EX-SEATTLEITE IS NOW ENROLLED IN OFFICERS CANDIDATE SCHOOL; JOINED ARMY ON MARCH 5, 1947

Roy Higashi, a former Seattleite who was graduated by the Military Intelligence Language School at Presidio of Monterey, Calif., is now attending the Officers Candidate School at Fort Riley, Kansas, it was learned here today.

Born and educated in Seattle, Higashi spent the early part of the war in Tule Lake, Calif., where he studied for the Buddhist priesthood for two years. He left Tule Lake to become an instructor of the Japanese language for American Army officers in Chicago. Following his return to Seattle, he was employed as a grocery clerk, leaving that position on March 5, 1947 for an Army career.

Higashi's first assignment was thirteen weeks of basic training at Ft. Ord, Calif., and then to the Military Intelligence Language School.

The Nisei's outstanding record at MISLS, plus the fact that he was graduated with the top ten percent of the class, earned him an appointment to O. C. S. which he accepted on Jan. 7, 1948.

Technical Sergeant Paul Kramer of the local Army Recruiting Service told THE NORTHWEST TIMES that from his conversation with Higashi's parents, who live in Renton Highlands, the Nisei is very much pleased with the Army particularly the living conditions and the schools he has been attending.

The Nisei's wife and child are now in California, awaiting his return from O. S. C. at which time he will receive his assignment. He will probably be an instructor at the MISLS or receive an overseas assignment in Japan. T-Sergeant Kramer said.

Requests Return Of GI Remains For Japan Burial

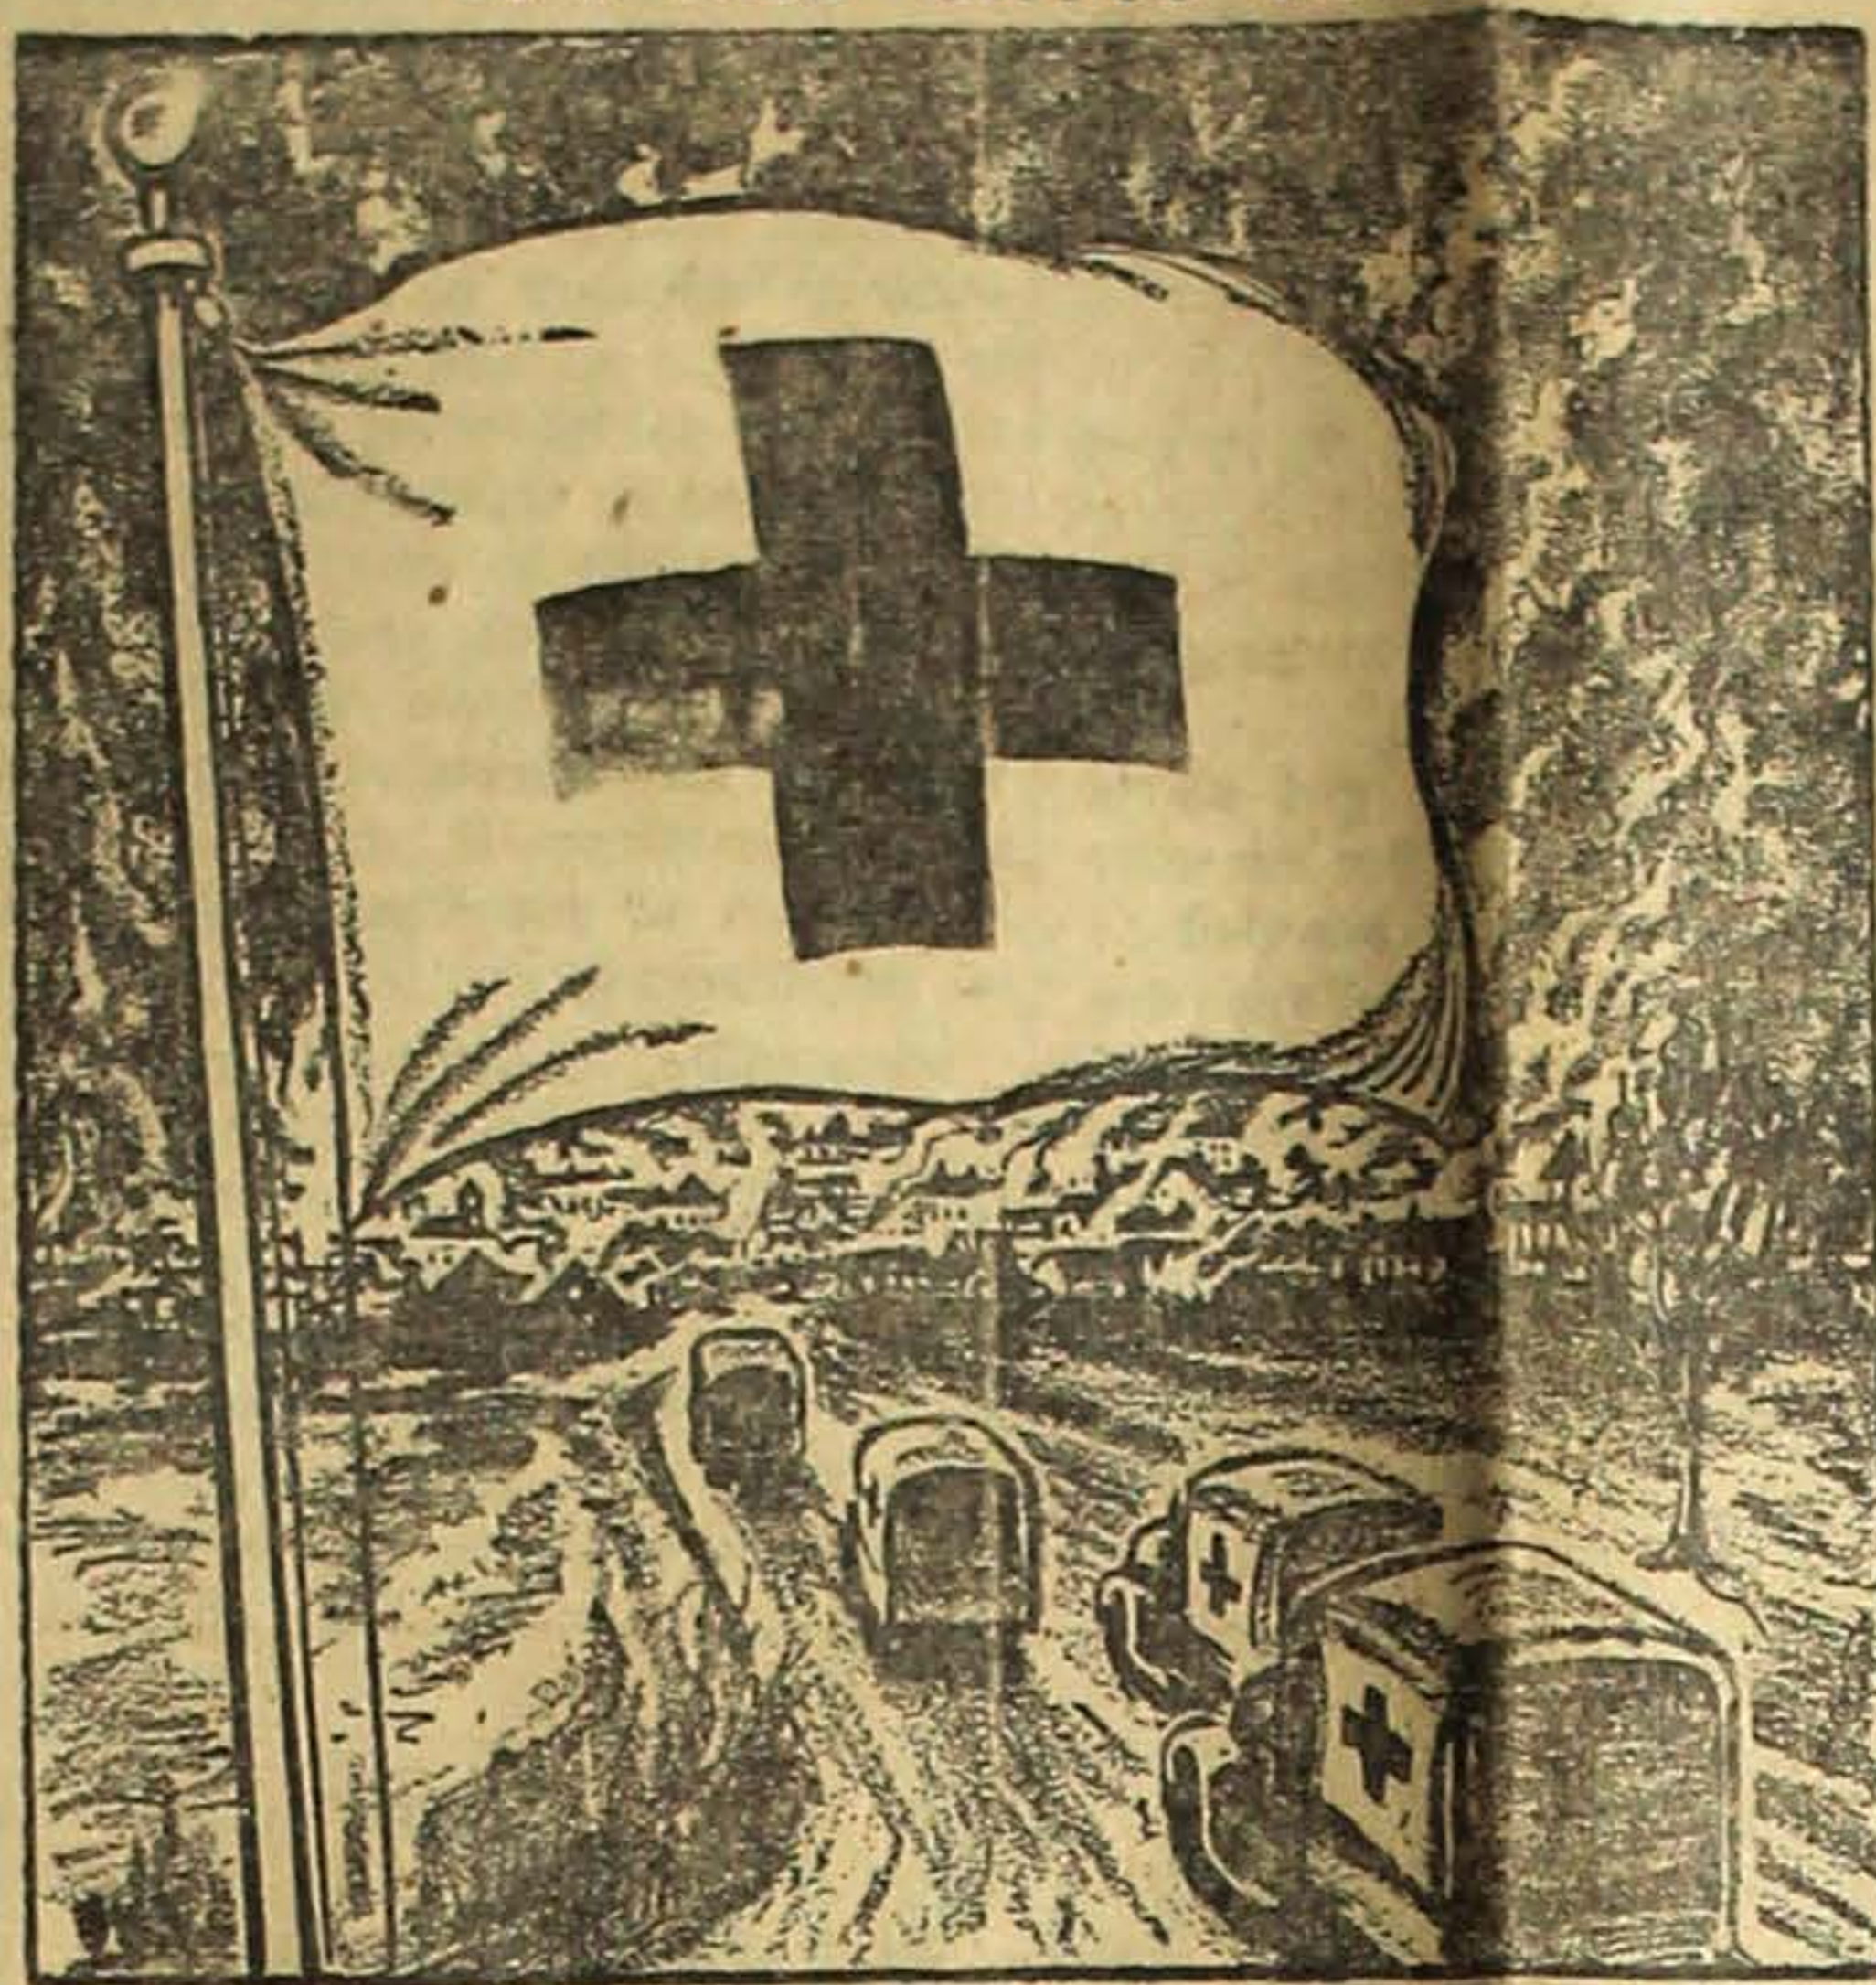

YOKOHAMA, March 6—A Japanese girl has requested the U. S. 8th army authorities to return for final burial in Japan the remains of her Nisei brother who fought with the 442nd infantry combat team in Italy.

Mary Takeo of Fukuoka prefecture in Kyushu requested the return of the body of Sgt. Thomas T. Takeo who received the silver star with cluster for gallantry in action before he was killed on the battlefield.

This was the second request of this kind filed. Last month the army announced that the remains of another 442nd soldier, Eichi Hata, would be returned to Japan in accordance with the wishes of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bunsaku Hata.

Renaming of Ship for Nisei Hero Postponed Week in Brooklyn

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 6—The official renaming of the Army transport Wilson Victory for the late Sadao Munemori, scheduled to take place in Brooklyn yesterday, March 5 has been postponed one week, the Washington office of the JACL Anti-Discrimination Committee learned this week.

A week's delay in the redesignation ceremonies was ordered by Army authorities when it was discovered that the work of overhauling the vessel into perfect serviceable condition could not be completed in time for the ceremony this week end. The 7,064-ton Wilson Victory arrived in New York harbor early this week from Bremerhaven and is now in dry dock undergoing extensive repairs to damage caused by heavy weather.

The Army cargo ship, one of a number of vessels acquired after World War II by the Army Transportation Corps from the Maritime Commission, has been employed in the Atlantic service moving supplies and Army personnel to and from the occupation zone in Europe, but on two recent voyages out of New York the vessel was ordered to the Far East. Stops were made in Japan, Korea and the Philippines. Whether the ship will be returned to its regular Atlantic run after it has been renamed was not certain.

The Army's sudden decision to postpone the ceremony caused a flurry of excitement in the New York office of the JACL ADC where Sam Ishikawa, eastern regional director, has been negotiating with Army officials for special dispensations to make this occasion a memorable affair. Only a few hours before he was notified, he had obtained confirmation from Colonel Virgil R. Miller, former commanding officer of the famed 442nd Japanese American Regimental Combat Team, that he would attend.

Meanwhile, the Washington JACL ADC office had invited a top level personality in the Government, familiar with the activities of the combat team since its inception, to participate in the rites. A telegram was also dispatched to Robert Munemori, older brother of the Congressional medal of Honor winner, to cancel his flight eastward until next week.

Permission for the presentation of a bronze plaque by the national JACL in memory of the distinguished Nisei hero is one of several privileges granted by the Army in view of the great significance of the event, it was learned. The presence of important military persons outside of the usual Army people designated to attend these functions is also regarded as a dispensation. The Munemori party is also expected to include a former buddy of the late hero.

The renaming ceremony, however, has been kept as simple as possible in line with Army tradition. It was recalled that in previous redesignation rites held at the Brooklyn Army Base, only a few nearest of kin were invited. Usually it was the father, mother or a brother or sister. The number of people invited was kept to a minimum because of space limitations on board the ship.

The JACL participation in this signal event was urged by Robert Munemori who though himself was never in uniform, well appreciated what the Japanese American Citizens League and the Nisei regimental combat team, of which his hero brother was a member, had accomplished in demonstrating the loyalty and patriotism of the Japanese Americans. Mr. Munemori asserted modestly in his communications with the JACL that the outstanding tribute to his brother was a tribute to all Nisei soldiers, hundreds of whom gave their lives for this country.

Besides Robert and his widowed mother, there are three others in the Munemori family: Mrs. Yuriko Tamura, an elder sister now living in Japan and whose husband is with the British Australian Intelligence Head-

Schools to Pick Own Textbooks

TOKYO, March 6—The 45-year old system of government imposed textbooks for Japan's schools, both public and private will be abolished beginning in 1950 if the textbook research committee's decision is approved.

Observers described the change to the system of having the schools select their own textbooks as one of the most democratic developments in Japan where until the end of the war totalitarian ideology had been taught through the schools.

Under the plan the projected education ministry's function will be to approve the textbooks requested for use by schools instead of dictating what textbooks shall be used.

MONEY TO BE USED FOR SERVICES, MONUMENT HONORING GI DEAD; LUNCH SLATED KICKOFF AFFAIR

An all-out, door-to-door campaign to raise $5,000 towards the Nisei War Memorial Committee fund will start next Tuesday, March 9, in Seattle and its vicinity. The purpose of the drive is to finance expenses for community-wide memorial services to honor Nisei GI dead of World War II and to build a permanent and suitable monument in their honor.

As a kickoff affair, committee members will have a luncheon at noon Tuesday in Gyokko Ken Cafe. The committee's headquarters will be in William Mambu's offices in the Jackson Building. All matters pertaining to the drive should be addressed:

Masaoka Backs Vets Resolutions For Low-Cost Housing Bill

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 6—Mike Masaoka, national legislative director of the JACL Anti-Discrimination Committee, endorsed on behalf of the Nisei Veterans Committee of the JACL resolutions for more rigid rent control, low cost housing and support of the Taft-Ellender-Wagner Housing Bill which were approved at the closing session of the two-day National Veterans Housing Conference.

Approximately 1,500 veterans from 29 states attended the meeting here at which time four Senators and nine Representatives, including Senators Robert A. Taft and Allen J. Ellender of Ohio and Louisiana, outlined measures to facilitate passage of legislation on public housing.

The conference, sponsored by the nation's leading veterans organizations, endorsed the Taft-Ellender-Wagner bill as the most comprehensive measure designed to deal with the critical housing situation. The body, recognizing that the housing situation has deteriorated since World War II and that the impact of shortages in housing is falling heaviest on veterans and their families, also went on record in favor of strengthened rent control until conditions have been ameliorated.

Masaoka following the meeting addressed communications to various Congressmen urging speedy passage of adequate housing legislation, the Washington JACL ADC office reported. Nisei veterans, Masaoka declared, suffer acutely from the lack of adequate housing facilities, pointing out that their situation is further aggravated by property restrictions and owners' resort to restrictive covenants.

The nation's ten major veterans organizations were represented at the conference, the occasion being the first time that they have been assembled to discuss a national problem. The sponsors of the conference included Congressman John F. Kennedy, Massachusetts Democrat, representing the Veterans of

Man Eats Wife, Son near Tokyo

TOKYO, March 6—A case of cannibalism appeared in the annals of the Tokyo police in the arrest of Kyubei Arai, an impoverished farmer in the suburbs of the great metropolis.

The demented man had just decapitated his 55-year old wife and his 14-year old son when he was arrested, bespattered with blood as he removed the liver from his murdered wife's body.

Cut pieces of flesh from the corpses were discovered in the kitchen.

Tanaka Promoted By ATS Quarterly

CHICAGO, ILL., March 6—Appointment of Togo W. Tanaka as senior editor in charge of the editorial department was announced this week by the American Technical Society.

Tanaka, a native of the West coast, succeeds W. F. Namey who will assume his new position as representative of the organization in San Francisco.

The new American Tech senior editor is a 36 graduate of the University of California at Los Angeles and has taken graduate work at the University of Chicago. Prior to evacuation, he was English section editor of the Rafei Shimpō of Los Angeles.

Don't Forget to Give to NWM Fund

The solicitors in the Nisei War Memorial Committee's drive to raise $5,000 in Seattle and its vicinity will begin their door-to-door trek on Tuesday, March 9. The drive will end March 16.

The funds will be used to pay for the expenses involved in the holding of memorial services for World War II Nisei GI dead and in the building of a permanent monument honoring them.

"So, when you are contacted by the representative assigned to your district...give generously".

It appears as if we'll have to return to some meatless days. The nation-wide meat packing strike is set for March 16. If the strike becomes a reality, there will be less T-Bone steaks and pork chops on our dinner table.

Dairy companies in Seattle were milked out of some money this week. One thousand one hundred dairy workers received a new contract calling for pay boosts of 12 cents an hour.

In Jackson, Miss., public subscriptions will be taken up for a statue in the State Capitol to honor the late Sen. Theodore G. Bilbo, the South's fiercest advocate of white supremacy. "The Man's likeness should be comparable to that of a stupid jackass."

Nisei Savant Hints Textile Dye May be Weapon against Virus

Nursing Course Opens March 15

Registration for a twelve-hour Red Cross home nursing course in mother and baby care starting Monday, March 15, is now open according to Mrs. Clyde Holcomb, volunteer home nursing chairman for the Seattle-King County Red Cross chapter.

The classes, as always, will be taught by trained nurses, and will meet on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 1 to 3 p.m. and from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., at Red Cross headquarters, 905 Second Avenue Building.

The evening classes will again be open to both men and women, and the instruction given will cover care of the mother before the birth of the baby, and the care and feeding of the infant.

There is no charge for the course, and registration and additional information may be obtained at Red Cross headquarters or by calling EL 2800.

Though it be honest, it is never good to bring bad news.—Give to a gracious message a host of tongues; but let ill tidings tell themselves when they be felt.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 3.—A California Nisei scientist said today that malachite green, a textile dye, may prove to be a weapon against virus diseases.

Medical men long have sought a chemical that could be used safely and effectively against such virus maladies as influenza and infantile paralysis.

William N. Takahashi of the University of California at Berkeley said he had found that malachite green prevents reproduction of the tobacco mosaic virus. His report was published by the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

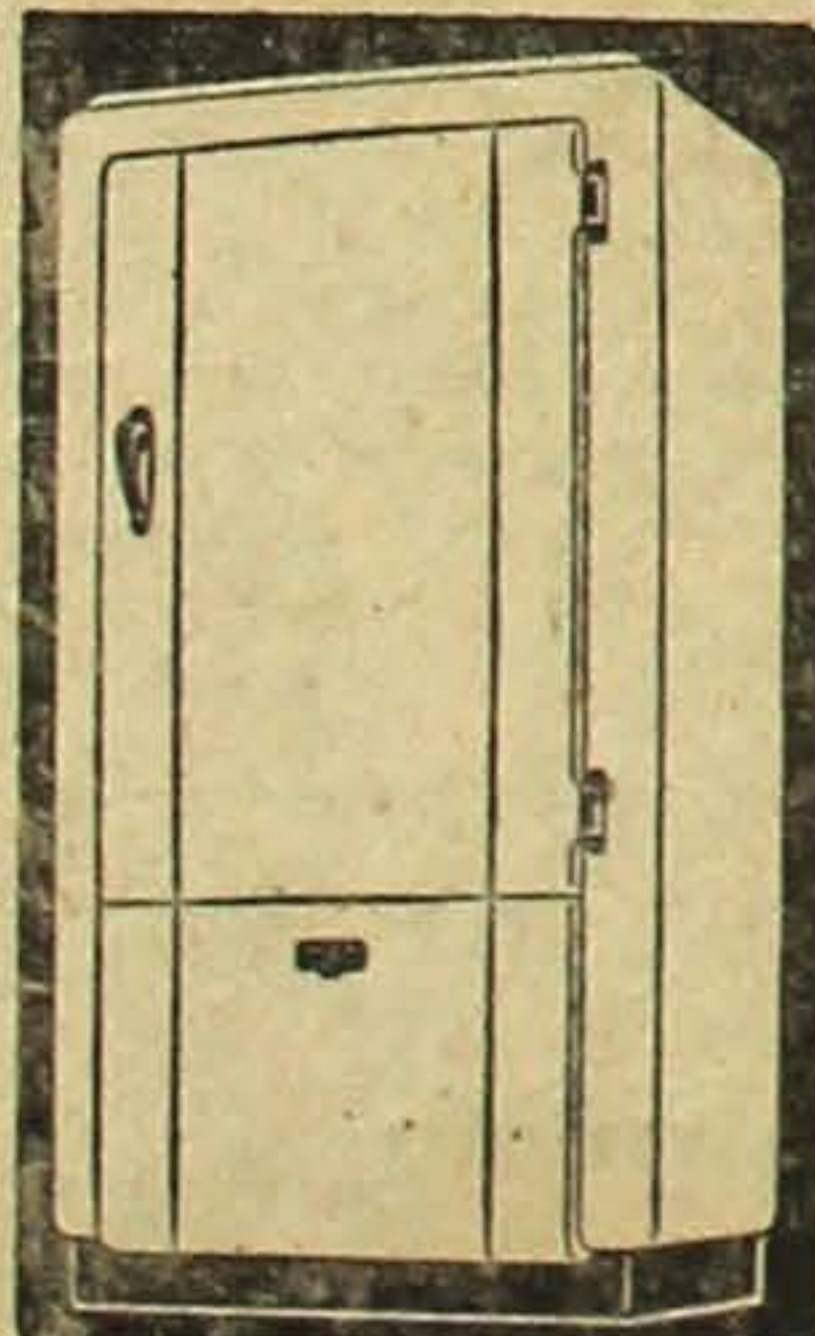

What he was looking for, Takahashi said, was a substance that would operate against viruses without killing their host—in this case, the tobacco plant.

He declared "considerable inhibition of virus increase" by concentrations of malachite green as low as two parts per million.

The Japanese American said malachite green is used industrially to color cotton, silk, rayon, wool and paper. It also is used in antiseptic preparations. It is able to penetrate living cells.

Takahashi said further research may throw light on the fundamental life processes by which viruses reproduce themselves.

For Men (And Nosey Women) Only!

By Kayo

Bachelors, beware! Leap Year is here again.

Leap Years, by the way, are those years in which a woman has the privilege of proposing marriage quite openly and brazenly instead of twisting the man's arm loose at the socket. A Leap Year is always divisible by four, which reminds us that a bachelor can also always be drawn and quartered.

An emergency meeting of the BNP was called last night. BNP stands for "Bachelors' Mutual Protective Union." The meeting was addressed by the president, a nervous man with hunted eyes. "Gentlemen and fellow bachelors, you who are to suffer untold agonies this year, I salute you! The crisis is here! Our union suffered dreadful losses in 1947. What the perilous 1948 will bring—only heaven and the clerk in the Bureau of Vital Statistics know."

At this point, the president collapsed with a terrifying shriek and had to be assisted out of the room. The vice president stood up and bravely carried on.

"Leap Year madness has already started and is more vicious than ever. We must be ever mindful of our motto: 'United we stand and remain single. Divided we're hooked!' Amen."

A report was given by two undercover agents who had braved many dangers to bring back the news to us. For security reasons, their names shall remain concealed. From these two men it was learned that our arch-enemy, The Association of Unmarried Ladies, was planning an early spring offensive. They were counting on the element of surprise.

A gasp of horror arose. Three of our staunch members had to be revived with smelling salts. After a decent interval, one of the members stood up and attempted to bolster the sagging morale by:

"It may be a woman's business to get married as soon as possible but it's ours to keep unmarried as long as we can."

A sigh of reassurance filled the room this time. Finally, after all had been revived and brought tottering to their feet, the members scattered for home, smiling bravely.

Each of them carried a revised copy of the official international BNP manual, "Handbook for Bachelors—Or How to Give the Girl a Run for Her Money."

Here are a few excerpts from the ponderous volume:

"...avoid women who use very little makeup and always manage to look fresh as daisies. They're most dangerous!"

"...if you enjoy the company of women but want to stay single, find a girl friend who

(a) is two feet taller than yourself;

(b) keep chattering loudly at the movies;

(c) is a cross between Lena the Hyena and a Jackass.

Brother, you're safe!"

Other sage hints were:

"...if a girl notices a rip in your coat and offers to mend it, don't let her. Tell her you like it that way, and prove it by making the rip bigger."

"...as soon as the girl starts acting possessive, tell her casually that you are already married to two other women and have five children, but you won't mind breaking the law a bit more to make room for her. What's a little bigamy now and then? That'll do it!"

P. S.—Nosey, aren't you, girls?

—Nisei Canadian

POLITICAL AND OTHERWISE

Politics in Seattle goes into high gear over the weekend, as the various candidates for mayor and city council make their last frenzied appeals to the electorate in preparation for the decisive election on Tuesday, March 9th. This correspondent wouldn't be so foolish as to even hint at how people should vote. We do, however, feel on very safe ground in urging all our readers and friends to exert themselves enough to go out and cast their ballot. If you have the right to vote, by all means avail yourself of the privilege—it is the very foundation of our democratic form of government.

Meanwhile, on the national scene, we note that General MacArthur's hat has been thrown into the presidential ring by the Hearst newspapers, no less. In view of the political objections against professional soldiers, it is doubtful that any large boom will be created which would place MacArthur ahead of the many other GOP hopefuls. However, we have always been told not to underestimate the power of the press, so it might be well not to discount his chances too heavily. A presidential campaign is very much like a horse race—sometimes a long shot pays off; the only difference being that "place" or "show" doesn't mean a thing in a political race.

LOCAL SNAFU

We just can't help wondering what a visitor to our fair city would think of our transportation set-up these days, with the Black Ball ferry line practically out of operation, the Greyhound bus drivers out on strike, and the city transit operators ready to follow suit if present wage negotiations break down. It really wouldn't be so bad if these things would happen one at a time, but to have them all come to a head at practically the same instant, so to speak, is spreading it on a bit thick for the poor public.

The GI's had a word for it —

Both matched notes, and agreed that they were approached by the identical person—the only difference was Hachiya countered with a sidewalk slam.

Two Nisei Teams in Puget Sound League?

Don't be surprised if you sports fans find two Nisei teams entered in the Puget Sound Baseball League this season.

One of them, the Nisei Veterans Committee's nine, is "in", signed, sealed and delivered. The NVC boys last season finished first in the "blue" section of that loop, lost to the other section winner in the finals, but scored a great hit with the spectators.

The other Nisei entry, we are told, will come from the White River valley. The informant, Sam Iwasaki, is enthusiastic about the prospects, and hopes to pluck off a few Johnny Okimotos, Suds Nakanishis and Jack Horis from the sun-browned farmlands.

The Nisei are bouncing back into the diamond picture fast.

Vet Ball Nine Turnout Sunday

Announcement of a general turnout for the Nisei Veterans baseball club has been issued by Shiro Yamaguchi of the NVC for this Sunday, March 7.

All Nisei baseball players interested in trying for positions on the NVC team which is entered in the Puget Sound League, are urged to be on hand at 12 noon at Franklin high school field.

Mercury Pounces On Tacoma Five

Fast-breaking Mercury last Wednesday night in the Buddhist Auditorium sent Tacoma reeling deeper into the cellar of the NVC-sponsored Class A basketball standings. The local youngsters experienced little trouble whipping the visitors, 40-24. The victors had a 19-11 margin at half time.

Art Yoshioka and Gaylord Iwasaki were Mercury's big gunners for the night, and John Asahara stood out for Tacoma.

Trophies have been donated for the tournament by the following:

all-events winner—national JACL; men's singles—Jiro Sakano, Main Jewelry; men's doubles—Ralph Nicholson, Pabst Blue Ribbon; John Neeleman, Skylark Inn, and Yoshio Katayama, attorney; team trophy—Toyoda family (Fred Toyoda Memorial Trophy), and mixed doubles—Salt Lake JACL.

Three men's teams and one women's squad from Seattle's Main Bowl leagues left last Thursday for Utah to compete in the second national Nisei bowling tournament which started today and ends tomorrow, March 7, in the Temple Alleys in Salt Lake City.

Main Bowl's powerful hunter will consist of Tommy Namba of Kashiwagi's, Bill Tanaka of Paramount Cafe, Tak Shibusawa of Shanty Inn, Biff Inashi of Tad's Cafe, and Kaz Yamasaki of Northwest Times. Yamasaki is the only non-NCL (Nisei Commercial League) bowler in the all-star line-up, the N. W. Times being an entry in the City Merchants League.

Paramount Cafe of Nisei Commercial League, second Queen City mens' entry in the national meet, will have Jack Nitta, Jimmy Kurashiki, Tak Asaba, Pruney Tsuji and Tuck Tada. Tada is an addition from Karikomi's in the City Merchants loop.

The City Merchants entry will start with Herb Furuta and Kenny Oyama of Sakahara's, Fred Takagi of International Realty, Roy Fujiwara of Kashiwagi's, and Shig Takemura, a non-leaguer.

The women's force will be led by Jean Terao who has paced the SNGBO (Seattle Nisei Girls' Bowling Organization) "Big T on" throughout the season. Joining Miss Terao, anchor woman for Frank's Jewelry, will be two of her teammates, Sue Lew and Rose Young, both of whom are considered fine tournament competitors. Mary Tsuchikawa and Virginia Hirai, both of China Import & Export, will fill out the group.

The Masquerade...

(A Short Story) By MIYO-ISHIYAMA

"Kiyo?" whispered a deep voice in the dark. "Oh, Frank!" "Make it okay, eh? It's good to see you," he said, taking her hands in his and steadying her. The girl was trembling. She had to wait until her heavy breathing subsided. "Do you think the matron will miss me? Perhaps a nurse's aide saw me slip out of the solarium." They listened for a while as they huddled against the shadows. Voices and music came from above. "No, seems like lots of visitors. I don't think you'll be missed.... You're on exercise, aren't you?" "Uh huh," she said, but she was still trembling. There was a slight chill in the air, too. Winter was approaching fast. "Oh, Frank, you're so wonderful. I haven't anybody else in the world who cares beside you. Sometimes I feel like walking out of here, forget about the pneumos, the rest hours, the doctors. Like into the reality of those who are not sick and can really enjoy the sunshine, and the rain...like into a dream of a patient—where everything is wonderful. Why don't you carry me away?" He did yearn to carry her away like that young Lochinvar. Only Kiyo was held back by something more tenacious than a waiting bridegroom or an unyielding father or social conventions. As Kiyo clung to him, he kissed her gently on her parted lips. She closed her eyes as though to get the last bit of enjoyment from the kiss. Then she looked up. "Aren't you afraid you'll bet my bugs?" "I'm too tough for them... Besides I've got plenty of my own and am quite immune." Frank's reply was flippant, but the fear of a relapse is always at the back of the ex-patient's mind, which is subconsciously engaged in weighing the possibilities of every action. "Kiyo, I have a surprise for you. I'm not going to Chicago as I planned." "Why?" There was concern in her voice, yet with an undertone of joy and relief. "You said yourself there was no decent job here and you would have to hock the shirt off your back. What about your brother who's been harping on you to come to Chicago?" He told me to wait in his last letter. He thinks I should continue working in the San and finish my course in radio. He says I would stand a better chance out there if I had a skill or a beginning of one. In the meantime you can get better. Who knows? We might be going out together."

"Oh Frank, I'm so glad." The note of concern had vanished completely. Kiyo was contented. It was such a bother having to think about the future.

"But we won't forget that house we're going to get. With red polka dot curtains for the kitchen... where you can make use of all the dollies and stuff you've been making."

"Don't forget the book shelves in your den," said Kiyo. "And the garden where you're going to grow red roses just for me."

"It will be so much fun..." It seemed as though the two stood at the borderline between two worlds. The real world of the Sanatorium and the patients and the music from the radio—and the dream of the quiet lake, the clear moonlit sky and the silent trees. Or was it vice versa?

"We look before and after, and pine for what is not; our sincerest laughter with some pain is fraught.... Seems a little silly to be dead scared of the matron and quoting Shelley. Incidentally, I wonder what Browning would have done in my shoes..."

"Oh," said Kiyo, "he would have gone storming up to the matron and told her off, and then he would have carried me away from all the bonds which tie me..."

"And what would you have done?" "I suppose I would have been ecstatically happy and run a temperature and after a while kicked the bucket..."

Frank laughed. Kiyo was becoming tired and was leaning heavily on him. "Oh Frank, I'm so happy. The doctor said I could stay on exercises. I was awfully worried because sometimes I feel so weak and tired and I find it hard to get out of bed.... Then it scares me so.... like waking up in the middle of the night and finding everything so still and dark and lonely. But now I feel strong.... Do you know something? I know I'm going to get better... I just know it. They say mind is half the sickness.... Well, I'm half recovered already. Frank, I do so want to live and be happy!"

Frank caught ecstasy and a deep longing in her limpid tear-filled eyes; her hollow cheeks were flushed with excitement. They say T. B. patients are exceptionally beautiful. Kiyo certainly was...

The piercing sound of the visiting time over bell grated against their nerves. Frank's heart constricted. Kiyo had her arms about him and she withdrew them quietly.

"Goodbye, Frank, goodbye. I have to go now. You'll be seeing me next Wednesday, won't you? Maybe I could..."

"No, no, you mustn't... I'll see you Wednesday."

Frank led her the few steps to the stars of the solarium. Kiyo must be awfully tired. Frank felt a little guilty as he stood watching her from the shadows. He heard someone saying Kiyo's name in surprised voice. There was sound of giggling...

Frank stood for some time in the shadows. Funny how Kiyo had said "good-bys" instead of "goodnight."

It was painful to think about the future. But the future was insistent. That afternoon, he had talked with the physician about Kiyo's diagnosis. The verdict had been: less than six months to live.

Doll Festival Scores Hit

A bit of old Japan was transplanted into the lounge of the YWCA (Young Women's Christian Association) on Fifth and Seneca last Wednesday afternoon when the Cosami Club presented "Hinamatsuri", a Japanese tea and doll festival. More than 300 persons attended the successful affair.

On exhibit were traditional Japanese dolls from the rare collection of Kineyo Shofuku (Mrs. Fukuko Nakatani). Mrs. Henry Tatum gave a talk on Japanese dolls. Also on the program was a dance given by Sandra Nakatani, Sally Kadoshima and Tazuye Kiyono, all of whom are pupils of Mrs. Nakatani and all of whom were dressed in Japanese kimonos.

Sachiko Ueyaki sang a solo, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Michio Shimomura, and Mrs. Kiyomi Otani arranged the flowers for the tea table.

Mrs. William Mimbu and Mrs. Donald Redfern, the club president, were the co-chairman. Mrs. Juro Yoshioka, who headed the hostesses, was assisted by Mesdames James Kamihachi, Mike Nakata, Tak Muramoto, Keith Oka, Toru Sakahara and Masaru Uno.

Obituaries

MRS. TAMENO KOBATA Mrs. Tameno Kobata, 51, of 119 12th Ave. died of a heart attack Thursday morning in her home. Her sons flew here from Chicago immediately to help in arranging the final services.

Born in Osaka, Japan, Mrs. Kobata had been in this country for thirty years. Most of that time, she was associated with the retail florist business, having had the original Cherryland Florists on Jackson Street until just before the evacuation, when she moved to the Twelfth Avenue location. After returning to Seattle, she took up business in the new store until the present time.

Surviving are her husband, John Masaru Kobata; four sons, Sadayuki Habu, John C. Habu, Yutaka Habu, of Chicago and George Kobata of Seattle; five daughters, Mrs. Sakaye Shinbo, Mrs. Mary Shinbo, Kimiko Habu, Louise Kobata and Rose Kobata, all of Seattle; and four grandchildren, Midori Habu of Chicago, Tomi Shinbo, George Shinbo and William Shinbo of Seattle.

Wake services will be held at home at 7 p.m. Monday, March 8, and funeral services are set for 7 p.m., Tuesday, March 9, in the Buddhist Temple with the Rev. Ichikawa officiating. Temporary entombment will be in Butterworth's Mausoleum.

Arrangements were made by the Susumi-Butterworth Funeral Service.

LEW G. KAY

Lew G. Kay, prominent leader in the Chinese community, died of a heart attack Thursday while delivering a speech at a dinner in the YMCA.

3 YW GROUPS PLAN 'COMING OF AGE PARTY

In celebration of World Wide Observance Day, a special "Coming of Age" dinner, will be given by the business and professional girls of the Seattle Young Women's Christian Association, at 6 p.m., Tuesday, March 9, in the central YW. Three business girls clubs, the Wiana club, the Keyeds of West Seattle and the Elite and Modernette of Phyllis Wheatley, have joined forces to plan the party.

"Growing Up" as this year's theme. A play, "So Now You Are 21", will be presented by the West Seattle group. Mrs. Harold Vail, retiring president of the YWCA, will be speaker.

Twenty-one years ago the YWCA inaugurated its first World-Wide Observance when YWCA business and professional groups from all over the world held simultaneous observances in which they pledged themselves to better citizenship and to promote the welfare of working girls everywhere. Last year YWCA business and professional girls clubs in 45 YWCA associations throughout the country took an active part in helping to raise $2,100,000 for the Round-the-World YWCA Reconstruction Fund in order to provide aid for the 30 countries hardest hit by the war.

A large part of this money went toward providing hostels, emergency food programs and business training for white collar girls and young women displaced by war. Mary Freibort, of Plainfield, New Jersey, national business and professional council president, said, "The YWCA's program for young women overseas is not only aiding them materially, but is giving continued training for good citizenship."

Tables at the dinner will be decorated to represent various countries and messages from business and professional groups in Australia, South America, Czechoslovakia, China, Mexico and Canada have arrived endorsing the theme and pledging cooperation. Other messages are expected by March 9 when 60,000 business and professional girls in the United States and in 69 foreign countries will meet for their 21st birthday party commemorating World-Wide Observance Day.

Main Drug Dumps Reds, 44-34

Shiro Yamaguchi's Main Drug quintet, which dropped the nod to Class A championship - defending Tokuda Drug recently, bounced back to its winning ways by trouncing the South End Merchant Reds, 44 to 34, last Thursday night in the Buddhist Auditorium. George and Roy Tanagi were the druggists' potent scoring duo, and Bill Yamaguchi and Joe Fujii for the Reds. Main Drug led at half-time, 20 to 11.

A trio of scorers—Betty Jean Andrews, Naoko Hasegawa and Betty Yoshino—led the WWG's to a smashing 27-7 triumph over Anna Kay's last Thursday night in the Buddhist Auditorium. The Dubs were ahead 15-5 at the half in the NVC-sponsored girls basketball league game.

CHINESE NOSE OUT SAVOYS, 25-23

Chinese "B" moved closer to the championship last Thursday night in the Buddhist gym when they nosed out the South End Merchant Savoy's, 25-23. David Wong was the Chinese ace with 11 points. Frank Yee gave a fine account of himself for the Savoy's. The winners were out in front, 10-9, during the rest period.
