PENN IDEA MUST BLOOM AGAIN

In a place called Oskaloosa, Iowa, there is located a small Quaker school, William Penn College. For the past few years the college has been involved in a noble educational experiment. Whether the experiment has failed or not cannot be fully answered now, but at least the program has been considerably dimmed with the forced resignation of Cecil Hinshaw, the president of the college and the spearhead of the experiment.

An editor of a small paper in Albia, a county seat some 25 miles from Wm. Penn, wrote an editorial following the resignation which has had wide audience through reprinting. A portion of Charles Norberg's editorial is here reproduced for your scrutiny.

"We won't be embarrassed — neither Oskaloosa, nor Albia, nor the rest of Iowa, will be embarrassed by Penn College any more. We can chase money, fight wars, hate minorities, be holy, and just have ourselves a wonderful time — because the little school won't be sitting there pricking away at our conscience. Physically, of course, it will be on the edge of Oskaloosa — probably with a fair to middling football team. The ivy will grow on the familiar old buildings again, unsingled by the fire of evangelism. Good old Penn again, like Simpson, like Parsons, like Wesleyan, like all the rest.

"The only thing missing from Penn today that's been there for the last five years is an idea. It was the idea that bothered us — that made us hesitate sometimes as we chased money, fought hot and cold wars, hated minorities, and had ourselves a wonderful time. But we can damn the torpedoes and make full speed ahead.

"The idea went away last week with a little Quaker preacher, name of Cecil Hinshaw. He resigned the Penn presidency and, since the growing season is constant within his mind and his heart, he went to plant the idea somewhere else. But probably not in Oskaloosa, or Albia, or Charleston, or Centerville, or Ottumwa — nowhere close where it would bother us.

"The whole Hinshaw philosophy didn't make sense. He welcomed the poor to college and professors who didn't wear neckties, and the black people and the brown people and the yellow people and the white people. And once he got them there, he insisted they live in equal dignity.

"He welcomed the war veterans and the conscientious objectors and he was so blind he couldn't distinguish.

CIVIL RIGHTS MEMBERS ASK INTRODUCTION OF MEASURE TO DEFEAT BIAS PRACTICES

TORONTO, Ont., Canada (New Canadian)—Some 40 members of the Association of Civil Liberties representing the church, labour unions, and racial minority groups met with Premier Frost last week to urge the introduction of legislation to prevent racial and religious discriminatory practices in Ontario. The delegation presented a six-page brief on the problem of racial discrimination, particularly in regard to employment and appealed to the premier for the enactment of Fair Employment Practices legislation to cope with this problem or the appointment of a Provincial Royal Commission to investigate this matter in the province.

Premier Frost indicated to the delegation his government was fully in agreement with the association on the principle of the right to work for all persons in Canada without discrimination on grounds of race, colour or religion. He stated that he was in accord with the views of the group in the desire "to create a climate of opinion in which discrimination tends to disappear."

Representing the National JCCA, a member of the Association was George Tanaka, national executive secretary. Irving Himel, executive secretary of the association, pointed out that while Ontario passed certain legislation in 1944, he stated that it was limited in its effectiveness and there was a need for an act to cope more adequately with the root of prejudice in employment. He stressed the fact that the delegation represented the majority of Canadian racial minority groups in Toronto who were here because of the very reason that discrimination in employment existed against members of their group.

Rabbi A. L. Feinberg stated that he appealed to the premier for the enactment of a law which would prevent discrimination because there was a very great need for it at the present day. Others who spoke to the premier in support of such legislation were Professor Charles Phillips, an educator, Ford Brand, president of the Toronto Printing Pressmen's Union, and Provost R. S. K. Seeley, chairman of the association.

8 States Passed FEP Acts in U. S.

Eight states in the United States have passed Fair Employment Practices Acts.

These states are New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Washington, Oregon, New Mexico and Rhode Island.

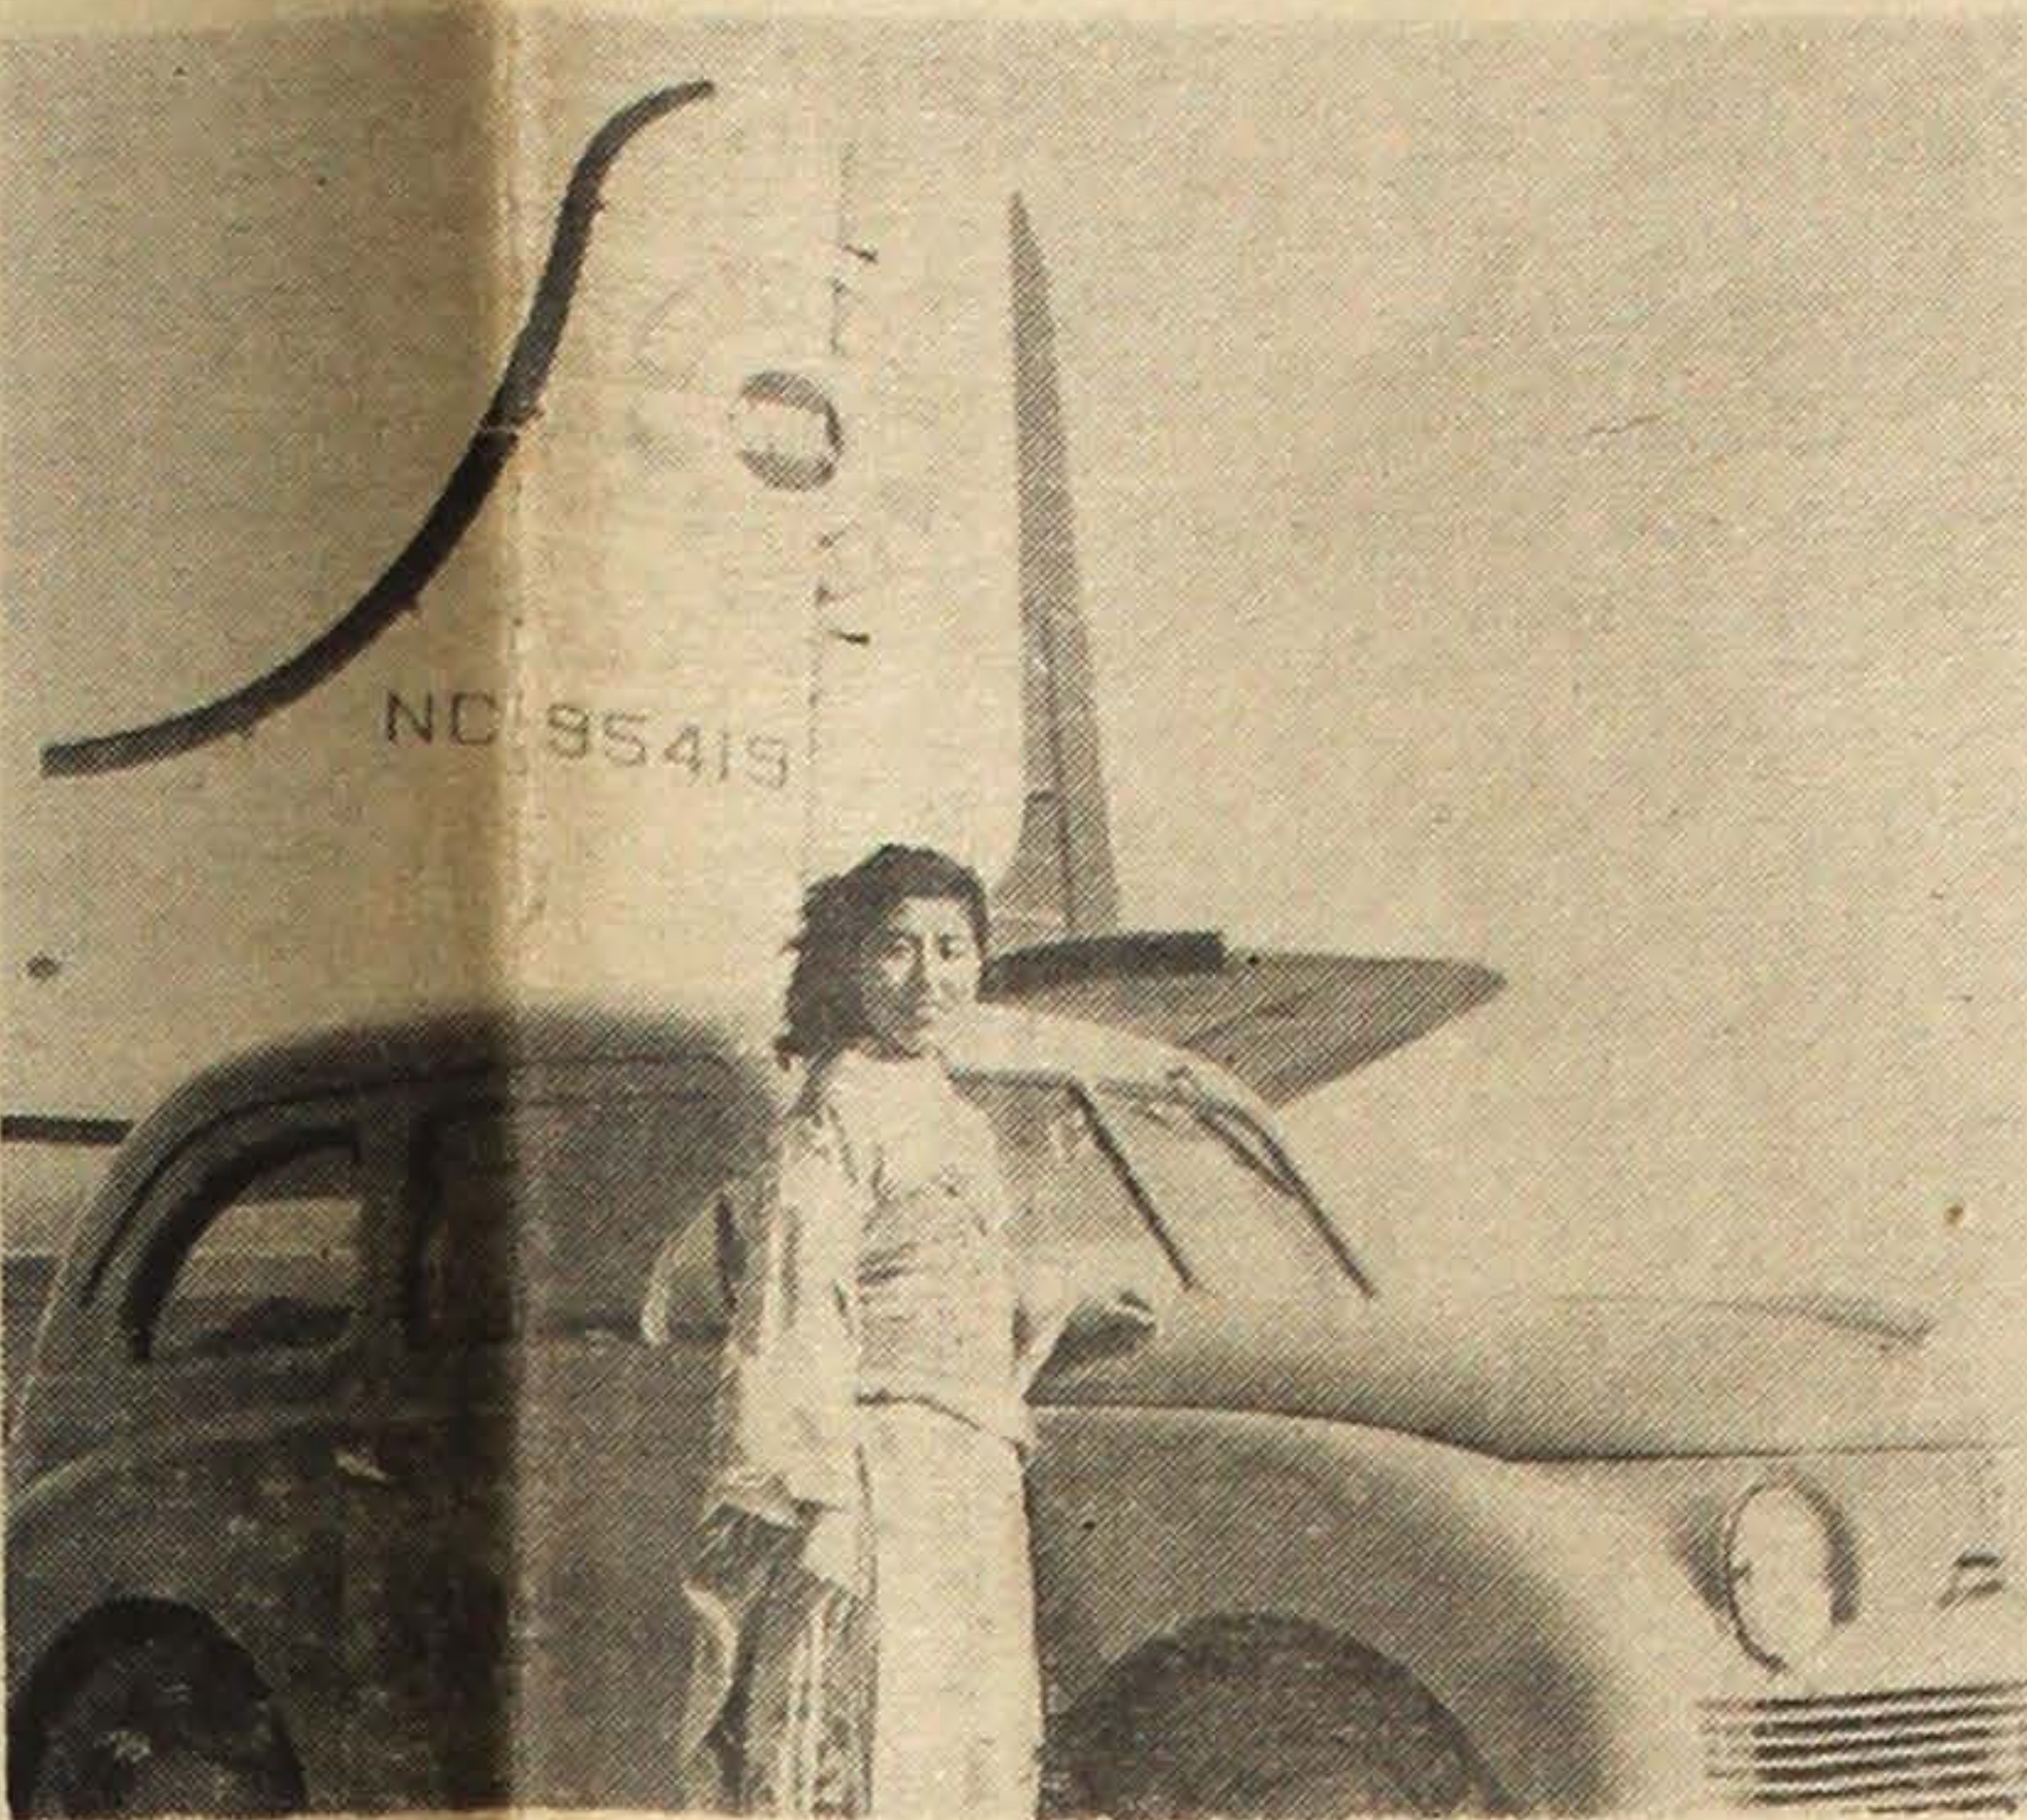

Any person or firm in these states found guilty of discriminatory practices on racial or religious grounds, is liable for prosecution.

Hawaii Depicted As 'Democracy'

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 18—Hawaii, with its varied racial composition, living as much at peace as the rich and different flowers that grace the islands, is one of the finest examples of the true spirit of Democracy. Wilfred C. Tsukiyama said on a short visit to the nation's capital.

"From a racial standpoint, Hawaii exemplifies everything that democracy preaches," Tsukiyama, president of the territorial Senate, said in a press conference plea for statehood.

Tsukiyama met with press representatives; Delegate Joseph R. Farrington, (R., Hawaii), and Mike Masaoka, national JACL Anti-Discrimination Committee legislative director.

The Japanese have taken up modern American business methods in a big way — including topical publicity for their industrial products. When the Nippon Motor Company wanted to publicize its new four-cylinder, four passenger automobile, it obtained permission to pose Miss Foreign Trade, a sort of commercial Miss Japan, with the sleek automobile in front of one of Northwest Airlines' big Orient airplanes at Tokyo airport. The car, which sells for about $2,800 in American money, is rolling off assembly lines at the rate of 15 a month.

He has been awarded the Combat Infantryman's Badge and the Presidential Unit Citation.

LOCAL CIO TELLS NISEI NOT TO SIT ON FENCE IN MATTER OF PICKING CANNERY UNION

By C. L. CAMARILLO
Treasurer, Local 7 FTA-CIO

It has come to our attention that out of more than 100 Nisei brothers who go to Alaska every year, there is still quite a number which is wavering as to its union affiliations between the CIO and the SIU-AFL. In fact, it is reported that some have signed up on both unions with the idea of "playing safe" which ever union wins in the present NLRB election. I think this position by some of the brothers is basically wrong. It is high time that certain facts should be pointed out to such brothers.

Okada, Satow Quit D. C.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 18—Hito Okada, national president, and Mas Satow, national director, Japanese American Citizens League, left Washington for Chicago Wednesday impressed by the general problems of achieving legislation in the present Congress.

Okada and Satow, accompanied by Mike Masaoka, national JACL ADC legislative director, visited Congressional leaders in Washington to discuss naturalization and immigration legislation.

Okada said he was "quite impressed by the difficulties involved in getting legislation through the 81st Congress."

He said he had a high regard for the attitude of a vast majority of Congressmen, "who have shown their interest in equality in immigration and naturalization laws by what happened in the House" but observed somewhat ruefully that the opinions held by some concerning "committee leaders is only too obvious when seen at close hand."

Local 7 FTA-CIO is the legitimate and logical union of all non-resident workers in the Territory of Alaska

Camarillo is still the bargaining agency for the cannery workers.

The 1949 Agreement is signed by and between the Alaska Salmon Industry and Local 7 FTA-CIO covering the entire jurisdiction of Local 7 for the last 13 years. What the SIU-AFL has signed at the very inception of negotiations is a contract covering the traditional AFL jurisdiction over 8 canneries of 190 men located in the Southeastern district. Local 7 holds jurisdiction over the Bristol Bay, Peninsula, and most of the canneries in Southeastern Alaska with a normal operation covering 3500 men.

Within the labor movement in this country today, it is common knowledge that the SIU-AFL which chartered the Alaska Fish Cannery Workers Union, is a strike-breaking agency and a union-busting outfit as evidenced in its scabbing on the recent strike of the Canadian Seamen's Union and many other bonafide strikes on the waterfront.

And it is a well known fact that the SIU or the AFL Sailors was the first union in the Pacific Coast which has discriminated against so-called Orientals and the foreign-born that most of the racial minorities were kicked out from that union as early as 1934.

The present raid of the SIU-AFL against the jurisdiction of Local 7 FTA-CIO is just another raid characteristic of this Union. But this kind of a raid will be a total rout on the part of the AFL Union. The overwhelming majority of cannery workers will VOTE "NO" in this election and it will mean the complete defeat of the AFL raiding union and the continuance of Local 7 FTA-CIO as the bargaining agent for all non-resident cannery workers under its jurisdiction.

It is about time the Nisei brothers going to Alaska rallied 100 strong for Local 7 for it is their Union as it has always been for more than 700 Nisei brothers before the war. The AFL is a foreman-controlled union and it is an accepted fact that the foremen are supervisory employees of the companies and it would be a great error for real trade unionists to help and abet the raiders against Local 7.

gush between them — he thought they were all boys, Cecil Hinshaw did. He had quaint thoughts, like its being more essential to subsidize a scholar than a tackle. Cecil Hinshaw figured that the purpose of education is to teach people how to live, as well as how to make a living, and there was a thought propelled through Penn that the philosophy of Jesus Christ is just as important in learning how to live as the daily livestock and market reports.

"With his mixture of black and white, yellow and brown and 'friends of the reds', Hinshaw was producing Penn in technicolor and many of us either closed our eyes or wanted the curtain pulled. The curtain has dropped. The producer is gone. But if man is to be saved for something other than sizzling to his death under the bomb, the Penn idea must bloom again — in schools, in churches, in government — wherever men and women and children live . . ."

Our Little Woman

By JACK NAKAMOTO

One Nisei college girl recently wrote that our little woman should avoid yellow, lime and green — in fact, any color with a tinge of yellow in it. Before drawing any conclusions about color schemes, it's always sound to consult an authority on colors, because the very hue she's advising against using, namely, the yellow undertone, is in actuality, the most ideal for our Nisei girl. Ming yellow and Chinese red are favorable colors, for both contain enough yellow to flatter clear ivory skins. Both afford brilliant contrasts to blue-black hair.

It's only when our little woman has skin blemishes that she should avoid any color heavily stained with yellow.

Unfortunately when our little woman is still a bit self-conscious about wearing Chinese red, afraid that it might smack of appearing gaudily like a siwash (Siwash Indian) — a hangover from the pre-war days on the West Coast. True, it's a striking color, but then our Nisei girl has a strikingly warm coloring of skin, of hair and of the eyes.

Women frequently insist on choosing a certain shade, not knowing that hue is hopelessly contradictory to their skin texture, color of their hair and eyes, and also to their personality. They are often heard to say: "No, I don't like this! I like that color!" Gad! some women are stubborn. Doting on a color which isn't in harmony with one's type is often the result of some psychological effect which occurred previously.

baby during her childhood. It's quite possible that a woman's first boy-friend, who used to court her in a dove grey sports jacket, left that definite color-impression in her subconsciousness, with a result that her favorite shade today is dove grey.

Notwithstanding that every woman has her so-called "personal taste" in color, it's nevertheless the duty of a designer to point out the unbecoming as well as the flattering shades to her, and generally, to help improve and develop her artistic sense. To compromise with her biased feelings of personal color taste, a designer can suggest that there's a great variety of becoming hues she may choose from in any color. Understanding that she's often a creature of whims, he can even go so far as to suggest that she can, on occasion, change her usual role by becoming an entirely different personality. If she's a dainty, petite type, she can set aside such role for one of a glamorous Oriental siren.

Yes, our little woman can choose any color she wants, but the catch is that within each color there are only certain hues suitable for her.

Practice Rounds Count in Golf World

Golf scores posted in practice rounds will be given the same consideration as those turned in in tournament play in slicing the players' handicaps.

The above point, not known to a great many members, was stressed this week by the handicap committee of the Puget Sound Golf Club after it found itself in hot waters by "readjusting" the handicap of players who had not even competed in the annual Komon Tournament last Sunday.

To cite an example, Chick Uno's handicap was cut one stroke. Chick could not compete in the tourney last Sunday because of the press of business. However, in a practice round the week before, he toured the Jefferson layout in an 84, including a brilliant one-over-par 37 on the front nine—a 37 of which any single handicapper would be proud.

Of course, if you can manage to keep your scores a deep and dark secret from the alert committee members—that's another story. In the above instance of Chick Uno, it just so happened that he was playing with a member of the handicap committee, and rumor has it, collected enough to take his wife out to a fashionable dinner.

Equals Hattori's Score

When Sumio Nagamatsu, the ex-Garfield High linksman, shot a 73 in the afternoon round of the Komon tourney last Sunday, he equalled the score made by Frank Hattori last month for the best 18-hole round in tournament play this year.

The best single round score last year was a 70, which is an even par for Jefferson, made by Nagamatsu. The score is all the more remarkable when one considers that it was made in November when conditions were not exactly conducive to good golf.

The handicap committee this week pruned Nagamatsu's handicap from 7 to 6, giving him the distinction of being the lowest handicap player in the PSGC.

The next best players in the PSGC are Frank Hattori and Kuni Nakamura both of whom are rated 7-handicap players.

The biggest slicing was administered to Ray Kihara, "C" flight champion in the Komon tourney, whose handicap was knocked down from a 26 to a 20.

Put-ting Around

George Shimizu, Mits Kashiwagi and Z. Shimoishimaru will tee off at 8:10 tomorrow morning at Jefferson to break the deadlock in the "A" flight of the Komon tourney. . . . Back from San Francisco is Frank Nakamura who has not been playing much golf lately because of a back injury. He has been given a 9 handicap. . . . The best putters in local golfdom are said to be Jimmy Okimoto, Frank Hattori and George Shimizu. . . . As for the longest drivers, there seems to be no one head and shoulder above the others. . . . Plans for the annual PSGC picnic, scheduled for sometime in August, are in the hands of Mac Kaneko. . . . Silver medals will be given out to each flight winner starting with the next monthly tournament set for July 17. This will be in addition to four balls which each flight winner will get. The tournament fee will be upped to a dollar to meet the additional expenses. . . . The Northwest Golf tournament, the big event of the year in pre-war days, will in all likelihood be held in Seattle this year because Portland and Tacoma seem to be unable to get any course to handle the big entry expected. . . . Frank Nagamine dropped one in the pond and Ed Natori put two in the gully last Sunday which gives us duffers a slight encouragement.

Sideline Topics

Gish Endo, who sparked Shima Transfer of Frisco in the last Northwest Nisei Classic in Main Bowl, last week won first place and three-hundred smackers in an open tournament in his home town. . . . Washington Wood & Coal didn't win a single game in the Northwest Times Baseball league, but, as Jack Shiota of that team says, "we had a lot of fun". . . . The Spokane breeze is that the Inland Empire will not sit back when the awards are passed in the Northwest Japanese Golf tournament which is scheduled for late this year either in Seattle or Tacoma. . . . Anky Arai, old-time diamond star, thinks Richard Tsuji of Garfield high fame has possibilities of developing into a fine pitcher if, advised by a man with baseball know-how, he learns the art of mixing his tosses. . . . one of our friends, Tomio Hamasaki, the barber who likes his fishing, informs us that he and George Sumida fished off Possession Point last Tuesday morning; Hamasaki returned with a sun tan and Sumida, a 16-lb. King salmon. . . . don't be shocked if Heat Heyamoto hustles over to the mound for the local Vets in the Fourth of July tournament. . . . more than anyone else, Henry Miyake, the photog, loves to golf but comes Sunday and— you guessed it!— he hides behind the camera lens, asks people to smile or look dignified for the picture-taking. . . . and now, we sorrowfully report, long hours of landscaping work have snagged Henry Yorozu's leisure time which usually is devoted to his writing a fishing column, "Cracker Crumb"; maybe, he'll be back with us after summer. . . . the golf paragraphs in today's column here were contributed by Jaxon Sonoda, former soldier-newsman who gave us feature articles on "Ginza" and "Matsumaya" in earlier editions. . . .

• BEAUTIFUL CEREMONY

More than 160 guests were present at the Japanese Methodist Church on Sunday, June 12, to witness the beautiful and impressive wedding ceremony of Miss Rose Osawa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Y. Osawa, and Mr. Harry Kataoka, son of Mr. and Mrs. Heinal H. Kataoka. The Rev. Thomas J. Machida officiated.

The altar was banked with baskets of white stocks, gladioli and candelabras. The aisles were lined with candelabras and marked off with satin streamers.

The bride wore a lovely, ivory slipper gown, fashioned with a fitted bodice buttoned to a high neckline trimmed with imported lace and long, fitted sleeves. The full skirt gave an illusion of a hooped skirt with a long train. Her fingertip illusion veil was held with a crown of lace centered with seeded pearls. She carried a cascading bouquet of white roses and stephanotis centered with white orchids.

Maid of honor, Miss Hamako Ozawa, was dressed in a lavender tulle gown with a marquisette yolk fashioned with a drop shoulder and full skirt. The ruffled headpiece was of matching lavender tulle and her bouquet was of yellow roses.

Bridesmaids were Miss Mary Osawa, sister of the bride; Miss Grace Osawa, cousin of the bride; and Miss Grace Uchimura. Little Julie Ann Nakawatase was the flower girl. They all wore identical gowns of pale yellow tulle with matching headpieces and carried cascading bouquets of pink roses.

Mr. Hiro Nishimura was the best man and the Messrs. Grant Kataoka, brother of the groom, Shiro Yamaguchi and Pete Kozu were the ushers.

"Because", "Thine Alone", and "The Lord's Prayer" were rendered by Mrs. Harry Niimi, accompanied on the piano by Miss Ruth Kazama.

The reception was held in Kiang Nam Cafe. Miss Marie Ozawa was in charge of the guest book and the Misses Kinuye Jitodal and Tokiko Senda took care of the gifts. The cake was cut by the Misses Lillian Fujioka, Kinko Fujii, Gloria Osawa and Fudge Sakanashi. Toastmaster was Mr. Yukio Inada and master of ceremonies, Mr. Frank Ozawa.

For going away, the bride wore a light brown worsted suit with pale yellow accessories and a white orchid corsage.

After a two-week honeymoon trip to California, the couple will reside in Seattle.

• BUDDHIST WEDDING

Miss Mary H. Shigio, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. Shigio of Sumner, Wash., became the bride of Mr. Shig Kosugi, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Kosugi of Seattle, at a beautiful wedding solemnized at the Seattle Buddhist temple on Sunday, May 15. The Rev. T. Ichikawa officiated at the single ring service.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in a handsome bridal gown of lustrous slipper satin and marquisette with a tiny seed pearl trim. A full length veil of illusion edged with chantilly lace fell from a spray of delicate orange blossoms. The bridal bouquet was a fan-shaped arrangement made entirely of exquisite white orchids and white satin streamers.

Mrs. Mabel Mitoma, matron of honor, was attired in a pink tulle gown trimmed with a lace bodice and carried an arm bouquet of red roses and stephanotis. Miss Yuki Nakamura, bridesmaid, wore an identical gown to that of the maid of honor's in pale green and had a bouquet of pink roses and stephanotis. They both had matching wreaths in their hair and wore beautiful rhinestone necklaces, gifts of the bride.

The little flower girls were Jeanette Shigio, niece of the bride, and June Ota, dressed in identical pink and blue tulle gowns. They carried small Colonial bouquets of pink roses and stephanotis and wore matching wreaths. Master Fukuhara was the ring bearer.

Mr. Shozo Kosugi, brother of the groom, was the best man and the Messrs. Frank Shigio and Tak Asaba were the ushers.

Miss Kimi Sakaguchi sang "Because" and "Always", accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Mutsu Homma. The wedding march was played by Miss Terrie Ogata.

After the wedding ceremony attended by some 200 guests, a reception was held in the Kiang Nam Cafe in Seattle. For the reception, the bride wore a beautiful Japanese kimono. Cutting and serving the cake were Mrs. Mas Kajioaka of Seattle and Mrs. George Ota of Sumner. Mr. Ted Masumoto took care of the gifts and Miss Haru Yaguchi the guest book.

When the couple left for a week's honeymoon around the Olympic Peninsula, the bride wore a navy blue suit with white accessories and a double white orchid corsage.
