have the job of acting upon whatever recommendations the Commission may present. It is not an easy task. Any executive finds it hard to lop off an office here, and an office there. When the government starts a service, it is hard to find a stopping place. Moreover, each and every department will fight to the finish for increased personnel and more money.

May the coming Congress find enough gizzard and gristle to stand up and say no. We must end waste and extravagance in government. When nearly thirty cents out of every dollar you earn goes directly or indirectly toward support of federal government, that is too much. We cannot continue to be the strong and financially stable nation we must be, unless something is done to curtail the spread of government.

Japanese Wife of Nisei Newspaperman Arrives aboard U.S.A.T. Ainsworth

A former Japanese movie star, pretty Mrs. Chieko Kawakami arrived in Seattle last Wednesday with her 19-month-old son, Christopher, aboard the U.S.A.T. Fred C. Ainsworth.

Mrs. Kawakami is the wife of Clarke H. Kawakami, a Nisei newspaperman by profession who volunteered for G-2 and received a battlefield commission while serving as a lieutenant in the China-Burma-India theater of operations. Kawakami, now a civilian with GHQ in Tokyo, was unable to return with his wife to the United States.

Mrs. Kawakami came to this country in order to beat the deadline for soldier brides—Dec. 28, 1948.

Greeting Mrs. Kawakami was her sister-in-law, Mrs. Yuri Morris of Salt Lake City.

Another notable Japanese war bride who arrived was Mrs. Pia White, 22, wife of former 1st Lt. Frank White. Mrs. White, a charming Japanese-German woman, is the daughter of Saburo Kurosu, Japanese peace envoy who was in Washington, D. C. when Pearl Harbor was bombed.

Contributions Pour into Seal Fund

The third week's returns in the 42 Annual Christmas Seal Sale shows that a total of $73,163 has been contributed toward the eradication of tuberculosis in King County, according to Christmas Seal headquarters at 6147 Arcade Bldg.

"It is most important to all residents of Seattle and King County that the 1948 Christmas Seal Sale be successful," said Miss Ruth Walker, Seal Sale chairman of the Anti-Tuberculosis League.

"The Seattle Area Chest X-Ray Program has provided us with an excellent opportunity to hasten the day when our communities will be free from tuberculosis. To take advantage of that opportunity every phase of tuberculosis work must be intensified. This means that the Anti-Tuberculosis League will need sufficient funds to administer its program effectively this coming year.

"Christmas Seal buyers invested $70,000 in the Seattle Area Chest X-ray program. This investment eventually will reduce taxes for sanatorium care and other tuberculosis services.

"Whether we like it or not we must spend money on TB," said Miss Walker. "Most patients cannot pay their hospital expenses thus the burden falls on the tax payer. Lessened earning power is costly too, not only to the individual and his family but to the community as well, particularly when the breadwinner leaves a wife and children without a pay check. Even the short sanatorium stay costs money in lost wages and lost skills.

"To aid patients who wish to sharpen their skills so they may return to work, a vocational counseling service is provided by the Anti-Tuberculosis League. Working under medical advice, the vocational counselor attempts to help the patient build a program of practical activity that will enable him to resume a useful place in society.

"Many patients need to improve their educational status. This opportunity is provided with their physicians permission. They take advantage of the high school instruction, University and Business School correspondence courses available to them while they are bed patients at Firland. To acquaint patients with job opportunities, the vocational counselor advises them concerning job descriptions and other vocational information. If training is required, arrangements are made for the patient to be in-

A Three-Dollar Ticket Makes Good Yule Gift

Basketball fans may just as well sit back and wait for the Christmas holidays and the second all-Oriental cage tournament which will be on Thursday, Dec. 23, Friday, Dec. 24, and Sunday, Dec. 26, in the Seattle University gym, 11th Ave. and E. Spring.

Some of the best Oriental court talent in the country—and even from Hawaii—will be coming into town next week.

Defending champions will be Sen Francisco's St. Mary's Saints Chinese who once again will be led by Wee Willie Wong, the most sensational cage adding machine ever produced by Orientals in a long, long time. Wong and capable Pete Lum will have their boys shooting for the second title in as many tries.

Strongest opposition will come from the Hawaii Nisei All-Stars, the Berkeley Nisei and possibly the NVC All-Stars.

This is the financial end of the tournament plug: reserved tickets, good for all 12 games, $3; single game tickets, $1.25, not reserved; student tickets, seventy-five cents.

The Christmas spirit in us prompts us to suggest that a tournament ticket would make an ideal Christmas gift to a sports-minded fellow.

ANNUAL NORTHWEST CLASSIC SET JANUARY 29 AND 30 IN MAIN BOWL; DANCE AT TRIANON ALSO BOOKED

Main Bowl's annual Northwest Nisei Classic will be on Saturday, Jan. 29, and Sunday, Jan. 30, it was announced today by Fred Takagi, manager of the local alley.

An added feature to the tenpin affair, will be the dance on the final day, Jan. 30, from 8:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. at Trianon ballroom. Curt Sykes' and his 12-piece band will play.

Teams from throughout the Pacific Northwest are expected to participate in this two-day trundling meet. Portland's colorful Three J's, a scrappy Chinese-American outfit, has already been invited.

Takagi told THE NORTHWEST TIMES today that he has received a long-distance telephone call from Hito Okada in Salt Lake City asking about data in regard to the tournament. Okada's insurance squad won the team event in the early '48 meet here.

Wonders of Rubber

AKRON, OHIO—Textiles, particularly cotton, rayon and nylon, play a tremendous role in the manufacture of most rubber products. These include the tires on which your automobile rolls, or the hose which is swiftly pulled into position when firemen start fighting a blaze. The picture above, taken in the B. F. Goodrich Company here, shows the textile cords starting on a journey which will result in their becoming part of tires. A short time later each of these cords, still in long parallel lines, will be entirely surrounded by rubber. Then, cut into the exact size wanted, and known as a "ply", the sheeted combination of rubber and textiles will go to the tire building rooms. A number of these "plies" together with other parts of the tire will there become the carcass or body of the pneumatic casing.

The processing of rubber goods is a fascinating subject. The company puts out a free cartoon booklet called the Wonder Book of Rubber, which describes this industrial operation, as well as many highly interesting facts about how rubber is transformed into one of mankind's most useful servants.

Claims Queries and Replies

(Editor's note: This is the tenth of a series of questions and answers on the evacuation claims law prepared by Edward J. Ennis, JACL Anti-Discrimination Committee special counsel, and released by the Washington Office of the JACL ADC as a public service. This series is based on actual questions asked of this office.)

(Any reader who has general questions relating to the law itself or to procedural matters is invited to address a letter with a stamped, self-addressed return envelope to the Washington Office, JACL Anti-Discrimination Committee, Evacuation Claims Section, 300 Fifth Street Northwest, Washington 2, D. C. Questions of general interest may be produced in this series without personal identification.)

(No questions involving the legality or value of specific claims can be answered.)

4. Q. Prior to evacuation I operated a business of my own—a tea house in San Francisco and I was the sole legal owner, including all the equipment and furnishings and my husband was employed as a wage earner with a business establishment other than my own. My husband legally owned all the household property of our home. His claim and my claim of the loss will, if combined, amount to more than the maximum of $2,500. We do not desire to file a claim over that amount as I understand it would require the Act of Congress in this case if it exceeds over $2,500. Can we both, my husband and I, file a separate claim of loss up to $2,500 each?

A. You or your husband separately may file separate claims for loss suffered to property owned by you separately. There is no requirement that husbands and wives file one claim. It has merely been suggested that where the property lost or damaged is in the name of the husband or in the name of the husband and wife together, they should file one claim and not try to divide the loss into two parts and into separate claims on the basis of community property laws. Where the property is separately owned, however, as in this case, there is no reason why separate claims should not be filed.

5. Q. I am the sister of a veteran killed in action in Italy while serving with the 442nd Regiment. I inherited all his real and personal property, including insurance carried with the National Service Life Insurance. My brother, prior to evacuation, was the owner of a grocery store, and at the time of evacuation, he had to dispose of his business at a loss. I am interested in knowing whether an heir is entitled to file damages in connection with the loss sustained by my brother.

A. The Evacuation Claims Act does not state expressly whether or not the executor, administrator, or heir of a deceased claimant may file a claim. In the absence of an expressed prohibition in the statute against such claims, however, they should be filed and it is very likely that such claims will be allowed and determined on their merits. It would be preferable for the executor or administrator of the estate, if there is one, to file the claim, but if there is none there is no reason why the sole heir should not file her brother's claim.
