TRUMAN SIGNS ACT TO PERMIT ALIEN TO STAY

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 4—President Truman early last week signed an act permitting Yoneko Nakazawa, wife of a Japanese American resident of Ohio, to stay permanently in the United States. Mrs. Nakazawa is the third Japanese woman to be extended such a privilege by the 80th Congress, the two before Mrs. Piku Kurokawa Thurn and Mrs. Elizabeth K. Bailey, wives of Caucasians. She becomes the first wife of a Nisei to be aided by a Congressional private measure.

Mrs. Nakazawa, the Washington office of the JACL Anti-Discrimination Committee disclosed, was admitted to this country in 1930 as the minor child of a treaty merchant. She received her high school education in Los Angeles and on April 7, 1942 was taken into custody as an enemy alien and sent to the Port of San Francisco. From there she was later transferred to the Fort Mountain Relocation Camp. She was released in June 1943, and has since resided in Chicago and Cleveland, where she was employed successively as a secretary in a law office and by the Cleveland Chemical Co., at Cleveland, Ohio.

Deportation proceedings were instituted against the young Japanese woman in 1944 when, as a result of her father's death, the immigration authorities held that the status in which she was admitted no longer existed. She was married to her Nisei husband in the fall of 1943, who was then a student at the Cincinnati College of Pharmacy.

Her deportation has been held in abeyance pending Congressional consideration of private legislation for her relief. The bill aiding Mrs. Nakazawa was introduced by Senator Robert A. Taft and acted upon by the recommendation of the Washington JACL ADC office, which has secured the introduction of a number of bills designed to assist deserving cases.

Two Seattle Insurancemen Linked In Auto Mishap over Week-end; One Faces 'Bad' Driving Charge

Two insurance-selling men were involved in automobile accident last week-end.

Min Tsubota, 29, of 151 11th Ave., was charged with negligent driving and released on $30 bail after Traffic Patrolman John E. Kush reported that the Nisei drove his car to the wrong side of the street before striking an Aurora Ave. safety island at Halliday St. Tsubota's automobile, after running out of control after striking the safety island, careened over the sidewalk, plunged through a fence and lodged against a signboard. Tadae T. Toyoji, 41, of 520-A Main St., a passenger in Tsubota's car, suffered cuts and bruises when he was thrown from the auto. He was released after treatment in King County Hospital. Tsubota is with Occidental Life Insurance Company.

Stanley Y. Karikomi, 28, of 1645 Weller St., escaped injury when the auto in which he was driving was hit by another driven by Bob E. Hurley, 25, of Mercer Island, at 23d Ave. and E. Jefferson. Hurley who was treated for a head injury in King County Hospital was charged with reckless and drunken driving. Karikomi is with Manufacturers Life Insurance Company.

WIRIN APPLIES FOR PASSPORT TO SEE JAPAN

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 4—A. L. Wirin, Los Angeles attorney who only last week won an important victory in the Oyama alien land case, has applied for a passport to visit Japan to clarify the case of Nisei Japanese, the Washington office of the JACL Anti-Discrimination Committee learned today.

Wirin, it was emphasized, will go as private counsel for a number of parents and relatives of the Nisei in Japan, some of whom have lost their U. S. citizenship. His purpose is to assist in clearing up the status of these "stateless" persons who were caught in that country at the outbreak of war and who are unable to return.

It is understood that a great many stranded, anxious for the restoration of their citizenship and the right to return to the United States, are seeking legal aid. Securing their re-admission into this country may call for test or other court cases either in Japan or in the United States and it is Mr. Wirin's project to co-ordinate the work in Japan of groups concerned with this problem. A preliminary survey of the situation has already been initiated by Scotty Tsuchiya, former Southern California regional representative of the JACL, who is now in Tokyo on business. It is reported that some court cases have already been filed in Japan.

Under an express provision of the United States Nationality Code, it is pointed out, a person whether a resident of the United States or abroad may file a suit in a federal court in the United States to establish his United States nationality. If his claim of U. S. nationality is not recognized by any department of the U. S. Government, as for example a United States Consul or the State Department. In the event a resident abroad files such a suit, he may be allowed to come to the United States pending the suit, subject to deportation if he loses his suit.

Some of the categories of stranded who have lost their citizenship and who are appealing for redress include: cases of coercion, often by Japanese Government officials, sometimes by parents of the stranded; cases of Japanese naturalization which were the result of action by the father in behalf of the strander, without the permission of the strander, or even without his knowledge or consent; cases of accepting benefits ordinarily available only to Japanese citizens, as for example, receiving certain rations or accepting certain employment—both the foregoing often took place without knowledge on the part of the Nisei that accepting such benefits meant forfeiture of U. S. citizenship; cases of voting in Japanese election—again, without knowledge that it meant loss of U. S. citizenship under the U. S. Nationality Act; and cases of Tule Lake renunciants who returned to Japan.

With respect to Tule Lake renunciants who returned to Japan, it is recalled that there is a precedent in the decision of a federal judge at Los Angeles in a Tule Lake test case sponsored by the American Civil Liberties Union. Judge Charles C. Cavanaugh decided that one who has renounced citizenship through misunderstanding or coercion may have his citizenship restored; that abandonment of United States citizenship is valid if the person who abandons it does so freely and voluntarily.

Any strander who can demonstrate that he forfeited his citizenship as the result of circumstances beyond his control and which amounted to action that was not the result of his own free and voluntary act, Mr. Wirin maintains, may successfully assert his claim for restoration of citizenship in an appropriate U. S. court.

Wirin's application for a permit from the State Department is backed both by the American Civil Liberties Union through Roger Baldwin, who last spring investigated the strander situation in Japan, and who is cooperating in the project, and by the JACL.

The Washington office of the JACL ADC, however, points out

Howser Asks Dismissal of All Cases Brought Under Calif. Alien Land Law

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Feb. 4—Attorney General Fred N. Howser in a letter to A. L. Wirin, counsel for the JACL Legal Defense Union, reported he will ask dismissal of all pending escheat cases brought under California Alien Land Law.

Howser, in admitting that the Supreme Court decision, 6 to 3 in favor of Fred Oyama's escheat suit on January 19 convinced him that the legislation was unconstitutional, said:

"There is little if anything left of our Alien Land law. I see no alternative other than to dismiss the cases on file as the presumption has been obliterated. The burden to be carried by the state is equivalent to impossible."

"In any event, the attitude expressed by the court in my opinion is such that if we were to succeed in carrying again before the Supreme Court as it is now constituted, they would no doubt invalidate our law as unconstitutional."

There are about 75 cases involving Japanese American families and Howser said he is arranging to have them all dismissed.

Local observers pointed out that district attorneys in some counties might be prone to proceed on their own initiative in further proceedings with the legislative appropriations made by the last two sessions in California, but this was

Veteran Buried In Full Military Service Here

In one of the most impressive services ever held for a Japanese American, Kazuo Nagasawa, World War II veteran who served with the famed 442nd Infantry Central Postal Directory, was buried last Saturday in Washelli Memorial Cemetery. Nagasawa, the first Japanese to be buried in Washelli, died last Jan. 27 of head injuries sustained in an auto-truck accident.

Three police motorcycle escorts accompanied a procession of thirty automobiles from Butterworth's Chapel of Memories to the Washelli Memorial Section of the Washelli-Evergreen Cemetery in the chapel rites. Theo Karle, concert tenor, sang "Still With Thee" and "Abide With Me". Arville Belstad was the organist.

An eight-man firing squad from Fort Lawton fired three volleys and a bugler from the fort played taps at the cemetery. The casket, draped with the United States flag, was buried among those of Caucasian veterans. Beautiful floral pieces were placed near the Nisei casket.

Palbearers were Koji Tada, Kaz Tada, Kobi Ishii, Shin Tosa, Aubrey Runal, Kiyu Mizuhata, Bob Plumer and Mr. Bradley.

Arrangements were made by the Susumi-Butterworth Funeral Service.

that while the Japanese American Citizens League is cooperating with the Los Angeles attorney's mission, the JACL as an organization cannot and will not aid any specific individual in returning to the U. S. except under the most meritorious circumstances. It was emphasized that the JACL further does not hold any brief for either those Nisei stranded who aided Japan in its war effort or the Nisei who were repatriated to Japan after formally renouncing their American citizenship.

The national organization, nevertheless, is interested in seeing that the entire problem generally facing the JACL is not the assisting of every Nisei who, for reasons of his own, chose to remain in Japan during the war, but to assist those unfortunate persons, who through no fault of their own, were trapped into taking actions which have produced a loss of American nationality.

The JACL, it is disclosed by the Washington office, will as a public service refer all cases that come to their attention to Wirin, who will handle the matter as private cases. Wirin is senior partner in the Los Angeles law firm of Wirin, Kido and Okrand.

5 More from N. W.

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Feb. 4—Five Japanese Americans from the Pacific Northwest who were stranded in Japan during the last war, returned to this country on the Marine Swallow last week-end from Yokohama.

They included Tatsuo Goshu, 25, of Seattle; Alice Kazuo Fujinaga, 18, of Ridgefield, Wash., and James Shigeyuki Kobayashi, 23, of Portland. The others are Chiyoaki Mizuno, 13, formerly of Seattle, who is heading for New York City, and Ruth Mitsuyo Kobayashi, 24, formerly of Tacoma who will make her home in Philadelphia.

Treason Trial against Nisei In L. A. Delayed to May 11

(Rafu Shimpu Dispatch)

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Feb. 4—The treason trial against Tomoya Kawakita has been delayed until May 11 to allow his lawyers to obtain depositions from Japan on the Nisei as a dual citizen of that country and the United States.

The 25-year old Calexico-born Nisei is under indictment by the Federal Grand jury on charges of torturing American soldiers while serving as a guard at the Oyama prison camp.

Morris Lavine, counsel for the suspect, said he hopes to get a deposition of obligation under dual citizenship from former war lord Hidetaki Tojo, among others.

Federal Judge William C. Mathes set trial for May 11, and Kawakita was returned to the County Jail where he is held without bail.

Lavine asserted he wanted to prove that under Japanese wartime laws Kawakita became a Japanese citizen and therefore is not

Urges Repeal of Alien Land Law

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Feb. 4—A request for the repeal of the Alien Land law will be made to the state legislature, Ernest Beale, director of the American Civil Liberties Union of Northern California, said this week.

His announcement followed a statement by Attorney General Fred N. Howser that the California Dept. of Justice will move to dismiss all cases now pending in state courts under the Alien Land law.

Howser said the recent U. S. Supreme Court in the case of Oyama vs. California left the 1923 measure "without teeth" and he believed it would be found unconstitutional if it were considered again.

250-MILLION WORTH OF ASSETS ONCE BELONGING TO JAPANESE, GERMANS AFFECTED BY MEASURE

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 4—Legislation which would permit liquidation by the Government of approximately $250,000,000 worth of impounded German and Japanese property, of which proceeds $50,000,000 would be distributed for the relief of civilian war victims who suffered at enemy hands, and the rest turned over to the Treasury, was passed by the House of Representatives last week. The property is now under control of the Office of Alien Property.

Under provisions of this House-approved bill, H. R. 4044, no compensation would go to the original owners of the property. Opponents of the measure have attacked it because of its radical departure from this historic American policy of returning vested property to its original holders at the end of hostilities. Further, Representative Emanuel Celler, New York Democrat in the general debate in the House noted that its passage would place Congress "in the position of having reneged on its promise to satisfy valid claims of American creditors" who have brought claims against these impounded assets.

The bill which now goes to the Senate provides for: (1) creation of a commission to inquire and make a report to the President by January 3, 1949 with respect to war claims; (2) relief of about 6,000 American civilians who were interned, injured, or killed during the Japanese invasion of Guam, Midway, Wake, or in the Philippines; and (3) processing of claims to begin six months after the President has made his report to Congress on the subject.

Full Congressional approval of the bill in its present form, the Washington office of the JACL ADC learns, would have the immediate effect of postponing any possible payment of debt claims by the Office of Alien Property for at least 18 months. It is understood that payments on claims against dollar deposits in vested Japanese banks in this country would be affected by this legislation. Of the $250,000,000 worth of impounded assets, approximately $50,000,000 is former Japanese property. The OAP, which has been in control of all vested enemy assets since their seizure during the war, has already allowed a few claims against these assets.

Congressman Celler, in his opposition to the bill, noted that Congress had under section 34 of the Trading with the Enemy Act provided a procedure by which American creditors could claim debts from vested property accounts. He pointed out how the OAP took extensive steps to notify American creditors of their rights to recover expenses for services and goods due them, revealing that approximately 30,000 debt claims have thus far been received by that office.

The New York Congressman further asserted that it would be impossible to estimate the amount of money expended by the OAP on the debt claims program, or the amount of money spent by persons to assert and perfect their claims filed in reliance on the statute. The statute, in general, he emphasized, is designed to protect the interest of the small American creditor.

Many claims have been asserted by holders of bonds issued by the German or Japanese Governments, and individual concerns of these countries. These claims by the American investor will not be allowed until the smaller claims have been allowed in accordance with the statutory priority, he added. Representative Celler stressed that the experience of the OAP has been that the average claim asserted is a small claim in connection with services rendered, such as claims for wages and salaries.

subject to trial for violation of U. S. treason statutes. The continuance was not opposed by U. S. Attorney James M. Carter, who said the government wants the defendant to have "every opportunity to prepare his case before the hearing."

Arrival of First Nisei GI Bodies

The bodies of Nisei soldiers from this area who died on the European and Asiatic fronts in World War II are slowly being brought back to the mainland.

The first bodies will arrive in this vicinity sometime next month, according to word received here by the Nisei Veterans Committee.

Together with the NVC, the Seattle Japanese community is presently pooling all its financial resources and marshalling all its manpower to honor the memory of those men who died so that the living Japanese in our country may return to a normal American way of life after a prolonged period of indecision, confusion and hardship.

Time is short but it is not too late, we believe, for the community to go all-out in its effort to back the NVC in this worthwhile project.

Proper, careful handling of the first bodies is important in that the parents and kin of the Nisei GI's whose bodies will be here later would be assured that all arrangements are in good hands.

As this is such a small way of expressing our appreciation towards the Nisei GI dead, won't you pitch in and help the cause, too—somehow, some way?

The assassination of Mohandas K. Gandhi, India's beloved leader, fired a stunning blow to India's millions who hoped for a united nation. Repercussions heard throughout the world over Gandhi's death just go to show that the little man with the white sheet slung over his frail body rates as one of modern history's greatest political figures.

Now that the International News Service has reported gleefully that Barbara Hutton Troubetzkoy's condition has taken a turn for the better, it is good to know that the Woolworth millions will still be in circulation even though much of it is being spent in Europe.

If the Canwell Legislative Committee on Un-American Activities presses its investigation of Communistic activities in our country any further, we wouldn't be a bit surprised if the women of America hopped on the bandwagon to boycott anything Russian, including Russian furs.

"Choking Boy Better" was the bright headline a local metropolitan newspaper copyreader scribbled the other day. It suggested that "choking a boy is better than..." We, however, were quite relieved to find out that the story was about a boy who is recovering from a choking spell. Oh, the life of a copyreader who tries to write headlines which attract the readers!

THE REINTERMENT CEREMONIES

At long last, it looks as though the community is commencing to bestir itself toward honoring the memory of the Nisei soldiers whose bodies are being returned to the states. With only about a month left before the first bodies will arrive in this vicinity, there will be little time to dilly-dally around. It is to be hoped that the community representatives will put personal concerns aside, decide quickly upon a workable plan, and devote all their individual energy toward bringing that plan into fruition in the short time that remains. Let's roll up our sleeves and get to work!

EVENTS OF THE WEEKEND

How did you like the snow we had over the weekend? Seems as though old King Winter isn't quite ready to let loose his grip on the season. It is also reported that the groundhog saw his shadow on February 24, which would seem to indicate a spell of tough weather lies ahead. That is, if you believe in superstitions.

Even if you do, however, cheer up. As Shelley said, "If winter comes, can spring be far behind?"

THE NEW LOOK—FOR MEN ONLY

The "new look" which has been required by the female of the species now being an accepted fact, it would seem appropriate to inquire as to what the fashion designers and clothing entrepreneurs have in store for the men-folk during the year 1948. After pursuing our inquiries hither and yon, especially in our favorite Jackson Street haberdashery where we waste entirely too much time (just like the employees thereof), we come up with the startling news that masculinity, not to be outdone by the females, will also blossom forth with novel and distinctive garb during the coming year. In short, a "new look" for men, no less.

We are informed that men's clothing, to be at the acme of style, will have what is known as the "Bold Look". The essentials of this new style will undoubtedly be featured in trade advertising for the coming season, but in keeping with our reputation for giving out with all the news, we'll hand our readers a few tips. Suits, for example, will feature the rough and rugged cloths, and will be styled in patterns to compliment the virile American male. Neckties and socks will be bold in use of colors and patterns of various kinds. Shoes will continue the trend away from plain styles, and will be serviceable and rugged as well as good-looking.

We emphasize the fact that the "Bold Look" does not mean "loud" or "flashy". Men's clothing must still be in good taste, in harmonious or smoothly contrasting ensembles; but the accent for the young men will be decidedly away from the subdued garb of the banker or the undertaker.

Some time in the future, your columnist would like to come out with some useful tips on how to buy and select apparel for gentlemen. These tips will not be one man's opinion, but a distillation of the opinion of those who should know, brought down to earth for the edification of the young Nisei man about town. We hope you'll tune in on these comments, as we honestly think they'll prove to be worth-while!

SHORTS

We missed popular HEAT HE-YAMOTO in our round-up last week of those who, in the near future, are planning to tie the knot. Congratulations to you, Heat... It's a boy for the HANK MIYOSHIS of Kent, and this columnist would sure appreciate a cigar in honor of the new heir... The Husky fire-department lost its steam and had all its tires flattened in Corvallis over the week-end, as the wily Slat Gill took two convincing victories over the UW basketball team. Cheer up, Huskies; all you have to do is take two from the Beavers in Seattle this week, and you'll be right back in pennant contention. And so, friends, that's "30" for this time.

Career and Marriage

(Editor's note: THE NORTHWEST TIMES today prints the third in a series of four articles on "Career" women. The series, written by Sue Sada of the New Canadian, will be concluded in the Feb. 7 edition of this newspaper.)

By SUE SADA

Equality has been confused with tolerance for a long time. Who knows this better than minority peoples? Have we not heard the well-intentioned pleas for tolerance—tolerance for a different race, a different religion? Tolerance is not equality, for tolerance always emphasizes the differences with the undertone of endurance and suffering on the part of those who have to tolerate. Apparently, women's careers have paid men, have made them suffer, but men are bravely enduring this to show their tolerance.

This equality must not be defined as tolerance nor the same measure of RESULT, but as the same measure of OPPORTUNITY.

Now that we've got that settled, let's find out why so few people have faith in a harmonious blend of woman, career and marriage. Do most of the unbelievers know what grounds they have for disbelief?

One of the first arguments against career women is that they will neglect marriage, husband, children, and the supremely feminine duty of making the home what it ought to be. Another argument is that the chase after a career will cost them their womanly charm and allure for men.

Femininity is Relative
Starting from the last-mentioned: do women really lose femininity when they have careers outside the home? What is femininity as opposed to masculinity? Do these terms cover the superficial qualities only, or do they take into account the variety of attributes that are classed under either of the terms? Daintiness is feminine, coarseness is masculine; chatter is feminine, silence is masculine; gentility is feminine, vulgarity is masculine. The list is very long, but the thing to remember is this: many men have characteristics that are usually called feminine traits. This genetic truth does not detract from a woman's essentially feminine charm, unless she consciously apes the outward habits of the male.

Out-of-Date Attitude
Let the anti-career Nisei look around him and see whether the women he calls "careerists" are entirely lacking in beauty and dates. He will be surprised to find so many of them happily married and still working at their careers, and those who aren't married have surprisingly good times with their male friends. Do these male friends enjoy the company of career women with the proviso that marriage with them is out of the question? If such Nisei exist, their concept of the career woman is still geared to that of their fathers who patronized the geisha houses. The Nisei career woman has an extra handicap before her: this out-of-date attitude that some Nisei men have imbibed from their fathers—and mothers.

However, there are plenty of Nisei men coming up from the ranks of adolescence, who have had a chance to grow up in a different atmosphere from that of Li'l Tokyo of the pre-war days. They will appreciate more the different values of the different types of women.

It isn't the career that will wreck a woman's charm. Rather, it is her attitude towards her career that will enhance or injure her womanliness.

Men and women who love each other CAN blend career and marriage to a nice proportion.

Remembering that our education and culture have been western, in spite of some cultural influences at home from Issei parents, we must take a good look at the Nisei home to find out why career becomes VERSUS. In B. C., very few Nisei couples had their own homes, but then the number of marriages were lower than they might have been due to our low financial status.

Nisei Homes

What are Nisei homes like to a rarity, but this time the cause is housing shortage. This time it isn't the Nisei couple that live with their parents and in-laws, but day? One house per couple is still the parents that live with the young folks. Now, it isn't the young wife who is subordinate to the elder in household duties, but the elder who helps her daughter in return for shelter and food. Sometimes both of them have jobs outside the house, but the authority belongs to the younger generation.

Far too many Nisei couples have to live in two and three-room flats, complicated by having every room double for several uses, making housework inconvenient and privacy an illusion.

A home ought to be where everything has its ordered place, where a bedroom does not double for a dining and living room; where a kitchen is a kitchen and not a sink in the hall; where a child can grow without the natural repressions common to third floor flats where there is no backyard to run around in. The present over-crowded actuality is bad enough for the domestically inclined types of women. What do you think it does to the career woman?

If it is remembered that career women have been told and told again that their kind doesn't exist, that they aren't "true" women, that they ought to be domestically inclined since they are not geniuses, we can understand the agony they suffer (as misfits) without their career. They must have their careers and all the appurtenances thereof as much as the domestic types need a home. Careers do not make for neglectful wives nor poor mothers but unbalanced personalities (whatever the type of woman) can become unsuccessful wives and bad mothers. As long as there is no clear understanding of the career woman type, they will suffer most and in suffering, reap the results in frustrations and psychic ills.

The miracle is—I suppose it is not really a miracle since it is more in character for these career women—that they make a fair success of both career and marriage. But no true career woman will delegate her most important jobs to anyone else. She'll keep the reins on her work and on her marriage, and neither will suffer as the consequence of too much absorption in the other.

Attend Class And Learn How To Make Osushi

Wives and prospective wives!

Are you one of those who run home to your mothers and mothers-in-law for the know-how whenever your husbands or men friends ask for Japanese dishes?

If so, the Seattle chapter of the Japanese American Citizens League has the solution.

The local JACL unit will sponsor its first Japanese cooking class this Friday, Feb. 6, in the Seattle Buddhist hall. Under the guidance of Mrs. Masumoto of the Buddhist temple, the proper way to make osushi will be taught at this initial gathering.

Kengo Nagaki, Mrs. Shigeko Uno and Mrs. Meriko Hayashi of the JACL group are in charge of the arrangements.

A nominal fee—thirty five cents—will be assessed to defray the cost of food. Registration, according to the JACL trio, will be accepted at the start of the class which will be held every other Friday.

Year in and year out, consistency is the true basis upon which all-star teams are chosen throughout the land.

Consistency figured strongly in our operators' selection of mid-season all-star kepling teams in Seattle.

Big Dave Kamoku, formerly of Honolulu, Hawaii, has four amateur boxers who want to compete in the coming Northwest Golden Gloves tournament. Kamoku, whose brother Harry is head of the ILWU in Hawaii, desperately needs boxing equipment.

The purchase of the equipment, according to Kamoku, will enable his boys to participate in the simon-pure event. Kamoku—they call him "Dave Pineapple"—may be contacted in Room 18, 417 James St., Seattle. His phone number is SEneca 9117.

Sacramento Hails 15-year-old Nisei As One of City's Sport Finds; Youth Holds West AAU Swim Mark

(From Sacramento Union)
SACRAMENTO, Calif., Feb. 4.—The two best amateur athletes in Sacramento are Tak Iseri and Charles McCoombs, one a student at McClathry high school and the other a student at Sutter junior high.

Iseri is 15 and his teammate is 14. They are swimmers and they are proteges of Sherman Chavoor, swimming coach at the YMCA. Within a few years—if not this year—Sacramento will strut proud as a peacock when their names are mentioned.

At 15 Iseri holds the Far Western AAU championship for juniors in the breaststroke, McCoombs was second. Iseri has been swimming for two years, all at the local Y pool. Chavoor has been his only coach, but the only reason he hasn't been kidnapped by the Bay area clubs is that it is too far from Sacramento to San Francisco and his home is here.

Returning from the relocation camps in which he was placed in 1942, Iseri was only able to swim no better than the average 13-year-old. But he was determined to improve his lot and with hard work—as long as four hours a day—he developed steadily. Now he practices two hours and the 96 laps—little over one mile—is daily routine.

The hard work has brought him to his present peak of 1:07.7 in the 100-yard breaststroke—0.22 better than the world record and only seven seconds away from the world mark by a 22-year-old at New Haven a few years ago. He can also do the backstroke and free-style along with the best in his class.

To show that the efforts of Chavoor and the local Y toward developing kids is terrific, especially in swimming is receipt of letters from the American Olympic Committee inviting Iseri and McCoombs to try out for the 1948 team.

Chavoor doesn't think they are up to it this year. They might some how make the team, he says, but it is not likely. But when the 1952 Olympics rolls around Iseri and McCoombs are cinches.

The City of Sacramento has no swim facilities at any school, and might well contemplate a short while. Iseri and McCoombs, learning to swim in a 20-yard pool, and developed by the YMCA's coaching staff, will in the future probably become Sacramento athletes of the year without too much trouble.

Half a break and they'll be America's.

CATHAY POST, H. S. REMAIN ATOP LEAGUES

Undeclared Cathay Post 186 of Class A and High School of Girls' league continued to march over their foes over the week-end in Nisei Veterans Committee-sponsored basketball league games here.

The Chinese last Friday smashed the South End Blues in the Buddhist auditorium, and High School girls dumped the Chinese last Monday in St. Peter's gym.

Tokuda Drug, hot on the heels of Cathay Post in the A championship chase, crushed Tacoma, 76 to 36, last Saturday at Fife, and returned to Seattle's Buddhist auditorium on Monday to walk over Greenhouse, 65 to 30.

In another "A" tilt, the Question Marks knocked over Main Drug last Monday on the Buddhist floor. And in the same gym the same night, the Lotus Lancers decided the South End Merchant Savoy's, 19 to 13, in a Class B game.

In other Class B games, St. Peter's rose out of the "winless" ranks to topple Tacoma, 35 to 19, at Fife Saturday. Chinese tripped International, 28 to 18, at Seattle's Buddhist gym Friday, and International recuperated from their Friday defeat to take Toda's Monarchs, 47 to 24, on Monday in St. Peter's gym.

Fast-improving Lotus girls downed Anna Kay's last Friday at Buddhist, Tacoma checked in with a triumph over the U. W. Coeds Saturday in Fife, and the Chicks topped the Starlets by a 25-18 count in St. Peter's Monday.
