

As the war came to an end, and the fear that had gripped so many Americans about the Japanese citizens began to die down, the Army began to make plans for the eventual closing of Tule Lake. Hisa had gone in at age 16 and now at 19 was ready to leave. Her Mom had a good friend, Katsuko Uyehara, who was going back to Southern California with her sister Hatsuye, so she encouraged Hisa to go with them and look for a job. Hisa received permission to leave camp ahead of the rest of her family and she went by train to begin a new chapter in her life. Hisa completed all the necessary paperwork with the Dept. of the Interior. She turned in her paper and other government issued items. Her paperwork shows her leaving Tule Lake Center, Newell, Ca. on 11/7/45. She was given a Shoe Stamp, a sugar stamp, hostel reservations at the Evergreen Hostel, 506 N. Evergreen Ave, Los Angeles, Ca beginning Nov. 8th and her train tickets. They went by train to Martinez and then transferred to another train to reach Los Angeles. Hisa's friends gave her a place to stay until she could get a job.
