

City-Wide Drive to Raise $8,000 For ADC Opens on Tuesday, April 12; Y. Fujii Named to Chairmanship

Asks Lowering Of Postage

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 30—An appeal was made to the Post Office Department today to lower postage for relief packages to the Orient to the same level as postage rates on relief packages to Marshall plan countries.

Relief packages to those countries in Europe may be mailed for six cents a pound. Relief packages to non-Marshall plan countries, including Japan and Korea, cost ten cents a pound.

Mike Masaoka, national JACL Anti-Discrimination Committee legislative director, in a letter to Paul Aiken, second assistant postmaster general said:

"In all fairness to Americans who are sending relief packages to destitute countries in the Orient, we respectfully urge that parcel post rates to the Far East be lowered and made uniform with rates to Europe.

"We believe the reasons for making this request for uniformity are obvious.

"When this matter was first called to your attention, the parcel post rate was 14 cents per pound to the Orient, but it has since been lowered to ten cents per pound for relief packages only.

"We now ask that this rate be reduced to six cents per pound so there will be no discrimination between the various parts of the world to which relief packages are sent," Mr. Masaoka wrote.

He also pointed out that JACL ADC is supporting legislation to permit relief packages to be sent by parcel post without cost to all forms not directly pertaining to the war ravaged countries of the world.

Starting Tuesday, April 12, and lasting until the following Tuesday, April 19, a city-wide drive to raise $8,000 will be launched by the Anti-Discrimination Committee in Seattle, it was announced today by Yoshito Fujii who has been named chairman by the ADC here.

The funds will be used to aid the Washington State Committee Against Discrimination in its work, the passage of the ENI (Equality in Naturalization and Immigration) legislation in Congress, and the setting up of proper machinery for the processing of evacuation claims.

The ADC drive headquarters will be 110-111 Sixth Ave. S., Seattle.

One representative will be asked from each of the following organizations to act as captains during the fund-raising push: the Nisei Veterans Committee, the Anti-Discrimination Committee, the JACL (Japanese American Citizens League) and the Japanese American Service Club.

Chicago Attorneys To Aid Claimants

CLEVELAND, Ohio, March 30—Approximately 50 claimants, mostly Issei, will have their evacuation claims handled by two attorneys from Chicago through arrangements made with the Midwest Regional office, according to George Chida, evacuation claims committee chairman.

The legal pair from Chicago will be in Cleveland on April 2 and 3. To expedite the handling of as many claims as possible, the Cleveland chapter has assisted in the filling in of all questions on the official form not directly pertaining to the war claim. It was revealed.

Seattle JACL Chapter Urges Issei To Apply for Naturalization Now

Commenting on the recent passage by the House of the Judd bill (HR 199) to equalize immigration and naturalization, the Seattle Chapter of the JACL urged alien Japanese to apply for naturalization at once to facilitate favorable action by the Senate.

A statement from the local chapter points out that one of the arguments against the bill is that very few would take advantage of citizenship if it were available. This conviction, strongly held by some members of Congress, is based on experiences with other oriental nationals to whom citizenship privileges were granted a few years ago.

Believing that this assumption is unwarranted in the case of Japanese, JACL indicates that the only way to refute the argument is to have on file a large number of citizenship applications. By filing now, the alien also benefits personally since the waiting period is calculated from the date the original declaration is submitted.

Applications for first papers may be obtained at either the Immigration and Naturalization Service, 815 Airport Way, or the Jackson Street Community Council, 414 5th Ave. So. There is no charge for the service at either office. An interpreter at the Community Council will fill out applications. Although the Council has already assisted 26 Japanese in filing papers, no appointments are necessary and no waiting is involved.

Among the items of information required of applicants are date and port of entry into the United States and name of ship for original voyage and all subsequent trips; date of birth of applicant and all immediate members of his family; date of marriage; and alien registration number. Applicants who because of peculiar circumstances cannot secure some of the information listed above may still file by indicating that it is not available.

Three unsigned photographs, 2 inches by 2 inches, are required before the application can be completed.

Revelle Points Out Generals' High Opinion of Fighting 442nd Combat Team

(Editor's note: Following are excerpts from George H. Revelle's talk at the funeral services for the seven Nisei War Dead last Saturday afternoon in the Seattle Buddhist auditorium. Revelle was an executive staff officer under Gen. Mark Clark in the Fifth Army during World War II.)

... everyone in the audience is well acquainted with the unit's awards and the very many individual awards that the men of the 442nd and the 100th battalion earned in the war ... that the audience was well acquainted with the fighting record of the unit ...

But, perhaps, I could bring them some information about behind-the-scenes activity which would show how the unit stood in the opinion of the superiors and comrades in arms.

First one of the instances was a conference between myself and two high-ranking generals. One of the generals had the task of landing in southern France and the other the task of continuing the fight in Italy. At this meeting which I attended, the generals were discussing how to divide the various fighting units that were available.

One general would take so many divisions and the other general would take another division. And the only unit that they both wanted and they insisted that each must have in order to make his mission a success, was the 442nd ... And the agreement between them was only decided when it was agreed that the 442nd would go to southern France on condition that it returned to Italy so that both generals got the use of it.

Another instance was at the time of the Battle of the Bulge where the Americans were temporarily on the defensive. The commanding general in Italy thought that there might be another such attempt by the Germans on his front so he spoke to his officer in charge of operations and asked him to review how the troops were placed along the front.

After finding out the disposition of the divisions on the front, the general directed that two of the divisions be sent from the right side to the left side where he thought that the German attack would come — if it came.

The officer to whom the general was addressing, said, "But, general, you are leaving a front of over 35 miles practically undefended". To that remark, the general said:

"Oh, no, you forget that we have the 442nd regiment to cover that 35 miles" (which shows the general's very high opinion of the fighting ability of the unit and the important use he could make of the unit).

The other instance was after the end of the war in Italy.

More than 300,000 prisoners had to be guarded and, at the same time, the general was ordered to send what troops he could to the Pacific theatre of war. He designated most of his troops to go.

A staff officer at this particular meeting said, "If we send all that, general, we would have nothing to guard the prisoners in case the prisoners should revolt or make some attack of opposition."

The general said that "you will notice that I have kept the 442nd combat team which could certainly handle those prisoners" which again was another task way beyond the normal capabilities of a unit of that size. The 442nd subsequently performed the task perfectly.

The only true memorial that can be made to the men of the 442nd and which is equal to their record and loyalty as citizens, is the living memorial which is now being made by members of the majority race in the United States in the following incidents:

(1) In our own state of Washington, the citizens of the state have just passed a law against discrimination;

(2) The United States Congress is acting to right the wrongs done during evacuation; and

(3) Other steps to bring equality of opportunity in this country, regardless of race, color, creed or racial origin, are being taken at this time.

The matters in which the majority of the country are ashamed of, are being rightfully corrected due to the sacrifices on record of a unit such as the 442nd.

Postal Workers Evacuated from Coast Urged to Contact National JACL ADC

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 30—Postal employees evacuated from the west coast were urged today to contact the national JACL ADC Washington office immediately so a decision can be reached on seeking legislation giving evacuees credit for time spent in relocation centers if they have been reemployed by the postal department.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson (D., Wash.), told JACL ADC the Civil Service Commission advised him it could not redefine war transfers to include Japanese and Americans of Japanese ancestry so they could receive credit for time spent in the center for purposes of within-grade salary advancements.

Harry B. Mitchell, Civil Service Commission president, said "the commission is not unmindful of the fact that the relocation program resulted in many unfair and perhaps unnecessary hardships, but the solution seems to lie in legislative rather than administrative action".

An effort will be made to assist evacuees reemployed with the postal department if they will contact: Japanese American Citizens League, Anti-Discrimination Committee, 300 5th St., N. E., Washington 2, D. C.

MEMORIAL SERVICES

A capacity crowd, many of whom had to stand for lack of seating capacity, filled the Buddhist Auditorium to overflowing last Saturday afternoon to pay their last respects to seven Nisei soldiers, all of whom died in action overseas with the 442 Combat Team. The seven war dead, all of whom were from Seattle and the immediate vicinity, were: Pfc. William H. Taketa, Pfc. Matsuyasu Tanaka, Pvt. Satoru Onodera, Pvt. William S. Mizukami, Pvt. George Tatsumi, Tec. 4 William I. Imamoto, and Pfc. Richard M. Tamura.

Principal speaker at the services was George H. Revelle, prominent local attorney and temporary Municipal Judge, who served during the war as a Lieutenant-Colonel in the 3rd Infantry Division and as a staff officer under General Mark W. Clark of the Fifth Army. Revelle lauded the war record of the famed 442nd Combat Team, stating that it was a unit which every general wanted as a part of his own command because of its outstanding performance in battle. He emphasized that, due almost solely to the combat record of the 442nd, the American people are seeking legislation to rectify the wrongs done to the Japanese-American popula-

JACL Supporter Named to Senate

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 30—Dr. Frank P. Graham, president of North Carolina University, who was appointed to the Senate to replace the North Carolina Senator who died earlier this month, has been a national sponsor of the Japanese American Citizens League since 1934.

Dr. Graham has been described as one of the south's most distinguished citizens.

Among other tasks, he served on the President's Commission on Civil Rights which drafted the report which became the basis for Mr. Truman's civil rights program.

He is very much aware of problems of Japanese ancestry, and the problems of Asia, according to Mike Masaoka, national JACL ADC legislative director. Masaoka said Dr. Graham should be a helpful force in attempting to obtain passage of the Judd act in the Senate, a task which might prove more difficult than previously considered.

NISEI VETS IN CITY LOOP

It won't be long now until the Nisei Vets baseball team, top Nisei team in the Northwest, plays its opening game of the season on Sunday, April 17th.

The Vets, who until this season have confined their play to the Puget Sound League, have now moved upward into the tough City Baseball League, which will operate this year with a total of eight teams. In the fast City loop, the Vets will contend with the Seattle Elks, Rainier District, John F. Gibson, Teamsters, Fort Lawton, and the American-Italian Club, with an eighth team which has not been selected at this writing.

The Vet roster will be much the same as last year. In turnouts, they have been lining up something like this: Ted Matsushita, 1B; Tak Yagi, 2B; Ray Saito, SS; Jimmy Yamaguchi, 3B; George Fumai, Yosh Fujiwara, Chuck Kinoshita, Frank Hori, and Sam Sakai, outfield. Catching duties are split between Poison Kato and Ted Shinoda, while the pitching staff of Edo Sasaki, George Shimizu, and Mas Nakamichi is the familiar trio which hurled the Vets to victory in the Fourth of July Northwest Tournament last year.

Ray Saito, who played for Ontario in 1948, and Frank Hori, who starred for White River last season, should strengthen the Vet nine considerably and add punch to the attack on opposing pitchers. Saito is an infielder with class, while Hori is a versatile player who can play both the outfield and first base. After the University of Washington varsity finishes its season, stellar Heat Heyamoto will also return to the Vet lineup, adding further strength.

Against the caliber of competition they will face in the City League, the Vets can't expect to be favorites for the pennant, but they probably won't be the bottom team. At least, they hope not. In the opinion of Joe Kesamaru, who will again manage the Vet nine, the general level of play in the City League is much faster than in the Puget Sound League, but the better teams in the latter circuit would do okay in the City League. We gather from Joe, therefore, the opinion that the Nisei Vets will do all right by themselves, tough league or not.

Incidentally, Kesamaru says that this year he will do all his managing from the bench, retiring from active play. Jo-Jo White is doing the same with the Rainiers, of course. But in a tight spot, with the bases loaded in the ninth inning and the score tied, we wouldn't be a bit surprised to see cagy Joe Kesamaru forget he's supposed to be retired, and step into the batter's box. Some way or another, we think of Joe as the best bet on the team to get that winning run across — even if he had to steal first base to do it!

TACOMA WEDDING ... TACOMA, Wash., March 30—The Tacoma Buddhist Church was the setting for the wedding of Miss Fumi Sasaki, daughter of Mrs. Ko Sasaki of Orting, Wash., to Mr. Yosh Tanabe, son of Mr. and Mrs. K. Tanabe of Fife, Wash., on Sunday, March 27. The Rev. J. Ono officiated.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Pete Sasaki, was lovely in a white satin gown with a net yolk and short peplum. Her fingertip illusion veil was edged in lace and she carried a bouquet of stephanotis centered with three large lavender orchids.

Best man was Mr. Del Tanabe, brother of the groom, and the usher was Mr. John Sasaki, brother of the bride.

Miss Kats Hashimoto sang "Aloha" and "Because" and the wedding march was played by Miss Janet Yoshioka.

The reception was held later in the evening in the New Yorker Cafe with Mr. Daichi Yoshioka presiding as toastmaster.

Maid of honor was Miss Aki Sasaki, sister of the bride, and bridesmaid was Miss Mid Tanabe, sister of the groom. They both wore light blue gowns fashioned similarly to that of the bride's, and carried bouquets of pink carnations.

7,000 Boys Will Participate Here In 27th Annual Scout Circus

Rehearsals are well under way for the twenty-seventh annual Boy Scout Circus, with troops in every part of King County scheduled to participate, according to a progress report this week by Van S. McKenny, general chairman of the 1949 Circus Committee. The event will take place at the Edmundson Pavilion, University of Washington, Friday and Saturday evenings, April 8-9, with more than 7,000 boys participating.

Thousands of Scouts are now selling tickets, at 50 cents each, in the hope that their troops will receive sufficient commissions to send Scouts to Camp Parsons this summer on "camp ships." Most of the proceeds of the Circus will finance the operation and maintenance of Camp Parsons, the Scout camp on Hood Canal, which is not included in the Community Chest allocation to the Boy Scout Council.

The program will open with a grand march and circus parade at 7:30 p.m., to be followed by eight acts illustrating the major activities of the Boy Scouts, Cubs and senior Scouts. The first event on the regular program will be the Cub Act, involving two thousand Cub Scouts between the ages of 9 and 12.

The Advancement Act, which follows, will illustrate preparations for hiking, finding the way, cooking a meal, observation, signalling and first aid. Camp activities will be featured in a separate presentation.

Star and Life Scouts, the more advanced group, will show their skill at canoeing, cycling, carpentry, horsemanship, masonry, physical development, signalling, skiing and surveying.

A "disaster" demonstration, involving an airplane crash and a dramatic rescue by Sea and Forest Scouts, will be the concluding act, followed by a grand finale which will present in vivid fashion the national Boy Scout theme for 1949-50: "Strengthen the Arm of Liberty."

McKenny also announced the names of the adult volunteers who head the planning group for the Scout Circus. Earl Grundelund, 412 North 61st Street, has been appointed production manager, and Warren Montgomery, 7350 9th Avenue N. W., ringmaster for the event, which will afford 7,000 boys an opportunity to show their Scouting skills. Assistant production managers, each of whom is responsible for a major circus event, are Bert Hobbs, 7016 Dibble Avenue N. W., advancement; Walter Hertzman, 3403 27th West, camp activities; Karl Spitz, 225 36th Ave. North, Star and Life Scouting; and William Lowe, 7154 18th Avenue S. W., senior scouting.

T. V. Turner, 8203 Roosevelt Way, and G. U. Miller, 7802 Roosevelt Way, are the Circus Committee members in charge of ticket sales. Leo Elertson, 5302 East 42nd, president of the Seattle Area Council, Boy Scouts, has assumed responsibility for arrangements regarding honor guests.

"Since the troops will share in the proceeds," McKenny said, "our committee hopes that everyone who believes in Scouting will help further the effort by buying Circus tickets from a Scout."

The Boy Scout Council, a Red Feather service of the Seattle-King County Community Chest, maintains a year-round program of character-building activities for boys from the age of 12 upward. Nine-year-olds, however, are eligible to join Cub Scout packs. The camping program, an outdoor continuation of the winter schedule, is separately financed, with most of the funds coming from the sale of Circus tickets.

Evacuation Claims Queries, Replies

(Ed. note: This is the twenty-first of a series of questions and answers on the evacuation claims law prepared by Edward J. Ennis, JACL Anti-Discrimination Committee special counsel, and released by the Washington Office of the JACL ADC as a public service. This series is based on actual questions asked of this office.

(Any reader who has general questions relating to the law is invited to address a letter with a stamped, self-addressed return envelope to the Washington Office, JACL Anti-Discrimination Committee, Evacuation Claims Section, 300 Fifth Street Northwest, Washington 2, D. C. Questions of general interest may be produced in this series without personal identification.

(No questions involving the legality or value of specific claims can be answered.)

1. Q. During evacuation my sister, who had one-third interest in a trucking company which was owned by three partners, passed away. During evacuation the company was operated for the partners by a trustee, a manager, and a bookkeeper. If there had been no evacuation the salaries and fees of these men would not have been necessary. Prior to the war the business of the company was largely Japanese. During the war the company's business consisted largely of war contracts. After the war, before new business could be obtained from any one, the war contract business disappeared. Finally it was necessary to liquidate the partnership and all the trucks except one were sold to meet the debts. The owners did not realize anything from the sale of their business. In addition to the fees of the trustee, manager, and bookkeeper, would it be possible to claim for the net worth of the business as of the end of the war since the need for the sale of the business would not have occurred if evacuation had not taken place? My brother administered the estate of my sister. Since my sister did not make out a will, we do not know in whose name we should make the claim. Although my mother is an alien, should she claim for my sister's share? Or should my brother, as administrator, make the claim?

A. You should file a claim for all your packing, hauling, and other expenses in closing up the stores, for the difference between the reasonable value of the fixtures and the amount which you received for them, and for the value of the merchandise which you destroyed if you can prove that you could not obtain any substantial price for it. You should also put in a claim for the value of the going business based on the income. A claim may also be made for the fair rental value of the house less the amount you received for it. You do not state whether the house was held in your name. If it was, you might claim the home less as well as the business loss, but if it was not it would be better to have your father, as head of the family, claim the home loss.

3. Q. Before the war, I was engaged in a wholesale dealer business for nearly 20 years. I had a stall at a market and had a good steady route of farmers from whom I bought the vegetables. I had two trucks which I sold at a very reasonable price. In this type of business, the exact loss is not known or cannot be figured due to the fact that the investment or value of business is the route of farmers from whom I bought the merchandise. Can I file a claim on my business and how can I make the claim?

A. You should file a claim for the value of your business on the theory that your steady route of farmers gave your business a going-concern value which constitutes intangible personal property (apart from the personal property of your trucks) which was damaged by the evacuation. Many businesses have a good-will and going-concern value which is considerably larger than the value of the physical property used in the business and which is based upon the good-will built up with customers. You might determine the value of this business by capitalizing the income. For example, a business which produced an income of $5,000 a year might be valued at $50,000. The difficulty with this claim is that it will have to be successfully contended that the destruction of the good-will or going-concern value constitutes a damage to personal property within the meaning of the Act.

2. Q. My father owned and operated two oriental curio stores before the war. In 1941, upon the advice of an attorney, the business was transferred to me, a citizen. On December 8, 1941, we were forced to close the stores by the F.B.I. The stores were closed for ten days, which was during the busiest time of the year for our retail trade. We, therefore, lost several thousand dollars worth of business. May we claim all or even a portion of this loss?

Firmly believing that the Nisei would not be interned, we decided to operate one store only and moved all the merchandise into one store and stored the rest in the basement of our house. After one month of difficult and expensive packing and hauling, the closing of one store was completed. However, when the Nisei too were ordered to evacuate, we had to move our merchandise into our home and rented the entire first floor for only $5.00 a month. Due to the lack of storage space, and with little time to sell the bulky goods, we took several loads of merchandise to the city dumping grounds and burned them. Are we entitled to claim this loss? We also carried over $5,000 worth of store fixtures. This figure was always reported in our income tax and bank reports, but all we were able to receive for them was about $200. Wall cases, shelving, etc., and all other fixtures that were not easily removed, we left behind. May we claim this loss?

A. You should file a claim for your packing, hauling, and other expenses in closing up the stores, for the difference between the reasonable value of the fixtures and the amount which you received for them, and for the value of the merchandise which you destroyed if you can prove that you could not obtain any substantial price for it.
