'If You Gotta Kill Yourself, Do it Right,' Pleads Nikko

Form Council To Aid GI's

The formation of a King County Servicemen's Council to plan and execute a continuing program of services to members of the armed forces stationed in this area was announced Tuesday by Nat S. Rogers, president of the Seattle-King County Community Chest.

The new group, whose members have been appointed by Mayor William F. Devin and Taylor Greene, chairman of the King County Commissioners, has been formed to fill the gap created by the national dissolution of USO. Although the members have been appointed by the Mayor and the County Commissioner, the Council will be an independent body of representative volunteers functioning in the same manner as the now defunct USO Council.

The Council will coordinate the programs of various community agencies which are continuing to serve members of the armed forces, and will set up any additional programs or activities for which a need exists.

The Community Chest has allocated funds to meet any emergency needs for services to members of the armed forces which might be created by the termination of USO, and the King County Servicemen's Council will recommend such expenditures and carry out the program, Mr. Rogers stated.

Sol Esfeld, of the Jewish Welfare Board, is temporary chairman of the Council, which includes the following members:

Powell S. Barnett Harry Gowman, Mrs. Leonard Koepp, Joseph S. Pearson, Victor Nutley, Charles N. Smith, Frank T. Smith, and Mrs. Frank G. Williston.

Steps are now being taken to incorporate the Council as a non-profit organization, so that it may become a member agency of the Community Chest, Mr. Rogers announced. Following its incorporation, regular officers will be elected.

littered today with bodies of men and women who didn't "jump" far enough.

The Tokyo Shimbun, commenting on the ill manner in which recent jumpers have met their death, stated: "They do not follow their predecessors' technique on their way to Kegon heaven."

Meantime, the Nikko town, being hard-up for cash, will just leave the bodies lie where they may, and continue their plea to persons with: "If you gotta kill yourself, do it more athletically."

Sakahara, Tyler Discuss Civil Rights in State

Preventive measures are less expensive than building of reformatories or penal institutions as far as costs to society is concerned, pointed out Toru Sakahara, second vice president of the Seattle Progressive Citizens League, when he spoke last Wednesday night before the downtown branch of the AVC (American Veterans Committee) in Workmen's Circle hall.

Sakahara suggested stum clearance, healthful recreation for children and equality in education and employment opportunities.

He and Prof. Tyler of the engineering department of the University of Washington, discussed the subject, "Should Our State Legislature Act to Guarantee Civil Rights?"

Prof. Tyler, who is vice president of the Americans for Democratic Action committee, emphasized that discrimination in housing would bring about a lower standard of living and a higher rate of crime.

Solly Ringold, lawyer, read a brief which Donald Richberg presented to the Senate committee opposing the FEPC (Fair Employment Practice Committee) measure. Richberg is a Washington, D. C. attorney.

Copies of the report by President Truman's Committee on Civil Rights were distributed at the gathering.

Japan Homeless Total 1,600,000

TOKYO, Jan. 10—The Kyodo News Agency this week reported that more than 1,600,000 persons were seeking homes as third winter since the surrender covered the prostrate nation.

Agency survey showed that 10,000 families are living in shacks and more than 2,000 families were being sheltered in air raid holes in Tokyo.

Approximately a million homes were wiped out by the bombing and the firebreaks during the Tokyo air war.

Munemori's Body To Rest in L. A.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Jan. 10 (Rafu Shimpō Dispatch)—The body of Sadao Munemori—Nisei winner of the Congressional Medal of Honor—will be placed in the Evergreen Cemetery for its final burial, the Nisei Veterans Association learned this week.

Taro Inouye, NVA welfare chairman who has already visited some 20 Gold Star families in recent weeks to inform them of the veterans group plan to aid in the reinterment when the remains of the Nisei GIs return from Europe this month, said Mrs. Nawa Munemori, mother of the soldier who won the nation's highest medal, wanted the final burial completed in Los Angeles.

Inouye said Mrs. Munemori felt that since she lived in Long Beach, her visits to her son's grave would be much easier if he was interred in Southern California.

Meanwhile, the Japanese American Community Council took its initial step to erect a GI monument at Evergreen for the Japanese American soldiers who gave their lives in World II.

Katsuma Mukaeda will head the committee, with Giichi Takata as vice-president. Treasurers will be Masami Sasaki and Meijiro Satō. The Rev. J. M. Yamazaki, and H. T. Komai are the advisers.

Dividing the local community into eight districts, the JACC officials disclosed a drive for the funds will start "in the near future."

The NVA reported that Hitoshi Fukui of the Fukui Mortuary has consented to donate his service in the GI burials at cost.

Military service will be officiated by members of the veterans association, it was noted. This meant, of course, that color guards, color bearers, and pall bearers will be provided by the ex-GIs' organization.

Up to 50 lots will be purchased in the Evergreen Cemetery for the interment project, the announcement said.

Drunk Causes Traffic Jam

REEDLEY, Calif., Jan. 10 (Rafu Shimpō Dispatch)—Seventy-five-year-old Ninozo Nomura felt pretty high, riding on his bicycle, but the law caught up with him, winning the title of being the first drunk to be arrested in 1948.

Chief of the Police Emmett Remy said the Japanese caused a minor "traffic jam" on the sidewalk near a high school.

Judge Paul A. Eymann calmly fined the old Issei $30.

B. C. Fish Ban To Continue

OTTAWA, Canada, Jan. 10—Fishing and movement restrictions for Japanese Canadians, which are now in effect, will be continued until March 31, 1948.

This came about automatically when the Parliament passed a government resolution providing for the three-month extension of Transitional Measures Act recently.

Debate was chiefly on price control measures which are included in the act.

Whether Japanese control will be extended after March 31 will be determined when the question comes up for debate at the next session.

Japan to Keep Silk Price Intact Despite U. S. Move for Increase

TOKYO, Jan. 10—The yen raw silk price will be maintained intact despite the U. S. government's decision to reduce "D" grade silk prices for 1948-49 period to $2.45 per pound.

This statement was made by Saburo Hirota, agriculture ministry's silk bureau director, in order to "wipe out" general uneasiness among silk manufacturers and traders in Japan who feared the Japanese government might take corresponding measures.

The U. S. government recently brought down silk prices 42 per cent, nearly to the level of nylons. Hirota said the present Japanese raw silk price of ¥2,600 per kan (8.27 pounds) will remain unchanged because the price is based on other agricultural products and because of the absence of any official exchange rate.

He added, however, the government would like to see a reduction in the silk prices since some 55,000 bales of silk remain stockpiled at present in the United States, while another 100,000 bales are stocked in Japanese warehouses awaiting export.

A Woman's Place is in the Home...

The other night two men tried to grab a girl who was waiting for a bus at Sixth Ave. S. and Jackson St. The men, however, had a rugged time. The girl, full of spunk and fight, screamed, struggled, pulled away, and then ran four blocks to board a bus to flee her assailants.

Several weeks ago, there was the story about the five Nisei girls who were "kidnapped" by five men at 14th Ave. and Yesler Way. Two of them escaped without being harmed. The other three were held prisoners and later molested, so the story goes.

But, after all is said and done, perhaps there is some wisdom in the old saying: "A woman's place is in the home."

Mrs. Kuniyuki is the former Miss Kuni Wakabayashi of Spokane.

Mister Wong and Mister Hiyama

Joe Hamanaka, the alert reporter who covered the first national all-Oriental basketball tournament for our paper, passed on some tournament statistics which we thought were okay to print just for the record.

Hamanaka recorded:

Single game high score—28 by Willie Wong of San Francisco Chinese.

Best average scoring per game—21.6, also Willie Wong.

Most total points—74 by Tak Hiyama of Chicago Huskies.

Most personal fouls against—12, Yosh Sakayuc and Kenji Hosokawa, both of Chicago Huskies.

Highest average personal fouls against per game—5 for Edward Fong of Victoria. Total of ten in two games.

Best free-throwing average (more than ten attempts)—13 out of 16, Willie Wong.

Best free-throwing average (less than ten attempts)—5 out of 5, Pete Lum (in three games) of San Francisco Chinese.

Most field goals—29 by Tak Hiyama (in four games).

Best average per game, field goals made—8.7 per game by Willie Wong (in three games).

Most free throws made—16 by Tak Hiyama (in four games).

Best average per game, free throws made—4.3 per game by Willie Wong (in three games).

Lowest team average, fouls committed—6.3 per game, Berkeley Nissei.

Most personal fouls committed, average per game—19.5, Victoria Students (in two games).

Most field goals made (total)—58 by San Francisco Saints (in three games).

Most free throws made (total)—35 by Chicago Huskies (in four games).

In other words, the records prove that Mister Wong and Mister Hiyama were the outstanding individual stars of the hectic meet.

HAWAII CAGERS TRIP 3 TEAMS IN SOUTHLAND

That the sharp-breaking Hawaii Nisei All-Stars, finalists in the first all-Oriental national basketball tournament held recently in Seattle, are living up to expectations in their series against California's best Nisei cagers, is being told in dispatches to THE NORTHWEST TIMES from the Southland's Japanese American newspapers.

In their first game on Jan. 2, the Hawaiians knocked over the highly-touted San Jose Zebras, 56-47.

The islanders followed up the Zebra victory by whipping San Mateo Ryusei, 32-26, on three buckets in the last two minutes of the tilt. In this battle, with the score tied, Ray Oyama, Seattle all-Oriental tourney all-star, sank two field goals and Reginald Aisaka added another.

Scoring in the Hawaii-Ryusei game follows:

Your boy: the man of tomorrow

By DAVE NAKAGAWA

In the daily routine of contact and work among boys in this fair city, social workers meet harassed mothers, dads, sisters and brothers who just can't seem to understand their boys.

They find that the modern Nisei boy has undergone numerous experiences in life that an ordinary American boy will never experience. The evacuation days, relocation camp living, and resettlement period have definitely made an impression in his life—some good and some bad.

Though there have been reports of marked misbehaviors and abnormal characteristics, it found that as a whole this has not been true, for the majority have readjusted themselves remarkably well to the regular community life and are acting normally as any full-blooded American boys.

To better understand the boy, take a look and see what makes him tick.

The boy is living in a world of high tension which demands skill in getting along with those of his own age and sex. A will of his own develops as he goes out with his own kind. He loves excitement and adventure. He imitates adults who are his favorites. He does abstract thinking, examines evidence critically, loves to argue.

This is the heyday of loyalty to the Club of his own age and sex.

Parents are more and more out of the picture as the boy responds to the demands of the Club. He craves its approval of his acts and his appearance. He will even go so far as to cite the Club for his authority over wiser proven facts.

Self-conscious Changes

As he undergoes a physical change, he becomes self-conscious of his voice changing, his growing, or his new attraction for the opposite sex. The girls that were formerly considered worthless now begin to take an honored place in his attention.

Since girls mature earlier than boys, the girls are impatient with the antics of boys their age and often go out with the older boys. Boys do not understand this difference is maturity and the resulting rivalry. Jealousy adds to the difficulty in this new adjustment.

Another problem for the boy is that he now has periods when he feels like a man, but the family always looks upon him as a boy.

There is a certain lovable trait of rankness and openness about a boy. A girl is a tangle of moods and tenses or so say some authorities. A girl has affectations and ruses (to say nothing of rouges!) A girl—even a very young girl—intuitively knows some of the fundamentals of tact and disguise or controlled feelings.

Boys are so Obvious

But a boy is just what Popeye meant when he declared, "I yam what I yam!" Boys are so obvious. They are not diplomats. One reads them as readily as one does a barometer. Their likes and dislikes, the pleasurable and the disastrous experiences, the lessons that they are enjoying and the ones they hate. (Maybe that is why I love working with boys so well.)

One knows where a boy stands. Boys rarely agree to do anything that they do not understand. They are frank to the point sometimes of a near form of brutality.

TO OUR READERS

While the NORTHWEST TIMES is now being published on a thrice-weekly schedule, this column will continue to appear but twice a week, as before.

Confidentially, the thought of trying to make three deadlines a week is too much for us; so "Ex-CI Notes" will skip the Thursday edition, and appear on Tuesdays and Saturdays only.

THE DAVIS CASE

Another athlete hero proved the well-known "feet of clay" when

Nerve-Wracking Age

Living in a nerve-wracked age, it has affected boys more than the mature. A boy is more sensitive and the community at large must pay closer heed to the problems of and its need. They are growing. Nature sees to that and they are maturing.

It is a strange new world fraught with a multitude of confusing challenges. And all can feel it can be truthfully stated that God looks down with real joy in His great heart when He sees His people having a share in molding the lives of the "Men of Tomorrow."

"MEN OF TOMORROW"

He is a person who is going to carry on what adults have started. He is going to sit where adults are sitting, and when they are gone, attend to those things adults think are so important.

Men can adopt all the policies they please, but how they will be carried on depends upon him, the boy.

Even if leagues and treaties are made, the boy will have to manage them in years to come.

He will assume control of the cities, states and nations.

He is going to move in, and take over the prisons, churches, schools, universities, and corporations.

All adults' reputation and future are in his hands. So it might be well to pay him some attention.

Glenn Davis, the All-American half-back for 1944-45-46, recently asked for his release from the Army, presumably in order to play professional football. While it cannot be denied that Davis had a perfect legal right to request acceptance of his resignation from the service, it was, in truth, a disillusioning action to a public which likes to have its All-Americans above reproach.

Personally, we think Davis' action was extremely unfortunate, privileged to attend the military academy and, incidentally, to play football. After graduation, West Point cadets were supposed to serve 8 years in the Regular Army. Because of this understanding, there could be no resentment nor envy on the part of ordinary citizens who were shoved and hustled into uniform by invitation of the President.

It was, of course, no fault of Glenn Davis' that the war ended before he graduated and could take active part, but after having been exempted from overseas duty and having received a valuable military education, the moral obligation on both for himself and for the millions of kids who looked up to him. It is realized that he stands to lose a great deal of money by not being able to cash in on his football-playing ability; but during the war years, when other able-bodied young men were fighting in Europe and in the Pacific, and giving up far more than money for their country, Davis and others were his part still remained, to complete his contract with the government and with the people of the United States.

The Army did the only possible thing under the circumstances, and disapproved Davis' request. To his credit, it must be stated that he accepted the decision without complaint; but it were far better, we think, had he followed the example of his illustrious teammate, Felix "Doc" Blanchard, and indicated that he had not other intention than to finish out his term in the Army. And we think the kids would have liked it better that way, too.

HERE AND THERE

Two veterans waited all night to file the first initiative petition for 1948 at Olympia—to permit the sale of liquor by the drink... The VFW has also filed its initiative petition for a state veterans' bonus. However, the fight has just begun, boys... For the benefit of KENNY OYAMA, a "Bongo" may be (1) a native of the eastern Sudan (in Africa); (2) any one of three species of antelope which live in the African forests, or (3) a variety of tree found in Central America. Take your pick, "Bongo"... A national magazine shows how a girl can hit the deck, shower, brush her teeth, dress, make up her face and show up ready for breakfast in twenty minutes flat. We shall file this little item in our "Things That Aare Hard-to-Believe Department"... And so, we bid you "olive oil", as the French say.
