

Foreign Students, Representing 40 Nations, Will Join In 'International Afternoon' Feb. 20 at Art Museum

Students from the 40 countries represented at Seattle colleges and universities will participate in an "International Afternoon" at the Seattle Art Museum from 3 until 6 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 20. The program is designed to acquaint the citizens of Seattle with the newly organized Foundation for International Understanding Through Students, according to Mr. James M. Davis, advisor to foreign students at the University of Washington and executive director of the Foundation.

The date chosen is the first day of National Brotherhood week and the purpose of the foundation is to further the acquaintance of Seattleites with the 330 foreign students in this area. The foundation provides scholarships and aids students from abroad to study and travel in the United States as well as providing funds for students from the Pacific Northwest to study abroad.

It also hopes eventually to have an International Center where guest students can make a wider acquaintance among their hosts and return courtesies on the agenda of future projects. Persons interested may contact Mr. Davis at Melrose 0630 ext. 578.

The international afternoon will feature a well known speaker to be announced later. This is in addition to a program of exhibits, music and folk dancing including the famous Filipino bamboo dance. The affair will be co-sponsored by the Seattle Art Museum, the American Association for the United Nations and the Washington State Coordinating Council for the United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization.

The reception committee includes Messrs. E. Lyle Goss, Arthur G. Barnett, Dean S. Newhouse, Howard L. Nostrand, James M. Davis, the Mesdames Herbert Brink, James Ryan, Frederick Burwell, John McCauley, Newman Clark, Minnie N.

Mitsuye Uyeta will represent the Business Girls, the 222 club and the Cosmopolitans at the national YWCA conference for March 7 to 14 in San Francisco, it was announced today.

Tomii Fujino, active Y-Teen officer, will be another delegate to the party.

Three Young Marrieds clubs at the Y. W. C. A. are now open to a limited number of new members. Mrs. Audrey Gilpatrick of the Young Adult department has announced.

Membership in any of the three includes taking part in an all-day program of classes and special activities. Nursery facilities are available for pre-school children.

Club days are Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., Mrs. Gilpatrick said. Members have their choice of taking sewing, bridge, recreational swimming or badminton-gym during the morning, and a noon luncheon is served. 'Lit' Lectures Booked by U. W.

To celebrate the 200th Anniversary of the birth of famed poet-philosopher Johann von Goethe, the University of Washington will present a series of six lectures on his works and their influence on the world's literature, it was announced today.

First in the series is "Goethe and America", by Dr. Curtis C. D. Vail, Executive Officer of the University's Department of Germanic Languages and Literature, on February 14.

Dr. Carroll E. Reed will give the second lecture, "Goethe and Language", on Feb. 21, and Professor Oskar Seidlin, visiting lecturer from the University of Ohio, and author of numerous books on German literature, gives the third lecture, "Goethe and the Humane Ideal", Feb. 28.

After a month's interval, the series resumes March 28 with William T. H. Jackson's talk on "The Werther Fashion in Literature", followed by "Goethe's Political Views", by Robert L. Kahn, April 4.

The final lecture, "Goethe and the 20th Century", by Franz Rene Sommerfeld, ends the series with an attempt to portray Germany's greatest poet against the background of today's intellectual crisis.

All lectures take place at 8:30 p.m., in 101 Johnson Hall on the campus. The series is sponsored by the Department of Germanic Languages and Literature and the Office of Lectures and Concerts of the University's Division of Adult Education. The lectures are complimentary to the public.

SENATE UNIT BACKS BILL ON EQUALITY

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 5.—The bill for equality in naturalization and immigration was reported on favorably today as the first act of the newly-named House Subcommittee on Immigration and Naturalization.

Mike Masaoka, JACL Anti-Discrimination Committee legislative director, said the action of the Subcommittee "means no hearings will be held in the House on the bill. This should greatly speed up House consideration of the bill."

The House Judiciary Committee is expected to consider the bill "possibly next week" because of the favorable Sub-Committee action, Masaoka said.

"It is now very likely that the Judiciary Committee will report out the bill favorably, which greatly enhances the chances of favorable consideration of the measure in the House itself."

The rapid action of the Subcommittee came as a "pleasant surprise," Masaoka said.

"We are extremely grateful for the fast and favorable consideration by the Sub-Committee. It is highly gratifying to those who have worked so hard and faithfully in an effort to give equal opportunities in and under the law for all persons in this country," he said.

The bill reported out by the Subcommittee was H. R. 199, the "Judd" bill, introduced by Congressman Walter E. Judd (R., Minn.). The Judd bill was one of five identical ENI bills introduced in the House during the current session of Congress.

Membership of the Subcommittee which was announced today, includes:

Congressmen Francis E. Walter (D., Penn.), Chairman; Michael A. Feilhan (D., Ohio), Frank L. Chelf (D., Kentucky), Ed. Cramer (R., Penn.), Frank Fellows (R., Maine), and Clifford P. Case (R., N. J.).

Congressmen Feilhan and Case are the only two new members on the Sub-Committee.

Minority Group Study Stressed

BUCK HILL FALLS, Pa., Feb. 6.—The Rev. Dr. Mark A. Dawber of New York, executive secretary of the Home Missions Council of North America, recently presented three basic principles which the Protestant churches could use in their approach to minority groups in this country.

1. An insistence upon the protection of the civil rights of all racial groups.
2. Assimilation, wherever possible, of minorities in established churches.
3. Removal of the causes, such as the poverty, that keep minority groups dependent.

Many urban churches, the mission official declared here, were "class institutions, attracting people of a certain social standing and totally lacking in democratic, inclusive fellowship."

Mrs. Yarbrough

Mrs. Arlene Yarbrough, on the speakers' bureau of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, will give a talk at 6 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 15, before a meeting of Wiana club members at the Y.W.C.A. In connection with the observance of Brotherhood Week from February 21 to 27, Mrs. Yarbrough's subject will be "Brotherhood—Must Be Lived".

Wiana club is open to young employed women regardless of race, religion, nationality or family background. Members meet each Tuesday evening for dinner and a special program.

DHARMA TO SELL COOKIES

Dharma club of the Seattle Buddhist temple will sell home-made cookies during Feb. 20 and 26.

Seattle, the Queen City of Washington, is putting on the finishing touches for the third annual Northwest Times Invitational Basketball tournament to be sponsored by the Northwest Times on Friday, Feb. 18, Saturday, Feb. 19, and Sunday, Feb. 20, in the Buddhist auditorium.

The dates—Feb. 18, Feb. 19, and Feb. 20—are definite now.

Eight teams—four out-of-town and four in-town—will lock themselves in battle for the Pacific Northwest Nisei basketball championship.

The four out-of-town teams invited to participate in the three-day tourney are Wapato, Spokane (Beacon Cleaners), Ontario and Portland (American Auto).

The four in-town teams will be Tokuda Drug, Polka Dots, Mercury and Nuggets.

If any one of the out-of-town quintets is unable to make the trip to Seattle, White River of the Class AA league here will win the bid.

The tournament will be operated in this manner: (1) all out-of-town teams will be in one bracket and all in-town teams will be in another bracket; (2) the championship round will be single elimination, and the consolation, double elimination.

The three-day basketball affair will be highlighted with an orchestra sports dance Sunday, Feb. 20, in the Buddhist auditorium at which time a prominent Seattle basketball figure will present the awards. The prizes for the tourney are the three-year perpetual trophy, the permanent championship cup, the runner-up trophy, and the consolation cup.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN—what would he think of his country today? He'd be a little mixed up at first probably. Our skyscrapers and traffic, streamliners, airplanes would certainly bewilder him. He'd find our baseball crowds, television, movies, hobby-soxers confusing—and maybe amusing. And our gigantic industrial development—our enormous production, South as well as North, would surely astonish him.

But we think Mr. Lincoln, once he found his bearings, would be proud of America—proud and grateful for a land and a people truly united . . . and progressing steadily toward even greater unity.

The nation was torn apart in a cataclysmic Civil War. Hatred was rampant. Five million of our people were slaves. Lee was about to invade Pennsylvania, Sherman to destroy Georgia. And, in addition, there was an Anti-Masonic Party, an Anti-Catholic Party, an Anti-Negro Party—and doubtless an Anti-Everything Party—all ready to overthrow the country to attain their ends. Suspicion, hate, mistrust everywhere.

Today "Dixie" is sung proudly in Boston, "Yankee Doodle" in Atlanta. Detroiters brag about Texas. Southerners boast of their fine Negro colleges at Fisk, Meharry and Tuskegee. Protestant, Catholic and Jewish clergy appear on the same platform to an applauding audience. Spaghetti, sauerkraut, bagels, chop-suey, chili—all are hailed as American dishes, as indeed they are. Jewish governors, Catholic senators, colored Major Leaguers are proof of American brotherhood. In trifling ways and in big ways, American unity demonstrates itself today.

Most of us would be the first to agree with Mr. Lincoln that we still have a long way to go. But the spirit is there—the direction is right. More and more, as the years pass by, we are becoming a people "with malice toward none, with charity for all!"

Pvt. Ninomiya Rites Saturday

Pvt. Ninomiya, who was a technical sergeant in the medical corps, joined the 442nd as a replacement, and was killed in action Oct. 29, 1944, in the vicinity of La Houssiere, France, in the rescue of the Texas

"Lost Battalion", one day before the 442nd made contact with the battalion. The Nisei GI is the winner of the Purple Heart, the Presidential citation, Good Conduct badge, and the Combat Infantryman badge.

Born on May 2, 1920, the former Seattleite was inducted on Oct. 25, 1941 at Anchorage, Alaska. He was graduated by Broadway high school in 1938.

Survivors are his brother, Calvin, and sister, Mrs. Satoshi Masuda, of 318 29th Ave.

The family has requested no eulogy.

Additional Claims Queries, Replies

(Editor's note: This is the sixteenth of a series of questions and answers on the evacuation claims law prepared by Edward J. Ennis, JACL Anti-Discrimination Committee special counsel, and released by the Washington Office of the JACL ADC as a public service. This series is based on actual questions asked of this office.)

(Any reader who has general questions relating to the law itself or to procedural matters is invited to address a letter with a stamped, self-addressed return envelope to the Washington Office, JACL Anti-Discrimination Committee, Evacuation Claims Section, 300 Fifth Street Northwest, Washington 2, D. C. Questions of general interest may be produced in this series without personal identification.)

(No questions involving the legality or value of specific claims can be answered.)

1. Q. Due to the evacuation I sold out my chicken flocks. The income tax people compelled me to pay a capital gains tax. Can I claim for this capital gains tax which I would not have had to pay if evacuation did not force me to liquidate?

A. In view of the fact that there was a capital gains tax apparently you made a profit on the sale of your chicken flocks. If the sales price was less than the reasonable value of the chickens you might recover the difference. It probably will be very difficult to recover the tax because the tax would be due upon any profitable sale of the chickens, with or without the evacuation. The only way the tax might be recovered indirectly would be to argue that you are entitled to recover the difference between the full reasonable value of the chickens at the time of sale and the net sale price actually received which was the sales price received by you less that part of the price which you paid in taxes.

2. Q. Can I use the price I had to pay for the chickens in order to start my flocks again in calculating the loss? Is it correct to use a per chicken calculation in subtracting the price at which I had to sell from the price I had to pay to get my flock started again in order to determine my loss? For instance, I sold my flock of 10,000 chickens at X each. In starting again, I could only borrow enough money to buy 2,000 hens, but had to pay at a rate of 3X each. Can I calculate my loss at 10,000 times 3X less 10,000 times X?

A. The loss which the Government probably will allow is the difference between the reasonable value of your chickens at the time of sale and the price you received for them. It is extremely doubtful that the Government will allow the larger sum based upon the present larger value of chickens, especially if you have not repurchased chickens. If you have actually gone back into the business and repurchased some chickens at a higher price than the reasonable value of such chickens at the time of evacuation, you may claim as your loss the difference between this higher price which you have paid and the amount you received for similar chickens sold by you and argue that this is your actual loss because this is the amount necessary to make complete restitution. For example, if a chicken of the reasonable value of $2.00 at the time of evacuation was sold for $1.00, and it has cost you $3.00 now to purchase a similar chicken, you could argue that your loss is $2.00 rather than the difference between the reasonable value at the time of evacuation and the amount you received, which is $1.00. It is by no means clear, however, that the Government will accept this calculation.

3. Q. When I was in relocation center we were encouraged to go out and seek employment. I went out on my own and visited several communities while looking for suitable employment. At each stop I had to spend money for investigation and entertainment. Can I claim travel expenses plus expenses at each of my stops?

A. It is doubtful that the Government will credit these expenses as a loss of property caused by the evacuation. But, of course, the only way you can get a final determination on the matter from the Department of Justice is to file the claim.

4. Q. I bought a 1939 car which we paid by down payment and just got done paying the amount of $900 when two months later we were evacuated. We had to sell the car for $400. Do I have a claim?

A. You have a good claim for the difference between the amount you paid on the car and the amount you received. If your car was completely paid for, your loss is the difference between its reasonable value and the amount you received for it, which does not always depend upon the purchase price. It may be that you purchased the car for $900 but you may have used it in such a way that it was not worth that much at the time you were forced to sell it because of depreciation, accidents or other factors. On the other hand, if you had made a particularly good purchase, it may have been worth more than the $900.

Repose and cheerfulness are the badge of the gentleman—repose in energy.—Emerson.

Well, folks, here we are again, back at the same old stand after a few weeks of enforced rest—which, while not serious, was enough to keep us from writing this column.

During our absence from the public prints, it appears that a few people have asked why old "EX GI" wasn't writing any more. This is indeed flattering, since your correspondent wasn't aware that anybody read this column besides his relatives and a few assorted other individuals.

With the added confidence born of this knowledge, therefore, "EX GI" returns to work and hopes his readers will find something of interest in the following roundup of the news.

VA REORGANIZES

Last week, the long-awaited shake-up of the VA organizational structure occurred, but it wasn't as revolutionary as some observers had expected. For months prior to Administrator Carl Gray's announcement to the press, it was rumored that (1) all thirteen branch offices would be closed, (2) the thirteen branches would be consolidated into a smaller number, with the Seattle office retained or eliminated, and (3) so on and so forth—any veteran familiar with rumors in the Army or in relocation centers knows how it goes. As usual, rumor turned out to be far from the truth.

Under the reorganization plan announced last week by the VA head, the branch offices were retained, but shorn of their supervisory functions over the state regional offices and hospitals. Supervision from now on will be handled from Washington, D. C., with the main work of the branches to be concentrated on insurance and death claims, which will be handled as before.

The new plan is expected to eliminate 2500 VA employees nationally, with about 200 workers to be reduced from the 900 now employed at the Seattle branch office, which is located at Second Avenue and Marion Street. The change will not be noticed by veterans and their families, according to the VA, since it affects only the organization of the VA itself.

THIS 'N THAT

It looks like veterans will have to wait some more for that state bonus, now that the state Supreme Court has ruled that the bonus measure passed last November was unconstitutional. Sponsors of the measure will, however, try again to find a recipe which will be approved by the court. . . . DUFFY KIYOHARA, one of the better-known NVC members from White River Valley, will soon become a married man, picking Lincoln's Birthday as the wedding date. His bride will be Miss Teru Nakata, and all his friends, including this correspondent, wish them a long and happy married life. . . . FLOYD YAMAMOTO, Spokane veteran now employed at Boeing's, is really an enthusiastic bowler. His 224 game in the Tuesday league last week, plus a big 266 registered in open play, proves that his constant practice is paying off. . . . The Berkeley Nisseis, whose style of basketball brought them second place in the recent All-Oriental meet, are showing that their performance was no fluke. They're currently leading the NAU loop down south with 4 wins and no losses, and in a recent game ran up 77 points against their opponents. Johnny Oshida is leading Berkeley's evenly-paced attack at present, with 46 points in the four league games. . . . And that's about all for this time, friends; see you next week, same time, same place.
