

HOUSE UNANIMOUSLY PASSES RESOLUTION TO GIVE 'ALL' RIGHT TO U. S. CITIZENSHIP

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 11—A resolution to give all legal immigrants in the United States the right to apply for naturalization without respect for race, was passed unanimously Monday by the House of Representatives, according to the JACL Anti-Discrimination Committee.

The resolution, (H. J. Res. 238) introduced by Rep. Francis E. Walters, (D., Penn.), chairman of the House Subcommittee on Immigration and Naturalization, now goes to the Senate for study by its Subcommittee on Immigration and Naturalization. If approved by the Senate and signed by the President, the resolution has the full effect of law.

The resolution was introduced at the request of the JACL ADC. The action marks the second time this session the House has acted favorably on a measure to grant equality in naturalization to all immigrants.

Its first action was an almost unanimous vote of approval for the Judd bill to give naturalization rights to all immigrants and reopen America's shores to limited immigration by Asians still barred from this nation.

The Judd bill, which passed the House March 1, has been tied up in the Senate Subcommittee on Immigration and Naturalization since that date.

This subcommittee, headed by Sen. Pat McCarran (D., Nev.), and including Sen. Forrest C. Donnell, (R., Missouri) as its only other member, also must act on the resolution before it goes to the full Senate.

However, the resolution is considered far less controversial than the Judd bill which has been attacked by some groups because of provisions affecting Chinese immigration and those setting up quotas for colonial countries.

Mike Masaoka, national JACL ADC legislative director, said he was "hopeful and confident the Senate will act favorably on the resolution for naturalization before adjournment in July or August."

The resolution is exceedingly short. In one vital paragraph it says: "The right to become a naturalized citizen of the United States shall not be denied or abridged because of race." The resolution provides, however, "that no alien who, under law existing immediately prior to the enactment . . . would have been ineligible to immigrate to the United States because of race shall become eligible.

Masaoka pointed out the most controversial phases of the Judd bill are those dealing with immigration. Virtually no one has questioned the moral or humane right to permit all immigrants to have the right to become citizens.

Sen. McCarran has publicly voiced this same view.

It should be noted a special Senate committee, also headed by Sen. McCarran, has been making a major study of America's immigration laws during the past year. The study will take at least another year.

It has been the view of some that no action be taken on amending immigration laws until this special committee reports out an omnibus immigration bill, probably next year.

Such reasons as these were the compelling factors in getting the JACL ADC to ask Rep. Walter to introduce the resolution dealing solely with naturalization.

Some 96,000 immigrants, approximately half living in Hawaii and the others in the United States, would be affected by the naturalization resolution. Of these, about 95 percent are Japanese, three percent Koreans and a scattering are southeast Asians and Polynesians.

If the resolution becomes law, it would mark the first time in American history that all immigrants had full and equal rights to apply for citizenship.

Since passage of the first immigration act in the early days of this nation until the 1940s, no Asiatics were entitled to apply for naturalization. During the war, naturalization privileges were extended to immigrants from India, China and the Philippines. H. J. Res. 238 would extend this privilege to all peoples of the world.

Robert M. Cullum, of the Committee for Equality in Naturalization, said the House action on the resolution "indicates clearly that the people of this nation as well as its lawmakers, are convinced the privilege of naturalization should belong equally to every people legally admitted into the U. S."

As did Masaoka, Cullum said he was "hopeful over the possibility of the resolution becoming law."

Meantime, Masaoka said the JACL ADC was not giving up hope that the Judd bill still may be reported out of committee in the Senate for action by the upper chamber, "but we realize it is necessary to achieve first things first. The legislation closest to our people is naturalization, then comes immigration."

"Some day we know America will give full and equal treatment to all Oriental races in the eyes of immigration and naturalization laws. We have great faith in the fundamental desire of America to deal with all races on an equal basis." "After all," he said, "that is the basis of democracy."

Mayor to Assist At Dedication

William F. Devin, Mayor of the City of Seattle, has accepted a Port of Seattle Commission invitation to act as master of ceremonies during the formal opening day dedication program of the Port's new $11 million Seattle-Tacoma International Airport at Bow Lake.

The dedication ceremony formally opening the new air terminal will be held at 2:30 p.m., July 9, on the ramps in front of the airport's huge administration building. The field is located on the west side of U. S. Highway 99, 12 miles south of Seattle and 19 miles north of Tacoma.

It had been previously announced by J. A. Earley, president of the Seattle Port Commission, that Governor Arthur B. Langlie would be the inaugural speaker at the dedication.

International, national and local attention is being focused on the Seattle-Tacoma International Airport, which will be one of the world's most modern. A blanket invitation has been extended by the Port of Seattle to residents of the Pacific Northwest to attend the opening day program. Facilities of the airport will be thrown open for inspection at that time.

Prominent guests from every division of the aviation, shipping, railroad, trucking and allied transportation industries have indicated their desire to be present at the opening ceremony, and in attendance with them will be high military and governmental officials.

Although a product of the cooperative efforts of many civic and industrial groups, the Seattle-Tacoma International Airport is owned and will be managed by the Port of Seattle. It is anticipated that every major air line serving the Puget Sound area will eventually operate from the field, making it a major "jumping-off" place to every corner of the globe.

METHODIST CHURCHES AWAIT FIFTIETH ANNUAL CONCLAVE IN SEATTLE JUNE 22 TO 27

Seattle Japanese Methodist Church will be host to the 50th annual conference of the Pacific Japanese Methodist Churches, June 22-27.

The first conference of the Japanese Methodist Churches was held in 1900. Seattle entertained the conference in 1925.

The conferences for these past years have been primarily for Issei but with the Nisei Young Adults taking their place in the local churches, more time is being given to them and their activities at the coming conference meeting.

The annual conference of the Methodist Church is made up of all ministers from the local churches and a lay delegate from each local church. In the Japanese conference, there are 39 churches and 51 ordained ministers.

The conference is presided over by a bishop, and this year it will have one of the newly elected bishops, Bishop Donald H. Tippet of the California area. During the conference reports are made by the ministers and lay delegate. Then, together, they make recommendations for the local churches to follow the next year. Inspirational speakers help to refresh the spirits and minds of all those attending the conference during the evening sessions.

The bishop will be assisted in his work by Superintendent Channing A. Richardson.

Two highlights of the conference are the Ordination Service and Reading of appointments. The ordination of young men who have prepared themselves to become ministers in the Methodist Church, will take place at the close of the Sunday morning worship service, June 26, and will be conducted by the bishop. The young men are first ordained deacons and then following a trial period, they are ordained elders and are then full-fledged preachers.

At 4 p.m. on Sunday, June 26, the bishop will read the appointments of the ministers to the various local churches. In many of the churches there are two preachers to care for Issei and Nisei. Although there are few changes made at each conference, no minister can be certain of the church he will serve for the next year until the appointments have been read.

The 39 churches are located in various parts of the United States but the majority are in the three Pacific states. All ministers are expected to attend the conference, but because of the distance, lay delegates will not be able to be here from all the churches.

The Rev. Y. Yamada and the Rev. Y. Tsuda who served appointments at the Seattle church will be among the ministers attending.

Following are the local committees as announced by the Rev. T. J. Machida, pastor of local Japanese Methodist Church:

General arrangements — K. Sato, Dr. S. Fukuda, B. Hara, George Yamamoto, Eddie Shimomura, Marian Unosawa; reception — K. Katagi, William Yorozi; housing — F. N. Ozawa, J. Y. Hokari, Marie Ozawa; transportation — H. Nagai, Mich Shimomura, John Ikeda; welcome banquet — I. Matsushita, S. Bitow, William Yorozi, Eddie Shimomura; banquet and lunches — K. Tada, members of Women Society Christian Service chapters 1 and 2 assisted in dining room by Methodist Service Guild members; custodian — B. Hara, Shig Tada, Roy Tanagi, Helen May Smith; corresponding secretaries — T. J. Yoshioka, Japanese, and Mrs. Takashi Kuriyama, English; local finance — K. Sato, F. N. Ozawa, S. Bitow.

Solons Act on Two Appropriations Providing for Claims Processing

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 11—The Senate has acted on two appropriations each of which provide funds for processing or paying evacuation claims, the JACL ADC was advised today.

An Evacuation Claims fund of $1,200,000 is contained in an appropriation for the State-Justice-Commerce Departments and Judiciary branch of the government which has been reported favorably by the Senate Appropriations Committee. The bill, already approved by the House, will be acted upon in the near future.

The $1,200,000 fund, allocated to the Justice Department, provides $1,000,000 for paying claims and $200,000 for processing claims. This is the first money specifically appropriated for the payment of evacuation losses.

Approximately $40,000 is provided in the so-called Second Deficiency Appropriation act which has passed the Senate and the House, and provides funds for the Justice Department to pay for work previously done in processing claims.

The Senate version of the second deficiency appropriation calls for more money in several departments than authorized by the House. Those differences must be worked out in House-Senate conferences before the bill becomes law. However, the action is not expected to affect the evacuation claims allocation.

Mike Masaoka, JACL ADC national legislative director, said it is possible that passage of the STATE-Justice-Commerce - Judiciary appropriation measure payment of evacuation claims might begin next fall, though no time table for payments has been reported by the Justice Department.

Some criticism has been expressed that the initial payment fund calls only for $1,000,000 while total claims losses may run as high as $10,000,000. However, it was pointed out the Justice Department may pay claims only up to $2,500,000. Claims exceeding this amount must be approved individually by Congress. Congress also may, and undoubtedly will, make additional appropriation from year to year until all evacuation claims are justly settled.

Vancouver Doctor Refuses to Treat Chinese, Reports 'New Citizen'

VANCOUVER, B. C., June 11 (New Canadian Dispatch) — A case of a Vancouver doctor who refused to treat a Chinese was reported by The New Citizen, a Chinese-Canadian publication.

Upon the advice of the school health officer, Mrs. Edna Fong of Vancouver took her son to an eye specialist after securing an appointment through the receptionist. When they arrived at the appointed time, the doctor asked them what they were doing in his office. Mrs. Fong told him of the appointment whereupon the physician called his nurse. When she verified the appointment he turned around to them, and is reported to have said, "I do not treat Chinese, Japs or Hindus."

Learning of this incident, a member of The New Citizen staff, telephoned this doctor for an appointment. The doctor at first accepted, but when he found out that the caller was Chinese, he said he could not accept him. The New Citizen reported that he hung up with "I have too many white patients to look after. You go and see somebody else."

The case has been reported to the college of physicians and surgeons.

Just among People

by gordon hirabayashi

SMILE A LITTLE

By the time this column goes to press the final, exasperating, frustrating week of exams for students of the University will be over. As one gazes at the feverish activities peculiar to exam weeks, one begins to wonder how fundamentally important these exams are.

Nearly every quarter, we hear of students being picked up in neighboring towns as victims of amnesia. We hear now and then of young students committing suicide over exam frustrations and despondency. Is it really that important?

To outsiders, the currently non-students, all this tension must seem foolish. I remember the few years during the war when I was away from school — how unimportant somebody else's exams appeared. It seemed ridiculous that grown people should work themselves into such a dither just because of a few questions somebody else was going to ask.

Now back in school again, in the peculiar role of taking a few exams and also giving out a few, I wonder again what it's all about. When taking exams, I key up like all the rest. I stay up late the night before; I walk the campus in a half-daze; I walk past old friends without a sign of recognition.

In the role of giving exams, I seem to be able to turn right around and dish out fancy advice, such as, get a lot of sleep the night before; what you don't know now, you won't be able to inject into your organism the last minute; don't worry or tense up, this is just another human event, etc.

I am just about convinced that no amount of advice will reduce tensions before exams; cheating will continue; last minute cramming just for the exam and forgotten two weeks later will characterize student behavior. The kind of educational system under which we operate produces the above patterns as an inevitable consequence.

So that calls for a change in the system. To what do we change? And that question very largely explains the reason we continue to go year after year with our old system.

Supposing there was an adequate system worked out satisfactory to most persons involved. We still need to improve techniques of ascertaining the student's status in the class. These exams which the students get all tense about — are they adequate and fair instruments for determining the relative abilities of the students? And at what point should the line be drawn between an A and a B student?

This is just a beginning of the problem, students. And to top it all off, who in the world cares what grade you got ten years from now. We will look back to those good old days in college when we used to stew our heads off just for a measly exam, and compared to other problems of life in the adult world, we will be forced to smile a little. Isn't it a shame we can't smile a little during the exam week?

Eyes on Legs

Here's advice for the beauty wise. Make sure your legs qualify for admiring second glances when you wear sheer stockings or sun on the beach. Nair, the new creamy white, pleasantly fragrant depilatory lotion, dissolves ugly hair and razor stubble in just a few minutes. Its action is gentle, as well as quick, and leaves the skin satin soft like a baby's.

"A TASK FOR TRUMAN"

By GEORGE S. BENSON
President of Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

Looking Ahead

PRESIDENT TRUMAN has before him one of the greatest opportunities that any president has had during the first half of our century. Oddly enough, this chance of the century comes to the President through the foresight and statesmanship of the 80th Congress that last year absorbed so much punishment, politically, from Mr. Truman. It was the 80th Congress that set up the Hoover Commission on government reorganization.

Our only living ex-president gladly accepted the job of guiding the "task force" of experts through some 19 months of detailed investigation. Mr. Hoover has played well the role of public servant in past crises. This time he accepted the task as chairman of the Commission, believing it to be his last opportunity for important public service. At this writing, 18 "task force" reports have been sent to Congress. Only the final summary report remains to be made.

Support Needed

THE WORK of the Commission is so important that it must be placed above all politics. Like Mr. Hoover says, it's nobody's fault that our government has got itself all tied up in knots, with inefficiency the general rule. Government "just grows" that way. Topsy-like. It is definitely not a political, not a party, question.

Everyone of us will be to blame, though, if we fail to get squarely behind both President Truman and the Congress and stay there pushing until this job of reorganization is done. The tendency, naturally, is to let it go. Yet, right now, when the nation is faced with such tremendous expenditures of public money at home and abroad, it is downright foolish not to practice economy.

Way to Survival

ESTIMATES SHOW that recommendations of the Hoover Commission would mean a yearly saving to taxpayers of more than 3 billion dollars. I feel confident the saving could be larger than that. If real efficiency and economy is to become the rule of the federal government, the people will have to support it.

Time is running short. Our sprawling bureaucracy will not of itself change its habits. Instead, if left alone to grow, expand, and mushroom as it will, our financial burdens will never cease. The latest report of the Hoover Commission deals with government agencies that are engaged in business enterprise. It catalogs more than 100 concerns of substantial size that are owned or controlled by the government. Large sums could be saved, according to the Commission, by cutting this number by almost one-third.

It is evident that unless we do put our government house in order, there is no way for this republic to survive. As burdens of supporting huge and wasteful government grow in magnitude, we endanger the whole financial structure of the nation. Moreover, with continued growth of big government, we can arrive at state socialism someday without ever having voted for it. It's hard to believe, but already one of every six adult Americans receives regular checks from Uncle Sam!

Veterans! Join the Army reserve, and stay at home! You'll draw Army pay for regular meetings, and promotions are wide open in the Army enlisted reserve!

Face Lifting—TV Style

Here is graphic demonstration of the horrors of television. For years the Fontane Sisters — Bea, Marge and Geri — who sing on Perry Como's Supper Club, have been happy enough with their brunettes, blond and red hair-dos. Along comes television and, with it, famous hair stylist and make-up artist, Victor Vito, with his scissors and lots of ideas about how the girls should look on television. When Vito finished, Cecil Chapman, one of America's foremost designers of women's clothes, took over and outfitted the girls with seven sets of beautiful, elegant gowns.

● Nisei and the "Big 50" Tournament

Two topflight Nisei keglars, Kaz Yamasaki of third-place Northwest Times and championship Standard Hotel and Bill Tanaka of NCL title-winning Over the Top Beverage, will be cracking the wood in the final half of the area-wide "Big 50" singles tournament this week-end.

Sports fans should make it a point to watch the pride and joy of Main Bowl slug it out this Saturday night at West Seattle and Sunday night at Ideal.

Neither of them may land "in the money" but it should be interesting to witness how the Main Bowl aces stack up against the area's best trundlers.

At the half-way mark, Yamasaki boasts a 185.45 average and Tanaka, 178.9.

There may be some fellows our way who think they could do much better, but we think otherwise. 'Tis easily said than done.

Keep firing, me lads!

Sparked by Fred Takagi (615) and Tommy Hirai (612), the Alley Cats clawed their way to a first-place tie with Hood's Lucky Lagers in the men's summer bowling league last Tuesday in Main Bowl.

YOUR HOME

By Francis Ainsworth

I've just finished the very last of those extra tasks that confront all of us housewives at the beginning of the warm weather season — and it's a relief to sit back and relax! Porch furniture is freshly painted and in place, summer draperies are up, flower seeds are in and my awnings are up. And best of all . . . my awnings are up to stay — both summer and winter!

We found that many times during the winter we needed awnings — when the sun glared through the windows, or was so intense that it faded draperies and carpeting — or we found that we wanted to let in the light and warmth of winter sunshine. So, this year we purchased Ron-del folding aluminum awnings which stay up all year long, giving us sun protection when we need it and fold up in a jiffy when we don't need the protection. They are raised and lowered easily from inside or outside the house in a matter of seconds.

You may be wondering about year-round awnings for your home — it's such a nuisance to have to take them down in the fall, then put them back up in the spring — and always a storage problem! The type we bought come in all sizes, and we had no trouble at all finding the right awning for our largest windows — and we could have put them up ourselves they are so simple to install. Our house is painted cream color so we chose natural colored awnings, but they are available in many attractive baked enamel colors to give your home the most decorative finish.

Because of their durable qualities — they're very strong and completely resistant to wind and hail — these folding aluminum awnings are FHA approved, which made us doubly sure that these were right for our home. And . . . because I know you are all as interested in time-saving items — and those which make our homes more beautiful, I knew you'd be glad to hear about them!

Here's an announcement of interest to all World War II veterans: The Army's enlisted reserve is expanding, and there are openings in all grades. If you served in the Army, Navy, Marines or Coast Guard, you can join the Army reserve. For full particulars, contact any Army recruiting station.

The Little Woman

By JACK NAKAMOTO

From the outset, black is technically not a color, that is, in the same sense that a red or a blue is. Black results from the absence of color or of light. A surface that absorbs all colors or all light rays will appear black.

It also behooves our Niselette to know that not all values of black are suitable for her. A gleaming satiny black will certainly be out of line if she has a prominent figure fault, such as protruding posterior or stooped shoulders. And if her hair is that undecided combination of life-less black and mousy brunette, the black of satin, jersey and the like will only produce, in contrast, a jarring effect. None too favorable are those blacks which aren't definable as all-black. Still in all, it can't be stressed too highly that black is the only and the safest of all colors that anybody can wear without too much trouble.

Our little woman in black is usually a prize package of "class" — it's not infrequently that men are heard to say: "Boy! she's got some 'class'!" — a term indicative of dignity and distinction. Yes, if she wears black, especially with some accessories of interesting hues, or if the dress itself is designed in such a way as not to appear like a mourning costume for a funeral, it'll flatter her no end while adding that glamorous touch of the sedate, exotic Orient.

For accessories, like costume jewelry, gloves, handbag, etc., the following shades: Ming yellow, jade Chinese red, American beauty, gold, all of which are harmonious with black hair and costume, are generally ideal, for they're "warm" shades, befitting the Oriental type. Of course, hard-and-fast rules cannot be laid down because there are so many different skin types even among Niselettes, despite the fact they all have in common the color of their hair and eyes.

Usually the coloring of the skin is of chief significance and the costumes and beauty make-up a rebuilt around it. This is readily understandable because the skin surfaces of the face are the most conspicuous feature of a person and also cover quite a territory as compared with the hair and the eyes. The coloring of the hair is usually of secondary importance; whereas the coloring of the eyes is the third consideration. However, exceptions to this order may be made when either the hair or the eyes are particularly beautiful, and when it's desirable to emphasize them above other features.

A skin coloring of pale and sallow type will usually find our little woman having the most difficulty in dealing with black, which only ser-

It is the first combination toy-utility item that has been placed on the baby market.
