

Local ADC Fund Push Of $5,000 Starts April 20

Two Nisei Hurt In Earthquake

Lillian and Dick Tanabe, 11 and 7 respectively, were the only known persons of Japanese ancestry in Seattle who were hurt during the earthquake Wednesday. Lillian suffered bruises and a cut knee, and Dick, scratches.

The youngsters were staying at Nord hotel which is operated by Y. Tanaka. As a result of the tremor, all occupants in the hotel have been ordered to evacuate until further notice.

'Quake and I'

CLAIRE SUGURO, junior, Seattle University — I first noticed the chandelier swaying. Then I knew it was an earthquake so I walked over to the doorway. I was in one of the faculty members' offices at the time. Some of the students were quite scared, but most of them were calm. The professors told their students, who were in the midst of exams, to "stay where you are" and finish the tests.

HARRY TAKAGI, claims division, Veterans Administration — Sure, I was scared as one really feels the building (Textile) swaying when he is on the fourteenth floor. Everybody seemed kind of bewildered. It was as if some unseen giant was pushing the building.

GEORGE MORIHIRO, part-time employe, Tall's Travel Shop — Only thing wrong with the quake was that it shook too long. I was scared because I couldn't stand still. I was repairing some gears for a camera when it happened. Everybody was running out of restaurants into the streets and all heads were looking up. Waitresses and customers all were out.

CHARLES TOSHI, Seventh Ave Service — I was at home eating my lunch when the shock came. I understand one of the boys working for our place was under an automobile at the time. It's a good thing the stand held the car. My fellow workers (George Koyama at 19th and Washington and Ted Imanaka at 15th and Spruce) both reported that their chimneys fell on account of the tremor.

Team Captains, Volunteer Workers Will Begin Soliciting Promptly After Kickoff Luncheon

With $5,000 set as the quota, the local Anti-Discrimination Committee will open its city-wide drive next Wednesday, April 20, with a kickoff luncheon from 12 o'clock at Gyokko Ken Cafe. The drive will continue until Wednesday, April 27.

William Mambu, president of the local ADC, will be in charge of the luncheon. Team captains and drive workers will start soliciting immediately after the luncheon.

The drive is to raise sufficient funds for this year's budget to carry out the ADC program both here and nationally. Locally, the ADC will aid the state fair employment practices bill and the setting up of proper machinery for the processing of evacuation claims. On the national level, the passage of the ENI (Equality in naturalization and immigration) legislation now in Congress will be the primary objective. The ADC drive headquarters will be at 110-111 Jackson building.

Following organizations will assist the ADC in the fund-raising campaign: the Nisei Veterans Committee, the Japanese American Citizens League and the Japanese American Service Club.

Thirtythree districts, including Hunt hostel, will be covered by more than a hundred solicitors. Outlying districts are Renton Highlands, White Center, Bellevue, Vashon, Bainbridge, Kent and Auburn.

NVC Backs Drive

Support of a drive to raise $5,000 by the Anti-Discrimination Committee from April 20-27 was given by the Seattle Nisei Veterans Committee, according to Dick Setsuda, newly-elected chairman of the NVC.

In a statement to THE NORTHWEST TIMES, Setsuda stated:

"The NVC Advisory board in a recent meeting (March 29) approved support of the Judd bill (HR 199) to equalize immigration and naturalization, and the state fair employment practices bill. It was also announced that the members of the NVC will assist in their ADC-sponsored fund drive for the above bills, starting April 20."

The flowering of civilization is of social power—the gentleman.

Portland Back To Normal

PORTLAND, Oreg., April 16 — Portland's Japanese community took the earthquake which Wednesday forenoon stretched the full length of Western Washington and into Oregon's coastal strip, in cool stride. The shock here was a rather mild one in comparison to that striking Seattle and other Washington cities.

People went about "business as usual" after the minute-long shaking of buildings. Rumors that another tremor would follow, were quickly dispelled after several hours of anxiety.

Hopes Rise on Senate Approval Of Judd's ENI Legislation

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 16 — Prospects for favorable Senate action on the Judd bill (HR 199) which passed the House March 1, appeared somewhat brighter today.

This was indicated in a statement issued by Sen. Pat McCarran (D., Nev.), chairman of the Senate Subcommittee on Immigration and Naturalization when he said:

"I personally look with favor on the principle of the Judd bill."

Because of the Senator's strategic position as chairman of both the subcommittee and Senate Judiciary Committee, which will take up the Judd bill if approved by the Subcommittee, Senator McCarran's views are especially important.

During the past two weeks there has been considerable speculation that Senator McCarran would favor incorporating the Judd bill into an omnibus immigration and naturalization measure which is being studied and prepared by a special Senate committee, also headed by Senator McCarran.

However, in commenting on the Judd bill, Senator McCarran said:

"I think it deserves to come up separately because it is a separate situation. It will take a year or more for the omnibus bill to come out because of extensive studies necessary in revising all our immigration laws."

He added that he did not "favor flooding the country with Japanese or any other alien peoples, but I do favor granting citizenship to Japanese in this country who have demonstrated they deserve it."

There has been a growing, if small, criticism of certain sections of the Judd bill since its passage in the House.

Chinese Americans Object
Chinese Americans from the west coast have been highly critical, and very vocal in their criticism, of a section of the bill which would remove wives from the quota free status they now enjoy in China.

This would be done through a provision which would eliminate all wives and children from quota-free status in countries where the annual quota is less than 200.

SUPPORT THE ANTI-DISCRIMINATION COMMITTEE!

The Evacuation Claims Bill was successfully passed by Congress last year and recently the Judd Bill for Equality in Naturalization and Immigration passed the House unanimously. Locally the Fair Employment Act against job discrimination became law in the State of Washington in the last session of the Legislature.

But much work remains to be done in processing the Claims which are being filed for evacuation losses. Also the Judd Bill must be pushed through the Senate and signed by the President.

The Anti-Discrimination Committee and its staff are working hard on these activities. Communities other than Seattle have given outstanding support to this program.

The local committee is planning a financial campaign in Seattle between April 20 and April 27, 1949. Our goal is $5,000.00.

PLEASE SUPPORT THIS DRIVE.

Remains of 3 Nisei GI's in Pacific Returned Home for Reinterment

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 16—The remains of three Nisei heroes who lost their lives in the Pacific theater have been returned to the United States for reinterment at the request of next of kin, the Department of the Army advised the JACL Anti-Discrimination Committee today.

The three, and next of kin, are: Sgt. Masaki H. Nakamura — Mrs. Fumi Nakamura, 720 Victory Hts., Spokane, Wash.

T/4 Joe Y. Kadoyama — Hyakumatsu Kadoyama, 1616 E. 1st St., Los Angeles.

T/4 Satoshi B. Kurokawa — Hyoe Kurokawa, 673 No. 10th St. San Jose.

Sgt. Nakamura lost his life during World War II in the Pacific theater of war.

Gives to NWMC

Seichi Hara of 622 Jackson St. this week donated twenty-five dollars to the Nisei War Memorial Committee, according to Hisato Fujii, treasurer of the NWMC. Hara's contribution, which was in memory of his son, Sgt. Ben Hara, will be used towards the dedication of the NWMC Veterans monument at Lake View cemetery.

Several groups, especially in the New York area, have criticized another section which would restrict colonies to only 100 immigrants per year of a mother country quota.

The chief effect of this provision would be to reduce immigration from the British West Indies, although to what extent is still problematical. For a number of years, immigration of British West Indians from this area has been approximately 2500 annually.

The Japanese American Citizens League is not favorable towards either of the two controversial sections.

States JACL Stand

The JACL position, as stated by Mike Masaoka, national JACL ADC director, is that:

"We feel the Subcommittee should hold early open hearings on the Judd bill. At that time, those opposed to the two subordinate sections should certainly make their position clear and ask for Senate amendments to the controversial provisions.

"We definitely would not oppose amending the bill to preserve the immigration rights of British West Indians, the quota-free status of Chinese wives, and the quota-free status of wives and children of Filipinos.

"We do feel, though, that if Chinese wives, for example, are permitted to enter the United States quota-free, the same privilege should be extended to wives of all naturalized citizens from Asiatic countries.

"It may be considered 'equality' to reduce all Asiatic and Pacific island countries to the most restrictive set of regulations governing immigration, but it would be a more 'democratic equality' to raise all Asiatic and Pacific island peoples to the most favorable regulations governing immigration," he said.

Masaoka said it should be pointed out the two controversial sections of the Judd bill were inserted into the measure after public hearings were held in 1948, and thus have never come up for public discussion before a Congressional committee. The JACL ADC was in no way responsible for either of the provisions, he added.

A major point of emphasis by the JACL ADC is that both of these provisions are relatively minor, as compared to the overall, basic philosophy of the Judd bill, and simple amendments could clarify the bill without affecting a piece of vital legislation.

Congressional observers consider it difficult at this time to talk in terms of a "time schedule" on the future of the bill in the Senate.

For one thing, there is a growing backlog of highly important domestic and international legislation which must be settled. As it is normal for Congress to terminate the first half of a session in early June, when possible, this means each additional day's delay in acting on the Judd bill means that much more 'priority' legislation must be acted on first.

And while Senator McCarran certainly indicated he was favorably disposed towards not including the Judd bill in the omnibus immigration and naturalization study, which definitely would tie it up in Congress for at least another year, or longer, as yet there has been no definite action by either the Judiciary or its Subcommittee to formally take the same stand on the bill.

Until such formal action is taken, the future of the Judd bill in Congress must be considered as a "crossroads." However, signs do indicate now that the bill may be acted upon as a separate measure, and thus likely receive favorable action by Senate committees and the Senate as a whole.

RED CROSS NOTE

Dear editor:
May we express our thanks for the excellent cooperation and support given the cause of Red Cross during its fund raising campaign this year through the columns of your newspaper.

We are aware that every editor is constantly besieged with requests for space in his paper, and are therefore especially grateful for the generous amount of that all too limited commodity you have so willingly given to Red Cross — not only throughout the year.

Although we have not yet reached our quota, we have every reason to believe we shall, and sharing the credit for the successful conclusion of the drive will be the newspapers who publicized the needs and services of Red Cross.

Sincerely,
LEW V. DAY

It's Off to Japan This Summer For Many Tourists from States

The American tourist is on the move again — and a considerable share of the travelers are headed for Japan this summer.

Japan, always one of the world's great attractions for tourists, is even more attractive now, with thousands of Americans determined to see the strange islands and other areas of the Far East, and trips to Japan are more practical than ever because of two major developments. The two developments are the establishment of scheduled air service to Japan, which eliminates the time element which before the war kept many people from visiting the islands, and the tremendous "hospitality" program of the Japanese, who are pouring all their energies into making their islands as attractive and comfortable as possible for Americans.

The Japanese, Northwest Airlines traffic officials report, are counting heavily on close trade and travel relationships with America in their reconstruction program. The Japan Travel Bureau and other official Japanese agencies have combined their resources for a major program of rehabilitation, expansion and development of the islands' tourist attractions and facilities.

This program has already showed major results.

Japan's railroads, which carry tourists on planned tours from one historic and exotic spot to another, are being extensively modernized. Northwest Airlines officials who recently visited Japan to discuss various planned air all-expense tours with Japanese agencies, found that many of Japan's railroads compare favorably with American rolling stock. Many of the islands' lines are being electrified for even greater speed and comfort.

A large-scale effort to modernize and expand tourists' hotel facilities is also well under way. New hotels have been constructed at many of the great resorts, others have been extensively modernized, and other new buildings are planned. These hotels are modeled after the best American accommodations.

Many beautification projects are being carried out in Japanese cities. A typical example is the work upon the Ginza, Tokyo's world-famous shopping center. Here streetcar tracks are being replaced with a beautifully planted Mall down the center of the street. The thousands of shops which line the street continue to offer every possible variety of merchandise, but the sidewalk is being widened and exotic shrubs and trees will line the curb.

The Japanese are also broadening all types of recreational facilities and leaving no stone unturned to make sure U. S. tourists enjoy their stay.

Northwest travel experts, many of whom have been associated with travel to the Far East by boat for many years, know that almost every traveler nurses a desire to visit these exotic lands. Now, with the "mysterious East" only hours away by modern airliners, they expect the number of visitors to increase beyond the wildest guess of experts 10 years ago.

L. A. Chamber Wires Regrets

Believing that the earthquake which Wednesday rocked the Pacific Northwest had struck the Japanese population hard, G. Nakamura, president of the Japanese Chamber of Commerce of Southern California, sent the following wire of sympathy and assurance of support to G. Mihara, president of the Seattle Japanese Service club:

"Our deepest sympathy to Japanese sufferers in the Pacific Northwest in the recent earthquake reported here Wednesday. Please do not hesitate to call on us for any help."

Mihara Thursday night wired to Nakamura: "Many thanks for generous offer. Some property damage and surveying extent shows no casualty among us. Probably all unnecessary."
