7 de Fran —

Glad to hear you landed a job to your liking. I surely wish you all the luck you know. I was worried for a while that you'd forgotten all about us. But since I heard for you, "anshin ~~the~~ shite" yeah, I met Yure and Wak at the W. R. A. office. And were they surprised when they saw me there. Guess I was about the last person they expected to see here in Phila. Where are they now — in Boston? When you write to them, give them my regards, will you

I don't know the army situation with you? Me? I'm still 4C, but that doesn't mean anything.

Well, they had open house at the hostel last Sunday. And there was a good turnout. All the rooms are finished except the hallway. And the place is almost full.

I'm still plugging along at the same place. Guess it's about time I started looking around for a better job.

Thanks for writing to your brother explaining my situation. I certainly hope he isn't angry with me.

Guess I'll be closing now until I hear from you again.

Sincerely
Frank
