M Dear Uno's

I don't know all your your names so will just say ^{Balance} Uno and let it go at that.

I really feel ashamed
that I did not write sooner but I have been so busy that I just did not get around to it.

I suppose you
want to know about how the farm is coming along,
so here is the news.

Caulflower turned out
fine, but most of the lettuce got slimy and tip burn so that we were only able to only harvest about one third of lettuce crop.

The labor situation is ^{Balena} terrible, and Paul sure is having a tough time trying to harvest and plant at the same time. He did manage to get all the carrots seeded and the first patch is about ready to be pulled, but where the lettuce was it is still vacant and hopes to plant it this week.

The patch of new green onions turned out swell and they are just about finished.
