B. C. Union Resolves Not to Oppose To Japanese Getting Fish Licenses

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 21 (New Canadian Dispatch)—The United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union will not oppose the granting of fishing licenses to Japanese Canadians...

By a revocation of Order-in-Council 251, the federal government lifted the order prohibiting fishing licenses to Japanese Canadians and the right to sail in fishing boats out of B. C. ports.

In respect to the possible return of Japanese Canadian fishermen of B. C. coastal waters, the Fishermen's Union adopted a five-point policy clarifying its stand.

The union should not oppose the granting of fishing licenses to the returning Japanese fishermen.

The union should press for over-all control of the industry in order to prevent overcrowding. The resolution was adopted at a meeting barred to all reporters.

U. W. Graduates Will be Honored

'YARDVILLE' PROJECT IN CITY CITED

CHICAGO, Ill., May 21 (Special to Northwest Times)—The "Yardville" project has created a "better-sustained furor in Seattle than did the recent over-publicized and disappointingly unspectacular earthquake". Mrs. Ruth Manca, executive secretary of the Jackson Street Community Council, told her Chicago listeners as she participated Wednesday in a "Report to the Nation" Yardville luncheon.

"Our well-ballyhooed quake disrupted a few ornamental bricks on the cornices of some of our oldest structures—but, Seattle's Yardville will be building better, pleasanter living for a whole community," added Mrs. Manca, who besides representing the Jackson Street group also came here as a representative of City of Seattle.

The "Yardville" plan, which originated in Philadelphia and has enjoyed a nation-wide growth, is sponsored in Seattle by the housing committee of the Seattle Chamber of Construction and Civic Development division. It calls for the rejuvenation of a selected area in the city, and a site in the Jackson Street area will be Seattle's "Yardville".

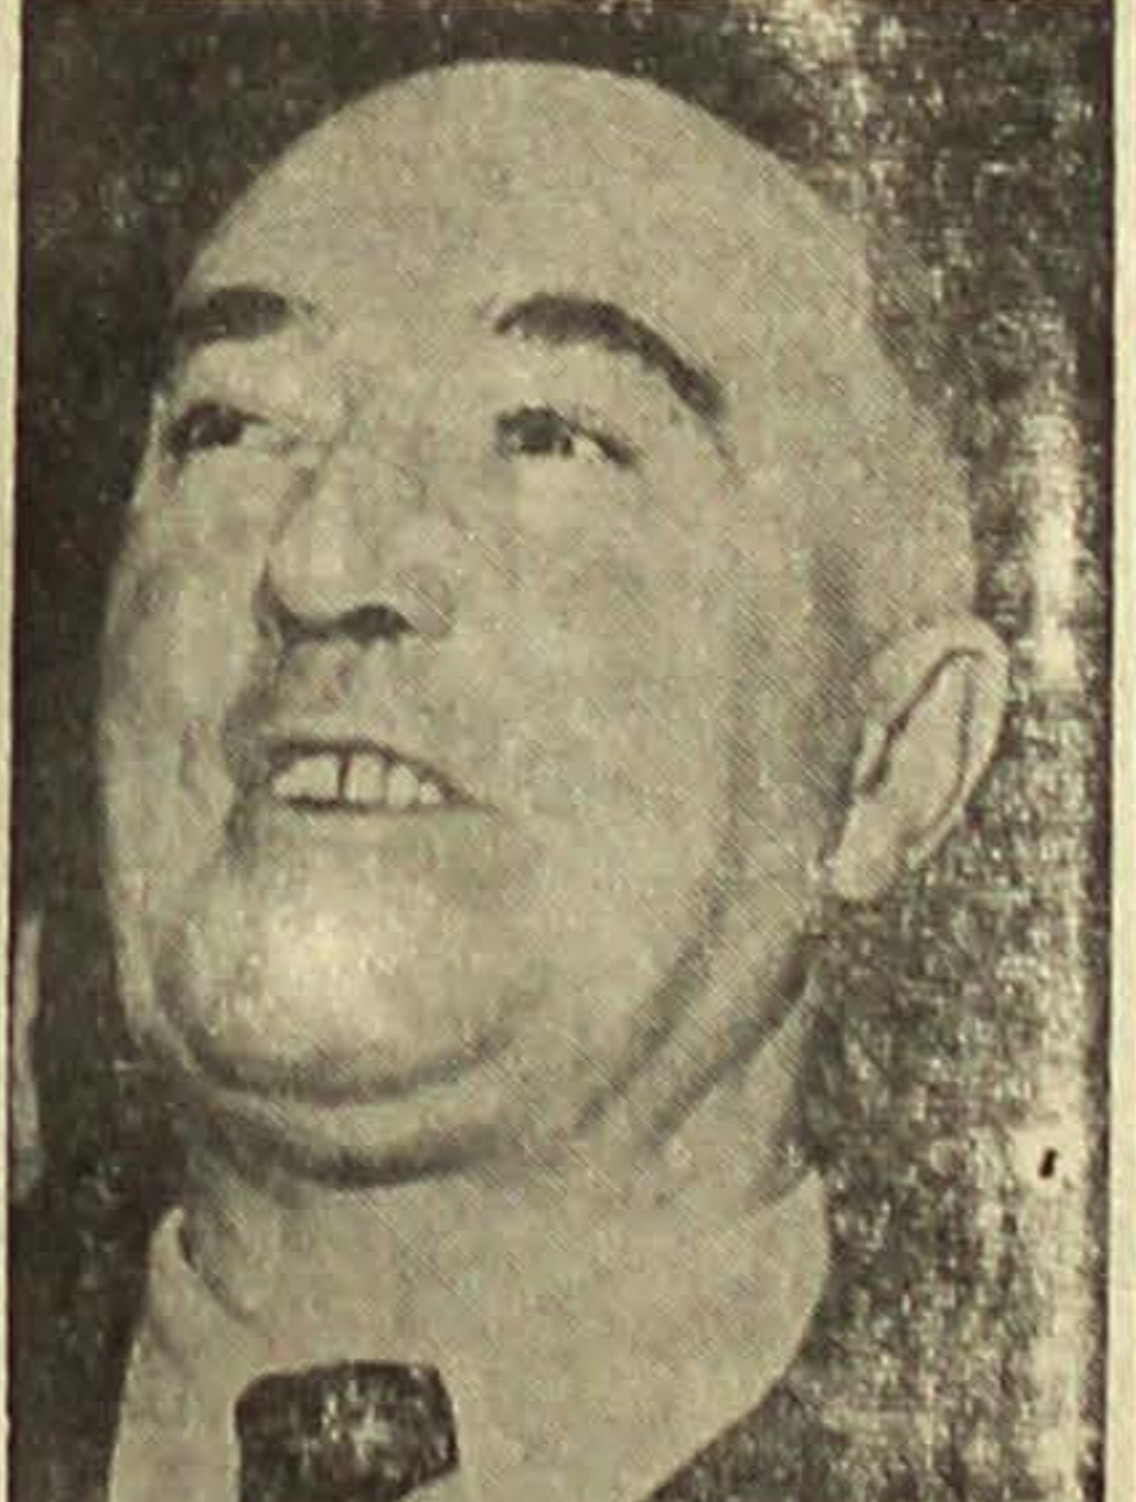

Introduces Bill To Aid Veterans

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 21—Sen. Pat McCarran, (D., Nev.), chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, Monday introduced a bill (S 1858) to admit into the United States all alien spouses and minor children of veterans and GIs.

A like measure was introduced in the House last week by Rep. Frank L. Chelf, (D., Ky.), and Del. Joseph R. Farrington, (R., Hawaii).

The McCarran bill provides that all citizens who served in, or have an honorable discharge certificate during World War II may bring spouses or unmarried minor children to this country without regard to race providing they meet all other immigration requirements such as health and education.

Saved From Anti-Red Mob

DARTMOUTH, ENGLAND—Police in Dartmouth, England reported that they had rescued British Communist Harry Pollitt from a village mob angered at Chinese Communist killing of British seamen. Before police hustled Pollitt from a Communist rally where he was scheduled to speak, John Kilgore, the father of a seaman killed in China, handed Pollitt a rope and note, suggesting that he use the rope. Pollitt is British Communist party secretary.

Col. Hanley, Former 442nd Officer, Will be Main Speaker at Services; Vets to March in Morning Parade

With Col. James M. Hanley, former executive officer of the 442nd Combat Infantry Regiment, as the main speaker, the community Memorial Day services at Lakeview cemetery will be held from 2 p.m. on Monday, May 30, according to the Nisei War Memorial Committee.

The highlight of the program will be the unveiling of the 21-foot granite monument, dedicated in honor of the 54 Nisei war dead of Seattle and vicinity. Mrs. Hisako Nakamura, widow of Pfc. William Nakamura who was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross, will represent the Gold Star Parents and Widows in the dedication ceremony.

In the morning the annual city Memorial Day parade will be held from 10 o'clock. This year, the Nisei veterans will join with other civic and service organizations in the parade.

Elmer Ogawa and Shiro Kashino, co-chairmen of the NVC parade committee, requested that all Nisei veterans to turn out for the parade in full uniform, if possible. A quota of 500 men has been set by the NVC. Included in the Nisei contingent will be the disabled Nisei veterans and the Gold Star parents and widows.

Kashino announced that the parade assembly area will be revealed early next week. The parade is scheduled to start from Second and Virginia and all parading units are to report 15 minutes prior to the starting time. A cadre of 30 men will be on hand at the parade staging area to organize and direct Nisei marchers.

Reports Favorably on Legislation

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 21—The House Judiciary Committee Wednesday reported favorably on HJR 238, introduced by Cong. Francis E. Walter (D., Pa.), to give naturalization privileges to all persons regardless of race, creed or national origin.

At the same time, a slightly modified version of the Judd bill was introduced in the Senate by Senators H. M. Kilgore (D., W. Va.), and William Langer, (R., N. D.), members of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The major difference between the Judd bill and Kilgore-Langer measure is that the latter provides that spouses and unmarried minor children from all countries, including Asia, may enter the United States quota free. This is the same policy now in effect for European countries and the Philippines.

The Judd bill contains a controversial provision which would limit non-quota immigration of spouses and children to countries with an annual immigration quota greater than 200. This has been criticized by Chinese groups and not supported by the JACL Anti-Discrimination Committee.

"LESSON FROM BRITAIN"

By GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

HARD TIMES and doing without—that's still the order of life in Britain. "Austerity" is the official name for it. True, a little sacrificing is not harmful to any one. But as a political system or way of life, British "austerity" is going to continue looking a bit drab (as a cloak for socialism), when you compare it with the private management and freedom of enterprise we know in America. Britain, in effect, is telling America what not to do.

But at the moment, the British experience is helping underscore an economic fact that needs more underscoring here in America. That fact is this: increase in wages mean higher prices. Economists in our country have known for a long time that this is true, yet the popular view of it insists that the boss can go on indefinitely granting increases, year after year, without ever raising prices at all. The British know better.

Shrewd Planning

IT SEEMS that Sir Stafford Cripps, who is in charge of money matters in England, is right now urging British workers (even they who own industry and run the government) to work harder without higher wages. If the British do this, the reasoning goes, there will be more to export to America. Then, Britain will have more dollars with which to buy the things her people need. Shrewd enough!

You see, the British are driving to get into as much of the American market as possible. Sir Stafford recognizes that if British workers should demand increases in wages, prices of British goods would make it impossible to compete successfully on the American market. In other words, the British (even the labor government) know that increases in wages do mean higher prices.

Forced Prices

IS SIR STAFFORD counting on prices going up in America? Well, at least he is laying plans to compete with American manufacturers—and another round of wage increases over here would do much to help him, according to his own formula. Yes, indeed. Another round of wage boosts would send up prices so high that Sir Stafford would have little trouble in getting rid of everything Britain sells, from pottery to Austin motor cars.

Foreign trade is good for our nation, just like it is good for the British. It's a two way street. If we fail to get into the competition ourselves, then our goods will stop moving as fast as we know our production lines can move them.

This lesson Britain is teaching us works at home, too. The one thing we want to do is to keep production going, for we know that our people want jobs and have the capacity to consume. But if we are going to keep forcing prices upward, we may one day realize that depression is here just because we have done that very thing. We can have nothing but false prosperity that foretells depression, if we force prices too high.

ON ADOPTING A CHILD

As a part of their natural growth process children seem to become attached to various things. Our twins have a couple of mugs with their names designed on them; they simply refuse to drink from any other container. Their attachment to the mugs are nothing unusual, but I do think their mugs are.

Their creators are two of the outstanding sculptors in the west, and two of the most creative and esthetic persons I have ever met. They, man and wife, have done the sculpturing designs of Polynesian figures in the Matson Lines office in Los Angeles; they have had "one man shows" in art shops; their pottery was featured in one of Ann Bachelder's columns in the Ladies Home Journal. I could go on and on.

But I do not wish to write about their art work at this time. I would rather write about their refreshing point of view in regards to family life. They are a childless couple, but they are eagerly awaiting the time when they will have a young one in the household.

Paul and his wife were not always childless. After being advised by their physician that they could not have a child of their own, they had successfully persuaded an unmarried friend of theirs to cease abortion plans and allow them to have the baby. When the baby was about a year old, the mother begged to see the child. This was against the agreement and against good judgment, but Paul and his wife didn't have the heart to refuse.

One visit led to another and eventually the mother wanted her child back. Being tender and unselfish people they reluctantly gave up the baby. Did they miss the child? Would it be as hard as though he were their real child?

"Of course," Paul replied. "The close relationship between parent and child is not a matter of blood; it is based upon shared experiences, both pleasant and unpleasant. We had grown to love that child as much as we could possibly love a child directly related to us physically."

There seems to be plenty of evidence for Paul's assertions. For instance, the medical scientists point out that there are only four major blood types and that they appear in all races and in all families. There are certain physical characteristics that are inherited, but kinship feeling is something that is developed only in human relationships. Kinship feelings between parent and child are not inherited phenomena. Anthropologists and sociologists will bear testimony to that.

What of Paul's future family plans? They are presently awaiting an addition to their household. A couple of years ago they went to the proper agency and applied to adopt a child. But a couple of years ago—that's an awfully long time, isn't it? Not according to Paul. In Southern California the waiting list for prospective parents is between 3 and 4 years.

Potential parents are carefully investigated, it appears, to see if they can provide homes for the children. Many hopeful couples are screened out in this process. So carefully are these procedures accomplished that I sometimes think that these adopted children stand better chances of happiness than if they just had to count on birth for their parents.

Paul's story about having to wait 3 or 4 years to adopt a child indicates that the public attitude is changing in regards to homeless children. The American parents are competing to give homes and happiness to these children, and in turn expect to experience a much fuller and satisfactory family life.

Such a change appears to be in the realm of social progress. I consider it socially healthful and beneficial. Not only do the children find homes, and the parents a real family, but the community gains in the process.

Park Department to Hold Playday For Grade School Girls May 25

An outdoor playday for fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grade girls from all Seattle public and parochial schools will be sponsored by the Seattle Park Department at 11 municipal recreation centers Wednesday afternoon, May 25.

The afternoon will be given over to active games and sports all of which will emphasize cooperative play and teamwork. Participating teams at all centers will be composed of girls drawn from each of the schools represented. There will be no competition between schools in any of the games or activities as the purpose of the playday is to give girls from different schools a chance to get acquainted and to play together.

The only point of competition between schools will be in the matter of attendance. A large May basket of flowers will be presented at each of the 11 centers to the school in that area having the greatest percentage of its enrollment present at the playday.

Following is a list of the playday centers and the school which will participate at each: COLLINS—Bailey Gatzert, Beacon Hill, Washington, Colman, St. Mary; RANIER—Columbia, Hawthorne, Whitworth, Muir, Dunlap, St. Edward, Brighton; SOUTH PARK—Georgetown, Concord, Highland Park, Duwamish Bend, Cleveland, St. George; HIAWATHA—Jefferson, Lafayette, Gatewood, Fauntleroy, Cooper, Madison, High Point, Alki, Holy Rosary; GRFEN LAKE—Olympic View, Green Lake, Fairview, Bagley, Marshall, Hamilton, St. Catherine, St. Benedict; BALLARD—Adams, Loyal Heights, Webster, Whittier, West Woodland, Monroe, St. Alphonsus; MADRONA—Madrona, Leschi, Horace Mann Edmond Meany, St. Teresa; UNIVERSITY—Interlake, Latona, University Heights, McDonald, Blessed Sacrament; MERCER—Warren Avenue, Cascade, Sacred Heart; BROADWAY—Summit, Mino, Lowell; EAST QUEEN ANNE—North Queen Anne, West Queen Anne, Hay, Coe.

Ill. Paper Backs Judd Measure

CHICAGO, Ill., May 21—Speedy passage of the Judd bill was urged by another Illinois newspaper, reports the Midwest JACL-ADC office.

Editor Donald L. Breed of the Freeport Journal Standard, in the issue of May 13, editorially described how the Judd bill eliminates "race as a consideration for entry and citizenship", adding that "in the interest and good relations with the peoples of the orient, a matter of importance for the years ahead, and also out of regard for elementary justice, the senate judiciary subcommittee should promptly report on the Judd bill, so that its passage can be made possible".

Favors Legislation

tion and advisor to the JACL ADC said today's developments "indicate a considerable level of interest in immigration and naturalization legislation in Congress."

He said the House may vote on Rep. Walter's resolution within the next month.

At the same time, the introduction of the Kilgore-Langer bill seems to point to the fact that a measure liberalizing both immigration and naturalization certainly is far from a lost cause in the current session.

"It is quite possible there may be some action on such a bill yet," Cullum said.

CRACKER CRUMB

By Henry Yorozu

To start the column off with a bang, I shouldn't start out with a yarn this big but the fellows from whom I got this story tell that it's the straight dope. I'll pass it on to you for the laughs and, remember, I shall not be blamed for its authenticity.

Well, this story comes from some of my old fishing cronies. It seems that Kallio Suguro had a halibut on his line at Possession Sunday, and it seems that the fish gave him a bad time.

Following much grunting and groaning and much expert advice, a few minutes later, Kallio got the monstrosity up to netting distance of his boat. Just about the time he was ready to haul in the fish, one of the unfortunate incidents of fishing occurred.

Whether Tak Miyahara, in a fit of jealousy, cut the line or not is not known but said line did cut and the fish was cast adrift. Moments later, Tak, sitting in the same boat, decided to reel up his line and in doing so ran afoul with what he presumed was Duffy Kiyohara's line.

Naturally, Tak cast aside Duffy's and let it adrift. Still later, Duffy decided to reel in his line, and lo and behold, he came up with somebody's line.

About this time, Kallio re-entered the scene, picked up the stray line and commenced to haul it aboard the boat. (This is it.) Believe it or not, the fish and the line which Kallio had lost minutes before were these very fish and line which he now had in the boat.

As I've said before, take it for what it's worth. It's kind of far-fetched, and coming from fishermen, it becomes more questionable, but the boys who were there swear by the story.

For a recap of last week's hot spots, I won't say I put it over big but the Valley boys did quite well at Defiance and our locals did fair to good at Possession Point.

Lefty Ichihara and his party landed some beauties at Possession. I hear that Lefty boated a couple of tens and his partner hit one over the head that went 22 lbs.

Tak Miyahara, much as I hate to mention it, came home with a couple of fish weighing 10 and 14 lbs. He's probably one of the most consistent fishermen around this neck of the woods. I don't know what the secret to his success is but I know that his technique is rather unorthodox. Those of you who haven't been doing too well, take note. To quote Tak: "A deep reclining position and an air of nonchalance, coupled with a hell of a sleepy feeling", should do the trick. You see, the fish tries to take advantage of your relatively poor position and goes for a sneak strike. But it doesn't seem to get away from Tak.

I could go on to mention a few others but limited space allows me to record only the better catches.

The hot tips of the week-end won't be too hot. For the salt-chuckers, anywhere in the Possession Point district should at least yield few silvers and blackmouths. Silvers run to about three lbs. and your guess on the blackmouth is as good as mine.

Hit a hot hole and you may be the lucky one bringing in a 22 lb. fish.

Anderson Island has been producing and Defiance should be a fine spot for the Valley boys.

Cut spinners are still taking the majority of the fish but minnows will do just as well.

In the fresh waters, the head-lines point toward lowland streams as this Sunday is opening day for the stream anglers.

I'd hate to venture forth and give out with a tip for the rivers as they're all high and dirty. Unusually hot weather has really brought down the snow to fill the rivers and the oldies aren't inclined to go out where they can't reach the hot holes.

The best bet would be to try some of the close-in creeks. To name a few old reliables on opening day, the Issaquah, Soos, Tokit, Bear, Swam, and Wood's creek out Snohomish way should provide the fish. The Cedar looks good for the bigger streams as it has been fairly low and clear the past week.

Most popular baits used will be the single egg or spinner and worm. Flies aren't generally used this time of the year but, because of the warm weather we've been having, your pet fly may turn the trick in the afternoon.

Favorite lures for the Northwest, the Gray Hackle and the Royal Coachman, are probably two of the most consistent producers known. Naturally, your pet fly will always do it. A needle fly nymph is supposed to be the latest one.

Well, who knows? A bent pin and a big worm may be the best tackles this Sunday.

I'll know more about it after the first week, so keep your eye on this column for the latest dope on fishing.

The Skunk List is being deleted from this space this week as too many of my friends do not want their names on this undesirable roster.

Let's hope that fishing is good enough this year to throw it out entirely.

The Baseball Situation Is This: Vets Seek Their First Victory

The Western Giants have won their first game in the Puget Sound Baseball league but the Nisei Veterans have yet to win a ball game in the City league.

That is how the major baseball situation stacks up in Seattle. The Giants, who have built their "future" team around last season's young Lotus Mercury nine, have steadied down quite a bit and the veteran Taiji Takayoshi has proved himself to be a fine relief chucker.

On the other hand, the Veterans have found things rough in the extremely fast City circuit. The Veterans are pounding the apple harder but their pitching has not held up so well.

In the Northwest Times loop, Lotus is leading the parade with three straight triumphs. A group of promising youngsters, the Savoy's, is not far behind the Bukkyo boys with two victories and no defeats.

PIN CHAMPIONS OF MAIN BOWL EYE TOURNEY

Sixteen house championship teams will be competing for the prized crown won last season by Cook's U-Drive in the Post-Intelligencer's second annual Champion of Champions tournament this Saturday at the Seattle Recreation.

And one of the title winners will be green-shirted Standard Hotel of Main Bowl which will line up as follows: Kaz Yamasaki, Budd Fukei, Joe Cacho, Gene Angustin and Shig Urakawa.

Standard Hotel, which averages more than 900 per game, is the first Oriental American squad ever to vie for honors in this tourney. The sponsor is K. K. Kawaguchi, local fishing enthusiast.

Cook's U-Drive, the '48 Champion of Champions, will be back to defend its title. The others, besides Cook's and Standard, will be Downtown Bowl, Manhattans, Hi-Tone Amusement, Bierelein's Clothing, Sheridan Furniture, Detloff's Florists, Soames Paper, Viewland Fuel, Kane's, Skyroom, McPherson's, Bellevue Hairdressers, Gene's Cafe and Ideal Recreation.

All teams will roll three games, starting at 7 p.m., with the scratch score determining the winner of the handsome P-I trophy.

Tsuji Stars

In prep baseball circles, Richard Tsuji of Garfield is the most-talked-of-Nisei star today.

The young Nisei handyman is doing his level best to keep the Bulldogs in the upper bracket of the standings. He has twirled several victories, including a recent one-hitter, and he has also cavorted in other positions when he was not on the mound.

Tsuji — and his first name is not "Frank" as the metropolitan papers erroneously report — has as teammates two other Nisei, Bobby Kodama, a likely second sacker, and Willie Kawata, a slugging third baseman.

After the close of the Seattle high school season, Tsuji and Kawata will report to the Veterans and Giants in the Puget Sound circuit and Kodama is expected to join his friends who are doing well as Savoys in the Northwest Times loop.

● BUDDHIST WEDDING

Miss Ayako Shimomura, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Shimomura, was married to Mr. Hajime Fujitomi, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Fujitomi, on Sunday, May 15, in the Seattle Buddhist temple with the Rev. T. Ichikawa officiating.

Gowned in white satin with a fingertip veil held by a tiara, the bride carried a bouquet of white roses centered with a white orchid. Miss Teru Shimomura, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a blue taffeta gown with a scalloped neckline and a matching tiara. Her bouquet was of red and white roses.

Best man was Mr. Takeshi Fujitomi, brother of the groom, and the ushers were Messrs. Seichi Deguchi and Noboru Shimizu.

Mrs. Yae Niimi rendered several vocal solos, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Mutsu Homma.

The reception was held at Gyokko-Ken Cafe with Dr. H. Kato presiding as master of ceremonies. Baishakunin for the couple were Mr. and Mrs. S. Yoshinaka.

For going away, the bride wore a light grey plaid suit with white accessories.

● BRIDES-ELECT HONORED

The beautiful home of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Williston on Ravenna Blvd. was the scene of a surprise miscellaneous bridal shower for Miss Tokiko Senda, bride-elect of Mr. Haruto Sekijima, and Miss Taeko Kihara, bride-elect of Mr. Kazuo Shitama. They were feted by their University of Washington Valedictor sisters.

Those present besides the guests of honor and Mrs. Williston were Mrs. Merry Mambu and the Misses Constance Handa, Fumi Yamashita, Esther Hirabayashi, Etsuko Ichikawa, Chiz Tamaye, Norma Tada, Jean Ishida, Lilly Mukai, Margaret Baba, Amy Yamada, Fumi Suzuki, Itsuko Kihara and Masue Kihara.

● ONTARIO-BOUND

Miss Toshiko Hayashi left Seattle last Thursday to visit her parents and friends in Ontario, Ore. She is expected to return after two weeks there.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

Maryknoll Kouyaku which recently met for its organizational session in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Chihara, wishes to acknowledge receipt of five dollars from Seichi Hara.

● BRIDAL SHOWER

Miss Taeko Kihara, bride-elect of Mr. Kazuo Shitama, was honored at a surprise bridal shower in the home of Miss Constance Handa on Sunday, May 15. Hostesses were Miss Handa and Mrs. Sei Fujiwara.

Attending the affair besides the honored guest and the hostesses were the Mesdames Marie Kurimura, Amy Hidaka and Margaret Norton and the Misses Carol Dady, Kimiko Nagamatsu, Chiz Tamaye, Itsuko Kihara, Lilly Mukai, Ann Dady, Margaret Baba, Gloria Gaston, Toriko Nagamatsu, Mary Suzuki, Masue Kihara, Pat Shitama, Norma Green and Rose Suzuki.

Unable to attend but sent gifts were the Mesdames Ruby Aoki, May Namba of Portland, Ore., and Taeko Moriguchi of Minneapolis, Minn.

Miss Kihara will be married to Mr. Shitama on Sunday, June 5, in the Seattle Buddhist temple.

● SURPRISE AFFAIR

A surprise baby shower was given for Mrs. Del Kimura in her home by co-hostesses Mesdames Terry Katayama and Shiro Iwano on Saturday, May 14.

Present besides the honored guest and the co-hostesses were the Mesdames Gene Kimura, Ruth Oki, Harry Kano and Joe Nakatsu and the Misses Tatsuko Watanabe and Daisy and Lilly Tado.

Unable to attend but sent gifts were the Mesdames Tad Katayama, Sid Katayama, Patty Takayoshi and Y. Otani.

● G. R. EVENT

A party will be given for Mrs. C. E. Corker, the former Betty Holman, in the home of Mrs. Paul Suzuki, 302 30th Ave., from 8 p.m. on Tuesday, May 24.

Mrs. Corker was the Girl Reserve secretary at the YWCA before the war. All pre-evacuation Girl Reserve members and Mrs. Corker's friends are cordially invited by Mrs. Minoru Masuda and Mrs. Paul Suzuki, former advisers.

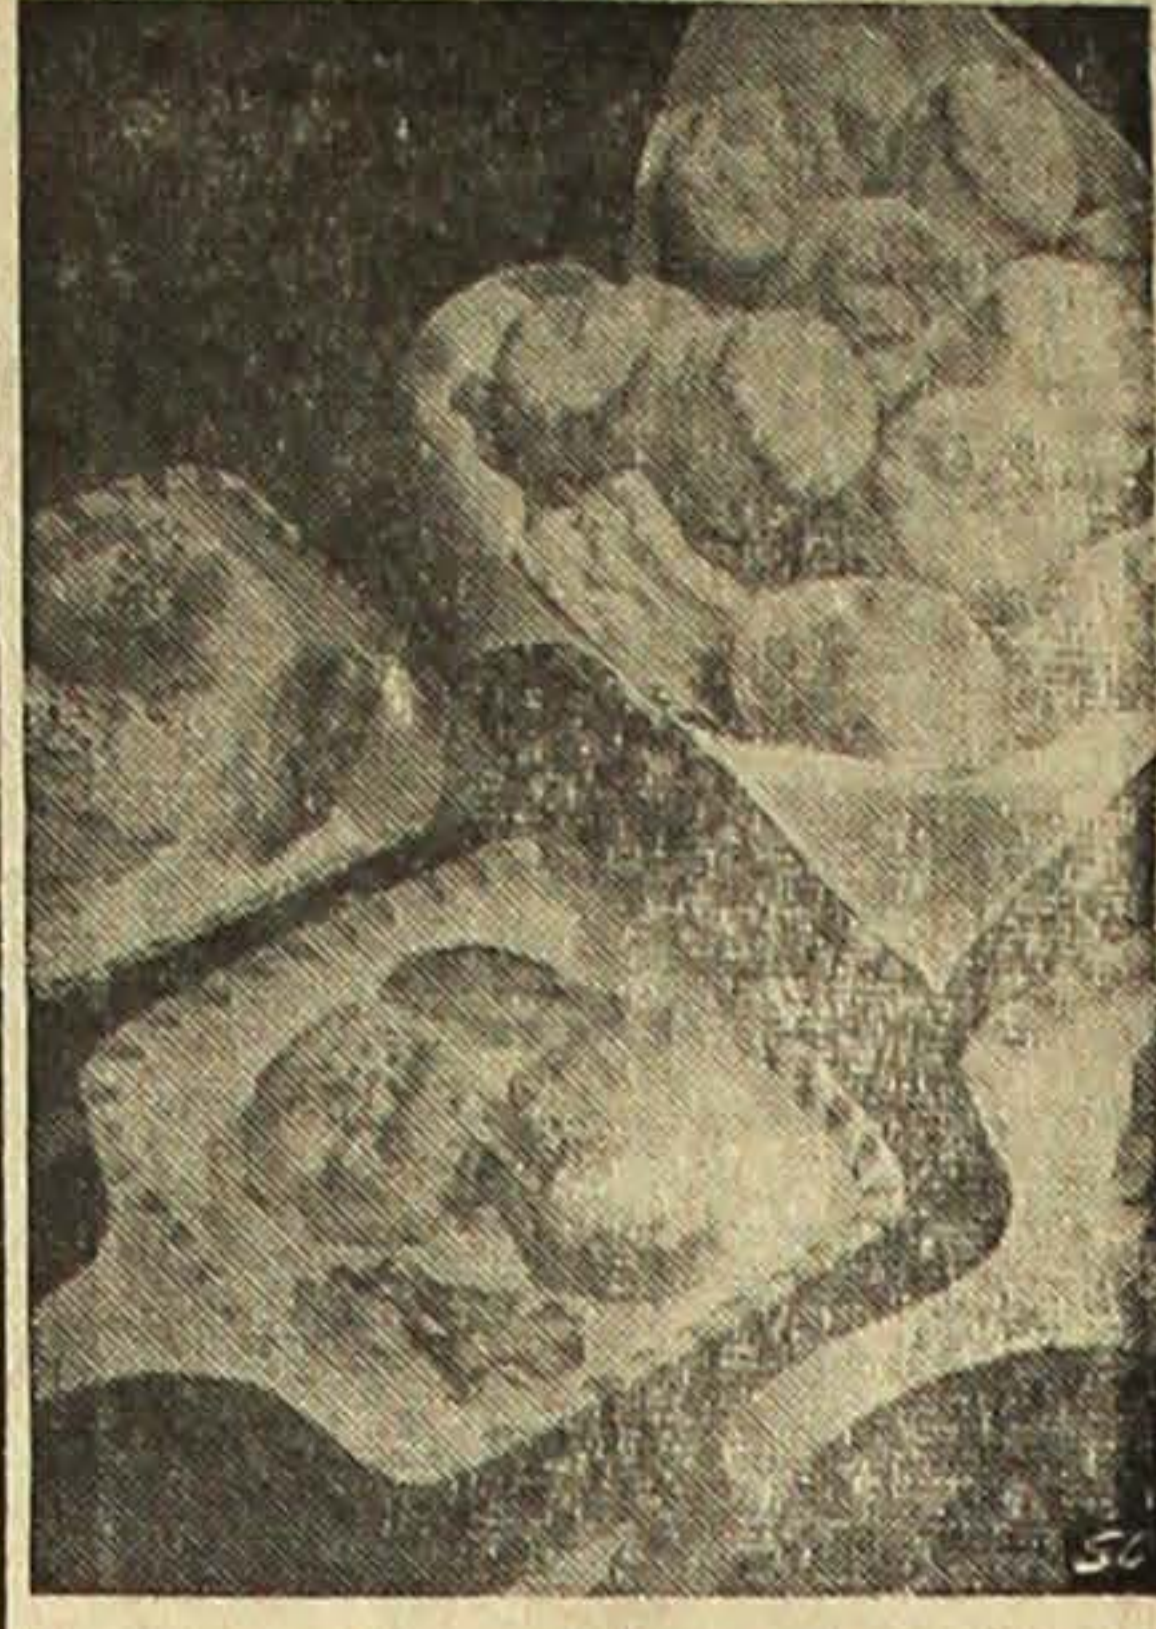

Here's an announcement of interest to all World War II veterans:

The Army's enlisted reserve is expanding, and there are openings in all grades. If you served in the Army, Navy, Marines or Coast Guard, you can join the Army reserve.

For full particulars, contact any Army recruiting station.

Sunday Supper

For your next informal Sunday night gathering, try tender and delicious Corn Meal Biscuits topped with tangy Rarebit. Garnish each serving with crisp bacon and sprinkle paprika across the top as a color accent. The favorite flavor combination of corn meal and cheese meet here in a new serving idea that your guests will love.

Corn Meal Biscuits

1 1/2 cups sifted enriched flour
1/2 cup enriched corn meal
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons shortening
2/3 to 3/4 cup milk

Sift together dry ingredients. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Add milk, mixing lightly only until mixture is dampened. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead gently a few seconds. Roll out to 1/4 inch thickness; cut with floured biscuit cutter. Bake on ungreased baking sheet in hot oven (450 F) 12 to 15 minutes. Split each biscuit. Place Welsh Rarebit between halves and over top. Sprinkle with paprika and garnish with half strips of cooked bacon. Serve immediately. Makes 6 servings.

A Short, Short Sketch

God's Children

By V. O.

Mrs. Shaw watched the children playing in the street from her apartment window. She was a widow. But contrary to the connotation that the word "widow" might carry, Mrs. Shaw was still young and mysteriously beautiful.

She leaned against the window sill, and parting the curtains slightly, idly watched her little John playing with a neighborhood child.

Six years ago, her husband had joined the Canadian Army, and had been sent to fight in the Pacific area. The child was still unborn then, and she had spent the lonely and solitary days with her parents, who had tried their utmost to entertain her. Then, when she received word that her husband had been killed in action, her spirits sank and she had carried the burden of her unborn child with a heavy heart.

Even after the child was born, cynicism and hate seeped into her mind. Cynicism at the thought that her husband had helped to create a new being only to have his own eliminated. And hate for the Japs who had caused the war and ruthlessly killed her husband. Later, the cynicism and hate merked in her mind, and she had become prejudiced against the world.

Although her intrinsic beauty still glowed diaphanously through her mask of indifference and derisiveness, her countenance had become cold and pale.

She watched the children playing now, and heard their laughter echo up the tenement walls. Her eyes sparkled as two droplets formed. She slowly wiped them dry with her handkerchief.

"When we are young, we are all God's children," she whispered to herself, "it is only when we grow older that we become men living in a house divided."

Somnolently, she let the curtain drop. She slowly walked to the bureau, and taking a framed picture in her hands, looked at it tenderly, and for a moment, pressed it to her breast. Tears again emerged in her eyes as she went back to the window. Again, she looked at the picture of her dead husband.

"You have no hate for them, have you, John?"

And with tears now slowly creeping down her cheeks, she parted the curtains gently, and watched the children playing in the street, her little John, and a Japanese Canadian child, frolicking and laughing in carefree abandon.

Tourist Tips

Middle-aged and elderly American tourists to Japan are finding themselves the center of flattering attentions from the young folk of that country, report stewardesses of Northwest Airlines, who are back from their runs to Tokyo. It's all because square dancing is growing in popularity in Nippon and the younger generation wants to learn from the older Americans all about the steps. Even Prince Takamatsu and Prince Mikasa, brothers of the emperor, have become devotees. Popularity of the square dances has revived such tunes as "Oh Susannah", "Little Brown Jug", "Nellie Gray", and "Golden Slippers".

Tourists in Japan who also are bibliophiles will have access to one of the world's famous collection of books, the Morrison Library, originally owned by George Ernest Morrison, an Australian who for 20 years was correspondent at Peking for the London Times, it was reported today by the Northwest Airlines Public Information Bureau. The library, scattered in various parts of Miyagi Prefecture during the war, is being reassembled in Tokyo. It consists of more than 1,400 volumes on Oriental politics, economy, culture, religion and customs. It has one of two copies known to exist of "Marco Polo's Travel Book", the other being in the British Museum. Gathering of the Morrison Library, is being financed under a 2,000,000 yen budget.
