"WHEN THE GOLDEN GATE IS GOLDEN"

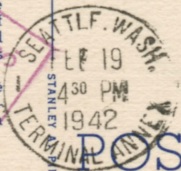

No more inspiring sight anywhere rivals the Golden Gate at sunset. Between the peaks of land, the sun sinks into the Blue Pacific and ships entering or leaving San Francisco's harbor are silhouetted against the skyline.

The Golden Gate Bridge across this entrance to San Francisco Bay, is a single 4200 ft. structure, being a connecting link with all Northern Counties and the famous Redwood Empire.

Dear Uno-san,

How are you? I hope the Montana winter has not done any harm to you. We met your children the other day and they were ^{doing} very well, so please don't worry but hold strong faith in "Pictorial Wonderland" ART-TONE SERIES
